BRITISH SCHNEIDER CUP WINNER FLIES 328 MILES AN HOUR

COMPANION HITS RATE OF 332 MILES

Although Disqualified for Passing Inside Pylon Atcherley's Mark Likely Will Stand as Official.

LONDON, Sept. 7. — At about two-fifths the speed of sound, two flying British airmen flew seven times around the Solent this afternoon, faster than human being or any other living thing have ever traveled since life began.

They retained the Schneider trophy against the challenge of Italy. Of three Italian pilots, two made forced landings, one was badly burned and the other nearly choked by fumes. Both narrowly escaped death.

But Italy's hopes had disappeared with their crack pilot and their best plane in the waters of Lake Nemi last month and they struggled today in Macchi planes of a two-year old design and hence hopelessly out of date, merely as a sporting gesture after France and the United States had scratched their entrance into the race, as foils to set off the wonder of the blue and silver Rolls Royce marvels of the British.

Honors in the race were shared between Flying Officer H. R. D. (Daisy) Waghorn, the baby of the British team, who won the race of 217 miles, seven times around the enclosed course, at an average speed of 328.63 miles per hour, and Flying Officer R. L. R. Atcherley, who, in the last flight of the day, beat Waghorn's record for a single lap when he averaged 332.49 miles an hour.

Wind Blew Off Goggles.

Atcherley averaged three miles an hour more than Waghorn for the whole course, but was disqualified for cutting the wrong side of pylon when the wind blew off his goggles and he swerved before he could reach for another pair. His world speed record is likely to stand as official however, as he made it in two separate laps.

Thus second place went to Warrant Officer Tomason Dal Molin who was the only Italian to finish and who averaged 281.11 miles per hour. His was the machine that broke the world's record two years ago.

A new Macchi, driven by Lieut. Giovanni Monti, did 301 miles an hour in the first lap Then an oil line burst, showering the pilot with burning oil. He swooped up so gracefully that spectators could not guess he was fighting for his life. When the accident happened, he was only 80 feet above the water. Loss of control for one-sixth of a second would have meant a shattering fall against the water, as hard as steel at that speed, but Monti never lost his courage or skill. He zoomed upward, as he must do to lose velocity, then turned and came down in a perfect landing, and in a few minutes speedboats had rushed to him and doctors soon were swathing his arms and legs in bandages. His burns were not serious.

One Nearly Suffocated.

Lieut. Cadringher, the other Italian to make a forced landing, was nearly suffocated as he came down from fumes from the engine which filled the cockpit.

Lieut. D'Arcy Grieg, former holder of the world's speed record, was third in the race, flying his 2-year-old Napier around the course at a comparatively pokey speed of 282 miles an hour, a precaution in case the untried and faster new Rolls Royces met with mishap.

At least 1,000,000 persons lined the shores of Hampshire and the Isle of Wight and filled thousands of boats moored around the course.

It would take a poet or a master of prose to invent new metaphors to describe the novel sensations produced upon the eyes and ears by a speed of six miles a minute, and it is evident that this speed was exceeded by both Waghorn and Atcherley on the straightaway parts of the course.

The eye refused to believe in the reality of an insect in the sky that suddenly becomes a huge bird, then a flying machine, then a bird and an insect again all in two or three seconds, while the Control of the St. Louis Public Service Co., operating the local street railway system, has passed to the City Utilities Co., a Delaware holding corporation which has acquired 38½ per cent of the voting stock of the St. Louis company and which itself is controlled jointly by the North American Co. and the J. K. Newman interests.

Verification of the consummation of this deal which had been in process for some time was given to the Post-Dispatch yesterday by the First National Bank in St. Louis which was the fiscal agent for the transfer to the holding company of the 83,659 shares of Public Service Co. common stock deposited with the bank pending action by the Missouri Public Service Commission on the holding company's application for permission to acquire and hold more than 10 per cent of the railway company's stock.

City Failed to Enjoin Deal.

This permission was given last June after extensive hearings and over the protest of the City of St. Louis and a group of objecting Public Service Co. stockholders. Although the City appealed the decision to the Circuit Court of Cole County where it is now pending, it took no steps to enjoin or suspend the carrying out of the sale of the deposited stock.

President Walter W. Smith said the depositing stockholders had been paid the agreed price of $12.50 a share, which is the amount of cash they paid for the stock, plus three-fifths of a share of common stock of the holding company, and that the deposited railway company stock had been transferred to the City Utilities Co.

North American Again Controls.

Thus by a turn of financial circumstances, the St. Louis street railway company for the second time in its checkered career finds itself under the jurisdiction of the vast North American Co., under whose control it went on the rocks and into receivership 10 years ago. At that time the North American Co. owned all the common stock of the then United Railways Co., giving it voting control.

The ownership of 38½ per cent of the voting stock of the Public Service Co. by the City Utilities Co. gives the latter working control for the reason that the remainder of the stock is scattered among 500 or more stockholders. The stockholders who sold their holdings to the City Utilities retain an interest in the street car company through the common stock they received in the holding company.

City Fought Transfer.

In opposing transfer of this stock before the Public Service Commission the City said: "Notwithstanding the whole Public Service Commission act is bottomed upon the State's police power in the interest of the public welfare, the holding company insists that this commission must pass along to it, a foreign corporation beyond the jurisdiction of the State, the control and management of the properties of the St. Louis street railway company, thus opening the door to many and varied evils."

The holding company was formed by J. K. Newman at the time he reorganized the St. Louis and Kansas City street railway companies. Its assets consist of stock in the two railway companies and a note for $1,000,000 from the St. Louis Public Service Co.

How the Stock Was Paid for.

Records of the State Public Service Commission show that in order to pay for the street car company stock deposited with the First National Bank, the holding company borrowed approximately $1,034,000. This loan was negotiated through the First National Bank, but President Smith said it was distributed among a number of banks, the First National holding only a part of it.

Another large loan negotiated by the St. Louis Public Service Co. and its reorganization committee through the First National Bank is a collateral loan of $9,844,663.33. This loan was made on the security of $15,000,000 of United Railways first mortgage 4 per cent bonds deposited with the First National Bank as trustee.

President Smith said the loan was distributed among a number of St. Louis and New York banks and that the participation of the First National was "probably around $1,000,000."

The authorized capital stock of the City Utilities is 50,000 shares of preferred, $100 par value, and 300,000 shares of common, no par value. Before the acquisition of the Public Service Co. stock authorized by the State Commission, the holding company had outstanding 126,464 shares of its common stock.

This stock was held equally by the Newman and the North Ameri-

TWO INQUIRIES ON PROPAGANDA FOR BIG NAVY

Senate Naval Committee to Meet Tuesday to Take Up Borah Demand for Thorough Investigation.

JUSTICE DEPARTMENT MEN ALSO AT WORK

Action Taken at President's Direction After His Letter Concerning Activities of William Shearer,

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—President Hoover's public challenge to three great shipbuilding corporations to explain their connection with William Shearer, paid propagandist for a big navy and against disarmament efforts at Geneva and Washington, was followed today by the summoning of the Naval Affairs Committee of the Senate to meet Tuesday and pass on Senator Borah's demand for a thorough investigation.

The committee call was issued by Senator Hale (Rep.), Maine, the chairman. Hale already had promised Borah, who was the first to urge a Congressional inquiry into Shearer's activities, that the Naval Committee would examine the disclosures made recently by Shearer in his suit against the three companies for $250,000 on account of alleged services.

It is expected that Hale will discuss the matter with the President and the Attorney-General, in whose office, at the direction of the President, an independent inquiry has been undertaken. The departmental investigation is in the hands of John Lord O'Brian, the assistant to the Attorney-General. Its purpose is to see what can be done to stop propaganda designed to wreck the disarmament negotiations now going forward between the Hoover administration and the Ramsay MacDonald government of Great Britain.

Borah for Action.

The pressure for a Senatorial investigation is strong. Borah indicated today that if the Naval Affairs Committee should hesitate, he would have an inquiry made by the Foreign Relations Committee, of which he is chairman. He expects to appear before the naval committee Tuesday and ask that the situation be explored from all angles.

"I am anxious to find out if powerful corporations actually employ men to influence conferences having to do with disarmament and world peace," said Borah, "and if they are doing it I want to know in what way they are trying to influence these conferences."

Borah expressed the opinion that Shearer's activities probably had some influence on the failure of the Geneva conference, although he was not inclined to credit Shearer with sole responsibility. The Senator was interested in the suggestion that there was a striking similarity between Shearer's propaganda manifestoes at Geneva and some of the statements made by members of the official American delegation at the same meeting.

Moving in Right Direction.

Senator David I. Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, a member of the Naval Affairs Committee, predicted prompt action by the committee.

"President Hoover," he said, "is moving in the right direction in seeking to find out the extent of the propaganda emanating from shipbuilders against naval armament reduction and limitation. The President's move should be followed up by an investigation by the Senate Naval Affairs Committee.

"Incidentally, an inquiry into alleged paid propaganda on this subject will help to call forcibly to the attention of the American people the extent to which propaganda of all kinds and on all subjects by selfish interests is being used to influence governmental action on public questions to the disadvantage of the general public welfare."

Senator Thomas J. Walsh (Dem.), Montana, pointing out the contention advanced by Shearer's attorney that there was nothing reprehensible in Shearer's acceptance of money for advocating principles in which he always had believed, declared that even if that contention were accepted, it was quite another matter for the ship building companies to hire Shearer to influence the foreign relations

Flyer Tells How He Found Burned Passenger Plane

By LIEUT. GEORGE K. RICE, Western Air Express Pilot, Who Found the Lost T.A.T. Air Liner.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 7.—We have figured that the Transcontinental Air Tranport pilot was north of his course on account of a storm which he had seen over the petrified forest on Tuesday, when he was flying the route from Albuquerque to Los Angeles.

When we left Los Angeles this morning we went to the petrified forest which is about 30 miles south and east of Holbrook, Ariz., and we then zigzagged through the mountains keeping a constant lookout for the lost plane.

We circled the southern side of Mount Taylor and at about 1000 feet above the ground we saw scattered bits of duralumin. These bits of duralumin extended about one-eighth of a mile.

Saw Plane's Number.

Then we saw the left wing of the plane where it had been cut off by striking a tree. The wing was turned upside down and we could read the number 9649.

The rest of the plane we saw about 100 yards beyond this point. The plane had caught fire.

I reported my observation to the Western Air Express, by whom I am employed, and to the Transcontinental Air Transport.

In company with Paul Scott, a T.A.T. pilot, I boarded a T.A.T plane and with three other planes as escort guided them back to the spot on Mount Taylor where we had seen the wreck of the missing plane.

The plane is lying in a territory which will be extremely difficult to reach. From the circles we made over the mountain this afternoon I think it will be necessary for the salvagers to go by foot or horseback up above the timber line and then down the mountain to where the plane now lies.

No Trail or Road.

Above the timber line there is at present a sheep herder with a band of sheep but there is apparently no trail or road leading to the immediate vicinity of the wrecked plane.

The nearest towns or settlements are Laguna and Grant.

I do not think anybody can reach the site of the disaster

PILOT HAD SEEMINGLY TRIED TO TURN BACK

City of San Francisco Crashed Last Tuesday on 10,000 Foot Mt. Taylor Near Grant N. M.

WRECK OF SHIP SEEN FROM AIR

Aviator on Regular Run Sights Remnants of Craft for Which Thousands Searched.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 7.—Apparently racing to escape a sudden storm, the monoplane City of San Francisco crashed into the side of a 10,000 foot mountain and burned last Tuesday in the most desolate section of Central New Mexico, causing the death of its five passengers and its crew of three, advices to the Transcontinental Air Transport Co. here today indicated. One of the passengers was a woman.

The wreckage of the big trimotor all-metal air liner, a twisted mass of metal, was discovered on the south slope of Mount Taylor at 11:03 o'clock this morning by a Western Air Express eastbound passenger plane.

The wreckage lies about 500 feet from the top of the peak, which is thickly wooded except at the tip. The spot is extremely difficult to reach.

Like a Patch of Snow.

Lieut. George K. Rice, pilot of the Western Air Express transport, which had four passengers and was bound from Los Angeles to Albuquerque, made the discovery. He first noticed what appeared to be a bit of snow on the south side of Mount Taylor. He swerved his big Fokker monoplane around and dropped to within 1000 feet of the spot.

There the twisted, burned metal and a circle of burned trees surrounding it was visible to Lieut. Rice, his co-pilot, and the four passengers. Rice circled the spot three times. It is one of the most rugged sections of the wild west. Not only were there no landing places in the vicinity, but there were no roads leading to the place and even passage on horseback appeared to be impossible. No sign of any living thing was sighted near the wreckage.

What Probably Happened.

The fact that the plane had passed Grant, N. M., Tuesday, just about noon, and then had turned to Mount Taylor to the northeast, makes it appear that Pilot J. B. Stowe of the City of San Francisco was hurrying back towards Albuquerque to avoid a sudden storm. The City of San Francisco left Albuquerque at 10:22 o'clock Tuesday morning, expecting to arrive in Los Angeles that afternoon.

The passengers aboard were:

Mrs. Corina Raymond, wife of George B. Raymond, of Glendale, Cal., a clerk of the Transcontinental Air Transport, Inc., owners of the City of San Francisco.

Amasa B. McGaffey, lumberman of Albuquerque, N. M.

Harris Livermore, shipping man of Boston, Mass.

M. M. Campbell of Cincinnati, sales manager of a paper company.

AMBULANCE GETS WITHIN A MILE OF PLANE WRECK

Searchers Proceeding Rest of Distance Afoot to Recover Bodies of Victims of Crash.

The Transcontinental Air Transport general offices in St. Louis received a telegram shortly before midnight from Albuquerque to the effect that United States Forest Rangers had telephoned Albuquerque that an ambulance had reached a point about a mile from the scene of the wreck, and that men were proceeding the rest of the way on foot to recover the bodies of the eight persons killed in the crash.

By the Associated Press.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 7.—Two relief parties which set out to reach the wreckage of the air liner City of San Francisco, on Mount Taylor, were toiling through the timber on the mountainside when darkness overtook them, and were not expected to reach the scene of the crash until daylight. Word to this effect was received tonight from the San Fernandez ranch, from which one party of 11 set out at 2:30 in the afternoon. Another party started from the B. Roberts ranch in the same neighborhood. The weather is clear, but the terrain is so rough and rugged that progress in the dark is slow and dangerous.

Floyd Lee, owner of the San Fernandez ranch, telephoned that he thought the relief parties would have to stop and camp until daylight.

District Attorney Fred Nichols, who drove in from Los Lunas, the county seat, and joined one of the parties, issued orders that none of the bodies, if found, and none of

T. A. T. Official Promises Thorough Investigation of Wreck Will Be Made

SEARCH DIRECTED FROM COMPANY'S ST. LOUIS OFFICE

General Manager Magee Says It Is Impossible to Guess Cause Till Parties Afoot Reach Scene.

A very complete investigation of the air disaster in the New Mexico mountains was promised yesterday by the gentral office of Transcontinental Air Transport Inc., located in the Syndicate Trust Building, St. Louis. From this office the four days' search for the lost plane, City of San Francisco, was directed.

Bulletins received at the general office, yesterday afternoon and evening, told of the finding of the wreck and of subsequent surveys of the scene made from the air. More complete details are expected today, when reports should be received from the parties which set out on horseback from Grant, N. M., 10 miles from the monutain side scene of the crash, with the prospect of having to make the later part of the journey on foot.

Little further light has been thrown on the vital question of weather conditions, in their effect on the accident. T. A. T. officials continue to state that no information received before or soon after Pilot Stowe's departure from Albuquerque indicated any unusually bad weather in his path westward. The company, however, has an official report from General Superintendent Collins, at Albuquerque, made since the crash, which says:

"The whole country was covered with local storms, general movement south-southwest to north-northeast. The pilot's problem was to wiggle through between them."

Probably Crashed at Noon.

The time of the tragedy is now believed to have been about noon Tuesday. The departure from Albuquerque, westbound for Winslow, Ariz., was at 10:20 a. m. Tuesday, and as the plane was sighted near Grant after 11 a. m., and apparently turned back to return to Albuquerque, the wreck must have been shortly before noon. The scene of the crash is about 65 miles west of Albuquerque, and is due north of the Santa Fe station of Acomita, N. M.

The first information received at the general offices was at 1:40 p. m. when the company's private teletype system ticked off a message from Albuquerque, relayed through Waynoka, Ok. The message stated that Pilot Rice reported, "plane absolutely found on side of Mount Taylor." It stated that Pilot Scott, who was with Rice, had set out to investigate. Another message, 15 minutes later, verified the receipt of Rice's report and the departure of Scott.

Magee's Statement.

At 2:30 p. m. Vice-President Magee issued this statement:

"George Rice, Western Air Express pilot, reported to T. A. T. officials that he found the plane on the south side of Mount Taylor. John Collings, Western superintendent of T. A. T., talked with Rice on the telephone and asked Rice if there was any possibility that he was mistaken and Rice said, 'Positively, no.' Rice stated he circled the plane several times and that it had undoubtedly crashed into the mountain, as it had burned up."

"Rice had been assigned to the territory where the plane was found by John Collings who told Rice to concentrate on Mount Taylor. Rice returned to the Western Air Express field at Albuquerque wher he talked on the telephone with John Collings at Winslow. Pilot Scott in a T. A. T. plane equipped with radio picked up Rice at the Western Air Express field and started for Mount Taylor."

Soon after Scott's departure, another plane, the A-3, or City of Wichita, was sent out from Albuquerque. The A-3 has radio sending apparatus, as well as receiving apparatus.

At 2:55 the word "Confirm" was flashed from Albuquerque to the general office indicating that the A-3 had sent verification of the finding of the wrecked craft.

J. V. Magee, vice president and general manager of T. A. T., said after receiving the first bulletins:

"We cannot hazard any guess as to what happened. However, we promise a very complete investigation. We probably will not know anything about the cause of the crash until the foot parties from Grant, reach the ship."

Shortly after 3 o'clock telegrams were dispatched over the signature of Col. Paul Henderson, vice president of T. A. T., to relatives of the passengers and members of the crew of the wrecked ship. The messages said:

"T. A. T. plane has been discovered on the side of Mount Taylor, northeast of Grant, N. M. This report has been confirmed. Character of wreck makes extremely doubtful if any of passengers or crew have survived. Overland parties now making way to wreck. Sincerely regret nature of this information. Please acknowledge care T. A. T., St. Louis, so will know you are informed."

A telephone message from John A. Herlihy, chief engineer for T. A. T. at Winslow, Ariz., received at 5:40 p. m., gave the first details from the scene of the crash. They were details obtained from the air, not from ground observation.

Herlihy said he flew over the wreck, not low enough to be sure whether the plane was on the ground or in the scrub timber with which that part of the mountain side was overgrown. He was near enough, however, to see the letters T. A. T. on the side of the fusilage, and to see that the plane was "badly burned."

He said that apparently gasoline had sprayed over the wings, causing the wreck to take fire. Officials of the company would not say whether this indicated positively that the motor was running when the plane struck the mountain. It would appear to have that meaning.

Herlihy said he was unable to tell whether anyone was alive in or near the plane. Herlihy mentioned also the report of Pilot Rice as to seeing the letters T. A. T. on one of the wings, indicating that the plane was overturned either wholly or in part. The letters appear only on the under side of the wings.

Plans were made last night, according to a teletype message relayed to the St. Louis office, for a flight early today of Maj. Clarence M. Young, assistant secretary of Commerce for aviation, with Pilot Paul Scott, to the scene of the crash, to see whether the horseback and foot searchers have arrived there. The searchers will have to send back a messenger to Grant, or to some intermediate point where a telephone may be available, before the report of what they find can be sent to St. Louis.

Supt. Collings at Winslow, who was directing the search of planes flying from the West into the region of the disaster, said in a teletype message thathe had requested Pilot Rice of the Western Air Express, flying toward Albuquerque, to "concentrate all his effort on the San Mateo Mountains and Mount Taylor." This direction, it appears, led to the discovery of the wreck.

Collings, in the last two days, has had the direction of nearly70 planes which have left Winslow to aid in the search. With his acquaintance with the territory, he gave each pilot a somewhat different district to cover.

It was said at the general office that the reward of $5000 offered by T. A. T. for discovery of the wreck, and the $5000 offered by relatives of one of the men lost, would presumably be paid to Pilot Rice. "They didn't wait for rewards to be offered," the officials said of Rice and other pilots. "They got into the search as quickly as they could, and worked willingly and unsparingly."

No official statement of the cost of the search has been made, but it is considered that an estimate of $50,000 would not be too large.

Service will not be resumed by T. A. T., it was announced, until all ships of competing lines have been placed in first class condition by T. A. T. mechanics at Winslow.

Vice-President Henderson, in a telegram sent late in the afternoon to C. M. Keys, president of T.A.T., at Scarboro, N. Y., gave the details received up to that time, and said, "No reason to hope that anyone remains alive." He added that Col. Lindbergh, chairman of the company's technical committee, Supts. Collins and Collings and Engineer Herlihy had been asked to formulate plans for re-establishment of service.

"Have studied weather report for day of accident," Col. Henderson said, "and wish to state there was nothing unusual in weather report. Of course we do not know cause of the wreck."

Search Over 50,000 Square Miles.

When the disappearance of the plane became known Tuesday evening the most elaborate air search ever conducted was begun. Army, Navy, Marine Corps and civilian planes sailed through the cloudy skies of one of the wildest sections of the United States.

Thousands of others joined in the search by land. There were Indian runners, scouts of the Apache, Zuni, Hopi, and Navajo tribes cowboys, prospectors and motorists.

More than 50,000 square miles of Western New Mexico and Eastern Arizona were examined. Rumors of all sorts developed each day, which sent searchers even into Mexico.

But it remained for another transport plane, operating over the same route as the ill-fated liner, to discover the wreck of the City of San Francisco.

It was shortly before noon today when Lieut. Rice wired the offices of the Transcontinental Air Transport Co.: "Found T. A. T. plane burned on south slope of Mount Taylor, west of Albuquerque. If T. A. T. hasn't available plane, will take Western Air Express plane to tow ground crew to wreck."

Pilot Returns to Scene.

Rice turned his ship over to the co-pilot to carry the four passengers on to their destination, Kansas City. He immediately took off from Albuquerque for the scene of the wreck accompanied by a T. A. T. pilot.

All searching ships were then ordered to land by the T. A. T. officials, and three ships were dispatched immediately from Winslow, Ariz., about 100 miles from the scene.

"The wrecked plane has been discovered on the south side of Mount Taylor which lies 60 miles north and west of Albuquerque.

"It was found by George Rice, pilot of the Western Air Express who was covering this district very thoroughly at our request.

"Lieut. Rice reported his discovery at Albuquerque and T. A. T. planes immediately were dispatched to the scene.

"No Chance of Life in Ship."

"T. A. T. plane No. A-3 with Pilot Banks and Radio Engineer Proctor has just radioed the following message. 'T. A. T. plane A-9, City of San Francisco, apparently burned and no signs of life thereabouts. Will try to land and if so will call again when leave.'

"A second message immediately followed: 'No chance of life in ship. Will take from 12 to 24 hours to reach it on horeback from Cubero, N. M., the nearest town.'

"Western Air Express Pilot Rice phoned T. A. T. early today for instructions as to the territory to be searched, and he was advised to go to Mount Taylor and comb every foot of it thoroughly.

"This company wishes to express its very deep appreciation of the valued assistance given by Pilot Rice.

"T. A. T. personnel and automobiles have been sent to the scene to make further reports and advise on further details."

the wreckage should be disturbed until he arrived with a coroner's jury to hold an inquest. He arranged to have a jury from the San Fernandez ranch accompany him.

Bill Cutter, T. A. T. pilot who flew over the wreckage this afternoon reported that the wings had been burned away apparently following an explosion. He was unable to see the bodies but expressed the opinion that the eight occupants of the machine had been carried to their death against the side of the peak.

An Associated Press staff man flying low over Mount Taylor reported on his return to Albuquerque that the plane apparently had been struck by lightning before it crashed on the mountain side, barely 500 feet from the top of the peak. Back of it, lining the swath it cut in the dense growth of trees on the southern slope, were trees with limbs shorn off by fire, he said. This, he thought indicated that the ship was aflame when it struck the mountain.

Two groups of searchers were reported within a mile and a half of the wreckage but dared not proceed farther until daylight.

About 100 men in various searching parties are camped on the mountain.

The wreckage indicated that Pilot Stowe apparently was trying to effect a landing, in the opinion of E. B. Steakman, field manager of the Albuquerque airport.

Steakman said that the tail assembly of the wrecked craft was still hanging to a tree, 250 yards from the place where the remains of the plane were lying. The right wing was folded.

The left wing and the cabin as far back as the door were burned, and the rest of the cabin was wrecked but not shattered.

Steakman thought the bodies of the passengers and the crew would be found inside the cabin wreckage.

Crash No Fault of Mechanism, Commerce Bureau Officer Says.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 7.—The opinion that the City of San Francisco's crash last Tuesday was only a "bad break" and was not due to any fault in the machine's mechanism was expressed tonight by Clarence M. Young, who, next month will take the post of assistant secretary of the Department of Commerce in charge of aviation.

"Aviation," he said, "has been accepted as a means of transportation, and nothing can stop its development."

JUDGMENT AGAINST HAGEN

Golfer Fails to Answer Wife's Suit for Back Alimony.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 7.—Walter C. Hagen, golfer, defaulted a suit for $9300 back alimony filed by Mrs. Edna C. Hagen, by failure to appear to contest the action today. Judgment was entered against him.

Hagen sued his wife for divorce on the ground of desertion. The action is pending in local courts. Mrs. Hagen based her suit on the contention that in 1928, at the time of their separation, Hagen promised to pay her $500 a month. The payments, she alleges, never were made.

Virginia Smith to Wed Friday.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Virginia Smith, show girl of "The Desert Song," and Gustave R. Fleischmann, vice-president of the American Flour Corporation, today obtained a marriage license. The ceremony is to be performed next Friday in City Hall. Miss Smith was one of the principals in the Garden Theater company, St. Louis.

FORECAST GIVEN PILOT INDICATED NO STORMS

Text of Weather Report J. B. Stowe Carried on Day His Plane Crashed.

The weather report which was placed in the hands of Pilot J. B. Stowe of the ill-fated Transcontinental Air Transport liner just before he took off from Albuquerque Tuesday indicated he had nothing to fear from storms or other adverse atmospheric conditions, Vice-President Magee said yesterday, in giving out a duplicate of the report.

The report, covering a wide area of New Mexico and Arizona through which the liner was to fly, showed no heavy accumulations of clouds or indications of rising wind. The day in all respects was just an average one for this time of year. Gene Vidal, T. A. T. official who interpreted the report, said the most serious condition it indicated was the possibility of local showers or thunderstorms, which might be encountered on any day. Vidal said pilots expect to encounter these local disturbances, and usually go around them.

Text of Weather Report.

The report follows in full:

"Fort Defiance—No report. (This indicates there was no condition warranting a report.)

"Grand Canyon—Sky overcast at 2000 feet; visibility unlimited; temperature 58 degrees; surface wind southwest at 7 miles per hour; whole sky compicte covered with nimbus clouds moving from the southwest. (Nimbus clouds indicate rain or thunderstorms; however, no report of precipitation here.)

"Albuquerque—Scattered clouds; unlimited ceiling and unlimited visibility; barometer, 29.67; temperature, 74; surface wind southwest at two miles per hour; sky, .2, covered with cirrus cumulus clouds moving from southwest; unlimited ceiling.

Sky Overcast at Grant.

"Grant—Sky overcast; ceiling 5000 feet; visibility unlimited; barometer 29.62; temperature 70 degrees; 1 per cent cumulus clouds.

"Gallup—Broken clouds; barometer 29.61; temperature 70 degrees; surface winds west at seven miles per hour; sky .9 overcast with circus clouds moving over northwest.

"Adamana—Partly clouds; unlimited ceiling; visibility 9 miles; barometer 29.58; temperature 60 degrees; surface winds east at six miles per hour; sky .7 overcast with nimbus clouds. (Nimbus indicates rain or thunderstorms; however no report of precipitation.)

"Winslow—Broken clouds; ceiling 6200 feet; unlimited visibility; barometer 29.77; temperature 65 degrees, surface winds southwest at six miles per hour; .5 strata cumulus clouds moving from southwest at 6200 feet; .4 cumulus from southwest.

"Flagstaff—sky overcast; ceiling 5500 feet; visibility six miles; temperature 62 degrees; surface winds moving from the southwest at seven miles per hour; 10 per cent cumulus clouds from west (no rain reported); mountain peaks blanketed.

Light Surface Winds.

"Seligman—Broken clouds; ceiling 2000 feet; visibility unlimited; temperature 69 degrees; surface winds south at seven miles per hour; sky, .7 covered with strata cumulus clouds at 2000 feet.

"Kingman—sky overcast; ceiling 3800 feet; visibility unlimited; temperature 71 degrees; surface wind southwest at 16 miles per hour; .1 per cent cumulus clouds from southwest.

"McNary—Broken clouds; ceiling 2000 feet; visibility three miles; barometer 29.52; temperature 56 degrees; surface winds seven miles per hour; .1 strata cumulus clouds moving from the southwest at 2000 feet; foggy.

"Phoenix—Broken clouds; ceiling 2000 feet; visibility six miles; barometer 29.74; temperature 81; surface winds southwest at seven miles per hour; .8 strata cumulus clouds moving from south at 2000 feet.

"Prescott—Broken clouds; ceiling 3000 feet; visibility, five miles; barometer, 29.72; temperature, 66 degrees; surface winds south southeast at seven miles per hour; .9 cumulus clouds moving from southeast at 3000 feet."

Explanation of Terms.

Attached to the report is an explanation of the meteorological terms employed. It follows;

"Cirrus—a very high thin cloud; sun will shine through and no shadow will be cast by the cloud; altitude around 30,000 feet.

"Cumulus—a white fleecy cloud; rain rarely falls; altitude 2500 to 8000 feet.

"Nimbus—a rain cloud; there are seldom more than a few tenths of nimbus clouds in the sky at one time; altitude 400 to 5000 feet.

"Strata—a flat gray cloud; low; altitude 600 to 5000 feet.

LINDBERGH OUT OF FUEL LANDS AT WINSLOW, ARIZ.

Plane Arrives Over Airport as Engine Stops; Made Trip in 18 Hours.

By the Associated Press.

WINSLOW, Ariz., Sept. 7.—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, flying Capt. Frank Hawks' monoplane from New York City, made a dead-stick landing here at 3:50 p. m. (M. S. T.) today, accompanied by his wife. The flyer brought his plane over the airport just ts the motor sputtered and died for lack of gasoline.

The plane had to be trundled from the runway. Lindbergh immediately went into conference with other T. A. T. officials and announced plans for departure for the scene of the wrecked transport.

With his wife as passenger, Col. Lindbergh left Lambert-St. Louis field at 5:20 a. m. yesterday. His time was therefore 11 hours, 30 minutes.

The Lindberghs, flying the Lockheed-Vega monoplane used by Capt. Frank Hawks in making his transcontinental non-stop records, arrived in St. Louis Friday at 7:55 p. m., 6 hours and 50 minutes after leaving New York. Col. Lindbergh had intended joining in the search for the missing plane.

His total time from New York to Winslow was 18 hours, 20 minutes, an average of about 111 miles an hour over the 2050-mile T. A. T. route, which he followed within less than 24 hours and it will probably take twice that long to bring out what they find. I do not like to say it but I am convinced that all aboard were instantly killed and that their bodies have probably been cremated.

All the passengers on my Western Air Express plane and the copilot and the steward saw the wrecked plane as we passed over it.

From our altitude we could see the initials T. A. T., but most of the rest of the cabin was in ashes. We could also see part of the elevators.

On last Tuesday when we flew over this territory the storm was lying over Mount Taylor and was blowing from the southwest. We encountered the storm between Holbrook, Ariz., and Albuquerque.

It looked to me as if the T. A. T. plane got into that storm. There was a heavy side wind drifting against it which probably threw it into the side of the mountain.

If the plane had had another 500 feet of clearance it would have been all right, but in the storm Pilot Stowe probably could not correctly judge the altitude.

The plane had struck white it was going east which shows that it was apparently returning to Albuquerque.

PLANE THAT SIGHTED WRECK FORCED DOWN

Lands Passengers Unhurt When Both Wing Struts Snap at 9000 Feet.

By the Associated Press.

AMARILLO, Tex., Sept. 7.—Though both its wing struts broke at 9000 feet, the Western Air Express ship, which found the wrecked plane City of San Francisco, made a safe landing on a ranch 25 miles east of Tucumcari, N. M., today, the Amarillo News learned from its correspondent tonight. The five passengers and three members of the crew were unhurt.

TUCUMCARI, N. M., Sept. 7.—Passengers in the Western Air Express plane, which was forced down east of here late today, will be taken to Kansas City tomorrow morning by a relief plane which arrived here from Albuquerque.

ALBUQUERQUE, N. M., Sept. 7.—Both eastbound and westbound Western Air Express planes failed to reach their destinations tonight. The westbound plane from Kansas City was forced to land at Waynoka, Ok., because of storms and will leave there for Los Angeles at 4 a. m.

From our altitude we could see the eastbound plane developed trouble at Tucumcari and landed there.

Rex Clark of Los Angeles, one of the passengers and the only occupant who had succeeded in reaching Tucumcari tonight, said it was a miracle that they were landed without injury.

"The ship," he said, "was flying when suddenly one of its wing struts broke. Then another strut broke and the wings began to crumble." eH did not give an exact description of how the landing was accomplished.

Besides Clark, passengers in the Western ship were Lester Luhnes, Los Angeles; Harry Coleman, Elizabethtown, N. J.; Dr. Walter of Pottsville, Pa., and one other whose name was not learned.

Ralph Montee of Los Angeles, was the pilot who brought the ship down safely with the struts broken.

GASTONIA PICKETS WERE 'TOLD TO SHOOT TO KILL'

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

CHARLOTTE, N. C., Sept. 7.—Charges that Fred Ervin Beal, Lawrence, Mass., union organizer had told strike pickets to go to the Loray cotton mill and "drag them out" and to "shoot to kill" anyone who interfered with them were made by two witnesses at the trial here today of sixteen strikers and strike-leaders charged with the murder of O. F. Aderholt, Chief of Police of Gastonia.

H. C. Jackson, a Gastonia policeman, who went to the strikers' tent colony grounds to investigate some trouble reported early the night of June 7 asserted that he heard Beal tell the srikers to go to the mill and "if anyone stops you, shoot to kill."

Jackson was the first witness at today's session and Mrs. Tom Jenkins, the last before court adjourned until Monday, asserted that she heard Beal tell the pickets to "go to the mill and drag them out."

Says He Was Threatened.

Jackson told of being threatened by W. M. McGinnis, a defendant, when he was recognized on the colony grounds, and later helping other officers break up the picket line. Mrs. Jenkins lives in a house adjoining the union grounds. She said she saw Beal and some other persons go into the union office, and place a piece of cardboard over the window before the daily meeting.

When Beal came out of the office, she said, he went to the platform but before anything was done there was a commotion and people began running in all directions. Then a gun was discharged. She started for the home of a neighbor and heard Beal tell the picket line to go to the mill.

When officers arrived she said she heard someone yell for women and children to get back and she entered the house. She did not see the shooting.

Policeman Stopped March.

Jackson, until today more or less of a mystery witness, testified that preceding the attempted parade to the Loray Mill, he went to strike headquarters on complaint of a neighbor that there had been shooting on the grounds where Beal was addressing a crowd of about 200.

"As I walked up" he said, "the defendant, McGinnis, shouted 'get that big fellow.' I backed out of the crowd. It was not for me to tackle that crowd."

"Form your picket line, go to the mill, go into the mill, and if anyone bothers you, shoot and shoot to kill," Beal told the crowd. There was cursing by some women and the crowd started for the mill."

Shortly after the parade started it was stopped by policemen.

On cross-examination, the defense tried to show that previous to his arrival, employes of the Loray Mill had stoned and egged Beal, thus causing the disturbance. He had called to investigate but failed in the effort, he testified.

Deputy Sheriff Testified.

Deputy Sheriff Upton told of arriving at strike headquarters after the shooting. There he saw Miss Amy Schechter and Miss Vera Bush gathering up shotgun shells from a table on which a pistol and shotgun lay. Five other guns were stacked up in a corner.

"I asked Clarence Miller what the trouble was. He said 'the Chief was shot and Tom Gilbert and one of our fellows fell. You know, we had one headquarters torn down, and we are going to protect this one.'

"The cops came and we ordered them off."

He arrested Miller, on whom he found pistol cartridges and shotgun shells, but no weapon. At the time there were 16 men with guns in their hands on the grounds.

He arrested Miller, on whom he found pistol cartridges and shotgun shells, but no weapon. At the time there were 16 men with guns in their hands on the grounds.

There were "six or eight" large knotholes in the building, which he said appeared to have been used as portholes for shotguns.

The guns smelled of recent usage, he testified. On cross-examination, Upton said that he was quarters was destroyed, and gave chase to two masked men he saw near the wrecked premises. The crowd snickered when he said they outran him.

Says Strikers Wrecked Building.

Clyde P. Hoey of the prosecutor's staff objected to Adams' questions and in the clash that followed charged that the building was wrecked by order of the strike leaders.

"When the time comes," he shouted, "we will show that they destroyed their own headquarters."

Miss Grace Duffie, an 18-year-old stenographer now in the Loray mill service, whose home is opposite strike headquarters told of hearing Beal ordering pickets to go to the mill, saw them return and the police arrive and heard the shooting.

Just previous to the shooting, she added, and after the arrival of Chief Aderholt and his men, the lights on the union building were shut off.

Tom P. Jimison, chief defense counsel of record, tried to shake her testimony but only succeeded in having her add to her statement that she had heard Beal order the pickets to "go to the mill, go into themill" and the assertion that she heard some one give orders to shoot.

COLD CONTINUES IN ROCKIES, WITH MORE SNOW FORECAST

Havre, Mont., Reports Temperature of 24 Degrees; 34 at Denver.

By the Associated Press.

DENVER, Colo., Sept. 7.—The Rocky Mountain region still remained in a storm area tonight that promised continued cold weather, with more snow predicted by the Weather Bureau for mountain districts and freezing temperatures for Wyoming, Montana and the extreme north central part of Colorado.

Temperatures as low as 24 degrees above zero were reported in the storm area. This minimum was recorded at Havre, Mont., and at Yellowstone. At Denver the mercury reached 34 degrees.

The first snow of the year, and the earliest ever recorded here, fell in Denver last night. The fall was light. Traffic up the highway of Pike's Peak was suspended. The cog road on Pike's Peak managed to keep open by the use of snow plows.

Freezing temperatures were recorded in almost every section of Wyoming last night. There was considerable snow yesterday.

Mrs. Pantages on Trial for Murder

MRS. PANTAGES' TRIAL TO REOPEN TUESDAY

Three Prosecution Witnesses Heard Before Week-End Recess of Court.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Sept. 7.—The seven men and five women jurors hearing the second degree murder trial of Mrs. Alexander Pantages, wife of the theater magnate, today were under the guard of court bailiffs in a hotel where they will remain until next Tuesday when the hearing is resumed.

A three-day recess was taken by the Court last night after hearing three prosecution witnesses.

The State charges that Mrs. Pantages was responsible for an automobile collision alleged to have caused the death of Joe Rokumoto, a Japanese. The prosecution also charged that Mrs. Pantages was under the influence of liquor at the time of the accident.

Attorneys for both sides claimed an advantage as the result of the testimony of Dr. Frank R. Webb, assistant county autopsy surgeon, and Dr. Donald Cass, who performed an operation on Rokumoto.

Both physicians testified that Rokumoto succumbed as the result of injuries and anaesthesia complications. Each held that the operation had been necessary but under cross-examination neither could say whether the victim would have died immediately had the operation been omitted.

The defense contends that Rokumoto was to some extent responsible for the accident and that the injuries he suffered therein were not necessarily wholly responsible for the death.

SHAW WOULD EXECUTE ALL WHO FORECAST GREAT WAR

Dramatist in Discussing Future Lecture Says All Forecasts Should Be Utopian.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LONDON, Sept. 7. — George Bernard Shaw is scheduled to deliver a lecture before the Fabian Society, Nov. 21 and, in line with his policy to be as forward as possible, has permitted certain newspaper men to gather a syllabus of what he will say under a title of "Random Speculations," the theme of which is that all forecasts should be entirely Utopian.

"All persons who foresee a next great war and would have us prepare for it should be executed," observes Shaw. "A rigorous press law should suppress every newspaper which treats war as morally more tolerable than assassination. We must pretend that we are going to be good and discuss ways and means for that novelty and not, as at present, for repetition of our old sins."

8-CENT FARE TOO HIGH, CITY AVERS, ON FAIR VALUATION

Files Brief in State Supreme Court Attacking $63,500,000 Rate - Making Basis.

With the 8-cent street car fare a thing of the past, temporarily, at least, and the Public Service Co. petitioning the State Public Service Commission for a permanent 10-cent fare or four tokens for 35 cents, the City of St. Louis is continuing its fight in the courts to upset the $63,500,000 valuation on which the 8-cent fare was based and to nullify the order of the Public Service Commission granting the fare. Meanwhile an experimental fare schedule of 10 cents cash or a 12-ride weekly ticket for 90 cents is in effect, with the consent of the city.

The city's latest move was the filing of a brief yesterday in the Supreme Court at Jefferson City supporting its appeal from the decision of the Cole County Circuit Court affirming the valuation and 8-cent fare order of the State Commission.

In the brief, written by City Counselor Muench and Associate City Counselor Ferris, the city sets forth 11 assignments of error which it charges against the lower court.

I. C. C. Barred Depreciation.

The city contends it was an error not to deduct from the original cost valuation as found by the Commission the sum of $8,469,720 representing the credit balance in the depreciation reserve fund. The city cites several authorities justifying this deduction which was specifically denied by the Commission. Last Wednesday the Interstate Commerce Commission handed down a decision ordering the accumulated depreciation reserve fund of $45,000,000 deducted from the rate-making valuation of the Illinois Bell Telephone Co.

The City's brief recites other claims made in hearings before the Commission and in the appeal to the Cole County Circuit Court. Among these are that the land value allowance of $4,700,000 should not have exceeded $3,194,518; that the going value allowance should have been not to exceed $2,500,000 instead of $3,000,000; that the allowance for promotion and consolidation should have been not more than $2,000,000 instead of $2,700,000; that the depreciation ratio applied to the reproduction new cost to account for present condition should have been 29 per cent instead of 25 per cent.

Opposes Promotion Item.

In fixing the allowance of $2,700,000, the city asserts, the commission merely followed an allowance of that amount made by the commission in 1919 for "promotion, consolidation and financing." The brief quotes the commission recent order as follows: "There is no way of determining how the sum of $2,700,000 was determined, but this commission is of the opinion, after a careful review of the evidence, that the amount of this item should not be disturbed and that said amount of $2,700,000 is allowed for costs of promotion and consolidation."

The city asserts it was unlawful for the commission to accept an item of valuation for the determination of which it could not account, and contends further that this item originally included "financing" costs which the commission later disallowed.

The brief concludes with the claim that the evidence showed the fair valuation of the company's operating property should not have exceeded $53,000,000 and that the eight-cent fare would produce an excessive return on this valuation.

LAST OF McCOYS OF MOUNTAIN CLAN DIES OF OLD AGE

Succumbs at 80, Several Years After Peace Was Declared With the Hatfields.

By the Associated Press.

CATLETTSBURG, Ky., Sept. 7.—In the mountain country once the scene of the Hatfield-McCoy family feud, old age has claimed James McCoy, thought to have been the last of the McCoys active in the fighting.

So far as records show, only one member of either family—"Cap" Hatfield, Deputy Sheriff of Logan County, W. Va.—still lives to recall the hatred that flared into actual bloodshed along the Tug River. The widow of "Devil Anse" Hatfield, leader of the Hatfield family, died last March at the age of 87.

Peace between the families was brought about several years ago only after officials of West Virginia and Kentucky took a hand in settling their difference. Begun in 1880 with the killing of Bill Staynton, a member of the Hatfield family, the quarrel continued for years. A fierce fight took place on the banks of Grapevine Creek in January, 1888.

James McCoy died at the age of 80 at the home of a daughter in Pikeville, Ky. He was a son of Randolph McCoy, leader of his family.

Italians Fly Low.

A shrill scream came as the plane approached. There seemed to be almost silence as it loomed large overhead, then afterward, and not before it had started to dwindle in size, came a deep and awe inspiring roar that appeared to come from a clear sky after the machine had almost disappeared.

Waghorn was the first man up and flew four laps before Dal Molin started, the first of the Italians. The six pilots, three on each side, started 15 minutes apart.

The big thrill of the day, the only moment when to the gaping crowds it seemed a real race, was during this first round of Dal Molin, whose red Macchi made twice as much noise as Waghorn's Rolls Royce. He seemed to the crowd to be going faster that the British machine because he was flying much lower.

In fact, Dal Molin frequently flew under 100 feet. Monti later flew at 50 feet and the sensation for thousands underneath was rather like being bombarded by a shell of incredible size that rushed at you and just missed you. The Italian planes made more noise than any projectile.

Speed Is Deceptive.

As Dal Molin rose and tore over the starting line at Ryde and turned the pylon thrillingly to race out the Portsmouth shore on the straightaway toward Calshey, hundreds of thousands thought he was destined victor, for he seemed to be going faster than Waghorn. But then the Rolls Royce was about four miles behind as the Italian crossed the starting place and was then seen to be overhauling the Macchi and at a pace that showed everyone in the crowd that the cup was safe for England.

Slowly Waghorn drew nearer and in one round he had caught the foe and passed him, the two machines thundering and screaming and howling—there's really no word to describe it—over the line with Britain in front at the end of the Italian's first round.

That must have shown Dal Molin that he had no chance, but he stuck it out magnificently.

The great disappointment of the race was the accident to Monti's newer machine, for a first round of 301 miles an hour, while it did not promise any hope of victory, showed that this 18-cylindered red and gold beauty with its Isotta Fraschini motor of 2000 horsepower, was the fastest machine in the race, except the Rolls Royce.

From an interview with the British captain, Squadron Leader Orlebar, it appears that Atcherley only missed beating Waghorn's time in a similar machine through bad luck which cost him disqualification as well as the victory, but which will not fob him of his record for the fastest single round. Orlebar said he would protest Atcherley's disqualification.

Waghorn was the only married man on either team. His wife, a few weeks younger than him—he is only 25 years old—watched the race from the liner Orford.

Although no outsiders have been permitted to inspect the Rolls Royce engine which drove Waghorn and Atcherley to hitherto unheard of speeds, some details were issued tonight by the Central News.

Frederick Henry Royce is chief engineer of the Rolls Royce car. He has worked at motor engines for 40 years and looks rather like Bernard Shaw. The Central News thus describes the plane whose details will remain a secret of the British air force:

"The long slender fuselage is actually an elliptical shell of thin metal strength with internal members of steel where necessary and the spars of the wing on each side of the fuselage are also made of metal, while the metal covering of the wings contributes largely to the strength. It has two water floats made of duralumin and steel, and in these fuel is carried in order to save space in the body.

"Each engine is supercharged; that is, a mixture is blown into the cylinders every time the inlet valve opens at more than atmospheric pressure so that in effect the engine gets compressed food for each explosion. This adds to the problem of cooling, already difficult enough, and as ordinary radiators sticking out into the air are unthinkable, designers ingeniously circulate the cooling water under the actual skin of the wings, thus making the air not only lift the airplane but in rushing past they extract the heat from the water, coming nearly at boiling point from the water jackets. The air, therefore, does a double duty and so essential is a high speed flow of air that on the sea where there is only the rush of wind from the air screw, the water in the engine boils after one minute at full throttle. One hundred gallons of petrol are consumed by these engines per hour."

Roar of Schneider Cup Seaplanes Heard by Radio.

St. Louis radio listeners yesterday heard the roar of seaplanes traveling with bullet-like speed in the international Schneider Cup races at Calshot, England.

A radio report of the race, accompanied by sound effects, was transmitted by short wave from Station 5SW, Chelmsford, England, picked up by the National Broadcasting Co. at New York and sent out over a network which included KWK, St. Louis.

KWK participated in the broadcast from 7:30 to 8:05 a. m.

Man at 36 Just Beginning His Career, Says Edison

Unless Body Is Injured by Unhealthy Living He Should Increase in Efficiency Up to 80, Inventor Asserts.

By the Associated Press.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., Sept. 7.—Eighty-two years old and rapidly recovering from a severe attack of pneumonia, Thomas A. Edison is quoted as discounting the theory attributed to English authors that a man is ready for the scrap heap at the age of 36.

The quotation is in an article in the current issue of the Edison plant magazine, written by W. H. Meadowcraft, chief aid and secretary of Edison.

"The man who has reached the age of 36 is just about ready to discard the illusions built upon false theories, for which wrong instructions and usually ignorance previously have made him an easy mark," Edison declared.

"At 36 he is just beginning to get down to business. If he is really worth while he has passed through a period of hard knocks by that time. The youthful man never leads the easy sheltered, knockless, unshocked life. At 36 he ought to be prepared to meet with realities and after that period in his life until he is 60, he should be able to handle them with steadily increasing efficiency."

The inventor assumes that the man he is speaking of has not undermined his health by a life of intemperance.

"Subsequently, if he has not injured his body by unhealthy living, he may very rightly continue to be increasingly efficient up to his eightieth birthday, and in exceptional cases until ninety."

In another article by Meadowcraft, Edison is quoted as having said regarding the effect of his deafness upon his life: "I have no doubt that my nerves are stronger and better today than they would have been if I had heard all the foolish, meaningless sounds that normal people hear."

WOMAN SLAIN IN HOME, DAUGHTER WOUNDED

Latter Shot When She Goes to Investigate Firing on Boone County Farm.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Sept. 7. No clews were found today in the murder last night of Mrs. Nannie Lemaster, 68 years old, and the wounding of her daughter, Mrs. Henrietta Riley. Mrs. Lemaster was killed by an unidentified assailant between 9 and 10 o'clock at her farm home near Harrisburg and Mrs. Riley suffered a serious head wound when she went to investigate the shooting.

Boone County authorities spent virtually all day in and on the way to and from Harrisburg. Nothing of importance was learned, they said.

Two bullets were being removed tonight from the body of Mrs. Lemaster. The first shot entered the upper right part of the skull and the second pierced her right shoulder, then ranged downward.

Mrs. Riley was shot back of the eyes, one of which was removed today at the Boone County Hospital, and physicians said, it would be a miracle if the other eye was saved. A second shot missed her when she ran into the house.

Mrs. Riley said she did not see anyone fire at her, but declared she recognized a 21-year-old youth when he passed the Lemaster home a few minutes before the shooting. She thought he carried a rifle. After she ran into the house, Mrs. Riley said, someone on horseback rode around the house for about 20 minutes.

An inquest will be held Monday at Harrisburg.

LAW ENFORCEMENT BODY DIVIDED ON SECRET SESSIONS

Some of President's Commission Want All Proceedings Public but Wickersham Objects.

HOOVER AGAINST PUBLICITY JUST NOW

Mrs. Willebrandt and Other Notables Have Testified but Nobody Knows What They Said.

Post-Dispatch Bureau,
201-205 Kellogg Bldg.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. — The President's law enforcement commission is squabbling over the question of open hearings. One group thinks that the public should hear the testimony of those who appear but thus far a majority, led by Chairman Wickersham, has opposed that program. Within the last few days this matter caused a sharp division in the commission. Among the important persons called to give information and views was Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, who recently retired as Assistant Attorney-General in Chicago of the prohibition prosecutions. Mrs. Willebrandt was before the Dry Law Committee of the commission several hours, and made some interesting observations. Her testimony was responsible for the new demand of the minority faction for the abolition of the executive session.

President Hoover opposes any plan to make public at this time the facts developed. It is argued by supporters of the executive session that the hearings would be prolonged, and the public might be switched away from the real object of the inquiry. The President and Wickersham are trying to avoid any sensational outbreaks.

The suggestion of Wickersham that the states share in the enforcement of the prohibition laws caused more of a flurry than its author expected. Since that time he has been saying nothing.

Many leading citizens have been invited to appear before the Crime Commission, and have come quietly, given testimony, and departed without publicity. Chief Justice W. P. Stacy, of the North Carolina State Supreme Court was here yesterday, and gave a committee of the commission a report on the workings of the State judicial conference created during the administration of Gov. Angus W. McLean.

Wickersham is going into the law enforcement records of all of the states. His report will cover interesting and original movements for better observance of the law.

Dr. J. M. Doran, Commissioner of Prohibition, said today that the Wickersham statement to Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, on the duty of the states in the enforcement of the national prohibition laws had already done much good and that many of the states had laid out programs for greater efforts.

JEWISH PROTEST MEETING ON ARAB ATTACKS TONIGHT

Hawes, Cochran, Mayor Miller and Others to Address Odeon Gathering.

A protest meeting to condemn Arab attacks against Jews in the Holy Land will be held at 8 o'clock this evening at the Odeon Theater, Grand boulevard and Finney avenue, under the auspices of the United St. Louis Committee on Anti-Jewish Excesses in Palestine, concluding a week of mourning for 150 Jews who lost their lives in the recent riots.

United States Senator Hawes, Congressman Cochran, Mayor Miller, former Congressman Nathan Frank, Rabbi Julius Gordon of Temple Shaare Emeth, M. J. Slonim, Mendel N. Fisher and Leon Gellman will speak. Gustave Klausner, chairman of the committee, will preside.

Cantors from several synagogues will assemble to chart appropriate laments and the Hebrew prayer, "El Mole Rachmin," will be recited. Non-Jews are invited to attend the meeting and the program will be broadcast over Radio Station KWK from 9:30 to 11 p. m.

CHILD TAUGHT TO WALK POST LIKE SOLDIER TAKEN FROM HOME

Cleta Marie, 3½-year-old daughter of Charles Ward of 3022 St. Clair avenue, East St. Louis, was ordered removed from the care of her stepmother, Mrs. Mary Ward, yesterday and placed in a private home following a hearing before Judge Silas Cook of the City Court.

An investigation by Mrs. Julia Pruitt, probation officer of the Court, disclosed that the child was trained to march continuously back and forth across the yard of her home in a military manner, turning on her heel at each length of her march. A path was worn in the yard, it was testified. Four other children in the family are wards of the Court.

MACMILLAN PARTY NARROWLY ESCAPES DISASTER IN ARCTIC

Explorer Reports by Radio Worst Weather in His Experience.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—The worst Arctic weather in his experience as a explorer and a narrow escape from disaster is reported in a radio message received here from Commander Donald B. MacMillan now anchored off Nain, Labrador. MacMillan has been in the Arctic and near Baffin Land since last September and he likely will return to Wiscasset, Me., the latter part of this month.

The radiogram was received by Commander F. F. McDonald, who accompanied MacMillan into the Arctic a few years ago, and was relayed by Clifford E. Moe, former operator aboard MacMillan's ship, the Bowdoin, from Belle More, L. I.

The message related that MacMillan experienced "one bad nip," meaning that his ship was pinched in between huge icebergs, but owing to construction of the ship, designed to precent damage on such occasions, no one was hurt, nor was th expedition delayed.

"The worst fog and rain" ever encountered in his 10 trips to the Arctic and sub-Arctic area was reported for the last wek in August in the radiogram.

FLIES UPSIDE DOWN 37 MINUTES

Young German Thought to Have Set Unofficial Record.

By the Associated Press.

BREMEN, Sept. 7.—A young German aviator named Achgelis, who passed the pilot's examination only in July, today flew upside down for 37 minutes without interruption, which is thought to be a world record. It is not an official one, however, because the necessary notice was not given to air officials.

Achgelis plans a second attempt shortly.

TWO INQUIRIES ON SHIPBUILDING PROPAGANDA

Strong Men on Committee.

The Naval Affairs Committee contains a large element of distinguished members of the Senate. There are on it a number of forceful men, such as Howell (Rep.), Nebraska; Walsh (Dem.), Massachusetts, and Robinson (Dem.), Arkansas, who, under the wide inquisitorial powers of the committee, would be able to throw a bright light on Shearer's activities and his connections.

Much speculation centered around the President's statement that unless the companies named could show an "entirely different situation" from that averred by Shearer in his suit, the Government would be compelled to see what could be done "to free the country of such influences."

Just what can be done has not been made clear. The suggestion has been made that if the Bethlehem company and the others do not clear their skirts, the Government might withhold from them any further contracts for ships to be built under the current 15-cruised program. It also has been suggested that two contracts awarded recently under the program to the American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation and the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation might be canceled. These two, together with the Newport News Shipbuilding & Dry Dock Co., figure in the suit brought by Shearer.

Whatever else may happen, the Shearer disclosures will roughen the path of the big navy group in Congress and will strengthen the demand for the building of all naval vessels in Government yards. Under the 15-cruiser program, part are to be built by the Government and part by private contractors.

Newport News Co. Head Denies Opposing Disarmament.

By the Associated Press.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., Sept. 7.—Emphatic denial that the Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. ever employed William B. Shearer "or anyone else" to oppose disarmament "at Geneva or anywhere else" was made in a prepared statement last night by Homer L. Ferguson, president of the firm. He also asserted the local shipbuilding firm favored the President's present effort to that end.

Ferguson's statement follows:

"The Newport News Shipbuilding and Drydock Co. never employed William B. Shearer or anyone else to oppose disarmament of nations at Geneva or anywhere else. As a matter of fact, we have no objection whatever to any fair scheme of disarmament and favor the President's present efforts in this direction.

"Shearer's engagement with us terminated several months ago, before President Hoover's disarmament negotiations began. When in 1922 the first disarmament conference resulted in the cancellation of two battle cruisers and one battleship under construction by this company for the Government, the chairman of our board at that time said: 'If it is a good thing for the Government it suits me' and we still feel that way.

"When Shearer's engagement terminated he threatened to bring suit, as he claimed we had made agreement with him extending over a term of years. The suit in the New Yorw courts against us and subsequent publicity are due to our refusal to pay him money which we had not agreed to pay.

"Our agreement to defray a portion of Shearer's expenses was a direct result of his own persistent efforts, and the information he has furnished has been of no avail to us."

HUNT FOR MISSING COLORADO BANKER SHIFTS TO CANADA

Detectives Seeking C. D. Waggoner Following Fraudlent $500,000 Bank Credit Transfer.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Private detectives hired by the American Bankers' Association turned towards Canada today in their search for Charles Delos Waggoner, missing president of the Bank of Telluride, Col., who obtained $500,000 to his bank's credit from six large New York banks through fraudulent telegraphic transfer orders, drawn on as many Denver banks.

Following a tip that Waggoner would be at the home of a brother-in-law, T. E. Todd, in Olathe, Kan., the bankers' detectives waited for him there yesterday but he failed to appear.

Their search has been centered in Western Kansas and Nebraska but late clews, they say, indicate that Waggoner has gone to Canada.

While the search was still going on for him in the West, United States District Attorney Charles H. Tuttle announced that the Federal grand jury on Monday would investigate the manipulation by which Waggoner obtained the $500,000 credit.

The inquiry will be made on the assumption that the postal laws were violated, Tuttle said, following a conference with T. M. Reeves, chief Banking Examiner for the district.

Waggoner used messages in bankers' code to obtain the credit.

MAN IN WELL FOR 42 HOURS RECOVERING FROM EFFECTS

Wilkins Priest Was Taken From 30-Foot Shaft Numb and Suffering From Hunger.

By the Associated Press.

OTTUMWA, Ia., Sept. 7.—Released this morning from a caved in well in which he was imprisoned for more than 42 hours, Wilkins Priest, 55 years old, late today was recovering from the effects of cold and exposure more rapidly than physicians had expected.

Unless pneumonia develops, Dr. D. L. Rator said, Priest will recover. His injuries, were confined to bruises, although his body, when taken from a 30-foot shaft, was numb and he was suffering from hunger and thirst. His temperature, subnormal in the morning, was normal this afternoon.

As he lay in the hospital bed today, Priest expressed a renewed wish to live, a desire which he said he nearly lost Friday night, when rescue workers seemed to be moving most slowly to him.

Air was driven to the prisoner by a pump and tube through the well. Priest was able to converse at intervals with the rescue party.

Treasury Certificate Sale Closes.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Acting Secretary Mills of the Treasury Department today announced that subscriptions for the issue of 4¾ per cent Treasury certificates dated Sept. 16 will end at the close of business Sept. 9. Subscriptions, which fail to reach the Federal Reserve banks or branch, or Treasury before that time, will not be accepted and subscriptions in the mail at the time the books close will be disregarded.

An $180,000 check, cashable at any bank, still is missing.

Authorities disclosed that, although he actually did not obtain any money in the transactions, it will take much litigation, probably stretching over a two-year period, to get the tangle straightened out.

V. P. PARADE AND BALL TO BE HELD ON OCT. 7-8

The committee in charge of this year's Veiled Prophet carnival, which ushers in the autumn social season, announced yesterday that the Prophet's parade would be held Tuesday evening, Oct. 8, and the Prophet's ball, Wednesday evening, Oct. 9.

The celebration this year will be a few days later than usual inasmuch as custom has established the first Tuesday after the first Monday in October as the date of the parade. This year Oct. 1 falls on a Tuesday, placing the parade on the following Tuesday. This year's carnival will be the fifty-second since the traditional observance was begun.

Details of the nature of the parade and the plans for the ball will be announced later.

The committee's announcement also sought to dispel two rumors which it said had been current in recent weeks. One was that the Prophet's hall would be held at the new Arena instead of at the Coliseum; the second that the identity of the Veiled Prophet and his masked retinue would be revealed this year.

The ball, it was stated, would be held at the Coliseum, has has been the custom for years, and the identity of the Prophet and his court will be veiled in the customery secrecy.

Al Capone Operated On.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7. — Scarface Al Capone, Chicago gang leader, underwent a tonsil operation Thursday in the Eastern Penitentiary where he is serving a year's sentence for carrying a loaded pistol. He was sufficiently recovered yesterday to return from the infirmary to his cell.

PROHIBITION MOST EFFECTIVE SINCE DRY ACT, DORAN SAYS

Commissioner Back From California Finds Conditions Are Slowly Improving.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—James M. Doran, Commissioner of Prohibition, said today enforcement conditions throughout the nation are better than at any time since the Volstead act became effective.

The Commissioner, who just returned from a trip to California, said he had conferred with city officials in the larger towns of the country and had been assured that prohibition conditions were improving.

"In my month's trip," Doran said, "I stopped at ordinary hotels in the cities I visited and I did not see a single intoxicated person. The hotels are co-operating with the bureau in asking that their guests do not bring liquor upon the premises, and generally conditions, which are improving slowly, are better than any time since the Volstead act became effective.

80 LOST IN CAPSIZING OF SHIP; PANIC BLAMED

Captain of Finnish Vessel Says Children Aboard Rushed to Lee Side.

By the Associated Press.

HELSINGFORS, Finland, Sept. 7.—About 80 lives were lost today, including those of many children going to their homes to spend Sunday, when the Finnish steamer Karu sank in a heavy storm.

The Karu had sailed from Tammerfors this afternoon and had only just cleared the harbor when the bow dipped into a huge wave and the steamer failed to right itself. Several passengers succeeded in getting into a lifeboat but the heavy seas upset it. Some of this party were able to cling to the overturned craft until they were rescued.

The steamer turned completely over before sinking.

The captain laid the capsizing of the vessel to a panic among school children passengers who all rushed to the lee side of the ship. He said that there were only about 100 pasengers but could not say how many were children.

Twenty three persons were rescued by other steamers and motor boats. Three of the crew of 12, including the captain, were saved.

To Discuss Traffic Changes.

Traffic changes on Grand boulevard will be discussed at a luncheon meeting of the Business and Improvement Association of Central Grand Boulevard at the Melbourne Hotel at noon Wednesday, a report on its recent survey of traffic on Grand boulevard.

PESSIMISTIC NOTE IN BRITISH PRESS ON NAVAL TREATY

Marked Annoyance in England Over Secretary Stimson's Public Snub of MacDonald.

FEAR OF BREAKDOWN OF NEGOTIATIONS

Naval and Military Record Declares Internationalization of Seapower Can Never Succeed.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON,
London Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch and the New York World.

Copyright, 1929, by the Press and Pulitzer Publishing Cos. (The New York World and Post-Dispatch.)

LONDON, Sept. 7.—American Ambassador Dawes did not, as expected, see Prime Minister Ramsay McDonald yesterday on the latter's return from the meeting of the League of Nations Assembly at Geneva.

It is understood the suggested talk was canceled because of a new American dispatch dealing with the Anglo-American naval reduction plan, which probably will afford material for fresh argument early next week.

A note of alarm is beginning to be sounded in important British newspapers as to the progress of the negotiations.

The Manchester Guardian goes further than the rest of the press when it says: "Conversations have been hanging fire" and proceeds in a long editorial of an underlying pessimistic tone to discuss the serious consequences of failure.

Hoover's Attitude Criticised.

The Daily News for the last two days has been featuring New York dispatches alleging that the American big navy party has gained control over President Hoover. The New York correspondent of the Guardian says:

"The public are becoming wearied by the alternately hopeful and cautious statements from the White House, by the obvious advice of transatlantic teamwork by such apparent contradictions as Hoover's insistence of actual tonnage reduction and the statement of Senator Hale that the present 15-cruiser program will be carried out. It is clear that the temperamentally pacificist, Mr. Hoover, is under terrific pressure from officials of the Navy Department and Naval Board and from the big navy groups."

The Guardian says editorilly: "Some of the private messages coming from Washington would lead one to suppose that that attitude of mind which proved fatal to the Geneva conference still persists, and that objections to this or that proposal are still being made because it might leave the American navy in some respects stronger than the British or the British stronger than the American.

"If objections of this type are still being urged one can well understand the delay in coming to an agreement. One cannot even entirely dismiss from one's mind the possibility of an eventual breakdown in the negotiations."

This propaganda certainly indicated either a desire to show that the United States was more receptive to the British view than has proved to be the case, or that the last American note was misunderstood here.

At present, unfortunately, one thing is clear, and that is the marked annoyance felt here at Stimson's public snub to MacDonald. Americans seem to feel that MacDonald's statement went further than the facts warranted and in some unexplained way worked damage to the American case.

Fearful of "Naval Socialism."

In American quarters here there is a resentment at what is considered premature optimistic propaganda given out semi-officially last week under circumstances that cannot be described without a breach of confidence. What British naval opinion thinks of the situation, and naval opinion here carries weight, may be indicated from the leading editorial in today's Naval and Military Record.

"The truth is that this question of disarmament by international agreement is now being discussed in a 'giving-up spirit by the Prime Minister," it says. "We have cut our pre-arranged program of new construction considerably simply because we feel that we can do without the ships. Cannot the United States do the same thing if she really wants to, without making a yardstick investigation of what we still retain to guard our ocean communications?

"The internationalization of sea power can never succeed. It amounts to a species of naval Socialism alien to all proper sense of national pride and tradition. It is tantamount to the principle of minding one another's business instead of each minding his own, and we are at one with Winston Churchill in viewing such idealism with misgivings."

BRITAIN RECALLS OUTLYING TROOPS IN PALESTINE

Colonial Office Says Situation Is Quiet in All Districts — Some Looted Property Recovered.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—The situation in Palestine has so quieted down that the British authorities have been able to withdraw some of the outlying detachments of troops.

A communique from the colonial office tonight said:

"The situation in Palestine was reported to be quiet in all districts. It has been possible to withdraw some of the outlying detachments of troops but the disaffected areas are being patrolled.

"Police forces supplemented by the troops have been successful in recovering a certain amount of looted property."

By the Associated Press.

JERUSALEM, Sept. 7.—The Palestine Government today received a flood of protests and criticisms from both Arabs and Jews for the manner in which it had suppressed the rioting between them although the country as a whole appeared peaceful.

An Arab peasant from Beit Hanina was seriously injured today, allegedly by Jews from Bir Jacob near Jerusalem. It was charged that other similar incidents had occurred during the week. The Grand Mufti, leader of the Moslems, said he was experiencing great difficulty in restraining the Arabs from acts of reprisals.

Plane Carrier Moved.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency reported that the military is confident that no more trouble need be expected in the southern part of Palestine. This was shown in the removal toward Jaffa of the plane-carrier Courageous, which was anchored off Gaza, when the Bedouins in the neighborhood of Beersheba threatened to march on Jerusalem.

Much attention was attracted by the arrest Friday afternoon of Samuel Roze, head of the Jewish community of Motza, near Jerusalem, where several Jews were killed. Roze, who settled in Motza 40 years ago, lost all his property during the attack, his farm having been destroyed by fire. His arrest was made on an affidavit sworn to by a local Arab policeman charging murder. He was released this afternoon under $2500 bail, furnished by the Anglo-Palestine Co.

The Jewish Telegraphic Agency also reported that a Jew was stabbed late this afternoon while returning from the Wailing Wall. The authorities averted a riot which threatened to develop over the incident.

Stimson Says Consul Spared No Efforts to Protect Americans.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Secretary of State Stimson in a formal statement today said Paul Knabenshue, American Consul-General at Jerusalem, and his staff had "spared no efforts to protect American citizens and their property" during the recent disorder in Palestine.

At the same time Stimson's statement was issued the State Department made public a telegram addressed to Chairman Borah, of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, from Z. H. Rubinstein, city editor of The Day, a New York publication, charging the American Consul-General had answered evasively a request for protection by American citizens in Palestine.

The department also made public a reply to Rubinstein from Stimson, saying it was impossible to answer specifically the charges regarding protection since he had not cited definitely what protection had been refused.

THREE LIQUOR PLANES SEIZED

All Taken in Last Four Weeks by Border Forces.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 7.—The immigration border patrol forces now have three airplanes, all seized in the last four weeks for violation of the Federal prohibition law. The latest prize of the enforcement agents was seized last night a few minutes after it landed on a farm near Riverview.

According to Chief Inspector Christopher Learson and Inspector George Goney, who seized the plane as it landed, a large quantity of liquor was found in the machine. Two men fled from the plane as the officers approached. They escaped in the darkness.

DIRIGIBLE "VIGILANT" DUE IN ST. LOUIS TODAY

It Is First of Fleet of Lighter-Than-Air Craft Expected for Balloon Races Sept. 28.

The Goodyear dirigible, "Vigilant," due to arrive here today, to attend the Gordon Bennett International Balloon Race on Sept. 28, is the first of a fleet of lighter-than-air craft expected within the next three weeks.

The blimp is scheduled to take part in an aerial demonstration at Lambert-St. Louis field this afternoon, and to make short trial flights over the city tomorrow with city officials and others aboard. It has accommodations for three passengers in addition to the pilot and mechanic.

During its stay in St. Louis, the "Vigilant" will be housed in the hangar at Scott Field, and will spend the time between its arrival and the date of the race in making trips to Peoria, Mattoon, Springfield, Quincy, Decatur, Champaign and Bloomington, Ill., Paducah, Ky., and Cape Girardeau, Jefferson City and Moberly, Mo.

ECKENER OUTLINES PLANS FOR OCEAN ZEPPELIN SERVICE

Shorter Dirigibles Will Be Built for Line Contemplated to Start in 1932.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The American terminal for German trans-Atlantic dirigible service is expected to be established in a city south of Baltimore, probably at Washington or Richmond, Dr. Hugo Eckener, commander of the German dirigible Graf Zeppelin, announced today before leaving for Germany on the liner New York.

In establishing regular trans-Atlantic service, Eckener said, the German Zeppelin Co. is seeking the best weather areas in which to build a terminal, and in this connection he pointed out that a weather shift line runs east and west immediately north of Baltimore, making the section to the south more desirable for landing than points further north.

Eckener said he did not think the Graf Zeppelin would land at the Naval Air Station at Lakehurst, N. J., again because he did not want to wear out the welcome extended the Graf on three previous occasions by naval authorities.

Mooring Masts in North.

Eckener said that a station in the South would be the American home for the German craft, although he intimated and Paul W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Zeppelin Co., said that mooring masts would be necessary at such places as New York and Philadelphia, to permit passengers to land nearer the large centers of population. The hangar in the South would be a great service station, much as a drydock or home port is to an ocean liner.

The German Zeppelin Co. and the Goodyear Zeppelin Co., a subsidiary of the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., for several years have had a working agreement, and it is under a continuance of this agreement that Zeppelin service from Europe to the United States and South America will be undertaken by the German group. The Goodyear company will work alone in establishment of service between the American west coast and Hawaii.

American and German banking interests will be involved in the proposed trans-Atlantic service. Since he ended the recent world cruise of the Graf Zeppelin, Eckener has been in conference with American bankers and officers of the Goodyear company, but definite contractual arrangements will not be concluded until Eckener returns to Germany and meets with bankers there.

No Service Before 1932.

Eckener said his negotiations with American bankers since the end of the round-the-world voyage had been far more satisfactory than any undertaken previously, but even if a financial affiliation is effected soon actual operation of transoceanic service cannot begin before 1932.

The Graf Zeppelin will not be in the fleet of the ocean air lines when regular service starts, but will be used as a training ship for personnel, demonstration and excursion flights. While the Graf is now the aerial pride of Germany, Eckener said, it does not achieve the dirigible ideal, and the new ships will be of markedly different type.

The new ships will be shorter and stubbier than the Graf, so that wind resistance may be reduced and greater speed obtained. They will have accommodations for 24 passengers and greater space for mail and freight.

UNIVERSITY OF MISSOURI FACULTY APPOINTMENTS

Miss Minnie L. Irons Is Made Professor of Home Economics.

Appointment of Miss Minnie L. Irons, formerly of Michigan State Agricultural College, as professor of home economics at the University of Missouri was announced by the Executive Board of Curators of the university which met here yesterday. Mrs. Minerva V. Grace, formerly of Oregon State College, was appointed assistant professor in the same department.

Other business transacted by the board included formal acceptance of a donation of not less than $1100 annually for three years from alumni and former students to establish a research scholarship in geology. A gift of $850 from the Monsanto Chemical Works for research work in dairy husbandry also was accepted.

Sabbatical leave from Oct. 1, 1929, to Feb. 1, 1930, was granted to Prof. J. D. Elliff, former director of the summer session. Gordon V. Gray, former reference librarian at St. Paul, Minn., was appointed extension librarian and Miss Constance Pfaff, former assistant in the St. Louis Public Library, B. J. N. White, formerly of Baylor College, and Miss Mary Rue, formerly assistant librarian at Peoria, Ill., were appointed assistants in the university library.

LEAGUE TO WORK FOR PUBLIC OWNERSHIP OF UTILITIES

W. H. Greun Heads New Society Which Will Seek Action Through Initiative Measure.

The Public Ownership League, started recently by citizens interested in public ownership of utilities, held its fist meeting Friday night at the Barr Branch Library, Jefferson and Lafayette avenues. William H. Greun, an architect and engineer with offices at 510 Chestnut street, was elected president. The members present resolved to devote all their efforts toward getting five per cent of the voters to sign an initiative petition to adopt an ordinance providing for public ownership.

A constitution and by-laws were adopted. "No More Franchises—Back to Home Rule" was selected as the motto of the organization.

Other officers elected are: C. L. Horrm, 3001 St. Vincent street; L. W. Evans, 4304 Oakland avenue, and Frank Zykan, 2666 California avenue, vice presidents; Mrs. Louise Custer, 3550 Texas avenue, recording secretary; Mrs. Lizzie Talbot, 3015 Ellendale avenue, financial secretary, and Clarence Talbot, of the same address, sergeant at arms.

REPAIR AND REMODEL WITH CANE FIBRE INSULATION

WISE home-owners, who want greater home comfort and fuel economy this winter, are planning now on insulating their roofs, on lining their basements, attics and garages with cane-fibre insulation.

This means they will do their repairing and remodeling with Celotex, because Celotex is the only cane-fibre insulation.

Nature seems to have intended cane-fibre for insulating purposes. The fibres are long, tough and durable—ideal for interlacing into big, strong boards that contain millions of tiny, sealed air cells—just what is required for efficient insulation.

Celotex builds as well as insulates. When used on the outside of houses, as sheathing, it adds structural strength . . . makes walls tight and permanent. Celotex Standard Building Board measures 4 feet wide, 7 to 12 feet long and 7/16 of an inch thick.

And on inside walls and ceilings, you can obtain finer, smoother, plastered surfaces with Celotex Lath. This better lath, 18 inches by 48 inches and 7/16 of an inch thick, is especially designed to reinforce against plaster cracks and eliminates lath marks.

Celotex is also handy for making comfortable extra rooms from waste spaces. It transforms unused areas into nurseries, play rooms, sewing and recreation rooms that are protected the year 'round from extreme weather.

As insulation, Celotex is not an expensive extra item, because it replaces other materials, and in later years saves you hundreds of dollars on fuel bills.

Before you build, buy or remodel, ask your architect, builder or dealer for further information on Celotex—and write us for our free booklet.

THIS stronger, thicker Celotex comes in boards 4 feet wide, and from 7 to 12 feet long, and measures 7/8 of an inch in thickness. Naturally it provides even more strength and insulating effectiveness.

Celotex Lath can also be ordered "double-thick" in units measuring 18 by 48 inches and 7/8 of an inch thick.

The word CELOTEX (Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.) is the trademark of and indicates manufacture by The Celotex Company Chicago, Ill.

HUMANE SOCIETY'S SHELTER DEDICATED

Dedicatory exercises for the $35,000 shelter of the Missouri Humane Society, 1210 Macklind avenue, erected by John J. Lichter as a memorial to his wife, were conducted yesterday afternoon.

The memorial tablet, located in the executive office, was unveiled by Mrs. George W. Pieksen, vice president of the society. Former Circuit Judge Ittner delivered the principal address, praising the generosity of the donor and urging a more general support for the activities of the society. He pointed ou that there is nothing incompatible in being kind to animals as well as children and that the organization stands ready to afford relief in every case of child neglect or abuse brought to its attention.

City Registrar Grosse represented Mayor Miller, extending felicitations to the society and expressing the hope that it will receive generous co-operation in carrying on its activities. Other speakers were Gerald O'Reilly, president of the society; George Brand, treasurer, and Robert F. Seilar, executive secretary. The Rev. Arthur Mather gave the invocation.

Boy Scouts from troops 198, 157 and 77 served as guides and gave a demonstration of the use of the horse ambulance. The animal cages were donated by members of the organization as memorials to favorite pets. The scouts gave the history of each animal as the crowd passed through the building after the exercises, which were held on the lawn.

COL. ROOSEVELT TALKS PANDA, NOT POLITICS

Back From Killing Indian Bear, Will Soon Take Post in Porto Rico.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Col. Theodore Roosevelt today preferred to talk panda instead of politics. Back from the jungles and deserts of little known interior China, he said that he was out of touch with affairs of state and coud not tell when he would assume his duties as Governor of Porto Rico. He spoke volubly, however, of the panda, prize catch of the Kelley-Roosevelt expedition of the field musuem to eastern Asia. The expedition was financed by Wiliam V. Kelley, of Chicago, and resulted in the addition of about 40 rare animals to the museum collection.

The panda is a black and white bear about the size of the American black bear. It was shot by Col. Roosevelt and his brother, Kermit, joint leader of the expedition, who with Suydam Cutting of New York, the expedition's official photographer, met the Colonel here. Kermit and Cutting both returned several weeks ago from Asia.

"From December until we left Burma in May," said the Colonel, "we traveled 1900 miles by foot and horseback. We went through towns of 15,000 population, 1500 years old, where they have no vehicular transport or even animal transport—only coolies. Our expedition traveled from the tropical jungle to snowswept and barren mountain tops. We were not attacked or harmed in any way by bandits but the members of our bodyguard were kidnaped, rifles, boats, natives and all and we never saw them again."

It took 600 miles of stalking to track the panda to its lair in a mountain jungle, so high it was snow-covered in April, the Colonel said, but the arduous labor was repaid by the knowledge attested by Roy Chapman Andrews, famous as an explorer in China, also, that the Roosevelts are the only white men who had ever shot a panda.

The Roosevelts will leave tomorrow for New York whence the Colonel will go on to Washington to discuss with President Hoover his Porto Rican duties.

TWO KILLED WHEN PLANE LANDS ON CONEY ISLAND BEACH

Seven Others Injured; Pilot Forced Down After Gasoline Is Exhausted.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Two persons were killed and seven injured late today when a seaplane landed on Coney Island beach among thousands of bathers seeking relief from the heat.

The dead are: Mildred Jakowisky, 8 years old, and Meyer Kessler, 16, both of Brooklyn.

The injured included the pilot of the plane, William Alexander, who suffered head lacerations. Others hurt were Charles Herman, a life guard; three women, a child and another man. Their injuries were not considered serious.

Alexander, who was piloting the ship for the Coastal Airways Corporation, said he had lost his way in a heavy fog and exhausted his gasoline.

Circling downward he saw the beach crowd and tried to select a place where the crowd was thinnest. The crowd scattered, but eight persons were struck down by the wings of the plane.

POLICE CATCH MAN IN CHASE HALF HOUR AFTER HOLDUP

Several Shots Fired Before John McBan Is Captured in Shed; Has Revolver.

A man identified as the robber who held up a grocery at 2065 East Prairie avenue yesterday afternoon was arrested a half hour later after a chase of about five blocks during which police fired several shots. Taken to the Angelica Street Police Station he was identified by Paul Rush, manager of the grocery, and admitted the robbery, police said. He said his name was John McBan, 40 years old, 1913A Bacon street.

Rush, his butcher and a clerk were held up in the store about 5 o'clock and $45 was taken from the cash register. Police saw McBan, whose description tallied with that of the robber, at Warne and West Florissant avenues. When they sought to question him he fled. They caught him in a shed in the rear of the 4300 block of Warne avenue, as he was attempting to hide a revolver and $18.

CONVICTED OF MANSLAUGHTER IN DEATH OF GIRL STUDENT

Dr. J. J. Huff of Carterville, Ill.; Sentenced From 1 to 14 Years for Illegal Operation.

MARION, Ill., Sept. 7.—Dr. John J. Huff of Carterville faces a penitentiary sentence of from one to 14 years, a jury in the Williamson County Court having found him guilty of manslaughter this afternoon.

Huff has been on trial all week for the death of Lorene Morris, Herrin high school girl, who died three years ago as the result of an illegal operation.

Daniel Larsen, Forrestville, Wis., school teacher, who formerly taught in the Herrin high school and who was charged with responsibility for the girl's condition, was convicted of manslaughter several weeks ago, but was granted a new trial when it was shown that Dallas Morris, father of the dead girl, had spoken to and shaken hands with a juror in the case.

DEMOCRATS CUT DEBT, STILL OWE $416,937

Republican National Treasurer Reports Unexpended Balance of $194,319.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The National Democratic Committee reported today to the clerk of the House that its unpaid obligations on Aug. 31 amounted to 416,937, as compared to $557,775 on May 31.

J. R. Nutt, treasurer of the Republican National Committee, also submitted a report showing his committee had an unexpended balance of $194,319 on Aug. 31, as compared with a balance of $285,637 on Dec. 31, 1928.

At the end of the 1928 campaign the Democratic committee had a deficit of $1,500,000. The present obligations listed are a loan from the Bankers Trust Co. of New York of $375,000, a loan from John J. Raskob, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, of $40,000, and interest due on bank loans, $1937.

The report showed the national committee to have a cash balance Aug. 31, of $41,535, and unpaid bills amounting to $13,321.

The largest contribution from May 31 to Aug. 31, was $50,000 from the estate of Thomas F. Ryan of New York City. Daniel J. Meenan, New York City, contributed $15,000 and John J. Curtin and Edward F. Barrett, both of New York, contributed $10,000 each. The Bronx County Democratic committee gave $820. The Al Smith Club of Greenville, S. C., $827, and Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, $105. The remainder of the contributions were small.

ENGLAND AND IRISH FREE STATE ASKED TO DISCUSS UNITY PLAN

Britain Definitely Accepts Invitation to Consider Briand's Federation Proposal.

By the Associated Press.

GENEVA, Sept. 7.—The French delegation announced tonight that both England and the Irish Free State had been invited to a meeting on Monday arranged by Premier Aristide Briand to discuss his project for a European economic confederation. Reports had been current earlier in the day that only Continental countries would be asked to attend.

The British delegation said that Britain would accept and would be represented, probably by President Graham of the Board of Trade. Participation by the Saorstat also was likely.

It was understood that Briand was to refrain in every way from seeming to impose any plan of unity upon Europe. His present idea is to ask for an exchange of views and perhaps for appointment of a committee to study the whole question. This committee would report to the assembly of the League of Nations.

POSTAL CLERKS SEEK MORE PAY

Demand $600 a Year Rise and Bonus for Night Work.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—A flat increase of $600 a year in the salaries of postoffice clerks is demanded in a resolution passed today at the biennial convention here of the National Federation of Postoffice Clerks. Delegates from the Chicago Local No. 1, in charge of Sol Cohen, president, introduced the resolution.

A resolution introduced by Thomas Flaherty, secretary-treasurer of the Federation, demanding a 20 per cent bonus for night work also was passed. Capt. Edward Quimby of Manchester, Vt., assumed the office of ninth vice president today, succeeding the late John D. Murphy of Boston.

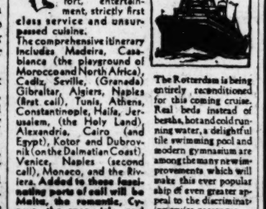
Moody Smith of 2753 Lafayette avenue suffered a skull injury last night when the automobile in which he was riding, driven by Lorenzo Pointer, 2836A Eads avenue, collided with a traffic signal at Union boulevard and Cates avenue.

He was taken to city hospital. Pointer was arrested.

TRAVEL AND RESORTS



Sail away on the famous cruising steamer ROTTERDAM From N. Y. FEB. 6th 1930 under Holland-America Line management.

The comprehensive itinerary includes Madeira, Casablanca (the playground of Morocco and North Africa), Cadiz, Seville, (Granada) Gibraltar, Algiers, Naples (first call), Tunis, Athens, Constantinople, Haifa, Jerusalem, (the Holy Land), Alexandria, Cairo (and Egypt), Kotor and Dubrovnik (on the Dalmatian Coast), Venice, Naples (second call), Monaco, and the Riviera. Added to these fascinating ports of call will be Malta, the romantic, Cyprus, the sunny isle, and Syracuse in Sicily.

The Rotterdam is being entirely reconditioned for this coming cruise. Real beds instead of berths, hot and cold running water, a delightful tile swimming pool and modern gymnasium are among the many new improvements which will make this ever popular ship of even greater appeal to the discriminating cruise passenger.

CITY POLICE CAN MAKE ARRESTS OUT IN STATE

St. Louis Force Can Act in Local Felonies Anywhere in Missouri, Shartel Rules.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Sept. 7.—St. Louis policemen are authorized by law to make arrests anywhere in the State of Missouri for felonies committed in the City of St. Louis but have no authority to make arrests outside of St. Louis for crimes committed outside the city, Attorney General Shartel ruled today in an opinion issued at the request of Chief of Police Gerk.

The opinion, written by Assistant Attorney General Cunningham, holds that a member of the police force of St. Louis as an officer of the State of Missouri, with a warrant for the arrest of a person charged with a crime in St. Louis, has the right to go into any county of the state and arrest the offender.

"If the officer arrests the fugitive," the opinion continued, "it then becomes his duty to take the prisoner before a Judge or Justice of the Peace in the county in which the arrest is made and submit the warrant for indorsement before taking the prisoner from the county.

"We also hold that St. Louis police have the same authority to make arrests without warrants as is conferred on Sheriffs and that they need no warrant to pursue and arrest an offender, beyond the city limits, where they have reasonable cause to suspect a felony has been committed by him."

Chief Gerk said the opinion was sought solely to clarify his department's authority under the law and would cause no change in policy. "We will continue to co-operate in all cases with the local authorities in the state as we have done in the past," he said.

St. Louis Housewife Praises Samoline

The World's Greatest Cleaner

Samoline does all it says. It is the most remarkable cleaner I have ever used. It cleans and polishes like magic. I recommend the use of Samoline for every purpose.

I used Samoline to clean and polish an old tarnished silver tea set that I have discarded for many years. Samoline and a little rubbing makes it appear like it was a replated tea set. Only users can be convinced of the marvelous cleaner.

2000 AT DEDICATION OF GERMAN HOUSE

City Officials Among the Speakers — Celebration to Continue Until Tuesday.

German House, erected at 2345 Lafayette avenue through the cooperation of 100 German organizations in St. Louis, was dedicated last night, the exercises marking the opening of a celebration which will continue until Tuesday night.

Speakers praised the spirit of the workers who made possible the house, which will serve as a community center for members of the German societies and their friends. A crowd of more than 2000 persons cheered, sang, and danced.

F. Ernest Cramer, president of German House, Inc., said it was dedicated to "culture, refinement, and everything that is high and noble in the way of civic and community effort."

Speakers included Julius T. Meunch, city counselor, representing Mayor Miller; Walter J. G. Neun, president of the Board of Alderman, who was referred to by Cramer as "the next Mayor of St. Louis;" Jack H. Grosse, City register; Walter B. Weisenburger president of the chamber of commerce; Hans Repmann, chancellor of the German consulate; Richard Einsiedel, editor of the Westliche Post, and G. A. Hoehn, editor of St. Louis Labor. Several visitors belonging to German societies in other cities extended informal greetings.

Gov. Caulfield had been expected to speak but was unable to be present.

Choral singing and orchestral numbers preceded the addresses which were interspersed with tableaux in costume depicting the German emigrants in Missouri, art, industry and science and Columbia and Germania.

NEW ALLOY, WHEN RED HOT, IS STRONGER THAN STEEL

Combination of Cobalt, Nickel and Ferrotitanium Made for Radio Industry.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Discovery of a metal which when red hot is stronger than steel was announced today by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Co.

The announcement says the new alloy can be used in the moving parts of internal combustion engines and in other extremely hot places. Its strength when red hot —that is, at a about 1100 degrees Fahrenheit—is 60,000 pounds a square inch for pressure.

Konel is the alloy's name, and it is made of cobalt, nickel and ferrotitanium. The name is a combination of cobalt and nickel.

Konel was made originally to fill the need of radio for a cheaper substitute for $180-an-ounce platinum for filaments. In that field, the announcement says, it has saved about $250,000 monthly in the manufacture of radio tubes. The great strength in the presence of heat that weakens most other metals was discovered when konel proved more diffficult to forge than high-speed steel.

The maker of the alloy is a minister's son, Dr. E. F. Lowry, formerly of Delaware, O. He is a graduate of both Ohio Wesleyan and Ohio State Universities.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE NAMES GROUP TO STUDY ROAD PLAN

George M. Berry Heads Committee to Confer with County Representatives.

Membership of a committee from the St. Louis Chamber of Commerce to confer with a similar committee from the St. Louis County Chamber on a co-ordinated city and county highway plan was announced yesterday by Walter B. Weisenburger, president of the city body, in a letter to James M. Rohan, president of the county organization.

George M. Berry of the chamber's Highway Committee, is chairman of the Conference Committee, which also includes Roy F. Britton, president of the Automobile Club of Missouri; W. W. Butts, former president of the Real Estate Exchange; E. R. Kinsey, president of the Board of Public Service; Bert Lang, vice president of First National Bank; E. J. Russell, chairman of the City Plan Commission, and Luther E. Smith of the Civic Development Committee of the St. Louis Chamber.

In the letter to Rohan, which is in reply to a letter of Aug. 26 from the county organization, Weisenburger suggests the appointment of a similar committee from the county body and proposes a sharing of expenses in a comprehensive engineering survey of county roads.

NEGRO BOY FATALLY HURT BY TRUCK; DRIVER HELD

James Pierson, 7, Dies Two Hours After He is Struck in Front of Home.

James Pierson, 7 years old, a Negro, 1205 South Cardinal avenue, died at City Hospital No. 2, last night of a fracture of the skull and internal injuries suffered two hours before when he was hit by an automobile truck in front of his home.

The driver, Robert Pool, 22, a Negro, 4238 Park avenue, was arrested.

CHARLESTON, W. Va., Sept. 7.—The State Banking Department announced today the closing of the Auburn Exchange Bank of Auburn because of depleted reserves. The Pullman State Bank of Pullman was closed Thursday because of depleted reserves and frozen assets.

THIRD INTERNATIONAL OUSTS U. S. MEMBER

John Pepper, Prominent in Workers' Party, Dismissed by Moscow.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Sept. 7.—John Pepper, prominent in the Workers' (Communist) Party of the United States, was dismissed yesterday from the third international to which he was elected in April, 1926. The action was taken by the International Control Commission of that body for his refusal to obey instructions of the third international and because he carried on factional activities in the Communist Party in America.

Among the Counts of the Control Commission against Pepper were that he refused a summons of the third international to come to Moscow to be at the disposal of the Executive Committee but remained in New York for the purpose of "provoking a faction of the majority of the Communist party of America against the Executive Committee of the third international."

Another was that he failed to fulfill instructions of the Executive Committee to proceed to Mexico. A third was that by carrying on factional work, not only within the Communist party of America but also within the third international, Pepper, together with Jay Lovestone of Cleveland, provoked the Congress of the Communist party of America against the basic policies of the Praesidium of the third international.

Still another charge was that he had falsely denied having led a faction of the majority of the American Communist party and a fifth was that he presented to the Executive Committee of the Communist International in 1928 a false financial account of his trip to Korea, which he actually never visited.

Jay Lovestone, sometimes known as "the American Stalin," was recently reported to have "escaped from Russia" after having been summoned there with several other American Communist leaders.

It was said at that time that the group planned to wrest control of the party from W. Z. Foster, and to separate the American party from the Communist International.

RITCHIE SAYS DEMOCRACY IS FIGHTING FOR ITS LIFE

NAZARETH, Pa., Sept. 7.—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland, speaking here today, presented his views on state rights and local self-government. The political situation bristles with issues for the Democratic party, he said, but the great issue is not so much whether the Democratic party shall prevail as it is whether democracy and Democratic government shall prevail.

"Rights and liberties that are guaranteed to us by charter and tradition are being lost and sacrificed in the flux of events, and democracy itself is being put to the test," he declared.

"The masses are becoming conscious of the appalling growth of the Federal Government and of its overriding centralization. They are beginning to see the danger to their individual liberty from the decay and apathy of the states and from the encroachments on the right of self-government."

BEER DEALER SLAIN IN AUTO

Shot Three Times When About to Call at Girl's Home.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—James "Bugs" Donovan, 37 years old, described by police as a wealthy beer dealer from Union City, N. J., was shot to death tonight by two men as he sat in his automobile in Twenty-first street. The assailants escaped.

Police said the slayers had been trailing Donovan in another auto from which they fired three bullets into his body. Miss Grace McDermott, outside whose home Donovan was sitting, said he had intended to call on her. She said she heard the shots and rushed into the street just as a policeman arrived. She and four other persons, two men and two women, were held for questioning.

POINCARE REPORTED BETTER

Physicians Report Lung Congestion Has Almost Disappeared.

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Sept. 7. — Anxiety over the condition of Raymond Poincare, former Premier, was set at rest tonight by a communique issued by his physicians.

This said: "The small part of lung congestion has almost completely disappeared. As far as one can judge at the present moment, the second operation will take place early in October." Poincare, although still confined to his bed, received several visitors this afternoon. His pulse and temperature were normal.

To College With Broken Neck.

URBANA, Ill., Sept. 7. — A broken neck has failed to alter an Urbana youth's intentions of entering the University of Illinois this fall. Although Vernon Goodart will have to wear a cast for five more weeks he is all set to register with the class of 1933 Sept. 13 and 14. Young Goodart suffered the broken neck this summer when he dived into shallow water at a bathing beach at Salina, O. He spent a long time in the hospital there before he was able to return home.

LONSDALE EXPLAINS 51-POINT STOCK RISE

Mercantile-Commerce President Says Bank Simply Is Coming Into Its Own.

A 51-point increase last week in the market value of stock in the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., added $5,100,000 to the present market value of the 100,000 shares outstanding. However only 211 shares were sold during the week.

John G. Lonsdale, president of the bank, having had many inquiries regarding the consistent rise of the stock, issued this statement:

"There is no mystery behind the rise of our bank stock. To state it simply, we are coming into our own and are grateful for this to our patrons numbering about 200,000. Our nation-wide business connections aid materially, naturally, and we are constantly developing these along with our other lines."

One of the current reports was that a deal was about to be concluded for the sale of the National Bank of Commerce buildings on Broadway, between Olive and Pine streets. Lonsdale said that negotiations had not yet reached a point where an announcement could be made.

Following the merger of the Mercantile Trust Co. and the National Bank of Commerce last May the stock opened on the market at 310 and later fell to 285. The closing quotation yesterday was 358.

There was a 14-point rise yesterday in the stock of the Mississippi Valley-Merchants-State Trust Co., closing at 325 with 55 shares sold. Rumors of a further bank consolidation, involving this bank and another large bank, were officially denied. There also had been reports of another consolidation involving the Mercantile-Commerce which have been denied.

BANKRUPT CHURCH PAYS $45,563 TO CREDITORS

Louisville Baptist Tabernacle Settlement Does Not Bar Prosecution of Its Treasurer.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Sept. 7.—The Baptist Tabernacle, which was thrown into insolvency by the manipulations of its blind treasurer, Albert Nisbet, wiped its financial slate clean today.

The Long Run Baptist Association, with which the church is connected, paid creditors $45,563.24, which included more than $41,000 Nisbet borrowed in the name of the church and never accounted for. Co-makers on notes and creditor banks contributed about $8000 of the total.

The Association's attorney, Thomas C. Fisher, explained that the payment was intended to have no effect on the prosecution of criminal charges against Nisbet.

ALLAN HOOVER TO HARVARD

Son of President Will Enroll for Business Course Sept. 19.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Allan Hoover, son of the President, will enter the Harvard School of Business Administration Sept. 19. The President's son completed his academic course at Stanford University early last summer and now desires to specialize in business by taking a post graduate course.

Young Hoover was taken ill with a stomach ailment soon after the close of the session at Stanford and after undergoing treatment on the Pacific Coast he came to Washington where a specialist attended him. Later he spent several weeks at the President's camp on the Rapidan River in the Virginia mountains and now is pronounced in excellent health.

WHEAT MARKET HERE HIGHER AT CLOSE

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Sept. 7.—Recovering from early setback wheat futures advanced for fractionally net gain. Corn also was up at finish. In the cash grain market Saturday, sort wheat prices averaged about steady. Outside demand was confined to orders for selected starchy wheat. Local purchasers, however, took fair to good No. 3s at $1.32 to $1.34 and light test tain wheat at $1.30. Off grades were in light supply. Offering cleared pretty closely. Hard wheat was steady. There was a fair demand, with average qualities No. 2 going at $1.29, basis 13c below the Chicago December figure. No. 2 yellow sold at $1.31. Oats to 12.37 to 12.02 per cent protein sold late at $1.28. There was a better demand from local mills. Corn was unchanged to ½c higher. Offerings were limited. There was a fair demand from local trade and shippers. Oats were ½c to 1c lower. Shipping demand was received by a more favorable basis to purchasers. Offerings cleared closely.

December wheat opened a full cent lower and ruled not lower early influenced by ¾d to 1d decline at Liverpool. The latter market was reported affected by larger Argentine offers. Rain rain has been reported in the south section of that country. Winnipeg was down more than cent early. Corn was fractionally lower early.

December wheat opened at $1.38¾. May wheat $1.48½. December corn $1.01½.

Local wheat receipts, which were 99,400 bushels, compared with 98,000 bushels a week ago and 214,200 a year ago, included 61 cars local and 10 through. Corn receipts, which were 36,400 bushels, compared with 56,800 a week ago and 96,000 a year ago, included 20 cars local and 6 through. Oats receipts, which were 61,600 bushels, compared with 26,400 a week ago and 28,000 a year ago, included 24 cars local and 4 through. Rye receipts were 10 cars local and 2 cars through.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange Saturday were as follows: Wheat—No. 2 red winter, $1.37; No. 3 red winter, $1.30; No. 5 red winter, $1.23; No. 2 red garlicky, $1.28; No. 3 red garlicky, $1.23; No. 2 hard, $1.29; No. 3 hard, $1.26; No. 3 yellow hard, $1.26; sample grade yellow hard wheat, $1.19; No. 3 mixed, $1.26. Corn—No. 1 yellow, $1.04; No. 2 yellow, $1.03¼; No. 4 yellow, $1.02; No. 5 white, $1.01½. Oats—No. 2 white, 48¼c; No 3 white, 45¾c; No. 4 white, 47c; No. 2 mixed, 40c.

COTTON CLOSES LOWER WITH THE TRADE QUIET

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The cotton market was comparatively quiet today and fluctuations were attributed chiefly to further evening-up of accounts in preparation for the Government crop report which is to be published Monday. Early advances on some trade buying and covering were followed by reactions under liquidation with December selling off from 13.35c to 19.25c and closed at that figure. The general market closed steady at net declines of 1 to 10 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 1 to 4 points on buying which may have been influenced by relatively steady cables from Liverpool and a disposition to cover recent sales for over the week-end or the approaching Government report. The technical position of the market had evidently improved on the recent decline, and this was reflected by comparatively small offerings as well as covering or rebuying.

October sold up to 19.03c and March to 19.57c, making net gains of about 7 to 10 points on the active positions but the demand then seemed to have been pretty well supplied and the advance were lost in the late trading. The selling was attributed chiefly to realizing or liquidation, but there may have been a little Southern selling on the decline which extended to 18.96c for October contracts and 19.45c for March, making net declines of about 3 to 6 points on the active positions.

The international figures on world consumption which were published in somewhat greater detail this morning came in for comment to the effect that they reflected some substitution of Indian cotton for American, but they were not considered a factor of importance in the immediate market. Discussion as to the probable showing of Monday's Government crop report, seemed to hold the attention of the trade, which evidently found nothing in the day's news to stimulate much activity in advance of its publication.

Liverpool cabled that hedging and local liquidation had been absorbed by trade calling and continental buying in the market there and that the demand for cotton cloth was broadening.

Cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the end of the week was estimated at 67,000 bales, against 47,000 last year.

CHICAGO WHEAT HIGHER IN THE CLOSING TRADES

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—A ninth-inning rally enlivened the wheat pit today, after a darb start. The tone for the most part had been heavy, but improved demand from Northwestern millers for December wheat at the easier levels inspired a late upturn, in which short covering played a part.

Pressure of cheaper Argentine wheat at Liverpool, with resultant sluggish prices, induced scattered commission house sales at Chicago, and values averaged lower, but a narrow range through much of the Board of Trade session. Corn was weak throughout, the overnight frost along the Canadian border having wrought no apparent damage to corn.

Wheat closed firm, at prices unchanged to ⅝c higher than Friday. Corn was easy, ¾c to 1¼c lower, and oats were firm throughout, finishing at net gains of ⅝c to 1c. Provisions were unchanged to 12c down.

The Buenos Aires market closed lower. The Australian dry spell also remained uninterrupted.

The Canadian crop has virtually ceased to be an active market factor, and small notice was given to the estimates issued by the Canadian wheat pool and the Manitoba Free Press. There was some demand for Manitobas, but exporting generally was slack. A moderate increase in the visible supply is anticipated Monday.

Iowa and Nebraska for the most part escaped last night's freeze, and the regions affected are unimportant corn growers. With trading quiet and rains in order, corn values were easier. Oats gained strength from bullish views of the feed situation and of the Canadian yield. Provisions declined a little on scattered liquidation.

Wheat prices eased down at the opening of the market here today as bigger offerings of Argentine wheat at Liverpool depressed values there.

The Southern hemisphere crop situation remained unchanged with no rain yet in the drouth afflicted regions. Winter wheat sold off ⅝c to 1¼c at the opening and corn was down ¼@½ to ¾c. Oats opened unchanged to ⅛c lower, while provisions were off 5c to 12c.

The latest cables from Argentina and Australia brought no news of rain. One private message, however, said that good general rains within a fortnight would change the situation quite favorably. The same source estimated the wheat area as 15 per cent more than a year ago.

With crop news generally unchanged, trade was extremely dull and softer values at Liverpool were the key to early weakness here. Liberal offerings from Argentina at lower levels caused the decline abroad, it was said.

Private Canadian estimates of the provincial wheat crop were in line with those made by observers from the States and attracted little attention. The Manitoba Free Press placed the crop at 266,000,000 bushels and the Canadian wheat pool figured it at 272,000,000 bushels.

Fair buying around $1.41 for December wheat checked the early slump.

Corn was weak as early reports failed to tell of any serious frost in the corn belt although there were freezing temperature along the Canadian border.

Considerable interest was manifest in the private Canadian estimates of the oats crop, the Manitoba Free Press predicting 141,000,000 bushels and the pool 136,000,000, the smallest in a number of years. The oats market was relatively firm.

Drygoods Market Review.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Cotton goods markets were rather quiet with only light trading on quick goods at firm prices pending publication of the Government crop estimate Monday. Some sales of cotton yarns were reported at concessions. Burlap cables advanced slightly and spots and afloats were firmer and more active on British August shipment figure for North America. Spot raw silks were stronger. Yokohama and Kobe advanced here. A fair week's business in silk cloths was reported in several quarters. Further openings occurred in spring woolens and worsteds.

Linseed Oil Meal.

Linseed oil meal 34 per cent, was quoted at $58 per ton.

Alfalfa Meal.

Alfalfa meal No. 2 was quoted at $24. No. 1 at $28, and choice at $30.

WEEK-END STOCK TRADE IS LARGEST SINCE LAST MARCH

Market Displays Firm Undertone — Net Gains More Than Offset Long List of Losses at Close.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The stock market ended the most turbulent week since early August today with speculative enthusiasm still of a high pitch. Weekend profit taking came into the market in fine volume before the close of the two-hour session, but the market displayed a firm undertone, and net gains more than offset a long list of net losses at the close.

Trading was at a rapid pace, the day's turnover falling just short of 2,650,000 shares, the largest Saturday's business since last March. The heavy accumulation of overnight buying orders set prices rapidly higher during the first half hour, when many blocks of 5000 to 25,000 shares changed hands, but selling then appeared in increasing volume.

Odd Lot Orders Light.

Yesterday's sharp drop in call money from 9 to 6 per cent—there is no call money market on Saturday—and the swift recovery from the levels reached in Thursday's break, appeared completely to have revived confidence in the market in many professional quarters. The public, however, was inclined to be wary, as was indicated by a light volume of odd lot orders, and several conservative commission houses regarded yesterday's upturn as unhealthily rapid and advised customers to keep accounts in an highly liquid condition. Renewed firmness of call money is expected later in the month.

The business news coming to hand was meagre, but was generally satisfactory. The weekend reviews stated that retail trade had fallen off to about last year's level, what with the hot weather and the Labor day holiday, but that little change appeared in the generally satisfactory fundamental conditions. More satisfactory reports of chain store sales for August appeared, and a comp

The business news coming to hand was meagre, but was generally satisfactory. The weekend reviews stated that retail trade had fallen off to about last year's level, what with the hot weather and the Labor day holiday, but that little change appeared in the generally satisfactory fundamental conditions. More satisfactory reports of chain store sales for August appeared, and a compilation of the total sales of 21 large chains showed an increase of more than 25 per cent above August, 1928.

Some of the utilities and specialties were bid up rapidly. Simmons was a high flyer, selling up 17 points to 175, a gain of 100 points over its low price of the year. Standard Gas and Electric, and American Water Works again led several points to new high ground. Philadelphia Co. jumped 8 points to a new top. American Power and Light and American Foreign Power did likewise, but acted before the close.

Case Threshing Up 32 Points.

Case Threshing soared 32 points to a new high at 392, and American Locomotive, Rolling Mill, Du Pont, Union Tank Car, Weston Electrical Instrument and Worthington Pump were among others to touch record levels with substantial gains. In the rails, Erie and Lackawanna were in strong demand, selling into new high territory. Food shares and coppers were firm, and National Cash Register was given a boost of about 10 points.

Radio, which lurched forward about 11 points in a huge turnover yesterday, fell back 3½ points in realizing. General Motors was again heavily traded, but failed to make headway. Loose Wiles Biscuit, which shot up 13 points yesterday, fell back 4. General Electric, Otis Elevator, U. S. Steel, St. Louis Southwestern, and Stone and Webster were among prominent issues to lose about 3 to 5 points.

Commodities moved in narrow ranges. Wheat was under pressure for a time, but firmed up at the close on covering. Corn sagged a little on slackening demand. On the cotton market, trading was largely an evening up of contracts in preparation for the Government crop report next week, closing quotations were off 5 to 50 cents a bale.

Foreign exchanges were fairly steady, but sterling cables were again under pressure, moving a shade lower at $4.85 23-32.

EARLY MONTH MONEY EASE A SURPRISE

Presumably Thursday's Sharp Drop in the Stock Market Reduced the Demand for Funds From Brokers.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Evening Post in copyrighted weekly financial review, says:

"A warning against speculation by Babson gave the stock market a chill for part of one trading session this week, but the market recovered its normal temperature with remarkable speed after a night's rest. The prediction of a crash in stocks similar to that in the Florida land boom worried some traders momentarily not so much perhaps for the confidence they felt in forecasts of this nature as for the time of its publication. It was spread on the ticker after a 19 day uninterrupted rise in prices, after a $407,000,000 jump in stock exchange loans and on the eve of a $137,000,000 expansion in brokers loans. Technically the market was ready for the moderate downward corrective adjustment that it got but apparently not ready for anything like a collapse. On sober second thought therefore the market actually turned strong enough on Friday virtually to wipe out the losses of the day before. Money's unexpected drop to 6 per cent after holding steadily for a week at nine cheered these who took a constructive view of the situation.

Low Rate Puzzles.

"An easing in money rates next week with the approach of mid-September would not have been surprising, but its appearance so early in the month puzzled the money authorities. Presumably Thursday's sharp drop in the market reduced the demand for funds from brokers and consequently the rush of money to New York to take advantage of a high rate over the week-end created an excess supply that would not have existed except for the break. What the trend in rates will be next week remains a question to which the answer rests partly with the stock market itself. Normally money should be easier at this time, although the margin between supply and demand is narrow enough now that a revival of heavy market requirements could affect rates adversely. After the fifteenth, of course, in connection with the tax settlements, and later in connection with the month-end demands somewhat firmer rates ordinarily make their appearance. Yet the shift of a few sizeable accounts nowadays is sufficient to alter normal expectations.

Change In Reserve.

"Actually the change in the reserve figures since the Reserve raised its rediscount rate exactly a month ago is not so unfavorable as the rise in loans might suggest. Member bank borrowings at the regional institution has shrunk instead of expanded. The volume of discount is $18,624,000 under the level of a month ago notwithstanding this week's increase. The reserve has continued to sell governments which stand in the portfolio at a sum somewhat under that of a month ago. Bills as might have been expected at this season have flowed in until the Reserve now holds $102,758,000 more than at the time the rate was lifted. It is customary for the regional banks to aid industry at this time through the purchase of bills, and to seek in this way to keep money rates to business stabilized. The expansion in the total volume of Federal Reserve credit thus is up only $82,584,000 from this date a month ago notwithstanding the apparent sweeping advance in stocks.

Lower Drift to Bonds.

"With the rise in stock prices to record heights bonds have continued to drift downward so that at 2.88 for stocks and 4.75 for bonds the disparity in the available yield on the two descriptions is wider than it has ever been before in history. Financial houses have continued to cut the cloth to fit the pattern most in vogue at the moment and the flow of new security offerings reflects almost entirely the emission of new investment trust stocks. Investors who hesitate to pay the prevailing high prices for the quality stocks seem to have no hesitancy in paying investment trusts that in turn stand ready in many instances to take in at current levels these very shares. Formation of investment trusts in great numbers and with substantial capital backing has in its turn, of course, given the market a support that it otherwise would not have enjoyed.

22 Steel Companies Earn More.

NEW YORK, Sept. 6.—Net profits of $241,900,000, or 5.7 per cent on invested capital of $4,246,500,000, were shown in 1928 by 22 leading steel corporations, as compared with $199,999,999, or 4.5 per cent on invested capital of $4,172,200,000 in 1927, a survey by the Standard Statistics Co. shows.

Cottonseed Oil Market.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The cottonseed oil market was higher today despite a decline in lard, on covering by commission houses for over Monday's bureau report, and this demand readily absorbed moderate selling by refiners.

The close was steady at 4 to 7 points net advance. Sales, 9200 barrels. Prime, 9.30; September closed 9.60; October, 9.39; December, closed 9.60; October, March, 9.78.

SHARES SOLD NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—Total sales for the week on the New York Stock Exchange amounted to 22,412,150 shares, compared with 20,325,430 last week. Total sales from Jan. 1 to date were 740,655,700 shares, compared with 539,436,006 last year and 398,322,400 two years ago.

BANK STOCK GAINS 51 POINTS IN WEEK ON LOCAL BOARD

Mercantile-Commerce Issue Sells at New High of 358 —Other Banking Shares Also Record Gains.

Mercantile-Commerce stock rose 41 points to new high price of 358 on the St. Louis Stock Exchange last week, closing at the top. Gains ranging from 5 to 20 points were recorded today. Following the merger last May the stock sold at 310. At one period in June it was quoted at 285. Sales were not large, aggregating only 288 shares for the week. The stock rose 11 points at closing session when top was made.

Mississippi Valley - Merchants State also reached new peak, on rise of 16 points, 14 of which were scored Saturday. The top was 325. First National Bank added 7 points to its price during the week, selling at 445 while St. Louis Union gained 5 points which put it at 530.

American Investment "B" closed unchanged for 2 point gain. Sales were 1125 shares. Brown Shoe went to new high for year, large part of week's sales being "crossed." Ely-Walker closed down 2 points and Wagner Electric a small fraction.

Local Business and Financial Items

Purchase of 10 service stations, two bulk plants and other incidentals of the Automobile Gasoline Co. of St. Louis by the Shell Petroleum Corp., was announced yesterday by T. F. Lydon, vice president of the Shell firm. Neither he nor Clemens Henry Laessig, president of the purchased firm, would disclose the consideration.

The purchase was in line with the expansion policy of the Shell Company, Lydon said. He stated that the entire personnel of the Automobile Co., is to be retained. Laessig, who began his career here 40 years ago as an office boy in an oil company headed by the late Henry C. Grenner, said he had no plans for the future. He and Grenner established the Automobile Gasoline Co., in 1904 and in 1907 opened the first drive-in filling station in the United States at Washington and Walton avenues, according to Warren G. Platt, editor of National Petroleum News.

Besides Laessig, officers of the Automobile concern are James E. Grover, vice president; H. A. Engle, secretary, and Alfred Grenier Laessig, treasurer. Grover is also vice president of the St. Louis Union Trust Co.

Directors of the Corno Mills Co., which has plants at East St. Louis and Cedar Rapids, Ia., will meet tomorrow to consider distribution of a $3 1-3 per cent stock dividend.

The company manufactures cereal products and poultry and livestock feed. Its stock is listed on the St. Louis Stock Exchange.

Joseph R. Matthews of Kirkwood is president. Incorporated under Illinois laws in 1904, the company had capital of $1,500,000, representing 15,000 shares at $100 par, until last July, when this was split into 75,000 shares, no par value.

L. W. Baldwin, president of the Missouri Pacific Railroad, returning from Europe yesterday, predicted his company would earn better than $9 a share on the common stock this year, according to New York dispatch. Traffic is running at a record, and reports from all sections of the road's territory indicate continued gain in traffic figures he stated, the dispatch said.

J. B. Holston has been appointed branch manager of the St. Louis sales office of the Wagner Electric Corporation. He is a graduate of the University of Illinois, was trained in the Wagner plant as a student engineer and worked as salesman in the Chicago territory, from which he was transferred to St. Louis Sept. 1.

POLICE WATER MEET OPENING SEEN BY 3000

Fun and Thrills Found in Coliseum Events—Finals Tonight.

Everybody in the Coliseum—that is, everybody who could enjoy sitting on the edge of a swimming pool without even getting his feet wet—had lots of fun yesterday at the opening of the Police Water Carnival.

That doesn't mean, of course, that the events were of interest only to hothouse plants of the genus homo. Quite the contrary. Those hothouse plants who just dote on blooming beside the pool need not attend the closing performances this afternoon and tonight on that account. Nobody's going to look at them anyway.

For there's lots to see in the pool. Lots of policemen and lots of policeman. One of the swimmers was so huge he could scarcely squeeze through an inner tube big enough for a 1909 automobile.

The interest is rather for aquatic plants. There is a lot of good swimming, many amusing stunts and some that have their thrills. About 2000 persons looked on at the first performance, which was in line with the announcement that about 25,000 tickets have been sold for the four performances, since the largest attendance was forecast for the evening shows, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

Events for All.

Races and competitive diving led off the events. Police, clerks, telephone operators and policemen's families took part. There were races for national guard members and several A. A. U. events. The athletics continues at each performance, with the finals tonight.

One thing stood out in the stunts and spectacles, which are repeated at each show. It occurred in an act that smacked of propaganda, but the memory lingered. It was a policeman's grin.

Life saving methods were demonstrated with reassuring efficiency. Two policemen boxed on a boom above deep water, swatted and promptly splashed while the spectators shouted "more." A grotesque pair flopped from a canoe. A diver did as pretty a one-and-a-half as anyone could ask, right into a circle of burning oil, but nothing could erase the memory of that grin.

Thor in a Retreat.

Neptune had just poked his trident at an enormously bearded Thor, and Thor had retreated while the rumbling of Rossini's "Storm" music was succeeded by the sweetness and light of Mendelssohn's "Spring Song." The watery battlefield of the gods, for the next act, became "The Old Swimming Hole."

Seventeen youngsters shouted and splashed like 700. A village constable tried to chase them and properly was shoved into the "crick." A "Modern City Policeman," huge and ruddy and benign, chased the half-frightened jeering children back into the pool. And his was the grin. It may have been propaganda, but it worked. Forty grins like that would make the whole force popular as Santa Claus.

Policemen Get the Pool.

After that, of course, everybody else was willing to stay on the side and let the policemen have the pool, no matter how hot it was under the skylights. A grin like that was worth it.

Funds raised by the carnival go to the Police Relief Association. The water show supplants the old police circus, discontinued in 1926. The present board gave permission, along with certain advice about methods of selling tickets, to resume the affair, and according to the program, this carnival is the "first annual."

'THE NUT' TAKES $31,000 'LAWRENCE' AT BELMONT

By George Daley
Of the New York World Sport Staff

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Nut, well and patiently handled by Mack Garner, won the Realization Stakes for Silas Mason and Arnold Hanger of the Warm Stable to the thunderous cheers of a big crowd at Belmont Park today. R. T. Wilson's African was second, a scant two lengths back. He closed strongly to beat H. P. Whitney's Beacon Hill, the pacemaker, by a head for the place.

Another exciting incident of an afternoon crowded full of keen sport was the first defeat of Boojum, winner of the rich Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga just a week ago. He ran third in the Champagne Stakes, although H. P. Whitney won the modest purse of $5850 with Whichone, the stable companion of the hitherto unbeaten 2-year-old son of John P. Grier. William Ziegler's Gone Away split the pair.

Another famous horse was beaten in the Brook Steeplechase, when Jolly Roger ran third to Ruler.

The Nut was the favorite at long to conclusive and commanding victory in the Lawrence Realization. He took up 119 pounds, and closing from well back of Beacon Hill, came away to win handily. He is a stayer. The son of Mad Hatter-After None ran the mile and five furlongs over a heavy, dead track in 2:45 3-5—a long way behind the track record, to be sure, but a fine performance under the conditions.

'Whichone' proved himself a better colt then Boodjum in the mud, even though the latter was roughed and pampered in the running of the historic Champgne Stakes by William Ziegler's Gone Away, an added starter, with 115 pounds up.

A declaration to win rarely is made when two horses of H. P. Whitney start in the same race but this time it was done in favor of Boojum. For that reason Pony McAtee was laying off the pace with 'Wichone' to the last furlong pole, where he saw suddenly that Boojum was in trouble and likely to be beaten. The boy then made a smart move and his quick thinking saved the day for those who wagered on the Whitney entry at the short price of one to five. McAtee was over near the inner rail with 'Whichone' and seeing that Gone Away was bearing over and causing a jam, he pulled his mount to the outside and sent him up free and clear of interference. The son of Chicle responded instantly to his call and racing over the fighting leaders, came away to win ridden out by two lengths.

"Whichone", with 127 pounds up, ran the Futurity course of six and three-quarter furlongs over a heavy track in 1:21, only two second behind the track record set up by High Strung in winning the Futurity of last year. It was a brilliant performance and makes him, to say nothing of Boojum, a standout for the Futurity of $130,000 next Saturday.

Boojum, under 120 pounds, plainly did not like the going. Still he would have been second except for being bothered by Gone Away, which, breaking from the outside post position, kept bearing over toward the inner rail all the way.

Phillies Beat Cards, 4-1; O'Doul Poles Home Run; Koupal Yields 8 Hits

By J. Roy Stockton

Those fence busting Phillies of Burt Shotton, who will be fighting for a place in the first division next year if they can land a pitcher or two, looked more like a pennant contender than the Cardinals did in the first game of the series at Sportsman's Park yesterday afternoon.

With Lou Koupal holding the Red Birds to eight hits and one tainted run, the chronic tail-enders of other years bunched their hits off Bill Sherdel and scored a painless 4 to 1 victory. It was a workmanlike job that the Phillies did, and there never was much doubt as to the outcome of the contest.

Cardinal Run Made on Error.

Koupal really deserved a shutout. Bill McKechnie's men didn't cross the plate until the ninth inning and then they would have been turned back if Fresco Thompson had handled a little grounder with his usual skill.

One was out in the ninth when Gelbert started the only productive St. Louis rally with a double against the right field screen. Earl Smith batted for Sherdel and dropped a single in left, Gelbert wisely stopping at third. Douthit then hit a polite grounder to Thompson, but the second baseman tried to throw it before he had it in hand and as a result the ball bounced past him and Gelbert scored and Frankhouse, running for Smith, reached third. Koupal was not bothered by this bad break, however. He got Orsatti on a foul to Whitney and Frankie Frisch ended the game with a grounder to Thompson.

How Phillies Scored.

Barney Friberg and Lefty O'Doul did most of the damage to the Cardinals. Barney scratched a single off Frisch's shins in the first inning and O'Doul sent him to second, whence he scored when Chuck Klein popped a double against the right field screen.

Then in the third frame Friberg and O'Doul again singled and after Klein and Whitney flied out Hurst and Thevenow singled, each blow driving a run over the plate.

O'Doul Hits Homer.

O'Doul produced the final Philadelphia run by bouncing a homer off the right field pavilion roof in the fifth inning.

Koupal was in trouble several times but he always had enough in reserve to stop the Red Birds. Douthit doubled and Orsatti walked in the third, but two were out and Frisch ended the frame with a fly to Friberg. Then in the fourth, again after two were out, High singled and Holm doubled only to

CARDINALS BUY SHORTSTOP HUNT FROM HOUSTON

Joel Hunt, short stop, has been purchased by the Cardinals from the Houston club of the Texas league it was announced last night. Hunt, who was a football star at Texas A. and M. and quarterback on the all-Southern team during his senior year at college, went to the Danville club's training camp in 1928 and was sent to Laurel. Again last spring he was sent to Houston where he became the regular shortstop.

Hunt played in 81 games and the latest averages of the Texas League show him with a batting average of .324. He was at bat 281 times, scored 46 runs, made 91 hits, for 134 total bases. His safeties include 16 doubles, six triples and five home runs. He laid down 10 sacrifices and stole 10 bases.

The youngster will report to the Cardinals this fall if the Houston club is out of the pennant race. Otherwise he will report at training camp in the spring.

Another Innovation

NIGHT football is not the only novelty the football world is to try out again this season Another is a system of signals by which officials on the gridiron can inform spectators the nature of a penalty inflicted or the result of a play which might be left in doubt without official announcement of the result.

Such a system was worked out by Elmer Layden of Duquesne University of Pittsburg. Layden, by the way, was one of the "Four Horsemen of Notre Dame," who galloped for so many touchdowns and victories a few years ago.

Following are the essentials of the "Penalty Code" as it is called, which will be used on many fields this year:

TOUCHDOWN OR GOAL — Both arms raised overhead, palms forward.

HOLDING—Both arms extended shoulder height, right

By Alan J. Gould,
Associated Press Sports Editor.

PEBBLE BEACH, Cal., Sept. 7.—The amateur golfing capital of the United States shifted today from Atlanta, Ga., to St. Paul, Minn., when Harrison R. (Jimmy) Johnston, fighting son of the great Mid-West, beat the battling dentist of the Pacific Northwest, Dr. Oscar F. Willing, four up and three to play, in the final match of the first tournament ever held this side of the Rockies.

Johnston, competing in the title round for the first time in his career, succeeded to the championship relinquished by Bobby Jones when the favorite golfing son of Dixie was unceremoniously eliminated in the first round by Johnny Goodman of Omaha.

The 33-year-old St. Paul investment broker, whose boyish manner seemed to catch the fancy of the crowd, rallied after a bad start to overhaul and beat the veteran Dr. Willing in a match that was marred by erratic play and by an attitude of distinct hostility toward the loser on the part of a good share of the gallery.

Gallery Strong for Johnston.

Except for the gallant fighting spirit manifested by both contestants right up to the finishing stroke of the thirty-third green, where Johnston got the half that clinched the issue, the brand of golf was not up to championship standard as it has come to be exemplified by ex-Emperor Jones; but the attitude of the gallery toward the robust Oregonian was as remarkable as anything ever witnessed in thirty-three years of competition for the amateur crown.

In spite of the fact that Dr. Willing carried the banner of the Pacific Coast in the final round for the first time and in the first tournament held in the far west, the gallery of perhaps 5000 spectators manifested strong support of Johnston throughout and gave him a tremendous ovation at the finish.

The contrast between the bare-headed Jimmy and the portly, somewhat sour looking dentist may have had some influence. Johnston, too, was the younger, for Willing is a campaigner of 39 and "Jimmy" was the underdog for the first half of the match. Furthermore, the doctor's known disinclination to concede short putts has found disfavor among the spectators, a number of times during the tournament and that too, appeared a factor in the unusual partisanship of the jostling jam.

Willing's Bad Luck Cheered.

Whatever it was, the match witnessed a startling outburst of cheers at the eighth hole, when Willing missed a shot in a trap and Johnston won his first hole after apparently having tossed it away by putting his second shot over the cliff of the oceanside. Again at the sixteenth hole, when St. Paul "Jimmy" really began his uphill fight to victory, scattering cheers echoed as Willing's second shot trickled over the edge of the green into a trap, from which it took the doctor two to get out.

Again at the eighteenth, the partisan spirits in the gallery groaned as Willing's approach shot, apparently headed for a trap, just cleared the hazard and made the green. It was on this hole that Johnston made the most magnificent recovery shot of the entire match. He had just cut Willing's lead from three to one hole by taking the sixteenth and seventeenth in succession but it looked dubious when "Jimmy" pulled his brassie over the bank and down to the edge of the ocean. The surf lapped around his ankles as he took his stance but he clouted the ball to within six yards of the green, just short of a trap from where he chipped dead to the pin for the par five that gave him a half.

Had Johnston been able to sink at least a half dozen short putts, ranging from four to eight feet, he would have won the match long before the thirty-third. "Jimmy" was nervous and wild at the start, finding traps, woods or rough on six of the first nine holes. He steadied down after that, got his irons and wood under control, but repeatedly lost chances to win by failing on putts that looked ridiculously easy. Fortunately for the

Tilden and Other Davis Cup Stars Sweep Through First Matches in U. S. Net Play

By the Associated Press

FOREST HILLS, N. Y., Sept. 7.—America's Davis Cup team en masse swept through the opening matches of the forty-eighth national singles tennis championship at the West Side Stadium this afternoon without the loss of one set.

Big Bill Tilden, starting after his seventh American crown, lost only three games in annihilating his youthful Philadelphia protege, Donald Strachan of Princeton, by scores of 6—2, 6—1, 6—0, while George Lott of Chicago, Tilden's principal rival, mowed down Elliott Binzen of New York, at 6—1, 6—0, 6—1.

Wilmer Allison, the Texan, crushed Emmett Pare of Chicago, national clay-court champion, at 6—4, 6—2, 6—4, and Johnny Van Ryn, his Davis Cup doubles partner against the French, brushed aside the lanky Springfield (Mass.) player, Edward McKnight, at 6—2, 6—2, 6—2. The veteran international campaigner, Frank Hunter, finalist last year, needed all his famous fighting spirit to subdue young Eddie Jacobs of Baltimore, 10—8, 7—5, 6—1.

Farquharson Defeated.

Many of the opening day's matches were one-sided, but the gallery of 2500 received a surprise or two near the end of the afternoon when Norman G. Farquharson of South Africa's Davis Cup team was blasted out of the tournament by a former Cornell player, Edgar F. Dawson of New York, 8—10, 6—1, 6—2, 6—4, and Gregory Mangin, pride of Newark, N. J., met summary elimination at the hands of Arnold Jones of Providence, R. I., 8—6, 6—3, 6—0.

Farquharson was seeded second only to Bunny Austin of England on the list of foreign stars, while Mangin was placed eighth among the leading American contenders. The only other break in the seeded ranks came when German Upmann of Cuba's Davis Cup team was spilled by Jack Mooney, Atlanta, Ga., 6—4, 8—6, 6—3.

Doeg Has a Battle.

Among the day's other surprises was the uphill struggle Johnny Doeg, the giant Californian southpaw, was forced to wage to defeat Jerry Lang, one-time Columbia ace, at 5—7, 4—6, 6—1, 6—4, 6—1.

As Kenneth Appel of South Orange, N. J., felt ill, his match with Frank Shields, New York, was postponed until tomorrow morning. This will be the only match played until Monday, when the tournament proper will be resumed.

Meeting Tuesday in Chicago to Plan the World Series

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.

THE impressarios of the 1929 world's series have been called to Chicago for a meeting next Tuesday to work out their plans and schedule for the October classic, which will determine the world's baseball champions.

Kenesaw M. Landis, Commissioner of Baseball, issued the call today, inviting representatives of the seven clubs in the two major leagues which still have at least a mathematical chance of winning the pennants. These clubs are Chicago, Pittsburg and New York of the National League and Philadelphia, New York, Cleveland and St. Louis in the American League.

Such details as the prices for tickets, the starting times for the games, the dates and similar important matters will be worked out at the meeting. It is said that the series will open at the home park of the National League pennant winner on Oct. 8, which apparently means that the opening game of the 1929 series will be played on Wrigley Field at Chicago, home of the Cubs.

SANDS POINT FOUR IN POLO TITLE FINAL

By the Associated Press.

WESTBURY, N. Y., Sept. 7. — Tommy Hitchcock rode wild today as Sands Point swept into the final round of the national open polo championship on the crest of a 14-10 triumph over Winston Guest's crack Greentree quartet in the second semifinal.

Sands Point now will clash with Stephen Sanford's Anglo-American hurricanes in the final round on Wednesday. The Hurricanes, drawing a first round bye, eliminated Roslyn in a thrilling 12-chukker match in the first semi-final last Wednesday.

"CHANGE IN FUMBLE RULE WILL AID FOOTBALL OFFICIALS"--ROCKNE

BREAKS DUE TO SKILL REWARDED, THOSE DUE TO CHANCE ABATED

By Knute Rockne,
Member All America Football Board

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Sept. 7.—Last spring when the Football Rules Committee announced the few changes that they made in the code, there was a hue and cry from some of the column writers that the big thrill of football had been eliminated. No longer could the Sam Whites or Oosterbaans, defensive linemen, scoop up a fumble and run the length of the field for a touchdown, thus inscribing their name indelibly on the all-time honor roll. A few of the coaches, who have been rather lucky in picking up fumbles in the past, added their voices to the cry. But what are the facts?

In the last couple of years football officiating had become a very complex job owing to some apparent ambiguities in the rules and numerous details which were not always quite clear to the players or officials. This new fumble rule makes officiating very simple and will not take anything away from the real game.

It merely states that when the team in possession of the ball fumbles and the ball strikes the ground a player on the team in possession of the ball may still pick it up and run with it, but a player on the defensive side can only fall on it. The players on the defensive side may NOT pick it up and run with it. Critics say that this has taken the thrill out of football. Nothing of the kind!

Breaks Based on Skill.

The defensive players may still tackle the ball and take it away from the ball carriers. They can still pick a fumbled ball out of the air before it strikes the ground. They may still intercept a lateral or forward pass. They may still block a punt. On any of these breaks, which are based on SKILL on the part of the defensive players they may run for a touchdown.

Recovering a football by a defensive players requires skill. Any run which ensued after a defensive player recovered a fumbled ball was entirely a matter of luck, not skill. It depended entirely on whether there was an opponent close by. A fumble recovered by the defensive side, is still a decided break in their favor. It is equivalent to at least 10 yards. In the opinion of the Rules Committee this is sufficient penalty for a mechanical error. We still penalize holding 15 yards, which is a very mild penalty considering the damage which can be done by such unfair tactics. Most important of all, officiating this year will be made much more simple, this fumble rule having clarified a very complex situation so that no longer will the knickerbockered custodians of the game be doubting Thomases.

Other Minor Changes.

The other changes in the rules are of a minor nature. The rule against the screen pass has been made a little more drastic. The same is true of the rule regarding unnecessary roughness by defensive linemen.

The protection accorded in the past to the forward passers has been taken away.

The try for extra point will this year take place on the TWO-yard line, instead of the three-yard line. The intention of the Rules Committee here was that the teams trying for the extra point after touchdown might be attempted to hit the line just as often as they would place-kick or forward pass. However, this is doubtful. I believe most teams will continue to try to add the extra point by means of the fairly sure place kick.

This winter the recodified rules as prepared by Mr. Langford, Mr. Hall and others will be ready. There can be no question but what the recodified rules will be of immense value to players, coaches and officials in every way. The game of football has finally crystallized into something definite and the changes in the future will be few and far between.

Practically the only popular dispute with anything new in the code has to do with the try for extra point after touchdown. There are many who wish to eliminate this feature of the game and possibly about as many if not more who wish to retain it. This point may probably be the cause of much discussion this next winter. Men who have studied the game, particularly the football officials and coaches, believe that the game of football, as it will be played this fall, is just about as perfect as human agencies can make it. There is no other game anywhere in the world like it.

Sarah Palfrey Winner Over Miss Marlowe in Two Sets In U. S. Girls' Net Final

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—Showing the same consistent tennis that she displayed throughout the week's tournament, Miss Sarah Palfrey of Boston today retained the girls' national singles lawn tennis championship by defeating Miss Helen Marlowe of Hollywood, Cal., in two sets. The scores were 6—2, 6—1.

With her sister, Mianne, the singles champion yesterday won the girls' national double title for the third time. The sisters also hold the national indoor doubles championship for girls.

Miss Marlowe, Pacific Coast and California State junior champion, served first but lost the game at love. She then retaliated to take the second game on Miss Palfrey's service.

The champion took the next three games principally on a number of placements. In the fifth game, Miss Marlowe gained a love point on a kill at the net, but that was about the only time the Boston girl allowed the Hollywood player to get to midcourt. Miss Marlowe is particularly effective at the net.

The sixth game on Miss Palfrey's service was won by Miss Marlowe after it had gone to deuce. The seventh game was won by the champion after it had been deuced and a pair of placements and two nets on the part of the Californian gave the champion the first set.

Miss Marlowe did not play the second set with the same confidence as the first and got only one game, the second, on Miss Palfrey's delivery.

The girls displayed excellent baseline driving throughout the match. Miss Palfrey had some difficulty with her service. The first always failed to go in and she served several double faults.

The Boston champion earned the applause of the gallery which crowded the Philadelphia Cricket Clubhouse porch and stands by the beautiful placements she sent down the side lines when she needed a point. Miss Marlowe could not get near them as a rule.

Johnston Wins Amateur Title, Defeating Willing

St. Paul star, his opponent was having similar trouble. Otherwise they might have battled to dark.

On both the fourteenth and fifteenth holes in the morning, after beautiful pitch shots, Johnston missed short putts by inches, for wins. Both finished the first round in even 80, eight over par, to show the extent of their poor scoring, but Johnston redeemed an erratic outward 42 by coming back in 37, only one over par. In fact, "Jimmy" played the last eight holes of the first round in even par. Willing was out in 41, back in 39.

They started shakily again in the afternoon, both taking two shots out of traps on the nineteenth to reach the green, but Johnston got down in five to win the hole and square the match. Thus encouraged, Johnston took command of the situation for the first time. He began to hit his shots with more confidence, boldness and accuracy. He missed a five-foot putt for a win on the twenty-first, but took the lead on the twenty-second for the first time when Willing threeputted. "Jimmy" planked his tee shot to the 140-yard twenty-third hole, 10 feet from the cup, and won the hole with a three after Willing was trapped and exploded to the opposite side of the green.

Aided by a "break" Johnston won his third straight hole and virtually settled the match on the long 505-yard twenty-fourth, which bends around the cliff at the ocean's edge and finishes uphill.

Going for the green with his second shot, using a spoon, Johnston half topped the ball and it barely carried over the cove that cuts part way into the elbowed fairway. He was still 60 yards short of the green, but laid a chip shot dead eight feet from the cup. Willing chipped short, missed his putt, and Johnston holed for a birdie, the first and only one of the entire contest.

Willing was game right down to the finish, but he was a beaten man from then on. Johnston, on most of the holes, was putting for the win while "Doc" was struggling for the half.

On the 110-yard twenty-fifth, Johnston missed a six-foot putt for a birdie two, which would have made him four up. Willing had to get down in one putt on the twenty-sixth to get a half. He won back a hole at the twenty-seventh, when Johnston was trapped, but the end was in sight.

Johnston won the twenty-eighth to become three up again, when Willing's second shot sliced over the ocean bank.

The doctor made a remarkable recovery with his niblick reaching the green, but he could not sink a 20-footer. Both were in trouble on the short thirtieth, but Johnston finally took it with a four to Willing's five. This hole marked the fourth time in the match that Willing took two shots to get out of a bunker. It seemed that what hopes he had were buried in the sand to-night, for on each of these occasions he lost the hole.

Last Three Holes Halved.

All Jonston needed to protect his margin of four up, was to halve the next three holes and he did it, helped on the thirty-first as well as the long thirty-second by brilliant chip shots that enabled him to offset mistakes and get down each time in one putt.

Johnston thus marched to his first national championship at the age of 23 in a tournament that knocked the dope all over Pebble Beach and the surrounding California countryside. So lightly were "Jimmy's" chances regarded that he was only number six in the ranking list used for "seeding" purposes.

Dr. Willing was number seven. But all those higher in the rating fell by the wayside. Champion Jones went out in the first round along with George Von Elm, while Jess Sweetser, George Voigt and Cyril Tolley passed out in the third round. Yesterday Johnston disposed of Francis Ouimet while Willing conquered H. Chandler Egan in the semifinals.

Long one of the most popular amateur figures in the game, Johnston has been a formidable contender for national as well as sectional honors frequently but he never got beyond the third round of this tournament before or won any title of greater importance than the Western amateur. Usually a good medal player, Johnston's supporters were astounded when he went out in 43 this morning, but he redeemed himself by doing the same nine in 37 this afternoon. He played the last 24 holes in only three over par, while Dr. Willing was 10 over perfect figures for the same stretch.

O'DOUL'S THREE HITS GIVE HIM NATIONAL LEAGUE LEADERSHIP

By the Associated Press.

By crashing out three hits in five attempts as the Phils defeated the Cardinals yesterday, Frank O'Doul lifted his average 2 points to .395 and gained the batting leadership of the Big Six and the National league. Babe Herman of Brooklyn got two out of five at Pittsburg, but remained stationary at .385. Rogers Hornsby, put on a stampede or four out of six in two games against Boston, gaining 4 points to .378 and ousting Jimmy Foxx from third place. Babe Ruth gained 6 points with five out of eight in two games, including his forty-first home run.

Shutouts Scarce.

Twenty years ago the big leagues averaged 150 shutouts each, but this year the American probably won't have 50.

27 PLAYERS IN FIRST WORKOUT OF BILLIKENS' FOOTBALL SQUAD

Twenty-seven members of the St. Louis University football squad held their first workout of the season, yesterday morning, at the Billikens' new training grounds, Forest Park boulevard west of Spring avenue. The two-hour drill was held under the direction of Capt. Joe Lintzenich, backfield star, and Titus Cornell and Gene Schwartz, veteran linesmen.

Head Coach Heartley (Hunk) Anderson will not direct the training activities until Monday, Sept. 16, when the squad will hold a light scrimmage. Anderson is abiding by the Western conference rules which do not permit grid mentors to coach the players until mid-September. Assisting Anderson this fall will be Charles (Chile) Walsh and Christie Flannagan, who also are products of Notre Dame, Jules (Peaches) Browning, a member of last year's Blue and White eleven, will boss the freshmen. All the coaches are already on hand.

Two Workouts Daily Planned.

Starting tomorrow, the Billikens will engage in two workouts daily at the fenced-in grounds on Forest Park boulevard.

Yesterday's workout saw the Bills clad in full uniforms. Their workout started out with Capt. Joe Lintzenich sending his mates through limbering up exercises. Their next bit of work was marked by the huskies falling on the ball and practicing throwing forward passes. During the last half hour the backfield men took turns in running with the ball while the linesmen, though not actually tackling, furnished the opposition.

The out-of-town players are reporting daily and by the end of the week Coach Anderson expects to have 40 varsity gridders on hand.

The Billikens' first game of the season with Davis-Elkins, one of the East's leading teams, is just one month away. Davis-Elkins was rated as one of the best teams in the East, last season, when it defeated Navy and West Virginia on successive Saturdays and won most of their other battles by overwhelming margins.

Hard Schedule for St. Louis U.

The other contests on the St. Louis U. schedule calls for meetings with Georgetown at Washington, D. C.; Loyola at Chicago; Oklahoma Aggies at Stillwater, Ok., and Oglethorpe, South Dakota and Washington U. on local fields.

Although 18 lettermen are members of this season's Varsity squad, it is likely that several of the regular berths on the Billiken squad will be won by Sophomores who stood out during the 1928 Freshman campaign.

The returning lettermen are: Saul Naidorff and "Snakes" Gazelle, quarterbacks; Jack Joyce, Tony Kimmell and Charles Eaton, halfbacks; Capt. Joe Lintzenich and Jim Stringfellow, fullbacks; Lyle Drury, "Ford" Brown and Vic Dunbner, ends; Titus Cornell, Fred Joseph and Rufus Schultz, tackles; Gene Schwartz, Ed Brown and Jack Curtin, guards; Ed Davidson and Jack Corcoran, centers.

Among the outstanding new comers on the squad are Charley McKinney, who played regularly in the backfield for Knute Rockne at Notre Dame two years ago; Bill Salinsky of Youngstown, O., who is regarded as a fine halfback by Coach Anderson; Syl Ellis, a clever end. Ellis is a brother of "Speed" Ellis, Detroit U's All-American player. Frank Kennedy, Rob Evenatten and Bob McCoolen, former local high school stars, also are looked upon as promising material.

Decatur Sells Outfielder.

By the Associated Press.

DECATUR, Ill., Sept. 7.—Floyd Patterson, Decatur outfielder, who stands second in the Three-Eye League list of swatsmiths, today was sold to the Toledo team of the American Association. He will report Monday. Decatur officials did not announce the price. Patterson hit at a .349 clip this year.

TORONTO READY TO OFFER HOWLEY A JOB AS MANAGER

BOSTON, Sept. 7.

IF DAN HOWLEY, after this season is over is looking for a job—and you are at liberty to guess whether Dan will be at liberty or not—he won't have to go very far from Toronto to land one. Officials of that club, while not wishing to be individually quoted, have told the Post-Dispatch that much.

"What would be the reaction of the Toronto club if Howley were a free agent at the end of this season?" an officer of the club was asked. "Would you be interested?"

"Interested?" he exclaimed. "You can just bet we would be. But there hardly seems a chance of that."

MISS BAILEY TAKES LOVE SET, THEN IS BEATEN

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 7.—Miss Ruth Bailey of St. Louis, playing for the United States, lost a hard three-set match here this afternoon at the Rockhill Tennis club to Mrs. Dorothy Shepherd-Barron, of the British Wightman Cup team, 6—0, 6—4, 6—3.

The match was the first to be played on the final day of the international series. It gave the British women their fourth victory in as many matches.

Miss Bailey covered court in faultless fashion in the first set and forced her opponent into errors. The second set found Mrs. Shepherd-Barron regaining her form and she swept into a lead, was caught by Miss Bailey, again gained a lead and again was caught. With the count at four-four, Mrs. Shepherd-Barron rallied to take the set. She gained the third in somewhat easier fashion.

Miss Bailey's fine showing was somewhat of a surprise. She took seven consecutive games before her British opponent won the second game of the second set.

Miss Betty Nuthall and Mrs. Phoebe Watson of England gained the second British triumph of the day by defeating Miss Mary Greer of Kansas City and Miss Marjorie Gladman of California, 6—2, 6—2.

Mrs. Shepherd Barron and Mrs. P. H. Covell of England defeated Miss Edith Cross and Miss Gladman, 3—6, 6—4, 6—2, in the sixth and final match of the series, and the British women swept the 60-match series 6 to 0.

ST. LOUIS POLICE WIN REVOLVER TEAM TROPHY

By the Associated Press.

CAMP PERRY, O., Sept. 7.—The St. Louis, Mo., police pistol team won the revolver team trophy in the National Rifle Association pistol team matches today. The five members had an aggregate score of 1334 out of a possible 1500.

The Detroit, Mich., team was second with 1294 and the United States Infantry team third with 1291.

The United States Railwaymen's team of 20 riflemen became a favorite to win the International Railwaymen's small bore match by shooting an aggregate of 1800 out of a possible 2000. Last year Great Britain was first with 7,28. The match is open to teams of employees of railroads and is contested in the United States, Canada and Great Britain with each team firing over its home course and cabling its score. The British teams will shoot Sept. 15.

E. J. Paffe, St. Augustine, Fla., team captain, was high man in the railwaymen's shoot, having 393 points out of a possible 400.

Against 1007 competitors in the Crowell match, Corporal Searchell Sicks Company F, Twenty-ninth United States Infantry, Ft. Benning, Ga., won with a possible score of 75. Chief Gunners Mate Walter Morrison, United States Coast Guard Boston, was second with 74 and Lieut. Albert L. Lane, Engineers, Ft. Hancock, N. J., had the same score but was placed third because he did not have as many center shots in the bull's eye.

The Herrick trophy, presented by the late Ambassador Myron T. Herrick, won by the United States Marine Corps team with an aggregate score of 1787 out of a possible 1800. The infantry was second with 1777 and the California National Guard third with 1776. The Ohio National Guard team was in seventh place with 1712.

The deciding battle between the Massachusetts civilian and the Iowa National Guard teams was held this afternoon with the decision going to the former.

The East piled up a score of 2284 in the East and West small bore match. The West trailed by 20 points. The match, which was won by the West in 1927 and 1928, is fired over the 50 and 100 yard small bore ranges with 20 shots allotted to each man.

RUTH HITS NO. 41 AS YANKEES AND DETROIT SPLIT DOUBLE BILL

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The Yankees suffered their fourth straight defeat when they dropped the first game of a double-header to the Detroit Tigers here today by a score of 5 to 4, but the fading world champions batted out victory in the second game, 11 to 7.

Dale Alexander, Detroit's slugging first baseman, hit his twenty-first home run in the first game and his twenty-second in the second. He also hit two triples, a double and a sacrifice fly. Babe Ruth added to his major league home run lead by knocking his forty-first with two on base in the fifth inning of the second game.

The veteran George Uhle yielded four hits in the first inning of the first game and then settled down nicely, yielding only three more hits, Wells, New York's left-hander, was knocked out in the fifth.

My Word!

"$100,000 Earned by Coolidge Writing."

WHEN silent Cal bursts into print,
Employes of the U. S. mint
Start working night and day;
For Calvin is no longer mum,
And for his words, a princely sum,
The editors now pay.

He gets so much per article,
He doesn't care a particle
About the price of hay.
Though Calvin's voice is seldom heard,
The pen is mightier than the word
As one might aptly say.

When Calvin didn't choose to run,
Deciding public life to shun,
His Uncle stopped his pay,
And so he takes his pen in hand
Whene'er he needs a hundred grand
To keep the wolf away.

'Tis True, 'Tis Pity.

Cal Coolidge and Al Smith earn more with their pen in six months than Shakspeare made in a lifetime.

Of course Shakspeare was handicapped by his handwriting and didn't have a typewriter.

At that if he were carrying on today we doubt that he would get as much as a dollar a word for his output.

But when it comes to quantity production the one who turns out more stuff than E. Phillips Oppenheim will probably win the title.

BOSTON, Sept. 7.—The Boston Red Sox, tail enders though they are, have been mighty troublesome for the Browns all year. That they haven't lost any of their capacity for making trouble was shown here today in the first of the series, when, after being held scoreless for eight innings, they opened four in the ninth to win, 4—3. Al Crowder was the upset pitcher. He had scattered five hits over eight innings and with a three-run lead looked like a certain winner, when the ninth came around. Nothing being certain in baseball, here's what happened:

Todt was first up and he rolled out to Melillo. Heving then singled to left, but Rhyne flied out to McGowan. Ruffing, a good hitter, doubled to deep center and Heving scored. Crowder lost his control and walked Reeves, after which Scarritt beat out a hit to deep short to fill the bases. Rothrock sent a low line drive to right, which took a bad hop past McGowan and Ruffing, Reeves and Scarritt scored.

By virtue of the victory, the Red Sox are even with the Browns for the season, each club having won one of the 18 games played.

Ruffing's Second Victory.

It was the second successive victory for Ruffing over the Browns and the fourth for the Red Sox in the last five games with the Mahogurians.

Both Crowder and Ruffing started in great form. An error by Rhyne made things a bit tough for Ruffing in the first but the Browns failed to score for lack of a hit. In the second after Kress and O'Rourke were out, Melillo doubled to left, but Manion struck out and Crowder was a very low throw of Manion's grounder and O'Rourke tallied.

While all this was going on, the Red Sox were being completely baffled by Crowder's pitching. He retired the side in order in the first three innings and got the first two in the fourth, but Kress fumbled Rothrock's grounder and Bigelow walked—the first two Bostonians to see first. Gerber ended the inning with a fly to McGowan. In the fifth, the Browns accomplished nothing but the Red Sox managed in their half, to register two hits. With two down, Rhyne and Ruffing singled but were left when Reeves popped out. Down in order went the Browns in the sixth. For Boston Scarritt opened with a hit but was forced by Rothrock after which Bigelow sped to Manush and Gerber walked. Todt's best, however, was a pop to O'Rourke.

Crowder Steps on the Sox.

Only Crowder's single interrupted the peacefulness of the Browns' seventh. Beginning the second section, Heving singled past third and took that base on a one baser to center by Rhyne. Crowder then did some fine pitching. He fanned Ruffing, forced Reeves to pop to Melillo and made Scarritt force Rhyne at second.

A third run for the Browns in the eighth. Manush led off with a double to right, moved up on Schulte's bunt and scored after Rothrock had caught Kress' long drive to center. Two flies to Manush and foul to Manion accounted for the Sox in their portion.

Manion singled with Melillo gone in the ninth and after Crowder had moved to Scarritt, took third on Todt's two-bagger to right. Both runs left there by McGowan. A single by Heving and Ruffing's long double gave the Sox one in the ninth and Rothrock's triple the other three needed to win.

Brownie Notes.

Pitchers for tomorrow's double-deader were announced as follows: For the Browns, Gray and Blaeholder; for the Red Sox, Morris and Gaston. Because of a local law which prohibits Sunday sport until after 2 p. m. the first game will start at 12:05 St. Louis time.

Wallie Schang is carrying excess baggage in the shape of a boil which will prevent his engaging in active play for a few days.

Umpire Ormsby, who umpired the American Legion Junior World series at Louisville, will join Guthrie and Hildebrand here today. Ormsby, a Legion member, made a splendid record with the Marines during the great war.

Buck Freeman on Hand.

Buck Freeman, famous veteran outfielder, now a Brownie scout, saw today's game. If he brought any ivory with him from the hinterlands, he had it carefully concealed.

McGowan's steal with one down in the first put the Browns in position to score, but Ruffing proceeded to strike out both Manush and Schulte.

The first hit of the game was a real one—a double by Melillo in the second which rattled the figures on the scoreboard in left. As two were out and Manion followed with an easy roller to Gerber, the hit was wasted.

McGowan is a consistent hitter. His first two times up, he found a man on first. He forced both by the same route, Gerber to Rhyne.

Scarritt Makes Fine Catch.

Scarritt saved Ruffing some trouble in the third with a long running catch of Manush's short fly. He made the capture with one hand.

Two solid hits were bunched with a two-base throw by Reeves and a two-base wild pitch by Ruffing to get the Browns away to a lead in the fourth.

Rhyne, rated the weakest as Boston hitter was the one to spoil Crowder's hitless streak. With two out in the fifth, he skipped a grounder which Kress could not get to. The second hit followed immediately, Ruffing getting it to right. But Reeves popped out.

This ought to be a big help to those who will go into executive session and commit the details to memory.

* * *

THIS sporting life will never be dull and drab as long as we have boxing commissions. We are indebted to the Michigan State commission for the following little cachination:

When Jackie Fields won the welter title from Joe Dundee on a foul, the commission fined the winner $1,000 for not wearing the right kind of protection device. That was a bit humorous itself.

Thursday the commission pulled another one by declaring that Promotor Fitzsimmons would have to pay Fields' fine, because Fields' himself had failed to settle!

A similar situation would result say if Commissioner Landis fined Babe Ruth, and then forced Jake Ruppert to pay the fine, if Babe refused.

* * *

The real fine in Fields' case ought to have been assessed by the commission against itself for failure to properly inspect Fields before the bout, thus making sure that he was equipped.

Not a "Fast One"

"JUST another fast one" was the comment of critical fans when the report spread locally that our Mr. Dave Knost had not won from Jack Kane on a foul, at Greenwood City, Miss., last week, but had been counted out by the referee.

"Knost's manager just beat the other fellow to the telegraph station," was the accepted version. The reason for the cynicism was a newspaper report from the South stating that Referee Billy Haack had counted Knost out.

"Referee Billy Haack, referee of the Knost-Kane fight Aug. 29, says he counted out Knost in the fifth round. They use three judges in Mississippi. Knost claimed he was fouled. After the fight an examination was made by a physician. The judges met next morning and reversed Haack's decision and gave Knost the victory on a foul. Haack, however, claims Knost was not fouled but was knocked out by a punch to the stomach."

Which clears Knost and his manager, but leaves the situation somewhat muggy as to the actual merits of the men.

Why Bring That Up?

WITH Sonnenberg defending his title here and there against his fireside companions, Dick Schikat claiming the world's championship of New York and Pennsylvania, and Lewis and Stecher reviving their merry-go-round while preparing for a "title comback," one wonders what has become of John Pesek, of whom it has been said by many and admitted by most wrestlers that he was best in the world at catch-as-catch-can style.

They talk of title mat eliminations; but of those held all omitted John Pesek.

One wonders why?

* * *

Australia, Here We Come?

AS to John himself? When other wrestlers read about him they'll begin chanting: "Australia, here we come!"

That's because John went to Australia under a $50,000 guarantee plus a percentage, for his season over there.

The writer has some tear sheets of newspapers sent by Pesek from Sydney, Australia, with entire page stories about Pesek and his wonderful showing in that country. They recite how John has won 61 contests since the first of the year, most of them abroad. According to Pesek's interviewers he ought to be rich from the proceeds of his trip there.

An item in "The Referee" stated that, after his season in Australia is over, Pesek will go to India, where the attraction is the great Gama, undefeated in 15 years. Gama is the wrestler who threw Old Man Zbyszko in less than one minute, Hindu style.

There is a reason for meeting the formidable Hindu, who is a recognized champion. If Pesek should defeat Gama he could claim the world championship.

* * *

Stymied!

THAT'S one way out of the stymie into which Pesek fell when he quit being friendly with the rest of the boys.

Some months ago, John decided that he would cease playing "fall guy" and claim the championship. He placed himself under the management of Al Haft of Columbus and he began with the usual forfeit posting and challenging. He asked the circus champions of two groups to meet him in championship combat. All he got was the horse laugh. Nary a match.

So he quit, disgusted, and beat it for Australia, where apparently he is making money. He has a chance to sneak up on a title claim, via India.

One would like to see a real wrestler get the title. Perhaps it would pave the way for a little more real wrestling.

RELATIVES HEAR PESEK IS ILL IN AUSTRALIA

By the Associated Press.

RAVENNA, Neb., Sept. 7. — RELATIVES of John Pesek, American heavyweight wrestler, have received word by cable from Australia that he collapsed there from a heart attack. He had been conducting a wrestling cam, ign in Melbourne and Sidney, Australia for the past three months.

No details are given in the message.

BROOKLYN ERRORS HELP PIRATES WIN

WRAY BROWN AND SIDNEY SMITH TO PLAY FOR TITLE

By Davison Obear

Wray D. Brown will oppose Sidney Smith in the final round of the men's singles event in the St. Louis district championship on the Triple A courts this afternoon. The match will start at 2 o'clock and will be the best three out of five sets. Brown is the present titleholder.

The final round of the men's doubles will bring the team of Brown and Teddy Eggmann against the new combination of Dr. Arthur W. Hamm and Karl Hodge. This match will be played shortly after the completion of the singles final and will be the best three out of five sets.

Brown reached the singles final through a straight set victory over Hodge in one of the semi-final matches yesterday. Although the score was 6—2, 6—1, 6—0 Hodge put up a good fight, particularly in the second set, when he forced Brown to play three deuce games.

Smith Defeats Stuckman.

In the other singles semi-final, Smith defeated Forrest Stuckman. This match was a close battle all the way. Smith won in four sets, 5—7, 6—2 6—4, 7—5. Only 15 points separated the players in the match, Smith winning 149 and Stuckman, 134. Smith owes his victory to steadier playing.

Hamm-Hodge Beat Kammann-Barnes.

Dr. Hamm, Canadian player, and Hodge reached the final round of the men's doubles play by defeating Charles Barnes second ranking local team in one of the semi-finals yesterday. The score was 6—4, 6—0, 8—6. The new combination looked very good especially in the second set. Play in the third set was close throughout, Kammann and Barnes putting up a great battle before losing it.

Brown and Eggmann, defending champions, defeated Richard Rosebrough and Proctor Wright, St. Louis County titleholders in the other semi-final of the doubles. This match was decided in straight sets, 6—2, 6—1, 6—2.

Brown-Hodge:

have Gelbert hit straight to Koupal.

Wilson and Roettger singled with one out in the sixth, but High and Holm could not help them.

The Red Birds were weakened by the absence of Jim Bottomley, who reported ill. Jim was suffering from a severe cold and was ordered to go home and stay in bed.

Jimmy Wilson batted in Bottomley's fourth position.

Thanks to the Pittsburg Pirates, who trimmed the Robins, the Cardinals held their three-game margin over the challenging Brooklyn team, but meantime the Phil's were reducing the gap that separates them from a first division berth.

Red Bird Notes.

Clarence Mitchell and Harold Haid are likely to be the starting pitchers in the double-header with the Phillies this afternoon. Sweetland, Collins and Benge are ready to toil for Burt Shotten's team. The first game will start at 10:30 o'clock.

With the teams doubling up today, the athletes will have a holiday Tuesday.

About 3000 persons attended the series opener.

Tommy Thevenow, a popular hero here in 1926, was applauded when he went to the plate in the first inning.

Most of the 4500 fans who paid to get into the park Friday only to have the double-header with the Cubs washed out, stormed the box office for a cash refund. They wanted to see the Cubs.

Rhodes Is Having Bad Year.

Gordon Rhodes, high priced pitching rookie from the Coast, was sent to the Jersey City club by the Yankees and has had a hard season with one of the poorest tailend clubs the International league ever had.

HOMER BARRAGE GIVES INDIANS EVEN BREAK WITH MACKS

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—The Athletics were held to an even break by the Indians in a double-header here this afternoon. The prospective champions of the American League took the first game, 5 to 1. Willis Hudlin won by 4 to 0 in the second.

Bob Grove shut out the Indians after the first inning of the opener and benefiting by Al Simmons' slugging, gained his 20th victory of the year against four defeats. Simmons led the Mack attack against Walter Miller with two doubles and his 29th home run of the season.

The second game was a hurling duel between Hudlin and Rube Walberg. Morgan and Hodapp flogged Walberg for home runs in the ninth.

The Athletics now need but nine victories to clinch the title.

SEMIFINAL GAMES IN EAST ST. LOUIS MUNY RACE SCHEDULED TODAY

Bob Berger's Slack Furniture and Joe Przada's Polish National Alliance clash on Field No. 5 at Jones Park in the crucial game of the East St. Louis Municipal League's second half plit season program today.

These are the semi-final of the season and will be the last, as those of next Sunday are to be called off if the Slacks win and thus clinch the title. Sh. 'd the P. N. A. triumph it will be the teams for the second half honors, the winner of which plays the Circle Packers, victors in the first half, in a three-game series for the 1929 title.

The Hindenbergers meet the Pennsylvania on Field No. 1, the Circles oppose the Zerwecks on Field No. 2 and the Stenzels pair with the Westcott Valves on Field No. 3 for the other League games this afternoon.

CUBS WIN TWO GAMES AND NEED ONLY NINE MORE TO CLINCH FLAG

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Chicago took both ends of a double-header from Boston here today and increased its pennant lead over Pittsburg to 13 games. Sheriff Blake had some lusty clouting behind him in the opener, which the Cubs won by 13 to 6, and Pat Malone hurled great ball as Chicago won the second by 9 to 2. Malone allowed only four hits and fanned 11 batters.

Chicago tied the National League record in the fourth inning of the first game, when 10 Cubs in succession got safe hits. They were made off Seibold and Perry, and netted the league leaders seven runs.

Hornsby, McMillan and Tolson led the Chicago attack in the opener. Each got three hits, one of Hornsby's being his thirty-fourth home run of the year.

After a bad first inning, in which he walked three batters to force two runs over the plate, Malone settled down and blanked the Braves the rest of the way. He allowed only four hits. It was his twentieth victory, giving him the honor of being the first National League pitcher to achieve that mark.

More than 32,000 fans saw the game. The Cubs now need nine victories to clinch the pennant.

Blackwood, well ridden and having speed from the start, raced into a clear lead after a half mile, saved much ground on stretch turn and continuing resolutely, outstayed Martinique. Latter lost much ground on the first turn, and moving into second place after a half mile, went gamely under a strong ride, but could not get to the winner. Royal Julian saved much ground while moving up after reaching back stretch, and after being forced back by Martinique, closed resolutely. Montanaro began tiring after three-quarters. Lady Broadcast was outrun. Karl Ettel showed a pronounced dislike for the going and dropped out of contention after a half mile and was eased when beaten. Windy City was practically left.

$2 mutuels paid: Blackwood, win $40.56, place $13.66, show $7.40; Martinique, place $12.84, show $6.76; Royal Julian, show $4.56.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—A big upset came in the running of the Lincoln Handicap, the feature attraction at Lincoln Fields here this afternoon, when Mrs. E. Denmark's 4-year-old Blackwood, paying the handsome price of $40.56 for $2, flashed under the wire a winner by a length.

Martinique, from D. E. Stewart's stable, was second and Royal Julian from W. H. Whitehouse's stable, was third. The remainder of the field were widely separated.

The feature event had a net value of $21,000 to the winner, $4000 to second, $2000 to the third and $1000 to the fourth stables.

Blackwood, away well and racing in his best form, went into the lead in the back stretch and improving his position thereafter, was under the wire a winner by a length. Martinique, rated along under light restraint to the stretch, challenged the leader resolutely but was unable to get up and finished second by a length and a half. Royal Julian, away well, improved his position and finished well to take the third money by 10 lengths from Montanaro. The latter tired badly after showing early speed.

Karl Eitel raced forwardly the first three furlongs, then dropped far back, finishing in sixth position.

Misstep, the advance favorite, was scratched.

Form players got away to a bad start when the Audley Farm's Blue Ash, paying $2512 to $2, led home a field of 12 starters in the initial offering.

Again in the second number Gold Mint flashed under the wire an easy winner to pay $10.56 for $2.

The real hard jolt, however, came in the feature event, when Blackwood won to pay $40.56 for $2.

He Turned the Tables on the Great Boojum

"WHICHONE."

Winner of the Champagne stakes at Belmont Park. Beaten by a head in the Hopeful stakes, at Saratoga, by his stablemate, Boojum, Whitney's "second string" for the Futurity showed that he is as good or a better horse than his companion, which ran third yesterday.

By Melvin D. Fulcher

The Nut added his name to the long list of great horses which have captured the Lawrence Realization which was first won by Salvator in 1889, a steady going sort of three-year-old by Mad Hatter-Afternoon. The race was sold by the Whitney stable, by whom he was bred, to the Warm stable last spring and ran in the colors of the latter establishment when he triumphed in the big classic yesterday. The victory gladdened the heart of the "talent" at Belmont, for he was the public choice and eastern racegoers accord favorites much greater support than they do in the West.

As to whether The Nut can be termed the champion three-year-old of 1929 is another question and will doubtless furnish room for considerable argument among turf followers. It appears now, however, that The Nut is about the best of the three-year-old material that is left in the ranks following the mishaps that put Blue Larkspur and Jack High out of further contention. Many will argue that there are a number of three-year-olds in the West that could give The Nut a real race up to a mile and a quarter and will cite Clyde Van Dusen and Rose of Sharon. The Nut will likely be sent after the rich Latonia championship in the fall and he may meet both of the above-mentioned western three-year-olds than.

It was Mad Hatter, the sire of The Nut, that won the first running of the Latonia championship stakes in 1929. San Hildreth won an overnight event late in September with the son of Fair Play and his manner of winning convinced everyone that he would be a dangerous horse in the long distance Latonia stake.

Jockey Pool Set Down.

The race won by J. A. Weil at Dade Park a few days ago must looked peculiar to the stewards when Polvo, which had won his two previous outs on the same course, was a bad last and Endor, another contender was also nowhere at the finish. W. Pool, rider of Endor, has been suspended for the remainder of the meeting, and the stewards have refused further entries of the racer Polvo. There was considerable money reported as showing up in St. Louis for J. A. Weil in this race.

Whichone's triumph in the Champagne stakes yesterday at Belmont over his stablemate Boojum, which was headed for second when Goneaway, an added starter, beat him as well, will increase the argument over which of the star two-year-olds is the better. However, the race yesterday was over a muddy track, which causes many races to be decided differently than had the course been fast.

Horseman a Polo Player.

The polo games at Meadowbrook, Long Island, drew a upmber of racing people from Belmont Park for an afternoon when Laddie Sanford, whose Sergeant Murphy was winner of the Liverpool Grand National in 1923, played on the winning polo team. John Hay Whitney, Albert Bostwick, Jimmy Cooley, John Sanford and Thomas Hitchcock, senior and junior, were spectators.

FAIRMOUNT HEAD NAMES OFFICIALS FOR FALL RACES

Robert S. Eddy, general manager of the Fairmount race track, is in St. Louis and will remain on the scene until after the last race is run in October. Eddy is busy supervising the finishing up of improvements that he and his associates decided on after purchasing the racing plant several months ago.

The full list of racing officials as announced by Eddy is as follows: Stewards, John T. Ireland and A. T. Spivey; placing judges, Julius Reeder, R. A. Leigh and Charles Campeau; racing secretary, Reeder; starter, G. R. Wingfield.

Reeder is the best known here of the officials. He served in the same capacity at previous meetings at Fairmount several years ago. Wingfield started at various Ohio meetings and served in this particular line during the recent Bainbridge meeting.

John T. Ireland is one of the old school of horsemen, being both a breeder and trainer. In recent years he has served as a racing steward and has given satisfaction at the different tracks, including the Fair Grounds at New Orleans, during the last few winters.

Eddy stated that the book of conditions for the races at the coming Fairmount meeting would be ready soon for distribution among horsemen. A class of horses fully up to the equal if not superior to those that have raced here in fall meetings in the past is expected, he said.

CLARENCE ROSS WINS THREE - MILE SWIM

TORONTO, Sept. 7.—Clarence Ross of Brooklyn, N. Y., made a sensational finish to win the three-mile invitation swim of the Canadian National Exhibition today. He nosed out Frank Pritchard of Buffalo, N. Y., in the last half mile. Marvin Nelson of Fort Dodge, Ia., who won yesterday's event, was third today.

May Shorten Schedule.

The International League probably will shorten its schedule to 154 games in 1930, and do away with the seven-inning doubleheader.

To Play in Yanks' Stadium.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—For the fifth successive year the Army and Notre Dame will play their annual football game at the Yankee Stadium. The date, Nov. 30, and place, New York, has been agreed upon, but not until today was the announcement made that the contest would be played at the home of the Yankees.

NINE VETERANS WILL STRIVE FOR REGULAR BERTHS ON BEARS' TEAM

By Henry L. Freund.

With only nine lettermen returning this fall, Coach Al Sharpe of Washington U. will be faced with the difficult task of building a winning eleven out of the small group of veterans. A number of last season's reserves, as well as a large number of promising members of the 1928 Freshmen team will add strength to the varsity outfit.

The entire first string backfield of last year will be missing this fall as Johnny Duncan who has filled the quarterback berth for the past two years, Carl Bickel and Thels Lohrding, halfbacks, and Ted Whittier, fullback, have all completed their football days. Bickel's loss will be especially felt, as he was a brilliant passer.

The line will be minus a number of veterans. Ex-captain Lee Scheib and his under-study, Rus Doerner, both have graduated. Scheib was one of the greatest centers Washington has had in recent years and his loss will leave a big gap. Hoffman, guard; Drake, tackle; and Kurz, end, are other departing lettermen. Berlinger and Bollinger, reserve ends, complete the list of veterans who have graduated or will be ineligible for varsity competition.

Butz to Shift to Center.

Outside of center, there will be a number of lettermen available for all the line positions. Gus Butz, who won his letter as tackle last year, will probably be shifted to center as he has had experience at the pivot post. Butz in his high school days at Soldan won the center position on the All-Star City High School team several times. Captain Harvey Jablonsky and Rolla Stocke are expected to fill the guard posts. Paul Paris and Charles Glazer are a pair of husky and fast tackles. Both men weigh close to the 200-pound mark.

George Coover is the only experienced wing man returning but Coach Sharpe may shift Glazer to end as he originally played that position or he may send Scott Hornsby or Clarence Ax, two of the three returning backfield veterans, to an end post. Dick Rawdon is the third backfield man returning. He is expected to become a star this season.

A large group of last year's reserves will be eligible for competition and should prove of real value. Outstanding in the list are Torres, Meir, Watson and Senn in the line and Loomis, Cantwell and Ray Duncan, ends. All of this group saw service last year, but did not play in sufficient games to be awarded varsity letters.

Frosh Backs Were Stars.

The Freshmen team of 1928 had a backfield which may become the regular varsity quartet, providing all the men return to school and are eligible. Several of the frosh team of last fall must take examinations for the removal of conditions when school re-opens, this month and it will not be known until then as to their eligibility. However, it is not unlikely that the varsity backfield will be composed of a quartet of sophomores including Ted Sauselle, Roosevelt High All-City star in 1927; Burt Springer of Detroit and former All-State Michigan high school halfback; Rufus Putney of St. Louis, a former member of the Yale freshmen eleven and Leslie Wald of Muskogee, Ok., a former star at the Oklahoma Military Academy.

The linemen of the Freshmen team will have a far more difficult task in breaking into the varsity as the line will have experienced men available for every position. The outstanding frosh linemen conceded a chance to win berths include Al Lane, Kenneth Kuhlman, John Lichtenfield and Clifford Wheeler.

BABE RUTH NAMES SIX NATIONAL LEAGUERS ON ALL-AMERICA TEAM

SIMMONS AND COCHRANE ONLY CONSENSUS SELECTIONS; GROVE AND BUSH ARE THE PITCHERS

Babe Ruth's All-America Team

FOLLOWING is Babe Ruth's All-America team for 1929, with the correct batting order:

Player, Club—	Position.	B. A.	F. P.
Simmons, Philadelphia A. L.	Left Field	.366	.991
Herman, Brooklyn N. L.	Right Field	.393	.953
Hornsby, Chicago N. L.	Second Base	.370	.970
Wilson, Chicago N. L.	Center Field	.337	.979
Cochrane, Philadelphia A. L.	Catch	.332	.983
Jackson, New York, N. L.	Shortstop	.288	.965
Grove, Philadelphia A. L.	Pitch	.328	....
Bush, Chicago N. L.	Pitch	.171	....

Grove has won 19 games and lost 4, while Bush's record is 18 victories against 4 defeats.

By Babe Ruth

(Copyright, 1929.)

For the eighth consecutive time, I find myself naming the annual All-America team. What started as the result of a clubhouse discussion in 1921, has come to be an annual task in which I find increasing interest each year. The job isn't an easy one. There are so many good men for every position; so many men who are almost on a par, that the final selection is always difficult. To select a team that will please everyone is, of course, impossible. Not this year, or any year, are there ten players who stand out so prominently that they can be picked without argument.

BABE RUTH.

No doubt there will be differences of opinion this year as there have been in the past. In answer to those who disagree with my selections, I can only say that I have made my selections without bias and according to my best judgment and the judgment of the sports writers who served on the committee with me. That there has been no prejudice is best shown, I think, by the fact that I have named six men from the National League and only four from my own league, the American. That there has been no personal feeling can best be shown by the fact that I haven't named a single man from my own club, the New York Yankees, the men who play alongside me each day throughout the season.

Agrees With the Experts

This year, as in other years, I have had the benefit of the opinions of a committee of baseball writers representing each city in the two major leagues. These men have done a tough job mighty well. Through their eyes I have been able to see more closely certain National League stars.

For the first time in the eight years that I have made the All-America selection, my own team corresponds in every particular with the team named by the consensus of the writers. In every other year, I have disagreed with the writers in from one to four positions. This year we have been in accord. Which perhaps proves that the team for 1929 comes near being an ideal one.

The committee of writers who assisted in the selection of the team is as follows: Bert Walker, Detroit Times; Stuart Bell, Cleveland Press; Kirk Miller, Washington Times; Ralph Davis, Pittsburg Press; Warren Brown, Chicago Herald Examiner; Tom Swope, Cincinnati Post; James Robbins, New York World; John E. Wray, St. Louis Post-Dispatch; Jack Maloney, Boston Post; Gordon Mackay, Philadelphia Record.

Each writer made his own selections and stated his reasons. Not all agreed on the same men in their selection, which is natural enough. Some of the selections and reasons given by the writers were particularly interesting.

Tom Swope of Cincinnati, for instance, named Lucas as one of his pitchers, pointing out that he has been more effective for a losing club than some of the other leaders have been for a winning club. And certainly there is plenty of ground for his argument. I considered it long and seriously before finally I decided on Bush along with the balance of the writers.

Three Men Named Terry

James Robbins of the New York World, along with Kirk Miller and Tom Swope, named Terry of the Giants for first base. And their reasons were logical, too, for they pointed out Terry's hitting power along with his fielding as strong factors in keeping the Giants in the race.

In sending in his personal selections J. E. Wray of St. Louis commented that the feature of his lineup "seems to be the great names that have been left off" and in naming Taylor Douthit for center field he called attention to a thing that most men overlook, and that is the number of putouts an outfielder makes. He points out that Douthit has made 31 more putouts this season than any other outfielder in the business.

Gordon Mackay of Philadelphia in his selections, calls attention to another factor. And that is that the players who appear most in the headlines are not, in reality, as great as some of those who are less talked about. He uses Rube Walberg and Wes Ferrell of the Cleveland Indians as illustrations—picking these two as the pitchers for his All-America Team.

It is interesting to note, too, that both Mackay of Philadelphia and Jack Malaney of Boston pick Rabbit Maranville for shortstop—a compliment to the little veteran that is very richly deserved. However, as I remarked before, when it comes to a consensus, the writers' team and my own coincide to a man.

In making that consensus there were two men who had a 100 per cent vote from the writers. These two were Al Simmons for left field and Mickey Cochrane as catcher—both of them unanimous choices. The closest vote came at first base, in right and center field and for one of the pitchers.

Ruth Gives His Reasons for Naming Players on His 1929 All-Star Team

FIRST BASE

With Lou Gehrig and Jim Bottomley both having indifferent years, the first base selection was between Bill Terry and Jimmy Foxx. I favored Foxx because of his superior hitting, plus the fact that he has been the most important cog in the Philadelphia infield all season. Foxx is a natural ballplayer who can do everything and do it well. He can throw, he can run, he can field, he can hit. He is a leader at driving in runs and an inspiration to his fellow players. Despite Terry's greatness (and Bill is a real ballplayer) I believe Foxx is entitled to the edge on this season's play.

SECOND BASE

Away to a bad start, Hornsby has been coming strong toward the end of the season and stands out now, as in other years, as the greatest of them all at his position. Whatever fielding weakness Rog may have (and it is slight enough) is more than made up for by his fighting spirit and his hitting ability. The test of Hornsby's greatness is the fact that he has been selected on seven of the eight All-America teams I have named. Lazzeri and Gehringer have given him a good battle. They're both great ballplayers. But I believe that on all-around ability, plus value to his club in a pinch, Hornsby still heads the second base list.

SHORTSTOP

This has not been a year for great shortstops. There have been a few outstanding players at this position. Jackson, however, despite a rather bad year, has continued to hold his place at the top of the list. His hitting, bad at the start, has improved steadily—and his fielding during the late part of the season has been sparkling. Rabbit Maranville, who also draws attention has been a wonder—but the Rabbit, despite his greatness, must bow to youth. Jackson tops the list at a position where, this year at least, outstanding players are exceedingly scarce.

THIRD BASE

Pie Traynor, out last year in favor of Lindstrom, is back again in the honor role. And with good reasons. Injured at times and unable to play, he has battled against tremendous odds and still manages to hold up. Great as Lindstrom is, Freddy has been handicapped all year by injuries and illness and has not been able to make the showing that Traynor has made. There are few great third basemen in the game today and Traynor, Kamm and Lindstrom top the list with Traynor, for this year, having the edge over his two rivals.

CATCHER

In this department, Mickey Cochrane stands alone—the unanimous choice of the writers, the outstanding catcher of the year and one of the best receivers of all time. Another year may find Mickey getting competition from some of the youngsters. But this year he has everything his own way. He's the king of the receivers.

LEFT FIELD

The same thing goes for Al Simmons in left field. A great player always. Al has improved at least 10 per cent this year and takes rank as one of the greatest outfielders of all time. He comes near being the perfect outfielder. To name anyone else for left field would be a joke.

CENTER FIELD

Hack Wilson gets the call and not so much on account of his home run driving as on his ability to go far and drag down fly balls. Hack can hit sure enough, but he can field too—and that's something the average man is apt to overlook. He's fast, a fighter, and a great ball player. Combs, Douthit, Haas, of the Athletics—all of them are stars. But on this year's performance I think Wilson is entitled to the post.

RIGHT FIELD

Here was one of the toughest selections of the lot to make. Herman, O'Doul, and Melvin Ott, the youngest Giant phenom, are almost neck and neck in the chase for the honor, with Kiki Cuyler worthy of consideration too. Herman is the leading hitter in his league, but those who have watched him say that his fielding is inferior to that of either Ott or O'Doul. However, after a lot of consideration we decided on Herman, and I think it's a pretty wise selection after all. The Brooklyn youngster certainly is a standout as a batter—and hitting is a most important factor in outfield greatness.

PITCHERS

Whenever anyone starts to name star pitchers there's always an argument.

Pitching is such a big part of baseball that it always is the center of all discussion. In naming Grove and Bush I know I am laying myself open to argument, but the fact remains that these two are largely responsible for pitching their individual clubs into pennants. And that, after all, is the real test of baseball greatness.

Some fans go so far as to argue that these two should be thrown out because they made their records while pitching for winning ball clubs. Which is true. But you must consider the fact that it was their pitching which had a lot to do with making them winning ball clubs.

There are other great pitchers. Burleigh Grimes of the Pirates, Red Lucas of the Reds, Eddie Morris of the Red Sox, Al Thomas of the White Sox, Sam Gray of the Browns—all of them have their claims to consideration. And for those who differ with me on the selection I have made I can only say that I have picked the two whom I personally thought were most entitled to the job.

That completes the team. Of those named Herman, Wilson, Foxx, Grove and Bush have never been named before. Hornsby, Simmons and Cochrane all were members of last year's team.

I do not name this team as the most perfect. Probably our readers could give me an argument on each position and with good reason. But I do believe this team, as it stands, represents a mighty high plane in baseball—and in my own personal judgment—it's the best team that could be named from the big leagues on the basis of 1929 performance.

Here Are Babe Ruth's All-America Team Selections for 1929

Eight Regulars on Ruth's Club Have Swat Mark of .354

A CLUB with a real punch. That applies to the 1929 Babe Ruth All-America announced today. Averages for the season, including games played last Thursday, show that the eight regulars selected by the "Home Run King" have clubbed to a combined average of .354. Babe Herman tops the list with .393, followed by Jimmy Foxx with .373.

Collectively, the eight regulars have made a total of 1360 safeties in 3842 appearances at the plate.

ST. LOUISANS TO GO TO LEXINGTON TROTTING RACES

St. Louisans who are devotees of trotting racing will likely journey to Louisville, Ky., for the Grand Circuit trotting meet there Sept. 30 to Oct. 9, the feature of which will be the rich Hambletonian stake for 3-year-olds, Oct. 8, worth $60,000.

Another of the principal races of the meeting will be the Kentucky Futurity, not outstanding in regard to purse, but rich in the tradition of harness events. The event is scheduled Oct. 5.

Cox Stable Favored.

According to advance form in trotting circles, the stable of Walter Cox is likely to figure prominently when the winners of both principal events are run up. Cox has three leading three-year-olds in Walter Dear, Volomite and Miss Woerner. His entries have run first in every one of the big events for 3-year-olds on the Grand Circuit this year.

The Hambletonian has been raced three times. Each year Cox has had the winter book favorite but has failed to cash in. With three strong entries this year the Cox stable is favored to produce a winner.

Purses for daily events during the meeting range upward from as low as $800. On the opening day, Sept. 30, the feature will be a 2-year-old futurity for trotters for a purse of $7000.

$14,000 Purse on Oct. 1.

A 3-year-old futurity for trotters with a purse of $14,000 will top the program in the second day.

The Transylvania, a 2:05 trot, for $5000, will be run on Oct. 5.

The next race with more than an average purse will be run Oct. 7, and will be the Lexington Trot, for 2-year-olds worth $8000. Then on Oct. 8 comes the Hambletonian, the big feature of the meeting.

Wins 20th Game.

By the Associated Press.

ST. PAUL, Minn., Sept. 7.—Americo Polli became the first pitcher in the American Association to win 20 games, when he defeated Milwaukee here today, 9 to 5. Cooke's homer drove in the runs that gave St. Paul a lead in the third inning.

All-America Teams Selected By Babe Ruth in Last 5 Years

FOLLOWING are the all-America teams picked by Babe Ruth in the five years in which the Post-Dispatch has conducted the all-star club competition:

Rochester Breaks Double-Play Mark

The Rochester team of the International League shattered the major league record for double plays on Aug. 28, when they completed their 195th twin killing of the season, in the second game of a double bill against Baltimore. The major league record of 194 was set by the Cincinnati Reds of the National League last year.

With several more weeks to play, it is predicted that Rochester will compile a season's record for double plays that will stand for some time to come. Shortstop Heinie Sand, Second Baseman George Toporcer and First Baseman Jim Collins have been the chief participants in the double killings.

Post-Dispatch Contest Winners To Be Announced Next Sunday

The prize winners in the fifth Babe Ruth All-America contest conducted by the Post-Dispatch will be announced in next Sunday's editions.

The three judges, Artie Ellers, business manager of athletics at Washington University; Jack Fournier, former Cardinal first baseman, and J. G. Taylor Spink, publisher of the Sporting News, have about completed the task of sifting the many letters received by the Post-Dispatch.

Following the task of sifting the letters down to those who named the same men as Ruth selected for his team, the judges will go through the list for those with the correct batting order and if none is found, the contest, as told in the rules, will be decided on the merits of the essays, which accompanied the picks of the St. Louis fans.

There will be 33 prizes this year. First prize is $100; second, $75; third, $50, fourth $25, and the next five will receive $10 each. In addition, there will be a dozen autographed Babe Ruth bats and 12 autographed baseballs, suitable to be mounted as blotter pads.

Watch for the Sunday Post-Dispatch, Sept. 15, to see if your name is in the list of winners.

Man 63, To Swim 10 Miles, Using His Feet Only

E. D. Roe, 63 years old, will swim 10 miles down the Mississippi River from the Chain of Rocks to the Eads Bridge this morning, without the use of his hands. During his trip down the river he will read a newspaper and smoke a cigar. Roe will go into the water at 9:30 o'clock and he expects to reach Eads Bridge about noon.

Roe holds several unique swimming records. Last year he swam from Cincinnati 12 miles down the Ohio River in 3 hours and 5 minutes. Roe also crossed the Mississippi at Memphis without using his hands in 34 minutes.

TRI-CITY BASEBALL SEASON ENDS TODAY

The Tri-City Community Baseball League will ring down the curtain on its season today, when the second place Chevrolets meet the third place Norman Cleaners at Wilson Park. The game will be the only one played in the loop, as both the league leading Massey Dairy nine and the last place Venice Advertisers are idle.

If the Chevrolets can win today's battle, they will advance into a tie for first place; but if the Cleaners prove victorious the Massey's will be undisputed champions of the league, having won the first half of the season.

Manager Schuster of the Chevrolets will probably start Sam Harshany on the mound. Manager Morgan of the Cleaners will have Rogers on the hill, at the start of festivities.

Flints Need Six Games to Clinch Horseshoe Title

The Justin T. Flint team, Division No. 1 horse shoe champions and present municipal title holders, will meet the Sullivan team in the second half of their 32-game series for the municipal horse shoe pitching championship this morning on Division No. 2 grounds at Fairground Park. The Flints who won 11 out of 16 games last Sunday from the Sullivans, need to win but six games more to retain their title.

Fred Senn, Henry and Karl Dietz and O. Parker will represent the Flints, while L. Steinmann, William Sprock, B. Gebhardt, William Kehrt and Gus Kramer will represent the Sullivan Paints.

The individual horse shoe pitching tournament which is held each year after the close of the regular season and is open only to players in the two municipal divisions, will start Sunday, Sept. 15. The entry fee is $2 and each player will meet every other player in one 50-point game, total games won and lost to decide the championship.

WELLSTON TO PLAY WEBSTER GROVES TODAY

The second of a three-game series will be played between the Wellstons, champions of the County League, and the Webster Groves team, at Creve Coeur, this afternoon. Wellston won the county title with 16 victories and no defeats. Walter Mueller, formerly of the Pittsburg Pirates, is included in the line-up.

ALL-STAR TEAMS OF M'GRAW AND RUTH DIFFER IN BUT 3 POSITIONS

By Herman Wecke

That two "Master Minds" of baseball, Babe Ruth and John McGraw, agree pretty generally on the outstanding players of the 1929 campaign is evinced by the All-America teams picked by the pair. This shows that in only three positions do the pair fail to agree.

However one instance is easily explained. McGraw picks Babe Ruth as his left fielder, whereas the Bambino was not eligible for his own club. And the Babe would without a doubt have made the team had he been eligible, because it is hard to see an all-star nine these days without Babe Ruth in an outfield position.

As a result of placing Ruth in left, McGraw shifted Al Simmons, one of the outstanding meadowmen of the season, to center, a position he filled very capably for Connie Mack a few years ago, but a place he has not played this year. And one of the rules of the Babe Ruth contest this year was that a man could not be named for a position he had not played in for at least one battle.

McGraw Selected Terry.

The other difference of opinion between the pair was at first base. For this position, Ruth selected Jimmy Foxx, the young star of the Athletics, whereas McGraw named Bill Terry, star initial station guardian of his own club. And on records, there was little to choose between the two.

How the All-America teams named by Ruth and McGraw compare:

RUTH	POS.	McGRAW
Foxx	1B	Terry
Hornsby	2B	Hornsby
Jackson	SS	Jackson
Traynor	3B	Traynor
Simmons	LF	Ruth
Wilson	CF	Simmons
Herman	RF	Herman
Cochrane	C	Cochrane
Bush	P	Bush
Grove	P	Grove

On the team selected by each, the National League is represented by half a dozen stars, whereas the American has but four places.

St. Louis Not Represented.

One of the interesting features of the Babe Ruth club of 1929 is the fact that for the first time in five years, St. Louis is without a player in the battle front.

In 1925, the first season the Post-Dispatch fostered the competition, Jim Bottomley was named as the first baseman, while Rogers Hornsby was placed at second base. Then in 1926, Hornsby was again named for second, while in 1927, Frankie Frisch, enjoying the greatest season of his career, was picked in preference to Hornsby. Taylor Douthit was the Cardinal representative in 1928. In not a single season has a member of the Browns been selected.

One of the outstanding features of the contest is the fact that not a single pitcher has been selected to the all-star club on two occasions.

How Experts Voted For All-Star Team

The vote for players and positions by the Writers' Committee follows:

First Base—Foxx 5½, Terry 3½, Gehrig 1.

Second Base—Hornsby 8, Gehringer 1, Lazzeri 1.

Third Base—Traynor 7, Lindstrom 2, Foxx 1.

Shortstop—Jackson 8, Maranville 2.

Right Field—Herman 6, Manush 1, Cuyler 1, O'Doul 2.

Catcher—Cochrane, 10.

CUBS PAID LESS THAN $100,000 FOR ITS PITCHERS; MACK, $171,000

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—This year's world series might be termed a Scotch two-some. The winning ball clubs of 1929 represent little extravagance as big league spending is judged these days.

The Cubs cost less than half a million dollars to assemble. The Macks cost about the same.

Other clubs in the majors, which were unsuccessful in the pennant chase, cost two and three times as much.

The one and only extravagance of Joe McCarthy of the Cubs was the buying of Rogers Hornsby for $100,000 in cash and five players valued at another hundred.

Connie Mack had two extravagances. They were Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw, at $101,600 and $70,000. Mack paid these two large amounts to Jack Dunn of Baltimore—then crossed the Chesapeake Bay to what is known as the Eastern Shore and got Jimmy Foxx for less than $5,000.

Bought Hack Wilson for $5000.

McCarthy got Hack Wilson from the Giants for $5000.

Imagine Jimmy Foxx and Hack Wilson, this season's limelighters, for a total of $10,006

The Giants had Wilson and didn't have to let him go for $5000, but did.

Outside of Mack's lavish expenditures for Baltimore pitchers he got the rest of his club fairly cheap. McCarthy's one extravagance likewise stands out—Hornsby cost nearly as much as all the others put together.

Cubs' Staff Cost $100,000.

The Cubs have the best pitching staff in the National League and it cost right around $100,000. The big bargain was Guy Bush, bought for $2000 from the Cotton States League.

Malone cost $30,000, Carlson $25,000, Root $10,000, Nehf $4500, and Blake $2000. Berly Horne of Jersey City, recently sent to Los Angeles, and Ken Penner of Indianapolis no doubt brings the total up to around $100,000.

The catching staff that has been operating for the Cubs was a gift. Ganzales cost $5000 and Taylor $4500.

Mack's pitchers, besides Grove and Earnshaw, cost very little. He got Ed Rommel for $5000, Quinn for $4500, Walberg for $4500 and Ehmke in a trade.

Mack's catchers came high but they're worth it. The long one paid $50,000 for Cochrane and $10,000 for Perkins.

Mack Spent some money to get an infield, too. He paid somewhere around $50,000 for Bishop, $60,000 for Boley, $50,000 for Hale, $10,000 for Dykes, and $5000 for Foxx. He bought Cronin recently but no price was announced.

McCarthy's infield, outside of Hornsby, cost $64,500—$30,000 each for Grimm and English and $4500 for McMillan.

Cuyler cost $20,000, Heathcote $15,000, Stephenson $12,000 and Wilson $5000— a Cub outfield for $52,000. Another bargain.

Mack paid out $72,500 for his quartet — $25,000 for Miller, $15,000 each for Simmons and Haas, and $7500 for Summa.

All of which is another boost for the management of these two clubs, not forgetting to give some praise to the two scouting staffs, two of the best staffs of scouts that ever took the trail.

CROATIAN A. C. WILL HOLD POSTPONED FIGHT CARD TOMORROW NIGHT

All four special bouts will go on as originally scheduled in the amateur boxing program of the Croatian A. C. tomorrow night at the Flori Olympian arena, club officials have announced. The program originally was scheduled for last Friday night but was postponed on account of rain.

Leslie Schulte of the Business Men's A. C. will oppose Carl Holst in the principal event. Schulte, a newcomer in amateur circles, defeated Holst in a previous meeting. They are heavyweights.

Other special events will be: Pete Sarakas vs. Edgar Terry, 126 pounds; Joey Parks vs. Phil Burman, 118 rounds; and Joe Herbst vs. Parrell Moore, 135 pounds. Harry Kessler will referee.

Boat Races Postponed.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Rough water today caused postponement of the scheduled national outboard central divisional championship outboard motor boat races until tomorrow.

FIRST GRID PRACTICE AT WEBSTER GROVES

Webster Groves High School's football squad began practice yesterday, under direction of Coach Roberts, with only three letter men back and a hard game with East St. Louis on its opening card, Oct. 5.

Fifteen players reported for practice and were put through a light workout. Of the three veterans returning, P. Sibley is the only one who saw service in all the games last year. He probably will play his old position at right guard. This year's team will be the lightest in 10 years.

The schedule follows:

Oct. 5—East St. Louis at Webster Groves.
Oct. 12—Beaumont at Webster Groves.
Oct. 19—Wellston at Webster Groves.
Oct. 25—University City at University City.
Nov. 2—Normandy at Normandy.
Nov. 11—Clayton at Webster Groves.
Nov. 16—Maplewood at Webster Groves.
Nov. 28—Kirkwood at Kirkwood.

THREE SPECIAL BOUTS LINED UP ON CARD OF MISSOURI PACIFIC A. C.

Three of the four special bouts on the Missouri Pacific A. C.'s fight card of Thursday night at the Missouri Pacific arena, 3019 Park avenue, have been lined up, according to Matchmaker Joe Dumas.

George Daw of the Pine Lawn A. C., handled by the veteran, Al Hilligoss, who fought here under the name of Bobby Hill, will met Ed Hennessey of the East Side K. of C. in what is expected to be an outstanding event. It is reported Daw will turn professional if he defeats Hennessey. It is reported Daw will turn professional if he defeats Hennessey. Daw is now Western A. A. U. welterweight champion.

Purities 9, Menard 3.

CHESTER, Ill., Sept. 7. — The Purity nine of St. Louis defeated Menard, here this afternoon 9 to 3. The fine pitching of Kops, of the Purities was the feature of the game. Fisher of St. Louis hit two home runs.

BIG 10 ELEVENS WILL PLAY NINE INTERSECTIONAL TILTS THIS FALL

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

URBANA, Ill., Sept. 7.—Considerable activity is already being shown at the various Big Ten conference football camps, as preparation for the official opening of the practice season, Sept. 16. Scores of candidates are arriving at the camps, some in order to obtain a week's rest after spending the vacation period doing hard work and others just to be near the scene of the approaching grind.

Wisconsin and Indiana will have but two weeks in which to prepare for the opening of the practice game season, while the other teams will have three weeks. Wisconsin will swing into action Sept. 28 by playing South Dakota at Madison while Indiana engages Wabash at Bloomington. The Big Ten championship race will open Oct. 12 with Northwestern at Wisconsin, Iowa at Ohio State, Michigan at Purdue and Indiana at Chicago. Illinois and Minnesota will not enter the race until Oct. 19 when the former plays at Iowa and the latter at Northwestern. The season will close Nov. 23 for all teams excepting Northwestern and Chicago, these two teams playing the final conference games a week earlier.

Iowa Has Six Contests.

All teams in the conference have scheduled eight games this season with Iowa, engaging in six conference contests, and the remainder with the exception of Chicago playing five conference battles. Chicago will engage in but four conference clashes, the remaining games being with non-conference teams. Intersectional games will be plentiful.

The outstanding intersectionals are Colgate at Wisconsin, October 5; Vanderbilt at Minnesota, October 12; Colgate at Indiana, October 19; Ohio State at Pittsburg and Chicago at Princeton, November 2; Army at Illinois; Harvard at Michigan and Mississippi at Purdue, November 9; and Washington or Seattle at Chicago, November 23.

Squads numbering between 50 and 100 candidates are expected to report for tryouts on the opening day, but the number will be gradually reduced until only several score players remain on the first and second squads. Due to the shortness of the practice season, the coaches will waste little time on unpromising candidates, but this will hardly be necessary as the coaches have a fairly good line on their material already as the result of spring workouts. During the first week the greater portion of the practice will be spent to punting, working on forward passes and other fundamentals while scrimmage sessions will go in order shortly afterwards. A number of schools will be able to hold morning and afternoon workouts as classes will not open until a week after the opening of the practice season.

Illinois, conference champions the last two seasons; Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Ohio State and Michigan are expected to put in bids for the championship this season, although Purdue, Northwestern, Indiana and Chicago may upset the dope bucket and have something to say regarding the matter before the season is over. Plenty of veteran material will be available at practically all schools, hence competition should be extremely keen this fall.

To Bowl Special Match.

Freddy Krems of the Flints and Roy Nelson of the Wooster Lambert team will bowl Frank Matera and Charles Held, Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, a special five-game total-pin-match on the Holly Recreation alleys, 7167 Manchester avenue.

Veiled Prophet To Visit St. Louis Subjects Oct. 8-9

Exclusiveness Expected to Mark Beginning of Second Half Century; Historical Identity of Potentate Revealed.

MOKANNA, the Veiled Prophet, from his mysterious home in far Cathay, has sent messengers announcing his next annual visit to his beloved city of St. Louis, Tuesday, Oct. 8, when, by royal command, his loyal subjects will be permitted to see him and his colorful court as he parades through the streets seated on a regal throne at the head of a gorgeous line of floats.

The following night, in accordance with custom, the ball in honor of his majesty will be held at the Coliseum, where, surrounded by his courtiers, he will sit in state while maids and matrons of honor pass in review before him until he chooses his queen. Thus does the Prophet uphold the tradition that his visits shall occur on the first Tuesday after the first Monday in October.

Especial interest seems to be attaching to the rumor this year that the Prophet is starting his second half century by harking back to the ultra exclusiveness of the past, and that this year's ball is to be more than ever a society event. There are to be interesting new features, according to reports which have come from his majesty's den in St. Louis, which is being made ready for his coming, and exceptionally artistic decorations are being arranged for.

Invitations to the maids and matrons of honor are expected this week and will be carried to their recipients by special messengers.

An interesting bit of history not generally known to his subjects attaches to the Veiled Prophet. With his satin gown, his winged crown and his long silvery beard, he represents Al-Mokanna, the Veiled Prophet of Khorassan, immortalized by Thomas Moore, but back in the eighth century the Veiled Prophet really lived. The name of the historical character was Ahken Ibn Atta, sometimes termed Al-Haken Ibn Atta—the Silver Veil.

To account for the veil the story is told that, being blind in one eye, he wore a covering to conceal his deformity. He had many followers, and so great was his influence upon them, and so powerful they had become, that the Caliph Al-Mahdi sent an army to capture him. The Prophet was defeated and retired to a fortress in Southern Arabia. There he was besieged, and rather than be captured he plunged himself into a vat of corrosive acids—whence he arises like the Phoenix to delight St. Louis revelers.

Announcement of Two Engagements Made

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Bush of Mexico, Mo., announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Valle Bush, to Allen Morgens, son of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Morgens, 4435 Westminster place. The date of the wedding has not been set.

Miss Bush is a graduate of Hardin College and attended Washington University. Mr. Morgens attended Washington University before becoming associated in business with his father. He is a brother of Miss June Morgens, who made her debut a few seasons ago.

The engagement of Miss Carol Conde Crowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Crowe, 721 Interdrive, and Walter L. Metcalfe, son of Mrs. J. W. Metcalfe, formerly of Omaha, Neb., has been announced. The news was told formally to relatives and close friends at a tea given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Crowe. Mrs. E. J. Phelps Jr. of Omaha, sister of Mr. Metcalfe, and Miss Madeline Closs served, and Katherine Phelps, small niece of the bridegroom-elect, distributed corsage bouquets bearing the announcement.

Miss Crowe is a graduate of Washington University, class of 1928, and is a member of Pi Beta Phi. She was chosen May Queen in her senior year. She has been active in amateur dramatics in St. Louis, has participated in Players' Guild productions and is an interested worker in the Golden Goose organization for the promotion of children's plays.

Mr. Metcalfe is a graduate of Washington University and is a member of Beta Theta Pi.

Returns From Charlevoix.

Mrs. Clarence J. Curby has returned from Charlevoix, Mich., where she spent the summer, and with her son, Jack, is at Hotel Chase for the winter. Mrs. Curby sold her home at 4 Washington terrace. Mr. Jack Curby will return to Princeton University later this fall.

A number of schools will be able to hold morning and afternoon workouts as classes will not open until a week after the opening of the practice season.

Illinois, conference champions the last two seasons; Wisconsin, Minnesota, Iowa, Ohio State and Michigan are expected to put in bids for the championship this season, although Purdue, Northwestern, Indiana and Chicago may upset the dope bucket and have something to say regarding the matter before the season is over. Plenty of veteran material will be available at practically all schools, hence competition should be extremely keen this fall.

Number of St. Louis People Linger on New England Coast

BOSTON, Mass., Sept. 7.

ALTHOUGH September is the most delightful month of the year at the New England coast resorts, the demands of business, home and schools are insistent and Labor day week sees a large number leaving for their city homes. Enough, however, remain to make the month interesting in a social way and the entire North Shore world is planning to turn out for the cabaret dinner to be given next Friday for the benefit of the Beverly Hospital endowment fund. Mrs. George Agnue Dobyne of St. Louis and New York is on the list of patronesses for the affair.

Mr. and Mrs. James Lawrence Bailey and baby son, Jimmy, of New York, have had a cottage this summer at Magnolia, where they are now entertaining Mrs. Bailey's mother, Mrs. D. B. Hussey of St. Louis. As Helen Hussey, Mrs. Bailey was a popular member of the younger set at the North Shore for several years, but had not been here for several seasons until this one, and her former friends have given a number of smart affairs in her honor. One of the latest was a dinner given by Mrs. Alexander Shaw at "Round Hill," the Shaw summer place at Hamilton.

Arnold Stifel, who has been staying with his family at its summer home in Magnolia, returned to St. Louis this week. Mrs. Stifel and the children will remain until late in September. Mrs. Stifel has been one of the active hostesses of this section of the Shore during the season and has given several delightful luncheons.

Mrs. Theodore Roosevelt and her daughter, Mrs. Richard Derby, were at the Oceanside, Magnolia, for a few days, coming on for the opening presentation of Mrs. August Belmont's play, "Christopher Rand," which had its premiere at Stillington Hall, Gloucester, last week.

Mrs. James L. Ford Jr. and daughters, Miss Jean and Miss Elsie, are at Hyannisport, Cape Cod, for the late season, before returning to their home in St. Louis. They have recently returned from a summer spent in European travel.

Miss Kate Davis Pulitzer, daughter of Joseph Pulitzer of St. Louis, entertained a party of young people at dinner at the Bar Harbor Yacht Club on Friday evening, later taking her guests to the Surry Playhouse for the performance of "Arms and the Man."

Mr. and Mrs. James H. Platt of St. Louis and Mr. Walter Gifford, president of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., have been house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Walter R. Herrick of New York, at Sowanniu, their summer home at Watch Hill, R. I. Mr. and Mrs. Platt have returned to St. Louis and are occupying their home in St. Louis County.

Mr. and Mrs. George A. Dobyine of St. Louis and New York were recent guests of Dr. and Mrs. Edumnd LeRoy Dow of New York at their Watch Hill summer home. The house party included a number of friends who spend the winters at Palm Beach.

Mr. and Mrs. Hayward Gatch of St. Louis have returned from Watch Hill and New York where they went to bid bon voyage to Mrs. Gatch's parents, Col. and Mrs. Joseph Gilman Miller of St. Louis, who sailed for a European trip of several weeks.

Mrs. Bradford Shinkle of St. Louis entertained a party of friends at the last Sunday buffet luncheon of the Misquamicut Golf Club at Watch Hill.

Mrs. Paul Jones of 30 Mason avenue departed this week for a visit with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Parker C. Hatch of Hingham, Mass. Mrs. Jones will visit other relatives in the East before returning home early in October. Mr. and Mrs. Jones have leased their home in Webster Groves to Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Kelsoe. Mr. Kelsoe was recently made director of the Community Fund. William Jones, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Jones, has gone to Andover, Mass., where he will enter Andover Academy.

MISS JANE HAYES CAMPBELL, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Hayes Campbell, who will be married Sept. 16 to Louis John Vogler of Long Island. —Ashen-Brenner.

MRS. SAMUEL B. WESTLAKE JR., a bride of Wednesday. She was Miss Katherine Pollard Hafner. —Schweig

Mrs. Hayward Gatch and her children, who have just returned after spending the summer at Watch Hill, R. I. —Murillo.

MISS ELEANOR KATHLEEN GREEN, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John F. Green. She will become the bride this winter of Frederick Alexander Skelton, a member of the faculty at the University of Saskatchewan. Ashen-Brenner.

Moulton-Ward Wedding Is Set for October 12

ONE of the first of the socially important weddings after the formal opening of the autumn season will be that of Miss Grace Moulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Moulton of Brentmoor, and James Crawford Ward, son of Mrs. A. Ross Hill of Kansas City, Mo., which has been set for Saturday, Oct. 12. The ceremony will take place at 8:30 o'clock in the evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Moulton. Guests at the ceremony will include only relatives and close friends, and a large reception will follow. The bridal party is not complete and will be announced later.

Following a honeymoon, Mr. Ward will take his bride to Kansas City to reside.

Mr. and Mrs. Scott Porter of the Forest Park Hotel and their daughter, Miss Jane Porter, who have been in Europe for the summer, recently spent some time in Munich for the season of Wagnerian opera. They will return to St. Louis late this month.

Dr. Willard Bartlett Jr., son of Dr. and Mrs. Willard Bartlett, 53 Westmoreland place, has just returned from a summer spent in Germany and France.

MISS CAROL CONDE CROWE, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Crowe, whose engagement to Walter L. Metcalfe was announced yesterday. —Ashen-Brenner.

Weddings and Announcements Of Engagements

OF much interest in St. Louis is the wedding of Miss Martha Ann Reed, daughter of Mortimer P. Reed of South Bend, Ind., and Harold Udell Michaels, son of Mrs. John F. Michaels, 5145 Maple avenue, St. Louis, which took place yesterday afternoon at the First Presbyterian Church, South Bend. The church was elaborately decorated with baskets of white asters and gladioli banked against a background of greenery and lighted by cathedral tapers. There were 1200 guests. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Archibald McClure, and was followed by a reception for the bridal party and relatives at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene H. Miller.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Janice Miller Reed, as maid of honor, and by Miss Dorothy Croy of Buffalo, N. Y.; Miss Ruth Killoch of Yonkers, N. Y.; Miss Jane Allen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Allen of St. Louis, and Miss Elizabeth Crockett, Miss Marjorie Bennett and Miss Mary Marshall, all of South Bend. George Egger of New York was best man, and the ushers were Junior Brechenser of South Bend and Walter Hasse, Stanley Birge, David Miller, J. Eugene Baker and Cecil Whitmarsh, all of St. Louis. Mortimer Reed Jr., brother of the bride, was ring bearer; Virginia Crossman of Berkeley, Cal., niece of the bridegroom, flower girl; Floyd Stewart and Samuel Richards, formerly of St. Louis, masters of ceremonies, and Mrs. Edna Reed Cover played the wedding music.

The bride was gowned in ivory d'alencon lace combined with tulle in the new silhouette effect, with a satin bow at the back forming a train. Her veil was arranged with a d'alencon lace and orange blossoms and she carried roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Margaret Sims and R. H. Hopkins Wed in New York

Bride Is Daughter of Rear Admiral Sims—Margaret Shepley a Bridesmaid.

NEWPORT, R. I., Sept. 7.—MISS Margaret Sims, daughter of Rear Admiral William S. Sims, U. S. N., retired, and Robert Holbrook Hopkins were married at 4 o'clock this afternoon in Old Trinity Church before a large gathering of socially prominent persons.

The rector, the Rev. Stanley Carnaghan Hughes, performed the ceremony, which was followed by a reception at 73 Catherine street, the home of Admiral and Mrs. Sims.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was attended by her sister, Miss Adelaide Sims, as maid of honor, and members of the bridal party included a cousin, Miss Margaret Shepley of St. Louis; Miss Emma Louise Davis, Santa Monica, Cal., and Miss Elizabeth Johnston, New York.

The bridal gown was of ivory white satin, made in the fashionable princess style, and a lace veil which had been worn by her mother and her grandmother. Her shower bouquet was of lilies of the valley. The maid of honor wore green chiffon, with a velvet hat to match, and the other attendants were in gowns of burnt orange chiffon, with dark brown velvet hats. All of the attendants carried large bouquets of dahlias.

President's Cup Regatta Next Week

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.

By the Associated Press.

JUST a week away is the President's Cup regatta and capital society is preparing to entertain the visiting boatsmen.

The official committee has invited many fashionable lookers-on to observe the races from the decks of its yacht, the Mendota. Tea will be served on board by debutantes of this and last season. In this group will be Miss Rebecca Davidson, Miss Mary Bradley, Miss Margaret Pilson, Miss Elizabeth Powell Dunlap, Miss Fanny Dial and Miss Dorothy Dial, daughters of former Senator and Mrs. Nathaniel B. Dial; Miss Lalla Hurrison Lynn, Miss Carol Henderson and others.

Miss Dorothy Dial is to operate a 200-horsepower craft in the women's races and Miss Marguerite Orme will also race.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann will assist Mrs. Billard, wife of Admiral F. C. Billard in receiving the official guests on the Mendota.

The Governor of Michigan and Mrs. Fred W. Green were at the White House for two days this week and met at dinner the former Secretary of State and Mrs. Frank B. Kellogg, whom the President and Mrs. Hoover entertained when they stopped here on their annual visit to Hot Springs. Eugene Meyer came from his home at Mount Kisco and with Mrs. Meyer was a guest of the President over night.

Taking a bit off the edge of the boat races next Saturday will be the wedding of Miss Helena Dodge, granddaughter of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, and Edouard de Streel, second secretary of the Belgian embassy, which will take place in the Lodge home on Massachusetts avenue late in the afternoon.

Miss Lodge is the granddaughter of Mrs. Charles L. McCawley. Her mother, Bessie Davis, was the daughter of Mrs. McCawley's first husband, John Davis. Judge Davis, the Ambassador of Belgium and Princess Deligne and their daughter, Princess Elizabeth Deligne, will attend as will other members of the diplomatic corps and some of Senator Lodge's old friends in Congress.

Judges for National Horse Show Chosen

AUGUST A. BUSCH Jr., chairman of the Executive Committee for the St. Louis National Horse Show, last night announced that the judges for the event, which will be held Oct. 12 to 20 at the new arena, have been decided upon. Tom Wilson of Bowling Green, Ky., has been invited to judge the roadster and saddle horse class, while A. W. Gilmore of St. Albans, Vt., will officiate in the classes for harness horses and ponies. The hunters will be judged by Dirk Van Ingen of Milwaukee, Wis., Allen Russel Jr. of Los Angeles and Dr. A. C. Randolph of Bluemont, Va.

The Horse Show Committee has agreed that 11 performances will make up the national show, seven in the evening and four in the afternoon.

The Easter sisters' high school act will be one of the feature attractions at the coming show. Silver Bell and Oakdale, two nationally known horses from the Paris, Ill., stables, which have been in every big ring in the country, will be on display at various performances. The Easter sisters' act is the 126th class arranged for the nine-day show.

The meeting last night was held at the Bridlespur Hunt Club, where reports were given as to the progress made toward the show, and the Bit & Bridle Club, organized in 1921, was revamped.

Kline's Fashion Week...

A Week Long Presentation of the Final Word in Autumn Styles—to Prove that No Matter How New the Fashion—The Price is Always Right!

St. Louis has learned that at Kline's, smart fashions are not expensive. It is the Kline Policy to present fashion-right and, certainly, quality-right merchandise at prices as high in value-giving and as low in profit-taking as possible. The policy of this institution is to render a very definite service to St. Louis . . . and no longer is smart fashion exclusively for the wealthy.

Four Varieties Of Autumn Fashions

The Velvet Ensemble . . . The Galyac Trimmed Ensemble
The Javella Crepe Frock . . . and The Tweed Ensemble

$25

THERE is no doubt about it—fashions have changed. If you don't believe it, look at the autumn frocks. They were surely meant to complement that dainty feminine loveliness. These ensembles and dresses are chic—but they are more than that—they are pretty. They are not hard or sophisticated. They are lovely and they have distinction. The four fashions illustrated are typical of the autumn mode—and are at a specialized price!

ONE SIMPLE COMPACT MACHINE THAT

Save Money! Save Time! Save Labor!

HERE'S news for you! A compact, practical machine that both dry cleans AND washes—yet costs only about one-fifth as much as the usual washing machine alone. Because it's really two machines in one, they call it the Duette. Every time you use your Duette for dry cleaning you can save up to ten dollars in a surprisingly few minutes. The Duette is just what you've wanted, too, for washing out delicate lingerie, rayon, Celanese or table linens . . . all those things you prefer to care for yourself.

So Easy to Use!

The operation of the Duette is simplicity itself. Place the clothes to be dry cleaned in the container with two quarts of that safe-to-use Duette non-explosive Dry Cleaning Fluid. Revolve the handle slowly for two turns in one direction, then two turns in the other direction. Two minutes in all is enough.

For washing, put your clothes in the container, fill one-third full of water, and add a spoonful of your favorite soap flakes. Turn slowly three minutes for silks, five minutes for other materials.

New Scientific Principle

The new scientific principle upon which the Duette is constructed is simple to understand. As the machine revolves a series of tiny wavelets is set in motion which clean and purify as they surge back and forth through the meshes of the fabric.

Husband of Hyde's Secretary Is Found Dead

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 7. — Charles S. McClung, husband of Mrs. Mary A. McClung, Secretary to Arthur M. Hyde, Secretary of Agriculture, died last night shortly after he was found unconscious in his automobile, parked on a road at the south edge of the city. W. R. Ross, Deputy Coroner, said there were no outward signs to indicate the cause of death. Physicians think he died of natural causes. McClung, who was a traveling salesman, had been on a vacation for the last month.

Jefferson Barracks

Items of Social Interest From the Army Post.

CAPT. and Mrs. Arvid P. Croonquist entertained at dinner at their quarters Thursday evening in honor of Brig.-Gen. and Mrs. George H. Estes. Guests in addition to the honor guests were Col. and Mrs. Pegram Whitworth, Col. and Mrs. Charles F. Morse, Lieut.-Col. and Mrs. John Randolph, Maj. and Mrs. Arthur Doig, Miss Margaret Randolph and Pegram Whitworth Jr.

Brig.-Gen. George H. Estes departed Friday for Washington, where he will be a member of the Classification Board, returning to Jefferson Barracks about Sept. 13.

Mrs. Joseph L. Connolly departed last week for a visit with relatives in Cincinnati.

Mrs. Frank E. Brokaw was hostess at dinner recently at her quarters. The guests were Maj. and Mrs. John C. Mullenix, Lieut. and Mrs. Raymond W. Oder, Mrs. Clinton J. Ancker and Mrs. Frank W. Romaine.

The Officers' Club of Jefferson Barracks will entertain at a reception and dance Friday, Sept. 13, at the Red Cross Hostess House in honor of Brig.-Gen. and Mrs George H. Estes who are leaving soon for Fort McPherson, Ga. Brig.-Gen. Estes will command the Eighth Infantry Brigade. Maj. Arthur R. Underwood, Capt. Arvid P. Croonquist and Lieut. Rudolph Broedlow comprise the Entertainment Committee for this party.

Lieut. and Mrs. C. V. Morgan of the Medical Corps departed Monday by motor for Fort Bliss, Tex., where Lieut. Morgan will be on duty.

On Monday morning a controlled ride over the bridle paths of the post, followed by breakfast at the Officers' Club, was enjoyed by the following officers: Lieutenant-Colonel John Randolph, Capt. Arvid P. Croonquist, Capt. Stanley G. Backman, Capt. Raymond I. Lovell, Capt. Fred O Wickham and Lieut. Edgar A. Gans.

Lieut. and Mrs. Eugene Moseley were visitors at the post the last week. Lieut. and Mrs. Moseley are en route to their new station at Brooks Field, Tex.

The Tuesday Afternoon Bridge Club met at the home of Mrs. Clinton J. Ancker. The guests were Mrs. William E. Hall, Mrs. Frank E. Brokaw, Mrs. Nathan A. Smith, Mrs. Crump Garvin, Mrs. Arvid P. Croonquist, Mrs. Raymond I. Lovell, Mrs. Robert H. Vesey and Mrs. Glenn Allen.

Capt. and Mrs. Merritt E. Olmstead of Fort Benning, Ga., spent several days of the last week at Jefferson Barracks as guests at the Red Cross Hostess House. Capt. and Mrs. Olmstead are on their way to Panama, where Capt. Olmstead will be on three years' foreign service.

Church services will be held this morning at the Post Chapel Father Thomas Dalton and Chaplain N. A. Jones conducting. At 6:30 p. m. Vesper services will be held.

EDWARD L. BAKEWELL HEADS NEW BIT AND BRIDLE CLUB

Body Reorganized to Stimulate Interest in Horse Show This Fall.

The Bit and Bridle Club was reorganized Friday night with a meeting at the Bridlespur Hunt Club. Edward L. Bakewell was elected president.

The meeting represented the first of a series of conferences of the various committees for the St. Louis National Horse Show which will be held at The Arena, on Oakland avenue near Forest Park Highlands, this fall. The club, which now has more than 100 members, was reorganized to stimulate interest in the horse show as well as to promote riding in the district.

Prize money totaling $35,000 will be distributed at the show and it is expected that 500 of the nation's best mounts will be entered, Elmer L. Musick, manager of the show, told the gathering. He said 150 horses already had been entered and that an attendance of 15,000 persons is expected at each of the 11 performances. Other speakers were Mayor Miller, W. T. Nardin, Paul Bakewell, W. T. Treadway, August A. Busch Jr. and Ben Brinkman, president of the St. Louis National Horse Show.

APARTMENT HOUSE TO REPLACE ANOTHER LINDELL BLVD. HOME

Furnishings of Blodgett Residence at 3760 Are Sold at Auction.

Lindell boulevard's transition from a thoroughfare known for its spacious homes into an avenue lined by tall apartment buildings received another impetus yesterday when the red flag of the auctioneer was hung in front of No. 3760, the home of Mrs. Mary Blodgett, former wife of Harry W. Blodgett.

The three-story brick residence, converted in recent years into four furnished apartments, has been sold and the site will be used by the new owner for an apartment building.

Art collectors, society women, secondhand furniture dealers and the merely curious rubbed elbows as the furnishings were auctioned off yesterday. Bids ranged from 25 cents for pieces of bric-a-brac to $1000 for the reproducing grand piano. Oriental rugs were offered in profusion, but attracted small attention.

Lathers' Annual Banquet.

The lathers' annual banquet will be held at the Jefferson Hotel at 8 p. m. Wednesday in conjunction with the convention of the Wood, Wire and Metal Lathers' International Union which will start at Jefferson Hotel tomorrow and continue all week.

MISS MURIEL ZIERRATH, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Zierrath of 1735 Belmont avenue, and Eugene Halloran, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Halloran, 563 North Eighteenth street, were married Thursday morning at St. Joseph's Church. The Rev. Albert Zuroweste performed the ceremony.

Miss Zierrath wore a gown of ivory satin with yoke and sleeves of lace. Her veil was held in place with a lace cap with a strap of tulle beneath her chin. She carried a bouquet of roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Helen Clark attended the bride as maid of honor. She wore an apricot taffeta frock and carried a small nosegay. The bridesmaids were Miss Cecelia O'Neill, who wore a green frock; Miss Leona Dumbeck and Miss Genevieve Case, who wore frocks of lavender and coral. Little Margie Lou Holten acted as flower girl.

The groom was attended by his brother, Donald Halloran as best man. John Healy, John Prindable and Philip Healy were groomsmen.

After a short honeymoon the pair will reside in Pinehurst.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Watkins of Country Club drive have returned from a trip through Wisconsin and Michigan summer resorts.

Miss Marie Giessing, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Giessing, 2559 Forest Place, will leave Tuesday for Bristol, Va., where she will enter Sullins College.

Miss Mary Pattiz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Pattiz, and George Goldstein, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Goldstein of St. Louis, will be married this evening in the crystal ballroom of the Hotel Jefferson in St. Louis. There will be several hundred guests. The ceremony will be performed by Rabbi J. L. Mazur. There will be no attendants.

Preceding the ceremony Miss Ruth Berger will sing "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

A wedding supper will be served after which the pair will leave for a honeymoon trip to New York and Canada. They will return Oct. 1 and will reside at 5834 Cabanne avenue, St. Louis.

Mrs. M. M. Stephens, 1010 Pennsylvania avenue, is in Louisiana, Mo., where she is visiting her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. John Frank Conrad.

The DUETTE

Dry Cleaning and Washing Machine

$14.85

Easy, Quick and Perfectly Safe—using DUETTE non-explosive Dry-Cleaning Fluid.

SAVES 90% OF CLEANING BILLS

Dresses, drapes, scarfs, hats—anything can be made to look like new with this machine.

One Simple Compact Machine That

HERE'S news! A compact, practical machine that both dry cleans and washes—yet costs only about one-fifth as much as the usual washing machine alone. Because it's 2 machines in one, they call it the DUETTE. With DUETTE for dry cleaning you save up to ten dollars in a few minutes. Everything comes out beautifully. Usually even pressing isn't necessary.

The DUETTE is just what you've wanted for delicate lingerie, rayon, Celanese or table linens...things you prefer to care for yourself. DUETTE makes it so easy to keep Summer clothes always fresh and dainty.

So Easy to Use!

DUETTE operation is simplicity itself. Place the clothes to be dry cleaned in the container with two quarts of that safe-to-use DUETTE non-explosive Dry Cleaning Fluid. Revolve the handle slowly for two turns in one direction, then two in the other. Two minutes in all is enough.

For washing, put your clothes in the container, fill one-third full of water, and add a spoonful of your favorite soap flakes. Turn slowly three minutes for silks, five minutes for other materials. It cannot harm the daintiest things, for there are no moving parts to come in contact with the clothes.

For Babies' and Children's Things

Never before has there been such a simple, easy way to care for small washings. Mothers find the DUETTE particularly helpful for babies' and children's things—those little shirts, panties, stockings, dresses, that must be washed out almost daily.

VACATIONISTS!

Take a DUETTE Along With You

To those vacation spots where washing and dry cleaning are ever difficult problems. It is so light that it can be easily carried about. You can take it apart or assemble it in 30 seconds. It will fit into the rack along the running board of your car, or in a one-foot square space in your trunk.

SAVES MONEY—SAVES TIME
SAVES LABOR

As the machine revolves a series of tiny wavelets is set in motion which clean and purify as they surge back and forth through the meshes of the fabric. The special riffles of the container create a further cleansing suction as the clothing swishes from side to side.

The rotation is easy, almost automatic, for the container is scientifically balanced. There is nothing to get out of order, even under constant use. The DUETTE is always ready to serve you. You may obtain your DUETTE in jade green or delft blue, with the container finished in white enamel.

The DUETTE machine and the special DUETTE non-explosive Dry Cleaning Fluid are on display at your dealer.

SAFE

Quicker, better cleaning with the DUETTE Non-explosive dry cleaning fluid.

No risk of dangerous, explosive cleaning liquids DUETTE Dry Cleaning Fluid does a quicker, better job—is perfectly harmless, non-explosive. DUETTE Dry Cleaning Fluid can be used in the DUETTE machine over and over again or for occasional cleaning in basin or bowl like any cleaning fluid. Available at your drug store or the stores listed below

$1.95 Per Gallon — $1.10 Per Half Gallon

ARENA DEDICATION BANQUET SEPT. 23

Arrangements to Accommodate Several Thousands Are in Preparation.

Arrangements are being made to accommodate several thousand persons at the banquet and dedication program at the new Arena and adjoining buildings of the National Exhibition Co., 5700 Oakland avenue, Monday evening, Sept. 23. Tables are to be set on the Arena floor, which is nearly a quarter of a mile in circumference, with the speakers' table extending along the western side.

Marvin E. Holderness, vice president of the First National Bank, is chairman of a committee arranging the program. Invitations will be mailed this week.

The formal opening of the buildings will not take place until Oct. 12 when the National Dairy Show, National Poultry Show, St. Louis National Horse Show, Better Foods Show and the St. Louis Fair will be presented simultaneously through Oct. 20.

Among the entries for the Dairy Show received yesterday were those of La Lomita Rancho of Palms, Los Angeles, which requested reservations for 18 head of Jersey cattle. These belong to F. R. Bain, chairman of the executive board of the Southern Counties Gas Co., of Los Angeles.

Another herd entered yesterday was that of the Elk Hill Farm, Brookfield, Mass., owned by Dr. O. W. Means, 18 head of Jersey cattle. S. H. Anderson, executive secretary of the National Dairy Association, said he expected not less than 1200 animals, representing the five principal dairy breeds, to be shown here.

Director of Public Safety Steininger in an address last night over KMOX described his inspection of the arena last week. The building is so arranged that it can be emptied of a capacity audience of 21,000 in a few minutes.

E. J. Burke, secretary of the Horse Show last fall, has been appointed guide to show visitors through the Arena at half hour intervals from 9 a. m. until 4:30 p. m. daily.

Preparatory Citizenship Classes.

Preparatory classes for men who have filed petitions of citizenship in the United States District Court will open at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Downtown Y. M. C. A., Sixteenth and Locust streets. There will be no tuition fee. English classes will be opened at a later date.

Central W. C. T. U. Meeting Tomorrow

THE annual meeting with election of officers and yearly reports of Central W. C. T. U. will be held tomorrow afternoon, 1:30 o'clock, in the parlors of Kingshighway Presbyterian Church, Kingshighway and Cabanne avenue.

There will be a contest on "Why the Woman's Christian Temperance Union Should Continue," with Mrs. T. H. Dunn, Mrs. Charles King, Mrs. B. D. Burris and others as speakers. The winner in the local union contest will be eligible to take part in one to be held some time in October under the auspices of the federation. Mrs. Roslyn McCaughen will sing.

At the conclusion of the business session there will be an informal social hour in honor of the newly elected officers, with Mrs. L. H. Bowerman assisted by others, as hostess.

The World War Registrars will have their first board meeting Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock in the Colonial room of Hotel Chase. A luncheon will follow, and at 2 o'clock there will be a regular monthly meeting. A program will be given, and guests will be admitted with the members. A special invitation has been issued to all Gold Star mothers.

The Alpha Sigma Pi sorority held its semi-annual election of officers Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Sylvia Pollock. Miss Hanna Alport was elected president; Miss Beatrice Kirsch, secretary and treasurer, and Miss Rose Cohen, press representative.

The Executive Committee of the Delphian Council held a meeting at the home of Mrs. B. A. Thompson, president of the council, 5923 Cabanne place, Aug. 30. Plans were outlined and discussed pertaining to the social side of the Delphian organization for the coming season. Mrs. Emily Ruth Wright, national supervisor of the Delphian Society, was present.

Mrs. Wright is preparing to organize a new Delphian chapter in Webster Groves, which will include about 50 members.

The Barr Study Unit will hold its first regular meeting tomorrow at 10 a. m. at the home of Mrs. J. M. Bischoff, 3147 Geyer avenue. The program will be conducted by Mrs. A. E. Spalding, on the subject of what St. Louis public schools are doing for delinquent children. A chapter on the subject of "Parents and Teachers," will be read by Mrs. J. T. Addis.

The first regular meeting of the Cleveland Parent-Teacher Association will be held in Cleveland High School Auditorium next Friday evening at 8 o'clock. A musical program will be given by school pupils followed by a general discussion on the value of a high school education for a child between parents and teachers, led by George Eigel, a past president of the association.

The Junior Council of Jewish Women will hold its first meeting of the season at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Kings-Way Hotel. Mrs. Jack Forcheimer, president of St. Louis section, National Council of Jewish Women, will speak. Mrs. Herman Cronheim will talk on "The New Page." The rest of the program will consist of musical selections. This meeting will be open to anyone interested.

The St. Louis Council of National Congress of Parents and Teachers met Thursday afternoon in Scruggs-Vandervoort-Barney Auditorium. A report of work of the Parent Teacher Scholarship Foundation was made by Mrs. L. Hager. Mrs. Stone, chairman of the card party to be given Monday, Sept. 16, in Nugent's Auditorium, made a report. The State convention will be held at Hotel Jefferson Oct. 21 to 25. Mrs. George Figel presented on outline of the convention program.

SEEKS FORECLOSURE AGAINST DES MOINES U.

Boatmen's National Bank Files Court Action—Receiver Appointed in Iowa.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Sept. 7.—Action to foreclose a mortgage of $203,000 against Des Moines University, closed after a controversy in which students rioted last spring, has been filed in Federal Court here by the Boatmen's National Bank of St. Louis. At the request of the bank's attorneys, Judge Charles A. Dewey appointed John A. Blanchard, local attorney, as receiver for the property.

Trustees of the university, a Baptist fundamentalist school, announced several days ago that the school would be discontinued. They said this course had been adopted because the District Court had granted an injunction preventing the board from interfering with the management of the school. The court order was obtained after a student riot in May when it was learned the trustees had dismissed the entire faculty.

The bank's action was taken after notification that further payments on the mortgage could not be made and that the university had been discontinued. George D. Newcom, business manager of hte school, joined in the plaintiff's petition that a receiver be appointed. The Des Moines National Bank, by reason of its trusteeship of the university's endowment fund, is made a joint defendant in the petition.

The petition states that the mortgage originally was for $225,000 but that $22,000 of the bonds had been paid, in addition to the university property, the income from the endowment fund also was pledged as security.

GERMAN FASCIST SEEKS TO LAY BOMBINGS TO AUTHORITIES

Hitler Announces Reward for Proof of Origin of Eleven Explosions.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Sept. 7.—Adolf Hitler, Fascist leader, today announced that the management of that party had offered a reward of 10,000 marks (about $2380) for proof that recent bomb explosions had been arranged by "the new Prussian authorities." He offered a further reward of 2000 marks (about $670) for information leading to the arrest of those who placed the bombs.

The public, stirred by a series of bomb explosions in various parts of the republic, of which the explosion at Lueneburg last night was the eleventh, had been speculating whether the outrages were the work of Communists or Fascists.

CAPE GIRARDEAU U. S. COURT

Judge Faris Going There Tomorrow in Floodway Petitions.

Federal Judge Faris will hold court in Cape Girardeau tomorrow to permit the Government to file amended petitions in its condemnation suits for the setback levee right-of-way limiting the Bird's Point-New Madrid floodway, a major phase of the $325,000,000 flood control project.

The Department of Justice and War Department have decided it would be advisable to obtain orders of publication and to include bondholders as defendants in each suit. A number of the 90 suits to cover the right of way had been filed before this decision was reached.

U. S. FIRM BUYS ORE ABROAD

Carnegie Co. Contracts for Georgian Manganese.

By the Associated Press.

TIFLIS, Sept. 7.—The Georgian Government Manganese Trust has signed an agreement with the Carnegie Steel Co. for delivery from Chiatouri of large quantities of manganese over a period of five years. During the first year the Carnegie mocpany will take from 60,000 to 75,000 tons of ore and during the remaining four years 50,000 annually.

It was stated that the Carnegie company bought this manganese to improve Brazilian manganese, which it obtains from its own mines. The Georgian Government is continuing negotiations for the sale of other quantities of ore to other large American corporations.

National Committee to Elect Claudius H. Huston Chairman Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7. — Republican leaders continued to gather here today for the meeting Monday of the Republican National Committee and indications were that there would be a fairly full attendance despite the fact that the election of Claudius H. Huston of Tennessee and New York, as chairman, is to be a mere formality.

President Hoover received a number of the commiteemen and commiteewomen at the White House during the day and invited several to have dinner at the White House this evening. This was the third of the series of such functions for the Republican leaders with the fourth scheduled for tomorrow night.

Dr. Hubert Work, retiring chairman of the committee, is a guest at the White House. He accompanied a group of the committee members today on their call at the Executive Offices. After retiring Monday, Work will return to private life on his own motion as he not only voluntarily resigned as director of the party organization, but also declined a diplomatic appointment.

With the election of Congresswoman Ruth Pratt by the New York State Central Committee as national committeewoman for the Empire State, all vacancies in the membership of the National Committee, save that of committeeman for Georgia, were filled.

Mrs. Margaret M. Tucker has been elected by the Vermont State Central Committee as national commiteewoman for that state. Mrs. Alvin T. Hert remains as national committeewoman for Kentucky and vice chairman, having withdrawn her resignation at the request of President Hoover.

LATHERS' INTERNATIONAL SESSION OPENS TOMORROW

Triennial Meeting of Union at Jefferson Hotel to be Attended by 150 Delegates.

A convention of the Lathers' International Union will open at Hotel Jefferson tomorrow and will continue throughout the week. The convention is held every three years. The last session met at Atlantic City, N. J.

As each local union represented in the international body has only one convention delegate, there will be 150 delegates at the business sessions. International officers who will preside are: John R. Bell, president; William J. McSurley, (president of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor), first vice-president; and A. D. Yoder, secretary. All of the international officers are from Cleveland, O.

Arrangements for the meeting were made by officers of the local union, including Harry Baldwin, president, Charles Webster, vice-president, and Harry Hagen, secretary. On Wednesday night there will be a banquet at the Jefferson for the delegates and local labor leaders. An election of officers will take place Friday.

ST. LOUIS FIRM LIKELY TO GET CONTRACT FOR LIGHT BULBS

Nine Companies Submit Equal Prices, Supply Commissioner Meston Finds.

Bids for incandescent light bulbs for municipal buildings were opened by Supply Commissioner Meston Friday and it was found that nine companies had submitted equal prices, although one concern listed slightly larger discounts. It is expected the contract will be awarded to the Geller, Ward & Hasner Hardware Co., of which H. W. Geller is president. This company has furnished the city's bulbs for three years and is one of the eight uniform bidders.

Estimated consumption by the city during the coming year is 72,290 lamps to cost about $17,000 on the basis of the eight bids. The bid of the Hygrade Lamp Co. of Chicago would figure about $780 under this total, but Meston and other officials have declared a preference for Mazda bulbs.

Previous contracts to the Geller company provoked criticism from disappointed bidders. Past contracts have run upwards of $100,000 a year, but recently the replacement of street lighting bulbs was included in a cleaning contract with the Welsbach Co. of America.

PARIS, Sept. 7.

THE conflict which has broken out with such violence in Palestine was no surprise for those who had knowledge of the conditions existing in that country. It is merely an acute manifestation of the feeling that has been latent for years and which any incident—that of the Lamentation Wall or otherwise—could have easily provoked into a sudden crisis. Such a state of mind is the inevitable result of a Zionism such as was conceived and applied. One can easily understand the various interpretations which the 22 National Zionist organizations could give to the Balfour declaration in which England favorably regarded the Zionist colonization of Palestine. It could mean that this home was to be the center for the study and conservation of the traditions of the Jewish race, where Jews from all the world could gather. It could also mean that a real Jewish nation could be established in Palestine.

It was quite apparent that from the beginning of the Zionist movement this last named conception embodied the ultimate aim of the movement as is evidenced by the formula adopted by the first Zionist Congress in 1897, "One nation, one constitution, one language, one country."

The country sought after for more than eight centuries by the Jewish people contains more than 700,000 inhabitants who speak the Arab language, the large majority of whom are Christians and a great many Mussulmen. Consequently a very complicated situation was created when just after the World War, Zionism as it was originally conceived, became a reality.

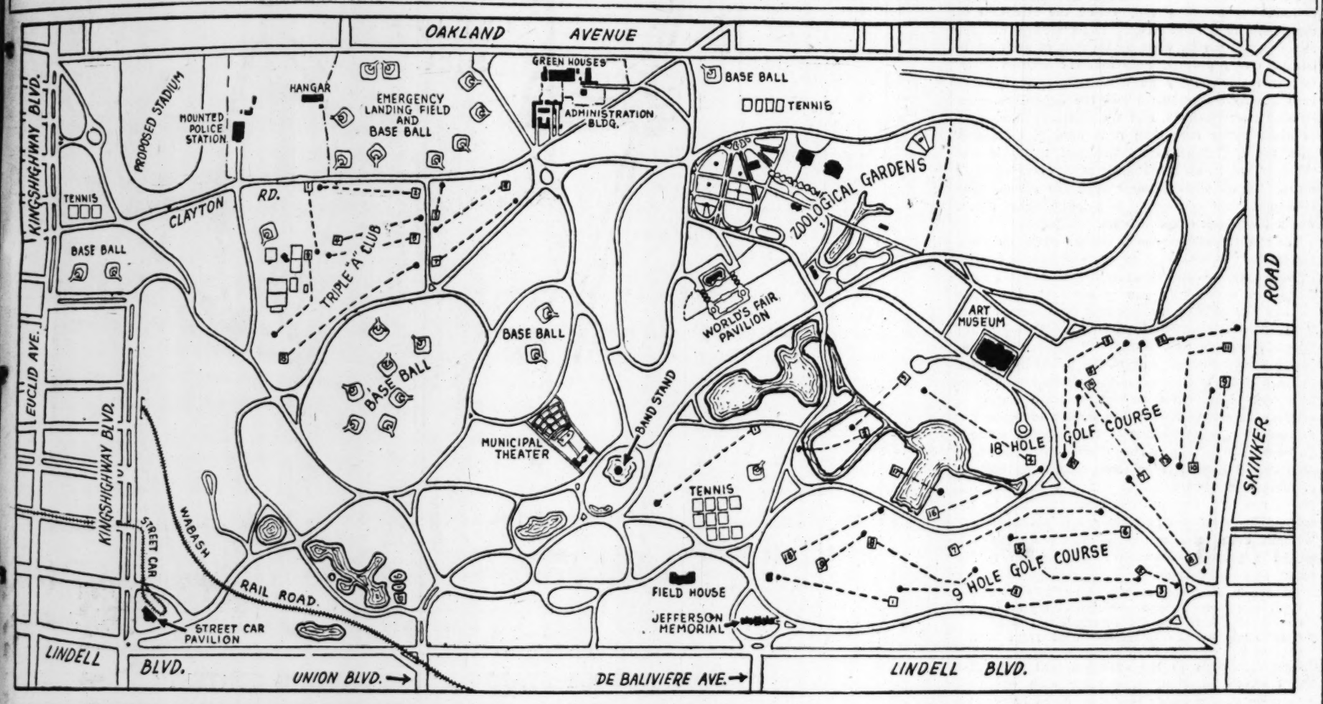
Forty Per Cent of Forest Park Devoted to Special Uses

Proposed Stadium Would Add 22 Acres to Area Withdrawn From Original Purposes

How Athletic and Other Projects Have Taken the Forest Out of Forest Park



550 OF ITS 1300 ACRES GIVEN OVER TO GOLF AND ATHLETICS, BUILDINGS, MOTOR ROADS, ZOO

IF city officials carry out their plan to build a concrete stadium in southeast Forest Park, covering 13 acres and requiring at least nine acres parking space, the withdrawn and restricted portions will be increased to 573 acres, or 41 per cent of the entire park.

At present, 551 acres, 39 per cent of the park's area of 1380, is set apart for competitive sports, motoring, and other uses limited to certain classes or groups. Most of these uses are foreign to the city's original purpose, outlined when the park was purchased 55 years ago for $850,000.

The choice of the name, Forest Park, it was stated in 1874, "is significant of the intent of the originators and promoters of the park enterprise to maintain the splendid forest as its chief attraction."

Much of the forest—and it was a splendid one—was removed by the axes of the World's Fair builders. Since the fair, there has been nearly a quarter of a century for the promised park restoration; but it was, instead, a diversion, which has turned most of the park's western portion into golf links. In another portion, the Zoo has changed the park beyond recognition, and its expanding group of buildings is making natural growths scanty.

Three Other Sequestered Tracts.

Besides the 72-acre Zoo and the 210 acres of public golf courses, three other large tracts have been sequestered. They are the Triple A, private club, using 75 acres, whose members pay $20 club dues and $10 city permit fee annually, following a $20 initiation fee; Mounted Police Station, stables and grounds, using 25 acres; and the 41-acre emergency landing field for airplanes.

Smaller bits of the park, in scattered locations, are given to tennis courts and baseball diamonds. On the 38 tennis courts, a maximum of 152 persons can play at one time. The golf links can accommodate not more than 216 players at once on the 18-hole course, and one-half as many on each of the nine-hole courses. The 25 diamonds can accommodate a maximum of 450 baseball players at one time. The courts and links are used to their capacity much more frequently than the diamonds.

Thus, the 308 acres of park space devoted to golf, tennis and baseball can be used by not more than 1034 persons at any one time.

Acreage Is in Segments.

On the basis of area figures, there would appear to be more than 800 acres left for park purposes strictly. But this acreage is in segments of land and water, surrounded by athletic fields and intersected by driveways, until the person seeking to "loaf and invite his soul" under the oaks is hard pressed to find a place even a little removed from the whir of golf balls and the fumes of gasoline.

Of what was once the great wooded treasury of natural beauty, the parts least alienated from their original purpose are the southwest section, where the forest character survives, but where two main highways and some minor drives cut up the woodland; and the northeast and central-eastern parts, which have long been, and are still, a finished decorative space, with flower beds and smooth green lawns.

Elsewhere, the park entrances lead chiefly to the golf links, tennis and baseball tracts, educational and cultural buildings, Municipal Theater and Zoo. All these are of public value, and some of them are among the city's best advertising assets. But they have tended to destroy the quiet and beauty of the park, and to make it a place of noise, hurry and crowds—the things which some still seek to avoid in a park.

Dense Traffic on Holidays.

On a Sunday afternoon or a holiday in summer, the park driveways become throbbing nerves of traffic, lined in such density that occupants of the machines breathe the poisonous exhaust of other cars, and see chiefly the car ahead and the reflection of the one pressing behind, rather than any of the beauties of nature. To the pedestrian, young or old, dodging is as necessary an accomplishment as at any downtown corner. The songs of the birds—such birds as have not fled to less noisy regions—are unheard for the chorus of admonitory motor discords.

The conditions which have developed in the park were foreseen by Dwight F. Davis, then park commissioner, when he opposed the locating of the Zoo in Forest Park 16 years ago. He held that, valuable as the Zoo would be to the public, another location for it should be found, and that the park should not be further sacrificed. Davis previously had part in the establishment of golf links and the increase of the number of tennis courts, with a view to enlarging the park's recreational uses.

Many who did not agree with Davis in opposing the Zoo location would now say that the diversion of park space has gone too far, and that no new major project of this kind should be considered. Such a project is that for a stadium, brought forth at this time by the Des Peres sewer excavation work.

The first announcement of Park Commissioner Pape and President Kinsey of the Board of Public Service was that the dirt from the sewer job would be used to fill in the low ground along the river bed between Clayton and Oakland avenues, immediately east of Mounted Police station. A grassy bowl was to be made, at no great expense, since the dirt had to go somewhere. A lagoon had been suggested, but the two officials held that it would be too expensive, the cost being estimated at $12,000.

A Stadium for 50,000.

As a supplement to the bowl plan, it was announced that a concrete stadium, to cost $250,000, would be the natural outgrowth of the bowl. Such a stadium, by the dimensions available, would have room for sports of all kinds, including polo, and would seat 50,000 persons. Parking grounds, refreshment and service stands of all sorts, would be inevitable necessities in connection with such a stadium.

The stadium would be an obstacle to reclamation of the park, which could otherwise begin in the south section. The city has in recent years cut down the Mounted Station's space from 40 to 25 acres, and this might be further cut as the need for police horses lessens, or as another place for the animals is provided. The Triple A tract might likewise be recovered in time. But with the stadium in operation, the other diversions would appear minor ills, which might as well be endured.

Reclamation of the park would be a slow task, but not a hopeless one, if new diversions of the park's use are not permitted. The tourist camp, which came to be recognized as a detriment to the park, has been discontinued. The park was ridded, before the World's Fair, of the Cottage, a roadhouse of premotor days. Street car trackage in the park has been cut down; the present Field House, clubhouse for golf players on the public links, was once a street car terminus. City officials say there is no hope of getting the railroad tracks out of the northeast corner of the park, as the railroad was there, or had acquired its trackage right, before the park was established.

In the tabulation of restricted spaces in the park, the 10 picnic grounds, with a total area of 33 acres, have not been included. The picnic grounds are assigned to groups on request, but they are not inclosed or set off from the rest of the park, and at most times they serve as part of the park proper.

Arabs Look on Zionist Movement As Invasion of Their Ancient Rights And Result Is Present Warfare

British Arms Can Control Until Jews Either Dominate Situation or Give Up Idea of Re-Establishing Their Race in the Holy Land —Much of Trouble Laid to Terms of Mandate

By COUNT ROBERT DE CAIX.

(Copyright 1929)

While in the Holy Land, Count Robert de Caix came in contact with numerous Zionist leaders whose faith and energy impressed him. He had, at the same time, occasion to study the moral effect produced by Zionist colonization on the Arab populations. The antagonism arising from these two conceptions forms the basis of this article.

PARIS, Sept. 7.

THE conflict which has broken out with such violence in Palestine was no surprise for those who had knowledge of the conditions existing in that country. It is merely an acute manifestation of the feeling that has been latent for years and which any incident—that of the Lamentation Wall or otherwise—could have easily provoked into a sudden crisis. Such a state of mind is the inevitable result of a Zionism such as was conceived and applied. One can easily understand the various interpretations which the 22 National Zionist organizations could give to the Balfour declaration in which England favorably regarded the Zionist colonization of Palestine. It could mean that this home was to be the center for the study and conservation of the traditions of the Jewish race, where Jews from all the world could gather. It could also mean that a real Jewish nation could be established in Palestine.

It was quite apparent that from the beginning of the Zionist movement this last named conception embodied the ultimate aim of the movement as is evidenced by the formula adopted by the first Zionist Congress in 1897, "One nation, one constitution, one language, one country."

The country sought after for more than eight centuries by the Jewish people contains more than 700,000 inhabitants who speak the Arab language, the large majority of whom are Christians and a great many Mussulmen. Consequently a very complicated situation was created when just after the World War, Zionism as it was originally conceived, became a reality.

Terms of the Mandate.

The terms of the mandate over Palestine given to England in August, 1922, show that the object of this mandate was to favor Jewish colonization in Palestine. These terms differ greatly from the terms of the mandate given to France over Syria and Liban which stipulate simply that France is to safeguard the rights of the inhabitants of these countries and foreigners visiting there. The mandate for Palestine states: "The mandatory shall be responsible for placing the country under such political administration and economic conditions as will secure the establishment of the Jewish national home. An appropriate Jewish agency shall be organized as a public body for the purpose of advising and co-operating with the administration of Palestine in such economical, social and other matters as may affect the establishment of a Jewish national home. The Zionist organization shall be regarded as such an agency. The administration of Palestine, while insuring that the rights and position of all sections of the population are not prejudiced shall facilitate Jewish immigration under suitable conditions and shall encourage, in co-operation with the Jewish agency, the settlement of Jews upon this land. The administration may arrange with the Jewish agency to construct or operate upon fair and equitable terms any public works, services and utilities and develop any of the natural resources of the country."

The text of this mandate shows its purpose was essentially to assure an intense Jewish colonization of a country which was already densely populated and which constitutes one of those "detached communities of the Ottoman Empire," which Article 22 of the Covenant of the League declared was sufficiently organized and civilized to permit it to become an independent nation provided that the aid and advice of a mandatory could be assured.

Fearful of Invasion.

The reaction of Mussulman and Christian natives against such a procedure was inevitable and it brought about a very grave situation. Although the mandate states in the preamble that the establishment of a Jewish national home is contingent upon the following conditions: "It being clearly understood that nothing should be done which may prejudice the civil and religious rights of existing non-Jewish communities."

The natives of Palestine were not convinced. They believed that their country would be invaded by a people possessing other traditions, speaking another language than theirs, and who would eventually dispossess them.

The events followed the terms of the mandates and Jewish colonization was intense in Palestine. In three years from 1924 to 1926 inclusive, 50,000 Jews were settled in Palestine. This is an exceedingly large number of emigrants for a small country like Palestine, whose climate is very dry and which consequently contains a great deal of unfertile soil. The country was badly prepared for the absorption of this large number of immigrants which exceeded the country's capacity of absorption and immigrants were greatly deceived, they found, on their arrival. England was accused of improperly carrying out the terms of her mandate. But the discontentment of the Jewish immigrants was surpassed by that of the natives and this development upon the part of the Arabs soon developed into a strong feeling of hostility against the Zionists and the present situation is the result.

Power of Zionist Movement.

To know is to appreciate the extraordinary and really noble effort which has been made by the Zionists. There is no doubt that Zionism presents one of the greatest human endeavors of our age. It is, however, a moral force violently opposed to the existing conditions. It is not for economical reasons that these Jews are leaving central Europe to go cultivate land or engage themselves in other occupations. The sun is much hotter and the soil much more difficult to work than in the places whence they came. For these people Palestine is not the promised land in the sense it was for Moses and his companions who just had come out of the desert. It is not a land of milk and honey but simply the country of their ancestors. And whoever has visited Palestine during the past few years, whoever has seen the encampments of immigrants filled with Jewish wanderers where one finds Jewish scholars endeavoring to revise the Hebrew language in order to form a universal language for themselves, cultivating the land or breaking stones upon the public highway, must have been impressed by the power of the traditions and ideals which by themselves have been able to inspire such an effort upon the part of these people which is in contradiction to their habits and temperament.

National fanaticism often brings about wonderful results. We cannot say that the Zionist colonization is a complete success. When one travels upon ships visiting the Far Eastern ports of the Mediterranean Sea, one learns that almost as many Jews are leaving Palestine as are coming to live there. The reality did not conform with the picture which these people formed in their minds of the promised land. Those who remain in Palestine subsist not upon the fruits of their labor there but by means of the contributions made by co-religionists all over the world, and particularly in the United States. The Jewish plant no doubt flourished well heretofore in Judea, but after the transformations it has undergone during the centuries in which it has been torn to bits and scattered over the face of the earth, it only takes root superficially now and only with the aid of outside nourishment.

Desert Made to Bloom.

Zionists have obtained up to date certain wonderful results. The plains of Sarrou and Esdrelon, arid for centuries, have been changed by them into flourishing green fields. Their methods of cultivation are more methodic and quite in contrast with those of the natives. The extension given to the almond and orange plantations in the districts east of Jaffa astonishes everyone who is familiar with the difficulties encountered during the first few years in cultivating trees of this kind in countries south of the Mediterranean. There is no question that Palestine has been made richer by the work performed by the Zionists.

The Zionists are trying to justify their presence in Palestine by showing the benefits which the country is deriving from their work, but the natives cannot be brought around to this point of view. To understand the effect which this sort of reasoning on the part of the Zionists has upon the natives of Palestine, it suffices to think what the people of the United States, England or France would say if they were told, "Along with each one of you, one or two foreigners are going to be installed." These nations propose such an arrangement to their neighbors and the result has been war.

Arabs Oppose Colonization.

Being under the impression that it is because of this desire to gain that the Jews have come to Palestine, the Arabs are naturally strongly opposed to this colonization of their country.

More, "Foreigners will make your laws and you will be obliged to adopt their civilization and their language. You should be content because they will enrich your country and furnish you with work which will be well paid." What country who has any self-pride would not prefer to remain poor rather than accept such a means of becoming rich? We have seen it is impossible to make them un-

Democracy's Future.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

THAT the Democratic party has suffered some disastrous defeats in recent campaigns is not a question for controversy, but, in my opinion, the reasons and causes for its failures ought to be looked into. The party and its principles must not die, else popular government must perish from America. Historically and fundamentally, the Democratic party is the natural guardian of popular or local self government. And owing to that fact, at this particular time the party should be able to gain the support of a large majority of the voters of America. Then why its failures? Leadership? When we succeed it's good leadership but bad when we fail. So we say.

I am not one of those who are always ready and willing to sacrifice principle for expediency, but in my opinion, under proper guidance, the two may go hand in hand, even in politics. In the 1928 campaign, the Democratic party nominated a clean man of splendid ability as standard bearer, but his nomination literally forced the presidency upon the opposing party. It was a fine exhibit of principle, but expediency was thrown to the winds.

Let the party early enter the race for 1932; wage the campaign on the broad platform: restoration and preservation of popular, or local self government for America—now, henceforth and forever. Select a real statesman for standard bearer; one who is free from prejudicial handicaps as is possible (for deplorable as it is in a popular government we must reckon with prejudice), that's expediency.

For the 1932 campaign, I beg to do what I have done twice before on like occasions, place in nomination for standard bearer a man full of years; endowed with true wisdom; ripe in statesmanship; tried and true in the essential principles of popular government, and withal expediently available, according to my judgment. My choice, for the third time, is none other than the ex-Senator, James A. Reed of Missouri.

Suggestion for a Bus Route.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

IF the bus company would run a bus from Carondelet Park direct to North Broadway over Grand boulevard without transferring at Grand and Washington, many more dimes would come to the bus lines. I have spoken to many folks who would like to ride on the bus direct to the ball park, especially from the south, and they state that it is very annoying to have to wait for the North Grand bus at Grand and Washington and then it is too crowded when it does come and they won't let you on and you end by paying another fare and taking the street car.

Certainly enough people would daily take this bus up and down Grand if it went direct instead of transferring at Grand and Washington to the North Grand bus.

What "Forest" Means.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

FOREST PARK was named for forest, which, according to the dictionary, is "a large extent of ground covered with trees; woodland; an uncultivated tract of land, more or less covered with trees and undergrowth." But if it continues to be cluttered up with such things as the proposed stadium, it would be proper to change the name of the park to Nuttycrest.

With the growth of our city, the thousands of people living in apartments and flats will need more rustic beauty than ever in our parks. The cartoon in your paper showing the last tree in Forest Park sure hit the nail on the head.

A Transportation Plan.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

1. Merge the street car and the bus companies.

2. Avoid unnecessary duplication of service. Build no more street cars, generally substitute busses.

3. A uniform car fare. Eight cents suggested. If it does not bring in a fair return, the people will be willing to pay a higher fare. The eight-cent fare to include transfer. PATRICK HANDLAY.

THE UNITED STATES AND MEXICO.

Reassembling last Sunday, the Mexican Congress was felicitated by President Portes Gil and Senor Montes de Oca, Minister of Finance, on the political and economic condition of the republic.

Following the Escobar revolution, and the controversy with the Catholic church, to say nothing of the disagreement over oil lands which brought Mexico to the verge of war with the United States in Mr. Coolidge's time, the situation beyond the Rio Grande today is one that might very well induce congratulations. The Republic is enjoying constitutional government. It is at peace with the church. Its financial affairs, while assuming the cost of the late revolution, are far from disheartening. Mexico expects to be able to resume payments upon her national debt within the next year. She owes $508,000,000 of bonded indebtedness, with delinquent interest of approximately $250,000,000. This debt is held in the United States.

So felicitous an occasion, and one of so many promising auguries to Mexico and the United States, ought to induce an era of mutual good feeling. Our Ambassador to Mexico, Mr. Dwight W. Morrow, has shown that when we treat the Mexican as an equal we can get along with him very well. The disposition of the United States to treat the Mexican as an inferior was what made the difficulty. Probably the revelation of what some of the oil men would do to their own country was what reversed our Mexican policy. If they would resort to bribery and theft in the United States, sparing not even the Navy's oil reserves, it was easy to believe that their methods were no better beyond the Rio Grande. Yet the United States for a long time made the interests of those brigands its own.

It was Mexico, and not the United States, that roused us to a realization of what we were doing. A free people, and the last who could have been expected to be unsympathetic with such a struggle as Mexico is making out of feudalism, we presented the mystifying spectacle of not merely being hostile to her aspirations but actually threatening to suffocate them. The Post-Dispatch has told before how the reversal of our policy came about. A Mexican banker, Senor Augustin Legorreta Jr. of the National Bank of Mexico modestly told this story before a group of St. Louis bankers last February. He went to J. P. Morgan & Co., who represent Mexico's creditors in the United States, and advised the house that unless we befriended Mexico her aspirations and debt would alike be lost. Senor Legorreta was taken down to Washington to tell his story to Mr. Coolidge. The result was the appointment of Mr. Morrow, and from that day to this the fortunes of Mexico have been on the upgrade. The oil land question was first settled. When the Escobar revolution began, Mr. Hoover promptly placed an embargo upon supplies for the revolutionaries and gave the Mexican Government both arms and credit. When the revolution collapsed—and that is what all revolutions have to expect henceforth—Mexico turned to her next great difficulty. This was her controversy with the church. For more than a year the church, because of strictures upon it, had been on a strike. No priest had conducted services in a Mexican church in all that time. The difficulty has been adjusted.

To the Post-Dispatch it seems an opportune time for us to realize that we have a responsibility with respect to Mexico. She is, as Senator Borah says, our neighbor. She will always be that, and her fortunes will always affect our own. We have taken from Mexico more territory than remains to her. We got from her Texas, California, Arizona, New Mexico, and others of the western states formerly in the domain of the Spanish monarchs. There are 15,000,000 people in Mexico. Potentially they constitute one of our greatest foreign markets. It is a matter of elevating them to something approximating the American scale of living. A primitive Mexico, and one prostrate under the heel of privilege, butters no parsnips for an industrial civilization. Mr. Morrow is the prophet of the new American relation to Mexico, as the oil and the mineral barons were the prophets of the old. The one seeks to lift up the Mexicans and add them to the great progressive community of the North American continent, a people meaning something not to modern civilization alone but to their own country and themselves. The other sought to trample them under foot, to rape alike the land and the people. There is a very great difference between those two orders, one as significant to Mexico as to us.

We have a responsibility as well as an opportunity there.

THE T. A. T. TRAGEDY.

Discovery that the missing T. A. T. plane, City of San Francisco, crashed in a mountain forest near Albuquerque, N. M., with the loss of all its occupants, realizes the country's worst fears. It is a very tragic occurrence and one followed with deep sympathy by the public.

As the first major accident of commercial aviation in the United States, a thorough analysis of its causes is awaited with the deepest interest. It is possible a study of them may avert similar crashes in the future. In the meantime, it would be unfair to draw conclusions or to attempt to assess blame.

In the six months since he retired from the presidency, Mr. Coolidge has made $100,000 writing for the magazines, which sum will keep the wolf away from the Coolidge door until the day of judgment and two or three eternities after.

THE WHITE SPARROW.

Appearance of a white sparrow on the City Hall lawn opens a field for speculation that must set a good many minds to work. It is, of course, significant. Anybody who has read "The Ancient Mariner," or who is familiar with the prophetic relation of birds to human affairs, cannot doubt that the white sparrow at the City Hall means something.

Our guess is that it means Mr. Newman is not going to get a franchise under any name, and that we are going back to home rule. Ordinarily the bluebird would have been the symbol for such good fortune, but bluebirds do not occur in a big city. Neither do doves, which brought to Noah the roseate promise of an end to his zoological wanderings. We have only three birds in downtown St. Louis. The pigeon is out of it as a symbol because its color is too variable. The nighthawk flies at night and what its color is would not matter one way or the other.

The sparrow alone was available, and there it is. Among innumerable brown companions, the white sparrow at the City Hall. Perhaps we misinterpret the sign, but we think not. The Board of Aldermen will have something to say about a franchise for Mr. Newman; and unless it is easier hoodwinked than we think, it is going to say "no!"

That is, no more franchises of any sort.

AN INCREDIBLE TALE.

Mr. Hoover says he cannot believe that responsible directors of American ship building interests have been a party to the obstructive tactics against naval disarmament revealed by William D. Shearer, nor is it possible for the country to believe it.

Shearer alleges in a suit against the Newport News Ship Builders and Dry Dock Co., the Bethlehem Shipbuilding Corporation and the American Brown Boveri Electric Corporation that they paid him $50,000 for propaganda against naval disarmament and still owe him $250,000 more. He says he did this work for the three corporations at Washington. He is a well known figure at Washington whenever the subject is up, and he was also a conspicuous opponent of disarmament at the Geneva conference of 1927. He has always represented to the press that his motives are wholly patriotic.

Mr. Hoover considered the allegation of sufficient importance to make a public statement to the press. Senator Borah had already called the attention of the Senate to Shearer's suit. The President did not mince words saying what he thought of such methods. He very properly says that the accused interests owe the country an explanation. Meanwhile, both the Attorney-General and the Senate have instituted investigations, and the matter will soon be in much better care than it is now. To disagree with the Government's disarmament policy is one thing. That is, as Mr. Hoover says, every citizen's right. To do what Shearer says the shipbuilding interests did is damnable. In a less tolerant age it would have been called treason.

The country will rejoice to see the President show his mettle. It will hope to see him take a similar initiative against the tariff robbery. The big navy lobby has never been one of mere opinion. The country has been well aware that there were behind it powerful commercial interests. Nevertheless, the allegations made by Shearer will shock the people of the United States. Any nation would be shocked to learn that what is ordinarily regarded as a mere difference of opinion is in fact the manipulation of self-serving corporations. The matter of naval disarmament is a severe test of the national wisdom. To learn that there have been thrown upon the scales such sordid influences as those alleged by Shearer is more than disheartening. It is a national disgrace, and Mr. Hoover was fully justified in the extraordinary method he employed in denouncing it. Without even interrogation by the press, he submitted a prepared statement. His reason for so doing was stated thus:

> I am making this statement publicly so that there can be no misapprehension of my determination that our present international negotiations shall not be interfered with from such sources and through such methods.

Public reaction to the exposure will strengthen Mr. Hoover's position. The vigor with which he denounces such methods leaves no doubt of his own sincerity. He is for naval disarmament, and thanks to the vicious methods employed by its opponents that desirable end is brought the nearer.

MESSAGES FROM GREAT MEN.

William F. Kenny, wealthy New York contractor, the man who gave his shirt in the last Presidential campaign for his lifelong friend, Alfred E. Smith, is traveling in Europe this summer. He does not like the haircuts he has been getting over there, so he has now summoned his New York barber, Louis Arico, over trans-Atlantic telephone to come to London immediately. Mr. Kenny told Barber Arico that in his present condition he would "feel ashamed to go ashore."

Such messages are stimulating on these hot days. They should be encouraged, international good will notwithstanding. In particular, we would like to listen in while certain great men send the following messages:

"Please send the pickle that I was alleged to have been weaned on. People think that I am beginning to act like a Pollyanna."—Calvin Coolidge.

"Please ship a nice new hatchet. I want to bury it. All is forgiven with the Pope."—Senator J. Thomas Heflin.

"Please ship three dozen electric fans and seersucker suit. The heat is getting us down here."—Commander Richard E. Byrd.

"Mrs. Gann and I sat in seventh place at dinner last night and had a wonderful time."—Vice President Charles Curtis.

"My car, more than a block long, has a puncture. Please send money for repairs."—Juror Kidwell.

THE TARIFF ANALYZED.

The Hawley-Smoot tariff schedules as adopted by the House and revised by the Senate Finance Committee have been before the public long enough to bring forth a considerable barrage of public opinion. Intended to benefit the farmer, the result will be quite the contrary, competent observers say. The People's Legislative Service, a statistical group founded by the late Senator La Follette, summed up the situation the other day by stating that the farmer would pay a dollar in increased living cost for every dime's worth of benefit he got.

As a revenue producer, the bill would be a great success, for an estimate places its yield as an increase of $88,900,000 over the present levy. The administration is not seeking a bill to produce additional revenue, however, but rather to benefit the farmer, for whom the special session of Congress was called. The projected levies will be of large benefit to the manufacturer, who needs it least.

An analysis made at the University of Wisconsin shows how little the farmer will be aided. The farmer as consumer will pay $77,000,000 in increased prices, this estimate said, and as producers a few farmers will benefit about $59,000,000 in protection, making a net loss of $18,000,000 a year. This analysis goes into the matter of sugar, the figures showing an increase of $4 annually in the sugar bill of each American family.

The new tariff evidently is not to be for the farmer and the majority of consumers.

"I HOPE NOBODY STARTS A HOG CALLING CONTEST"

Australia and American Tariffs

Impressed with America's progress under a protective tariff system, Australia proposes to follow in our footsteps and become a self-contained nation; there are, however, great obstacles in her way, such as small population and high cost of production; in the meantime, Australia protests against the increased rates in the Hawley bill and threatens retaliation.

By Elizabeth Lord Driemeyer.

THE problem of protective tariffs is much discussed in Australia. The importer of goods into that country finds himself up against a tariff wall, and the Australians protest about our duties on the things they have to sell. There is a determined policy to make of themselves a self-contained nation—to produce all or most of the things they require. Always one hears the argument that America—and by that they mean the United States—has become the prosperous and productive country she is by fathering home industries and protecting them with high tariffs. They propose to follow in our footsteps. The great difficulty in the way of that plan is, on one hand, the small population—less than six and a half millions—which limits the home market for manufactured products, and, on the other, the high standard of living and the exorbitant cost of production with unsettled labor conditions which make competition in the world's markets, and often in Australia, impossible. All the propaganda directed toward educating the people to buy Australian-made goods is of no avail when it is a question of digging down into one's pockets for the wherewithal to pay for them. If the foreign product is a better value there are not many people who will be ruled by sentiment and who will sacrifice their pocketbooks to it.

Australia is essentially a primary producing country, and it is the man on the land who is making the country's wealth and supporting the secondary industries and the ever-increasing populations of the cities. On him depends the financial health of Australia and yet it is made more and more difficult all the time for him to prosper. The standard of living, the high cost of production of home-made articles, and the tariffs on foreign goods mount his costs skyward, while he must send his wool, or wheat, or meat to the world's markets and take what he can get for them. Farm machinery, for one thing, comes largely from America. The duty is high and should he buy Australian-made machinery the price, as is always the case when protective tariffs are imposed, is as great as that of the imported product—or at best a shade under it. For clothing and all farm and household necessities he must pay prices—boosted beyond reason by production costs and tariff protection.

Australia looks to America as the model for her economic development without taking into account the fundamental differences in conditions with which she must work. Because of the restricted demand, it does not pay to install the enormously expensive machinery required under modern conditions of mass production, and industry less efficient cannot compete. The labor unions have fought bitterly the introduction of piecework in industry and up to the present time have succeeded in outlawing it, but there is a growing opinion among economists that it must come. Many secondary industries in Australia have found it impossible to keep down their costs sufficiently to sell their products even with tariff protection and have gone to the Government for further aid. In numerous cases they have been granted subsidies to help them weather the storm, just as all agricultural products except wool and wheat are subsidized or given bounties. There is now talk of a bounty on wheat, which would result in leaving the wool trade to carry the country on its back. Even with Government assistance these industries in some cases have been unable to prosper. With conditions so difficult for them, it seems a great pity that Australia cannot be content to be what she is best suited to be—a producer of primary products. From that source she could obtain the wealth with which to purchase manufactured goods from wherever they can best be made.

* * *

The proposed tariff changes passed by the House last spring were the cause of much discussion and unfavorable comment in Australia as well as a note of protest to Washington from that Government. The principal cause for alarm was the additional 3 cents a pound on wool, making it 3½ cents in all. The result would not be so much the difference in the amount of wool sent to the United States—though there would be some loss of trade—as in the ill will engendered by the increased duty. They feel that it is a gesture aimed against them and if it is decided upon there will undoubtedly be retaliatory increased or even prohibitive duties on the many American products which they buy—notably motor cars, gasoline and films. A speaker before the recent conference of the Graziers' Association was loudly applauded when he said that the aim of America appeared to be to bring all the less fortunate nations into financial servitude. It was proposed that as the United States has an almost prohibitive duty on Australian wool, butter and meat, the Commonwealth Government should be urged to place a prohibitive duty on the importation of American cars, films, but excluding tractors and farm machinery. In which event, to retain Australian trade, American manufacturers would be forced to make their products locally in Australia. The unfavorable trade balance which Australia has with us makes the new plan even more of an affront.

* * *

The Americans in Australia who try to sell their wares are always protesting that the latter country has gone us one better as to tariff and has raised its rates far above ours. In answer to this, a tariff man after examining the trade bulletin of the Commonwealth Government and the year book of our Department of Commerce for 1927-28 asserts that the average ate of duty collected in America was 39 per cent, whereas in Australia it was but 31 per cent. The latter includes revenues on alcoholic liquors and spirits which we import but from which we derive no income—so the resultant discrepancy is even greater than the figures indicate. In many cases where we have no duty, as farm machinery, preferential railroad rates serve the same purpose. Nor are all imports dutiable in Australia. During the period under consideration more than one-third of their purchases came in duty free. Nevertheless Australian duties are high, as all American importers find to their sorrow. Yet one cannot blame them when the richest nation in the world today proposes a new tariff scale, the highest in its history. If a few of our lawmakers could forget their little constituencies for a while and see beyond their noses, or spend enough time in foreign countries to discover whether our economic improvements are really such, we might be spared some of the blunders we are continually making. However justifiable protection for infant industries may be, when they grow up and become powerful, it is time to reduce the protection, not to increase it.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.

A MAN'S front yard is not his own in the national capital. He may grow flowers and shrubs—even keep the grass cut regularly, but he does so only by the consent of the Government. Let him try to grow carrots on his front lawn and see what happens. Some tried it during the days of the World War. They were promptly arrested.

The land between building line and street in Washington, generally speaking, belongs to Uncle Sam. This includes private lawns, walks and grass at the curb. Of course there are exceptions. This condition exists in what was formerly known as the City of Washington (which passed out of existence years ago) and includes the old boundary of Florida avenue.

* * *

REGULATIONS in this area, however, are rigid. One is supposed to get permission before erecting a fence or constructing any other thing on his private lawn. A permit even to move stones should be obtained.

Clashes have been the result. In fact, there are certain sections in the area regarded as a virtual "No Man's Land." The citizens, assuming that the Government should care for its own real estate, have neglected spaces which have become eyesores.

The Government seems perfectly willing that the people should look after its property. It even goes so far to insure this by making the property owners pay for the cost of sidewalks (although they are not allowed to repair them), and requires that sidewalks be kept free of snow, ice and other material.

* * *

"When the original City of Washington was laid out, the land within it was conveyed to certain trustees and the deeds of trust provided that the trustees should convey to the Commissioner . . . for the use of the United States forever, all the said streets and of such squares, parcels and lots as the President shall deem proper for the use of the United States. Thus it will be seen that the title to the avenues, streets and alleys in the original city is owned in fee simple by the United States."

And the courts have upheld the claim.

WILL OF R. T. DEACON IS FILED FOR PROBATE

Suggests Liquidation of Printing Company—Son Is Silent on This.

Although liquidation of the Lambert-Deacon-Hull Printing Co. in event of his death was advised in the will of Robert T. INSURANCE MAN HURT IN CRASH

O. A. Schenk Recovering After Auto Upset Near Terre Haute.

O. A. Schenk f 6362 Alamo avenue, district supervisor of the Bankers' Life Insurance Co., is recovering at the Union Hospital, Terre Haute, Ind., from injuries suffered Wednesday when his automobile rolled down an embankment on U. S. Highway No. 40 about 12 miles west of Terre Haute.

Schenk was on his way to Indianapolis to attend an insurance meeting with J. R. Simpson, an agent for the same company. He was attempting to pass a car being driven in the same direction when he had to swerve suddenly to avoid striking a truck coming in the opposite direction. He suffered a skull injury, a fractured knee and four fractured ribs. Simpson suffered cuts but was able to return to his home at 5354 Ridge avenue.

FOR 18-FT. CLEARANCE ON NEW RAIL VIADUCTS

City Officials Think Court Ruling on Delmar Structure Will Apply to Others.

The United States Circuit Court of Appeals yesterday affirmed the decision of Federal Judge Davis here dismissing the injunction suit of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, which sought to force a 22-foot clearance for the Wabash railway's Delmar boulevard viaduct.

In the opinion of city officials, this paves the way for the construction of other viaducts of 18-foot clearance in connection with the proposal to depress the Wabash tracks through Forest Park and northwest to Delmar boulevard.

The State Legislature in 1925 enacted a statute forbidding the construction of such viaducts with less than a 22-foot clearance because of the danger to trainmen riding on top of freight cars. The Wabash, however, proceeded with the construction of the Delmar viaduct with a clearance of 18 feet on the ground that the city's general plan for the depression of the Wabash track and the construction of various viaducts had been approved in 1923 before the law was passed.

The railroad union protested to the commission, to the State Supreme Court and to the Federal Court. All the decisions held that the law was not retroactive.

City officials now think that a precedent has been established for use in preparing plans for the remainder of the Wabash viaduct projects. At present plans for the depression of Wabash tracks at Union boulevard with an 18-foot clearance are under discussion.

Canadian Official Held for Theft.

OTTAWA, Sept. 7.—Charged with the theft of Victory bonds and coupons of a cash value approximating $4000, George Wellington Hyndman, Assistant Deputy Minister of Finance in the Dominion Government, is held in $10,000 bail today. The alleged thefts, according to the Finance Department, took place in 1922 and 1923. Hyndman was appointed to his present post five years ago after 25 years' service in the department.

SAFETY COUNCIL O K'S MODEL TRAFFIC LAW

New Ordinance Harmonizes St. Louis Regulations With National Recommendations.

A new traffic ordinance harmonizing St. Louis traffic regulations with those of the Model Municipal Traffic Ordinance recommended by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety was passed on favorably by the Executive Committee of the St. Louis Safety Council Friday.

This ordinance in the form in which it was accepted by the Safety Council is the result of 18 months of effort of members of the Traffic Committee of the council. This traffic committee, composed of 32 downtown business men, through sub-committees, has considered every phase of the Model Municipal Traffic Ordinance and recommended for adoption in St. Louis most of the provisions of the model code. Oliver T. Remmers, past president of the Safety Council, is chairman of the traffic committee.

Charles J. Dolan, formerly associate City Counsellor, now serving as chairman of the Safety Council's legislative committee, drafted the ordinance and will arrange for its introduction in the Board of Aldermen.

Besides defining clearly the various terms used in the ordinance, proposed changes include the following:

Supplementary legislation concerning pedestrian regulation, requiring vehicles to yield the right of way to pedestrians at street crossings, stipulating the rights and duties of pedestrians at street intersections controlled by police officers and automatic traffic signals; prohibits persons standing on the roadway soliciting rides from drivers; requires vehicles to stop behind street cars discharging or loading passengers unless a safety zone has been established; requires driver overtaking street cars on their left on one-way streets to stop at the front of such street car before proceeding across the intersection.

Obedience to railroad warning signals by drivers, designation of bus stops, taxicab stands, etc., in the downtown districts, additional parking regulations during the day and at night, better regulations concerning drivers intending parking regulations during the day and at night, better regulations concerning drivers intending to turn to the right or left at intersections, restriction of the use of coasters, roller-skates, and similar devices upon the roadways or streets, prohibits persons upon bicycles or motorcycles clinging to moving vehicles, regulates the passenger load being carried in the driver's seat of passenger automobiles; prohibits driving through or over a safety zone and prohibits driving to the left of a safety zone except at such places where traffic officers or signs may direct otherwise.

The ordinance also carries a strict penalty clause for violation of its provisions.

Arabs Look On Zionists as Invaders

derstand that the Jews have a legitimate reason for coming to Palestine inasmuch as their ancestors occupied the country 2000 years ago. There is something magnificently naive and ingenuous in the belief of the Zionists that they have a right to this country because their ancestors lived there before, and because they are "God's chosen people." Even those Zionists who do not believe in a god—and there are a great many—are animated by this nationalistic fervor. But although this passion for a country plaining of the laxity of England in furthering the cause, it is not strong enough to convert the natives who look upon themselves as the victims.

Terms of Mandate Blamed.

The whole matter in a nutshell is that the Zionists and the Arabs look at these things from different points of view and when the peoples have two different points of view, they cannot be made to live together in peace except by the use of armed force.

The armed forces sent by England to uphold the promises made by Balfour have up to the present been unable to prevent the Jews and the Arabs from cutting each other's throats. The British no doubt are able to continue to preserve order until such a time as the Jews shall have completely dominated the situation or shall have abandoned the idea of colonizing Palestine. The officials charged with carrying out the terms of the mandate have made it very clear to those responsible for preserving order in Palestine that the country must be protected at all costs. When in July at Geneva, Col. Sir Stewart Symes was questioned by the Commission of Mandates concerning the situation in Palestine, he declared: "I want to emphasize one point. Members of this commission are familiar with the point—a large part if not all the trouble which we have had in Palestine is due to the terms of the mandate which we as mandatory are obliged to carry out."

England's Harvest of Abuse.

There is no doubt that England will eventually succeed in re-establishing order in Palestine. She is taking all the measures necessary to accomplish this end. But the feelings of hate between the two populations and their causes will remain and will be no doubt enhanced during many months by the memory of blood spilled. The effects of the present situation in Palestine will reach out beyond the limits of the country. It has earned for England not only the unjust attacks by the Zionists all over the world but also has stirred up a great deal of discontent on the part of the Arab-speaking people and Mussulmans throughout the world, and particularly in India. France, too, was forced to undertake a disagreeable task in suppressing the manifestations in favor of their brethren in Palestine upon the part of the Syrian population; she has a difficult task in guarding the frontiers against hostile bands and no matter what she does she will no doubt be accused of laxity in preventing disorders. These are sufficient reasons for the people of France to be greatly troubled by the news coming from Palestine in addition to the feeling of repugnance people always have to violent acts.

Placed on Police Chiefs' Committee Appointed Following Wickersham's Request.

By the Associated Press.

KEARNY, N. J., Sept. 7.—Chief of Police Phillip T. Bell, president of the International Association of Chiefs of Police, was requested today by George W. Wickersham, chairman of the National Committee on Law Observance and Enforcement, to submit suggestions on the causes and prevention of crime to aid the committee in the formulation of a program.

Bell will prepare with the assistance of a special committee, a report which will be submitted to the national committee. Included in the paper will be a study of criminal justice, police prosecution, courts, probation, parole and penal institutions.

Among those Bell has named to assist him are: J. Edgar Hoover, director of the Bureau of Investigation, Department of Justice, Washington; Chief William P. Rutledge, Detroit, Mich.; Chief Walter Kavanaugh, Fort Wayne, Ind.; and Chief Joseph A. Gerk, St. Louis.

Franklin Conquers Pike's Peak!

Proves Power, Speed and Stamina of Air-Cooling in Labor Day Classic

Like a zooming airplane, the Franklin Special piloted by Cannon Ball Baker, flashed the 12.4 miles up Pike's Peak in 19 minutes, 12 4/5 seconds. In this dramatic exhibition, Franklin, the only air-cooled car of the twelve powerful entrants, won its place "in the money" and sped across the finish line within 50 seconds of the winner.

In this steady, steep climb are the most gruelling and fastest changing conditions that a motor car could encounter. From 9,150 feet to 14,109 feet, a difference of approximately a mile in altitude—203 dangerous hairpin curves and switchbacks, many bending back as much as 146 degrees—temperature changing from 85 degrees to nearly freezing—hill after hill of 10.5% grade. Such were the conditions which changed as rapidly as those encountered by airplanes. The Franklin with the same type engine that powers 80% of all airplanes, overcame all obstacles and reached the top as fresh and as lively as at the beginning.

This Franklin Special incorporated the same principles, the same six-cylinders and cubic capacity as are employed in the stock Franklin—an amazing performer, which holds all major road records, including the Coast-to-Coast round trip, the New York-to-Chicago, the New York-to-Miami, the Desert Derby, etc.

To know everything which air-cooling affords in masterful, reliable, confident, all-weather, all-road performance drive the Franklin. In traffic, on the open road, for all-day comfort, for easy, confident control, Franklin is incomparable. Let us place a car at your disposal for an evening or a day.

NG CONTEST"

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.

A MAN'S front yard is not his own in the national capital. He may grow flowers and shrubs—even keep the grass cut regularly, but he does so only by the consent of the Government. Let him try to grow carrots on his front lawn and see what happens. Some tried it during the days of the World War. They were promptly arrested.

The land between building line and street in Washington, generally speaking, belongs to Uncle Sam. This includes private lawns, walks and grass at the curb. Of course there are exceptions. This condition exists in what was formerly known as the City of Washington (which passed out of existence years ago) and includes the old boundary of Florida avenue.

* * *

REGULATIONS in this area, however, are rigid. One is supposed to get permission before erecting a fence or constructing any other thing on his private lawn. A permit even to move stones should be obtained.

Clashes have been the result. In fact, there are certain sections in the area reguarded as a virtual "No Man's Land." The citizens, assuming that the Government should care for its own real estate, have neglected spaces which have become eyesores.

The Government seems perfectly willing that the people should look after its property. It even goes so far to insure that by making the property owners pay half the cost of sidewalks (although they are not allowed to repair them), and requires that sidewalks be kept free of snow, ice and other material.

* * *

"When the original City of Washington was laid out, the land within it was conveyed to certain trustees and the deeds of trust provided that the trustees should convey to the Commissioner . . . for the use of the United States forever, all the said streets and of such squares, parcels and lots as the President shall deem proper for the use of the United States. Thus it will be seen that the title to the avenues, streets and alleys in the original city is owned in fee simple by the United States."

And the courts have upheld the claim.

stralia. During the period under consideration more than one-third of their purchases came in duty free. Nevertheless Australian duties are high, as all American importers find to their sorrow. Yet one cannot blame them when the richest nation in the world today proposes a new tariff scale, the highest in its history. If a few of our lawmakers could forget their little constituencies for a while and see beyond their noses, or spend enough time in foreign countries to discover whether our economic improvements are really such, we might be spared some of the blunders we are continually making. However justifiable protection for infant industries may be, when they grow up and become powerful, it is time to reduce the protection, not to increase it.

TEN CITY OFFICIALS BEGIN $4000 JUNKET

To Visit 14 Cities to Study Their Methods of Disposing of Garbage.

Director of Streets and Sewers Brooks, Deputy Comptroller Meyers, Roy Gans of the street department and seven members of the Aldermanic Streets, Sewers and Wharves Committee left today to view the methods of garbage disposal in 14 principal cities in the United States and Canada. They will return to St. Louis about Sept 26.

The junket is expected to enlighten the city officials so as to prepare them to modernize the St. Louis system when the present garbage disposal contract expires next February. Brooks pointed out that the present system is uneconomical and unsanitary, since the average haul to the garbage docks at the foot of Chouteau avenue, where the garbage is loaded onto the barges and hauled to Hog Island, is three miles and teams and wagons are used. During the last fiscal year he said it cost the city $5.24 a ton or $315,862 to dispose of its garbage. A motorized system would be cheaper and more sanitary, he said.

In order to expedite matters, Brooks said he had sent a set of 33 questions concerning garbage disposal to all of the cities the party will visit so that the necessary data will be ready when they arrive. The cities to be visited are Milwaukee, Chicago, Toledo, Detroit, Toronto, Montreal, Quebec, Boston, New York, Atlantic City and Philadelphia.

The city was justified in spending $4000 on this trip, Brooks said, as it was necessary to the intelligent spending of the money necessary to modernize the system here. The change to the new system he said would cost several hundred thousand dollars.

Aldermen Fett, Bergmann, W. F. Niederleucke, Kreuger, Wetzel, Waldman and Otto are the members of the Streets, Sewers and Wharves Committee.

SUGAR MONOPOLY IN CUBA HOLDING FOR RISE IN PRICE

Will Not Authorize Sale of a Single Bag, Chairman of Agency Announces.

By the Associated Press.

HAVANA, Sept. 7.—The recently created co-operative exports agency which took control of all Cuban sugar exports Aug. 31, will not authorize the sale of a single bag until prices have reached a normal level, according to Col. Jose Miguel Tarafa, chairman of the agency.

"The executive committee of the agency considers the prevailing price for sugar ruinous and will not authorize sales of a single bag until normalcy has been reached in prices," Tarafa said today.

"There will be no dumping of sugar either in the United States or European markets," Tarafa continued, "and no sugar will be sold that cannot easily be taken care of by foreign markets. There's going to be no saturation of the market and for the time it is the firm determination of the agency to demand in our sales the preferential enjoyed with the United States. Proof of my statement is to be found in the fact that we just refused the offer of selling 5000 tons of sugar for shipment this month and next.

"The amount of sugar to be placed under our sales control this year will be approximately 400,000 tons and it would be foolish on our part not to see that this sugar is sold at remunerative prices."

URGES QUICK ACTION ON TARIFF TO AID SUGAR BEET GROWERS

Secretary of Association Says Contracts Were Made in Assumption of Higher Protection.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Sept. 7.—Immediate action by Congress on the Hawley tariff bill is essential if its provisions are to benefit sugar beet growers in the marketing of this year's crop, F. L. Crawford of Detroit, secretary of the Eastern Sugar Beet Association, told a meeting of sugar men here yesterday.

"Unless immediate action on the tariff is taken, a big percentage of the new crop of domestic sugar will be marketed at a loss," said Crawford, who has just completed a tour of sugar producing areas.

Beet sugar manufacturers in Michigan, Indiana and Ohio increased the price of beets in contracts made last spring in the belief that by harvest time some favorable tariff action would be taken, he added.

KING GUSTAV RETURNS HOME

Leaves Queen at Lake Constance; She May Winter in Rome.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 7. — King Gustav of Sweden returned to Stockholm today from Mainau, the island in Lake Constance where he has spent the summer.

There has been a slight improvement in Queen Victoria's health, but it is doubtful whether she will ever be able to return to Sweden as the climate disagrees with her. If able to travel, she will spend the winter in Rome.

Castle of Porcia Sold.

By the Associated Press.

KLAGENFURT, Austria, Sept. 7. —Duke Dimitri von Leuchtenberg, who recently was married, has purchased for 4,000,000 Austrian shillings from Count Henckel-Donnersmarck the castle of Porcia in Lavantal, known to all tourists in Carinthia. This is the biggest real estate deal in Austria since the war. The castle was built in 1537;

FUNERAL OF JOHN L. MIERS TO BE TOMORROW AT 2 P. M.

Was Employe of Car Company 37 Years, Starting as Driver on Lindell Line.

Funeral services for John L. Miers, 67 years old, manager of concessions at Creve Coeur Lake Amusement Park, who died Friday afternoon after a stroke of apoplexy, will be held at an undertaking establishment at 6175 Delmar boulevard at 2 p. m. tomorrow. Burial will be at Lake Charles Cemetery.

Mr. Miers, on his way home from the park on a street car of the Creve Coeur Lake line was chatting with three friends, J. M. Gidden, William Jahl and George Heldman, when he suddenly held his hand over his eyes, said, "I'm going blind," and collapsed. He died shortly after at the Overland Hospital. A Coroner's jury returned a verdict of apoplexy.

Mr. Miers retired as division superintendent of the Olive street lines of the United Railway Co. about 13 years ago. He had spent 37 years with the street railways in St. Louis, having started as a driver on the old Lindell horse car line when he was 17. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Laura Veto Miers, and a brother, George, of Washington, Mo. The Miers' home is on the Fee Fee road.

BALLOONISTS TO TRY FOR DISTANCE RECORD

Contestants in International Race Will Attempt to Better 1173-Mile Mark.

Contestants in the international balloon race for the third Gordon Bennett trophy, starting from St. Louis Sept. 28, will seek to better the American distance record for free balloons, established in 1910 by Alan R. Hawley and Augustus Post in the balloon America II by a flight from St. Louis to Lake Chilogana, Northern Quebec, a distance of 1173 miles.

Hawley, wealthy New York sportsman, who will referee this year's race, and Post were lost for nine days in the wilderness after landing. A reward of $9000 was offered for information concerning them. The balloonists made their way to a trading post and came out of the woods on a raft.

The Hawley-Post flight has been exceeded only once in a balloon race. M. Bienaime, who scored France's only victory in the Gordon Bennett competition, flew 1334 miles, from Stuttgart, Germany, to Moscow, Russia, in 1912.

Ten balloons are entered in the race this year, the entrants including three from the United States, two from France, Germany two, and Belgium, Argentina, and Denmark one each.

The United States will be seeking its eighth Gordon Bennett victory. By virtue of successive victories in 1926-27-28, this country obtained permanent possession of the second Gordon Bennett trophy, the first having been won for Belgium by Ernest De Muyter, an entrant this year. The United States victories were obtained by W. T. Van Orman, civilian entry in the coming race, in 1926-27, and by Capt. William Kepner, formerly of Scott Field, who won last year and is the Army's representative this year. The third trophy, donated by the Board of Trade of Detroit, where last year's race starter, will be exhibited here before the race.

THREE YEARS FOR THEFT OF RENTED AUTOMOBILE

H. Frank Lewis, 23 years old, a painter of 4563A Swan avenue, pleaded guilty before Circuit Judge Calhoun yesterday to a charge of embezzlement by bailee and was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary. In view of his plea the Circuit Attorney's office did not press a charge of being a habitual criminal against Lewis. He had previously been convicted in Mississippi of grand larceny.

Lewis rented an automobile from the Kissel-Skiles Automobile Co. on July 11, 1929. He drove it out of town and was arrested some time later when driving with his wife at Skiatook, Ok., whence he was returned by the police.

PENNY LINES UP WITH UNION

1400 Stores to Handle Ladies' Garment Workers' Products.

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—The J. C. Penny Co., Inc., which operates some 1400 chain stores throughout the country, in an understanding reached with the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union yesterday, agreed in the future to confine its cloak and suit buying exclusively to manufacturers having contractual relations with the union.

The agreement is interpreted to mean that only garments bearing union labels will hereafter be sold in the Penny Stores. Union officials say this is the first time that an organization making price the most important factor in its relations with manufacturers had entered into such an agreement with organized labor.

Half Hour With Murderers

Dramatic Future of Killing Appears to Be Exceedingly Bright, and the New York Season Has Started Off With Two Plays in Which a Shot Behind the Ear Is the Central Feature of the Landscape.

By ROBERT LITTELL.

ONLY yesterday, if you think of the world's history as a year long, cannibalism, human sacrifice, burning at the stake, and other atrocious savageries were as much a part of the daily grind as gang murder and the electric chair are of our own civilization. But the burning at the stake, the human sacrifices and the eating of the human body by other human beings are now regarded as ancient curiosities. And in another two or three thousand years it is quite possible that the mass murder we call war and the individual slayings which make such fascinating breakfast table reading will also have practically disappeared. What the stage will then turn to for its thrills it is impossible to foresee. If someone today wrote a play in which people were boiled in oil or eaten by their enemies, the audience would be more bored by the obvious improbability than shocked by the horrid deed.

It is possible to foresee a time in which murder will be so rare that audiences will turn up incredulous noses at it and demand something less old-fashioned and fantastic. But that will not be in our lifetime. It will happen, perhaps, when the City of New York stretches from Philadelphia to Bridgeport, and when Labor Day vacationists, returning home late Monday evening, jam the airways with 10 miles of monoplane traffic. But this is a long way off, as far off as the day when the same vacationists learn not to fill parks with tin cans and pieces of old newspaper.

NO, the dramatic future of murder is still exceedingly bright. For hundreds of years the knifing of lady or gent, or the shooting of gent by lady, will continue to be an inexhaustible subject, ever fair and ever young. The new theatrical season in New York, for instance, has started off with two plays in which murder is a central feature of the landscape. And there will be others. When we have seen a dozen or so we can begin to lay down rules and tell why some stage murders are interesting and others not, why some of them make you jump out of your seat and others cause you to yawn. For murder on the stage, unlike murder on the sidewalk, is not exciting for its own sake. Stage murder, just like stage love, stage laughter, stage intrigue, depends for its effect not upon the mere subject matter but upon the way it is done by the playwright, the director and the actors. Stage murder is not necessarily the more exciting for being mysterious or blood curdling or unusual. Some of the very best and most thrilling stage murders are the simplest.

The most recent members of the murder family are "Gambling" in which George M. Cohan is both author and principal actor, and "Soldiers and Women" by Paul Hervey Fox and George Tilton. Both are what you might call detective stories, that is to say that the fun in watching them is the fun of watching the murderer being tracked down. Neither of them rank high as detective stories, though Mr. Cohan's show is often very amusing for reasons that have nothing to do with the murder, and "Soldiers and Women" makes you stop, look and listen even though you know it to be rather cheap and trashy stuff. And I cannot say that the murder itself, which in the case of "Gambling" happens off stage before the first act, and in the case of "Soldiers and Women" right before your eyes in the second act, are very exciting. In fact both of them are rather ho-hum murders.

"GAMBLING" is the story of a big New York gambler, acted by Mr. Cohan himself with realism and humor, whose ward, a girl of 24, is done to death in a manner and for reasons which are neither plausible nor thrilling. The girl fell in love with another gambler, who had furnished a love nest for two hard-boiled ladies in Upper Broadway. The gambler (enacted by Mr. Cohan), suspecting both these ladies, who by this time have quarreled, makes as it were two love-nests where only one grew before. All this part of the play is amusing, as is also a scene in the gambler's roulette joint. In order to squeeze the secret out of the two girls, Mr. Cohan allows his joint to be raided by the cops, who rush in madly among the giddy midnight society guests and are heard smashing the roulette wheels upstairs.

This raid, by the way, was more exciting than any of the incidents more intimately connected with the murder. Possibly one reason why we don't care as much as we should was that we had so little time to get acquainted with the murdered lady. But that is a common deficiency in detective stories, which shoot someone behind the ear in the first chapter and spend the other 14 chapters finding out who did it. In real life—or life reported to us by the newspapers—a large part of our interest consists in learning something about the victim.

"SOLDIERS AND WOMEN" shows us a highly vicious and disagreeable female making havoc with the lives of British officers at some oppressively lonely little army post in Baluchistan. The authors originally contrived a play about ravines in Haiti, and the 10,000-mile jump to Baluchistan apparently came easily to them. It sounds like a mixture of Kipling and Somerset Maugham and something you read on a train and leave on the car seat when you are through with it.

The Colonel's vicious lady, described as "a splendid animal with whom no man ever has a chance" and very well acted by Violet Heming, does a Potiphar's wife and steals downstairs at midnight to kill the officer who would not have her. In the Baluchistan darkness she kills the wrong man. Bang behind the ear, right on the stage. The noise made several of us jump, but then doors slamming on a hot windy day will also make us jump. The rest of the play proceeds to close the net of damning evidence (such as bars missing from windows, pieces of shawl caught in doors) about the disagreeable lady, who is so disagreeable that in real life she would have been spanked at least twice in the first act alone. The point is that, while the entangling of it is often absorbing, the murder itself is not exciting. And yet it is a very complicated and lurid murder. Murder is not enough. We need, apparently, some sort of sauce to go with it if we are to be properly and permanently thrilled.

✡ ✡ ✡ ✡

IN that extraordinarily fine show, and Pulitzer Prize winner, "Street Scene," we are given the most ordinary kind of murder, with none of the mysterious frills of detective story violence, just a plain ham-sandwich of a murder. It is the best stage murder I have ever seen. It makes you feel you are looking at a real murder. Your blood runs cold, and you want to yell and jump out of your seat. It all happens in a few seconds. You know who did it, and the murderer is taken away by the police a few minutes later. Why is it so much more thrilling than the flossy and involved murders of "Soldiers and Women" and "Gambling"? For one thing it happens neither offstage nor on, but just out of sight, in a room of which you see only the window.

"Singing Fool" in England.

The London Express has published a survey of the unprecedented box-office figures achieved by Al Jolson in "The Singing Fool" during its British presentation. By far the most popular motion picture ever on view in England, "The Singing Fool" has already taken in 500,000 pounds or $2,500,000 at British box offices. The Readers' Library which has issued the novel version has broken all records for book sales with it, one store in Liverpool disposing of 10,000 copies in one week. Campbell Connolly, who owns the English copyright to the theme song, "Sonny Boy," reports that 2,000,000 records of the piece have been sold by 48 graphaphone manufacturers. A quarter of a million copies of the sheet music have also been purchased by the public.

Music and the Movie Palaces

Question of Orchestras in the Cinemas Must Be Settled by Local Theater Magnates This Week—How the Film Producers are Taking Part in the Matter—The Rather Astounding Record of Young Mr. Lowry as an M. C. Here.

By NIE.

THE situation of music in the cinema palaces—whether or not the movie houses are to have live musicians in their orchestra pits—is still undecided. This week the players will continue in their usual seats under a flag of truce waved on Sept. 1 but next Friday night the whole matter will come to a head again and the affair must be settled one way or the other. Down at Loew's Theater the management has taken the bit in its teeth and abolished the orchestra, organist and everything else musical except the brand which comes along with the films. Most of the smaller independent neighborhood theaters have done likewise and Skouras is anxious to follow suit out at the Missouri, Grand Central and the neighborhood houses of the St. Louis Amusement Company. The Grand Central, as a matter of fact, has been without music for some time but under the rules of the musicians union has employed an orchestra just the same.

Fox will probably come to some sort of an understanding with the Union, the only point now in dispute being the number of men which shall comprise the orchestra. The St. Louis, too, has signed up and the Ambassador wishes to continue with playing men on a smaller scale. If however, the Missouri does away with its orchestra after this week the Union officials may refuse to furnish one for the Ambassador where, of course, a nonunion outfit would be out of the question. The stage hands and machine operators are well satisfied with their standing and will take no part in the argument unless nonunion musicians should be engaged and as that will not happen there will be no general walk out.

AS an example of what the film producers are doing in the way of supplying synchronized music with their pictures the case of "The Cockeyed World," at the Fox, may be cited. Seven distinct musical organizations aggregating close to 150 musicians and including two navy bands, a Spanish Marimba band, Jose Aries Serenaders, a Russian Balalaika orchestra, a marine string orchestra and a "hot" jazz orchestra at Coney Island, play the music of all nations in logical sequences during the filming of this picture which has broken all attendance records at the Fox and which, at the Roxy Theater, New York played to the amazing total of half a million dollars in the first three weeks of a four-weeks engagement.

And an idea of the number of people used in the production of "The Cockeyed World" was gleaned from the work sheets in the office of David Todd, assistant casting director of Fox Studios in Hollywood.

In the scenes taken at Mare Island Navy Yard, just outside of San Francisco and aboard the U. S. Transport Henderson, 1200 real marines are seen, together with two navy bands, ship's officers and crews to the number of 800.

In the Russian, tropical and Coney Island scenes, 400 former marines were used for many days. In the Russian sequences Raoul Walsh used 125 real Russians and 150 men, women and children recruited from the local Russian colony in Hollywood and Los Angeles who might be classified as Russo-Americans.

During the tropical scenes, the director used 175 Spanish and Mexican types and in the Coney Island episodes 150 dancing couples picked from Los Angeles dance halls. In the night scenes of Coney Island 350 people were used as "atmosphere."

✡ ✡ ✡ ✡

TWO years ago last spring when Brooke Johns was in full swing in his first burst of popularity as the Missouri's master of ceremonies the Brothers Skouras risked a long shot by bringing a London entertainer to St. Louis for a similar job at the Ambassador where the one-time Hollywood star, Herbert Rawlinson, had proven a flop.

The long shot was Ed Lowry who this week is putting on his 3000th consecutive performance. During this period Lowry has outlasted Johns, Jimmy Hodges, Frank Fay, Eddie Peabody and Harry Rose. At the competitive houses Teddy Joyce, Nat Nazarro, Bob Murphy and others had their fling before passing on.

Lowry's endurance mark is somewhat of a record for one theater. Paul Ash lasted longer in Chicago but he split his time between two houses. No other M. C. is even close.

✡ ✡ ✡ ✡

REFERENCE having been made in these columns some weeks ago to the fact that before long the picture theaters would be using big screens it may be mentioned now that two more local houses are installing the huge magna-screens in which film figures are magnified to enormous proportions. Both the Ambassador and the Grand Central will be so equipped in a few weeks. The Missouri already has the big screen and made clever use of it last week in certain exciting sequences of "Fast Company." Owing to the size of the Ambassador it will be possible to equip this downtown house with what is perhaps the largest focusing area in the entire country.

It is not the purpose to show an entire feature picture on the big screen but only such portions as adapt themselves to being enlarged most effectively. Action shots, for example. It is one of Charley Skouras' keenest regrets that the magna-screen was not ready in the Grand Central to show that shot in "Four Feathers" when the herd of hippopotamuses went over the cliff.

✡ ✡ ✡ ✡

LIONEL BARRYMORE, who directed Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's all-talking picture, "Madame X," down at Loew's, like his brother John and sister Ethel, was predestined for theatrical stardom. While a young man studying dramatic art in Paris, he started to develop his latent musical and artistic talents and, according to his closest friends, might easily have made a name for himself as concert pianist or painter had not the call of the footlights and the appeal of his family won him back to his hereditary vocation.

After appearing in such Broadway stage successes as "Peter Ibbetson," "The Copperhead," "The Jest" and "The Claw," Barrymore became increasingly interested in the new pictorial medium that was just being developed by D. W. Griffith and other pioneers. In 1908 he first stepped on a picture set to work in Griffith's "Friends," with Mary Pickford and Henry B. Walthall. Barrymore was pleased with the results, but for some time hesitated between stage and screen, uncertain whether he wanted to devote himself exclusively to one or the other. However, after the stage production of "Laugh, Clown, Laugh," he returned permanently to Hollywood. His pictures include "The Barrier," "The Thirteenth Hour," "The Lion and the Mouse" and "Alias Jimmy Valentine." With the ad-

Now the Play Alone Is the Thing

By George S. Brooks.

George Brooks is the author of "Spreadeagle" and other well-known plays; short-story writer and dramatist. Now he is in Hollywood writing dialog for Movietone films.

TALKING pictures, when they attain their full growth, will automatically correct the greatest evil with which both stage and screen have had to contend in the past—the "star" system.

This system, which laid stress on the player at the expense of the play, invariably resulted in injuring the former. As practiced, it consisted of taking a good drama and, instead of casting people for the various parts who were naturally "the type" for these parts, of altering the story to fit a preconceived cast.

On the stage, this method was extensively employed. A producer who had one or more famous stars at his command endeavored to find, or adapt, "vehicles" to suit the personalities of his celebrities. Whole plays were entirely rewritten; others had a complete new act inserted in place of an existing one when the latter was of a nature that the star could not effectively handle; dialogue and characterization were slaughtered to make a Rialto holiday. In the end, a hybrid apology for a drama was produced, full of inconsistencies and weak spots, and seldom bearing any resemblance to the original play.

IN the silent era of the motion picture, this same ruinous method was pursued by almost every studio, with one or two exceptions. Checks for small fortunes were exchanged for screen rights to some Broadway success or to some popular novel, which was then unmercifully mutilated until it could be played by certain luminaries already decided upon, instead of selecting from that army of Hollywood favorites such players as could naturally assume the roles.

Of recent years the stage has broken away from this handicap; with the production of "Paid In Full" and similar dramas in 1905 and '06, a precedent was set in this regard, which has been followed with increasing success since that time. More and more the "legitimate" is concentrating on bringing out a good play, and on discarding the "vehicle" system.

• • •

BY this I mean no disparagement of the public's favorites, either of stage or screen. Such favorites have won their places through real ability and magnetism, and are fully entitled to their prominence. But after all, as Shakespeare said many years ago, "the play's the thing." The purpose of all drama is entertainment, and to that end the drama must be logical, convincing, and well acted. All good players are versatile to a certain degree, but there are limits to the roles for which they are suited; their physical characteristics, voices and histrionic talents cannot be stretched beyond these limits.

Maude Adams was a marvelous Peter Pan, and Lenore Ulric was a marvelous Lulu Belle, but one cannot conceive of these roles being reversed. The problem of the picture producer of today is, for example, not to present Miss Ulric in a distorted version of Peter Pan, but to purchase for her plays and stories of the "Tiger Rose" and "Mima" type and such others as she is thoroughly competent to enact.

• • •

THIS problem is one that the talking picture will, by its nature, solve automatically. The talking picture, unlike the silent picture, is inherently a real drama. Silent films could be, and often were, only successive incidents strung on a loose thread, without any particular unity of theme for treatment. Talking films, on the other hand, are essentially stage plays with a flexibility impossible to footlight drama.

Being stage plays, they will naturally follow the stage in this matter of suitable and appropriate casting. Studios will buy and offer dramas for which their leading luminaries are fitted. The old anomaly of a "vehicle," written to suit the particular idiosyncrasies of some particular player, and in itself neither fish nor fowl, will die out and in its place we will have sparkling, lifelike drama, a perfect story perfectly presented.

• • •

THAT the star benefits far more by this method than by the old "star" system has been amply proven. No matter how great the player, a succession of roles to which he or she is not suited always results in "killing"; much of that player's popularity, regardless of the extent to which billing and advertising has broadcast the performer's name. Modern advertising is capable of many wonders, but it cannot prevent a miscast player from suffering the penalty for miscasting.

Conversely, the public's appreciation of an excellent portrayal is unmistakably shown, whether the player's name has been ballyhooed in electric lights or not. Many an "unknown" has leaped from comparative obscurity to fame on the strength of one play or one picture—due solely to instantaneous popular reaction. Janet Gaynor, now in "Seventh Heaven," and Frank Bacon in "Lightnin'" are cases in point.

• • •

IN ANOTHER way, too, the talking picture will enable its actors and actresses to give finer impersonations than were possible in the regime of the silent film. Formerly, directors "shot" isolated sequences and scenes with no relation to what immediately preceded; for instance, an actor might have played a highly emotional scene, and made an exit through a door. Two weeks later a camera set-up might be made of the other side of the door, and that actor would be called upon to start "cold" and come through the opening, under the influence of the same emotion that theoretically he had just experienced.

Such a situation is difficult in the extreme; few if any players can put their impersonations on and off like a coat, and the result was that nine times out of 10 the player was unable to hit the precise mood he had had two weeks earlier, and his portrayal revealed it.

When talking films become fully stabilized, this difficulty will be entirely obviated. Players will be thoroughly drilled and rehearsed in all their scenes, just as is now done on the stage; the "sets" will be constructed, lighted and ready for business; and when the preliminary work has been done, the various characters will begin at the beginning and go through the entire drama with only such stops as are necessary to change the position of the cameras. In this manner the spirit and feeling of the whole play will be unified; its presentation in an unbroken stream, just as the stage presents it, will aid immeasurably in permitting every member of the cast to contribute everything he has in his role.

This method has already met with marked success whenever it has been tried, and will undoubtedly be the production plan of the future. After all, despite the immense strides the talking picture has made in its brief career, we are still in the transition period in many respects. This new medium has requirements and difficulties all its own, some of which have not yet been fully solved. But in the last analysis the public is the judge. Perhaps if, to employ Merton's phrase, we make that public our "best pal," it will never have to become our "severest critic."

Maybe It's 50-50

German Opera Company Will Come Here During Winter

"Ring," "Tristan," "Flying Dutchman," Mozart's "Don Juan" in Repertoire for Second American Tour; New Conductors Engaged in Germany

ARRANGEMENTS for the second American season of the German Grand Opera Co. have been completed by S. Hurok. It will be heard in the principal cities of the East, coming as far west as St. Louis and north to St. Paul, a 10-weeks' tour.

The repertoire will be Wagner's "Das Rheingold," "Die Walkuere," "Siegfried," "Goetterdaemmerung," "Tristan und Isolde," "Der Fliegende Hollaender," and Mozart's "Don Juan."

New scenery for all these operas has been ordered from Theater Kunstewerbehaus, Berlin, the first of its kind in Europe. All stage lighting apparatus comes from Berlin, while new costumes are being made there, too.

Of importance is the engagement of Kurt Albrecht as stage director, who for many years was stage manager of the former Royal Opera of Berlin, as well as other opera houses in Germany.

The conductor will be Ernest Knoch, re-engaged from last season; Ernest Mehlich, general music director of the Baden-Baden Symphony Orchestra and formerly conductor of the opera at Breslau and other leading theaters of Germany. Hans Blechschmidt of the Hamburg Opera completes the list.

In Chicago 29 artists who were with the Chicago Civic Opera during the season of 1928-1929 have been announced as re-engaged, either in the annual report of the board of trustees to the guarantors or in subsequent announcements. They are:

Soprani: Mary Garden, Frida Leider, Edith Mason, Alice Mock, Claudia Muzio, Rosa Raisa, Margherita Salvi, Eva Turner.

Tenore: Antonio Cortis, Charles Hackett, Rene Maison, Charles Marshall, Tito Schipa.

Baritoni: Richard Bonelli, Desire Defrere, Cesare Formichi, Giacomo Rimini, Robert Ringling, Vanni-Marcoux.

Announcement also has been made of the re-engagement of Theodore Ritch, formerly a member of the company. New artists to be added to the roster for 1929-1930 will be made known in the near future.

Giorgio Polacco will continue as musical director and associated with him will be Roberto Moranzoni and a new conductor, Egon Pollak, general musical director of the Hamburg State Opera. Mr. Pollak was conductor of the German repertoire during the seasons of 1915-1916 and 1916-1917 and his return will be welcomed as the first step in carrying out the plans for a more varied German repertoire. Other conductors engaged are Frank St. Leger and Charles Lauwers. Within a short time, the company expects to make important announcements regarding the German artistic personnel and repertoire.

There will be not one, but five, "first nights" and two other "first performances" to open the new Civic Opera House during the first week in November. Every performance of the first week of opera, which begins Nov 4, will be in the nature of a gala, and thousands of season subscribers will be getting their first glimpses of the new auditorium and stage at that time.

Hackett to Open The Music League Concerts Oct. 22

CHARLES K. HACKETT, leading tenor of the Chicago Opera Company, will open the Civic Music League's series at the Odeon Tuesday evening, Oct. 22. Mr. Hackett will shortly return from Europe, where he has appeared as "guest" artist with some of the European opera houses, to take up his duties with the Chicago company and to fulfill his concert engagements. Through Dema Harshberger, organizer of the civic concert plan for building audiences, the Chicago Civic Opera Company adopted methods used by the Civic Music Associations throughout the country with signal success. At the organization dinner, Samuel Insull, interested largely in musical progress in Chicago, remarked that support of musical and cultural activities indicated good citizenship and stressed the business side of maintaining music.

The $5 membership in the St. Louis Civic Music League meets this need, and each member becomes a sustaining factor in the league besides being privileged to attend the five attractions provided by the league without extra charge. As the budget for operating and for artists is kept within the amount realized for memberships, there can be no loss, but an important feature is to hold the membership to the seating capacity of the Odeon, to insure a sufficient amount to maintain the standard of attractions set by the league during its five years of operation.

To date there are in excess of 150 cities using the C. M. A. plan of concert giving.

Arliss Film Ready.

The master print of George Arliss' first vitaphone talking picture, "The Green Goddess," was received last week at the New York office of Warner Bros. No release date has yet been set for this film version of William Archer's stage hit but it is understood that it will reach screen audiences during the autumn months. Alfred E. Green directed "The Green Goddess," with Alice Joyce playing opposite Mr. Arliss and H. B. Warner, Ralph Forbes, David Tearle, Ivan Simpson and Betty Boyd, also in the cast.

New Opera of "Dorian Gray."

MUNICH, Sept. 7.—A new opera "Dorian Gray," by C. L. Flick-Steger, a former resident of New York, has been accepted for production by the Municipal Opera at Aussig, Czecho-Slovakia. It is based upon a novel by Oscar Wilde and will have its premier this winter.

Stockholm Likes American Drama.

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 7.—American dramas have been so successful here that the Royal Dramatic Theater of Stockholm plans to present a number of them in the coming season. Among those listed for the Swedish stage are William Hurlbut's "Hidden," Maxwell Anderson's "What Price Glory" and O'Neill's "Emperor Jones."

BEHIND THE SCREENS

By Helen Hurd

Ernest Lubitsch Began Work as Boy Actor Back in His Native Germany

Alice White Held Many Jobs of Many Kinds Before Becoming Real Star

HOLLYWOOD, Sept. 7.

WHEN we realize that behind every picture is the night and day labor of the director, and that upon him rests almost entirely the success of the film, it is time to be thinking something about these men — and woman, pardon us, Miss Arzner—in whose power it is to make or break a star. It's in their power to make a star, but if they break it's because they haven't the power. Some directors deliberately set out to make a box office picture, others sacrifice the shekels of the cash customers to art. Some few have the happy habit of finding the exact combination of art and box office appeal that makes everybody satisfied. One of these men is Ernest Lubitsch, whose name has been associated with great pictures since he started in the business over 10 years ago.

ERNEST LUBITSCH

Mr. Lubitsch was an actor before he turned director. When he was a little boy in Berlin, he wanted to go on the stage, but his father wanted him to become a figure in the commercial world. He refused to forsake his dream of a stage career, and went to Victor Arnold, a comedian, who undertook to teach him the principles of acting. After a period of apprenticeship, Arnold took his promising pupil to Max Reinhardt, the great stage director of Germany. For several years he worked under Reinhardt. The motion pictures were just beginning to make themselves felt as competition to the continental stage and Lubitsch divided his time between the "legit" and the screen, making several comedy pictures, and finally directing his own films. In 1918, he set to work producing "Carmen," which was released in America under the title "Gypsy Blood." in the same year, he made "Madame Du Barry," known as "Passion" in this country. This was the first of the historical pictures, and also served to introduce Pola Negri to the American public, her increasing popularity resulting in her being brought to this country.

• • •

AFTER a time, Lubitsch came to Hollywood, and directed "Rosita," starring Mary Pickford. You may also remember "Lady Windemere's Fan," and "The Student Prince," starring Ramon Navarro. Then came his greatest success, "The Patriot," with Emil Jannings.

When I talked to Mr. Lubitsch the other day, he said that Jannings was going to make a picture in Berlin for UFA, the greatest of German film companies, but since then word has come that another company was bartering for Mr. Janning's services. Which proves another point which Mr. Lubitsch brought out in his conversation, namely that the picture industry in Europe is in a tremendous state of upheaval, due, it seems to arguing over patent rights and copyrights permissions. As soon as one company starts to make a picture, another steps in with the information that they have no legal right to the story, so production is halted while the argument waxes, with the result that nothing is done. He thinks that Hollywood is the greatest town in the world for talent, and does not advise anyone, "especially pretty girls" to come out here with designs on the movies, unless they have talent. And the talkies are making that truer than ever.

• • •

"DIRECTORS do not want the beautiful but dumb girls," he said. "And the greatest relief in the world is to be able to talk intelligently to your cast, and have them understand." Lubitsch has just finished Maurice Chevalier's newest picture "The Love Parade" on which he is now supervising the cutting. He pointed to a basket full of "tape" on which the "Love Parade" had unrolled its scenes and sequences, which had been "cut," that is discarded as not useful to the completed picture. "Thousands of dollars worth of talent and material in the waste basket. That is the picture business. And the actors who emoted before the camera and the other people who spent their time and energy on these scenes—what do they think? They give the director—well, that is being a director."

• • •

THERE is another young chap on the Paramount lot who is just beginning to find out what it means to be a director in the movies. He is the youngest director in the business, and his name is John Langan. That is a name familiar to St. Louis, where his father, Louis Langan, lives. John says he has been to St. Louis only for a few visits, and still doesn't know all his cousins and kinsfolk there. Langan started in the theater in Boston when he was 16 years old. Time rolled on and he found himself in New York directing what he calls "a little show in New York—'The Road to Rome,' with Alice Brady." It was an easy jump from stage directing to pictures, and his first effort is, according to reports from the officials of the studio, a wow —"Kibitzer" starring Harry Green, Mary Brian and Neil Hamilton. Next came Evelyn Brent's starring picture "Darkened Rooms," with Neil Hamilton, Doris Hill and David Newell, which he co-directed with Louis Gaznier. Folks in the know predict a nice future for this chap, and since Hollywood is agreeing with him 10 pounds worth already, he is likely to stay out here and be heard from many times in the near future.

HOLLYWOOD has gone completely motion picture. Even in their private lives, the players cannot get away from the films. When they are not working before the camera, often as not they are operating them. This is the "own-your-own- movie" equipment era in picture circles and the home screen is replacing the family album menace.

Go to most any star's home and before long you are apt to find yourself gently but firmly propelled into a darkened room There is a familiar whir and you find yourself looking at pictures that never will be seen on theater screens.

• • •

THESE professionals-turned-amateurs use their private motion picture equipment almost exclusively for their own amusement. At picnics, on vacation or location or at home, they "movie" as they go. For the most part they use compact portable cameras.

What they photograph is a matter of individual taste. George Bancroft has roll after roll of film showing ships ploughing through placid seas and rough ones. Bancroft loves the water and ships.

Neil Hamilton goes in for mountain scenery. He also admits that he once yielded to suppressed desires and made himself up as Hamlet. William Powell acted as cameraman and director for this epic of Shakspearean drama.

THE air is James Hall's hobby. He has photographed most of Southern California from cliffs. One of his most treasured rolls is a medium long shot of Col. Charles Lindbergh taking off from a Los Angeles airport.

The players do not let their own productions completely dominate the home screens Often they obtain prints of feature films and show them in their homes when entertaining friends.

So far, the new era of sound has not invaded the private screens. "It won't be long, however. Charles Mack, one of the "Two Black Crows" team of Moran and Mack, already has had specifications prepared for a wired projection room in his Beverly Hills home.

MAYBE you've never heard the real story of Alice White. Her name is really Alva White and she was born in Paterson, N. J., her mother being a chorus girl. She lived with her grandparents up to the time she was 6, and between the ages of 6 and 7 she attended a convent. A year in school in Paterson followed, and then a girls' school in New Haven. Here she is alleged to have spent most of her time gazing at the Yale students who passed her window. Next she went to Virginia College in Roanoke.

Alva White tired of wasting time on an education. She followed her grandparents to California and took a secretarial course in Hollywood High School, famed for its numerous movie star graduates. Her first job was in a real estate office. She had already developed quantities of "It," and the realtor's wife suggested that she could do better elsewhere. Then she became the secretary of Billie Joy, brother of the film star, Leatrice Joy. Next she tried working at the telephone switchboard at the Writers' Club in Hollywood.

Then back to reading want ads, and a short—oh, a very short—term of employment in the United Artists publicity department. An executive said she was too flapperish and lacked dignity.

• • •

ROY NEIL, the director, next gave Alva a job holding a script, consisting of checking off the scenes of a motion picture as they were made, and watching to see that every detail in the filming was correct. At the Metropolitan studio she got a chance to play a bit in a South Sea Island picture—she lost the job. She also lost the script job she had when she took said screen job.

ALICE WHITE

Next she worked at Universal as a clerk. Then came a period of addressing envelopes for a business firm in Hollywood. Next a term of working for a real estate man, calling from house to house and ringing doorbells to inquire if the property was for sale.

Then back to holding a script at the Charles Chaplin studio on "A Woman of the Seas," which was never released. At this studio a still photographer with time hanging on his hands offered to photograph Alva. She wore an old sweater and tam, but the photographer knew his hypo and the pictures were beautiful.

"Then," said Alice, "I decided to try acting as a career." She went to Universal and took tests along with hundreds of other girls for the "Collegian" series just starting. The tests were made hurriedly and were terrible. So Alva went back to holding scripts again.

One day an agent saw her. He asked, "How would you like to have me for your manager?"

"Don't be silly!" said she. "Script girls don't need a manager."

He convinced her that he could get her a contract. He saw possibilities even in the poor screen tests. "But," he told her, "you must take off 10 pounds first."

• • •

ALVA started to reduce. With the 10 pounds gone and dressed in her best, and with Alva changed to Alice, she went with her manager to the First National Studio. When she left she had a contract. Her first role was with Milton Sills in "The Sea Tiger." Then came a long period of inactivity. Then the exhibitors' reports on the picture began to come in, the pith of them being "That White girl has something!"

And from that time the spectacular rise of the unknown script girl began. She played minor roles at First National, then was loaned for a part in "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes." Then came featured roles in "The Big Noise," with Chester Conklin; in "The Private Life of Helen of Troy," "Mad Hour" and "Harold Teen." The last named picture resulted in her getting a starring contract.

Her first starring picture was J. P. McEvoy's "Show Girl," and then came "Naughty Baby," followed by "Hot Stuff."

By this time the talkies had arrived. And what did the little ex-script girl do but take lessons in elocution. And dancing lessons. And singing lessons. She studied roles nights and worked before the camera days. It has been said that she must be bossed by her director, handled with the whip, so to speak. When bossed, she works well. She is like the kettle-drum of an orchestra—you play it with hammers.

• • •

WHEN "Broadway Babies" was written as the big singing, dancing and talking special for First National-Vitaphone, Alice White stepped into the role, sang and danced, and led an experienced chorus of 50 dancing girls like nobody's vocation. It is said that she could be cast in a Broadway show tomorrow if she wasn't too busy Vitaphoning. She now lives in a small apartment in Hollywood and has one maid. Her automobile is a medium-priced car, but her clothes, exclusive of screen attire, cost her a tidy sum. Her one article of jewelry is a slave bracelet worn on her ankle. She will never accumulate a library of first or second editions. She is frank and outspoken almost to a fault—but if she has anything to say to you she says it to YOU and not to someone else.

The First National star was a red-head, and now—for cinematic reasons — is a blonde. She is five feet two inches tall and weighs 99 pounds. She is a splendid photographic subject.

Alice White has had a lot of sweethearts and she expects to have a lot more. She has been in love with a stunt aviator, cameraman, a screen star and a business man in the past year. She likes a good time off the screen and on. She enjoys dancing, riding horseback and motoring over mountain roads.

BUT Barrymore's ambition, often expressed to friends, was to direct pictures. Sporadic pleas to coast executives brought the response that he was too valuable an actor to waste his time amid the perils of directorial work. Finally he was given "Confession," a two-reel talking subject, to direct. Company officials were delighted. When Willard Mack was assigned the screen preparation of "Madame X," Barrymore, an old friend of Mack's was made director. After finishing this piece he wasn't even given time for a fishing trip in the mountains before he was hurried over to another set and told to handle the all-talking production of Ben Hecht's "The Green Ghost." Apparently it isn't easy for a Barrymore to fail in anything he undertakes.

"Too much direction tends to make an actor mechanical," said Barrymore recently. "I think the most practical system is to 'sell' the idea, then allow the player to portray it with voice and gesture. No director has a monopoly on intelligence.

"There are really no set rules for dramatic construction. Anything that entertains and tells a story effectively is good drama. Subjects that would have been held impossible for screen treatment a few years ago are accepted today."

Good, natural voices, in Barrymore's opinion, are far less important than screen personality, for the latter quality cannot be simulated where it is totally non-existent, while even a poor voice may be "built up."

"This hue and cry about good voices," he commented, "seems to me to represent an exaggerated set of conditions. Practically every screen star who has had a voice test has found the result good enough to justify going into the talkies."

"Many noted stage actors have had poor voices. The personality behind the voice and the lines which the actor has to speak are the vital factors.

"The fact that many of the chief players in 'Madame X,' such as Ruth Chatterton, Lewis Stone and Raymond Hackett, had stage experience before trying talking films, does not mean that a player possessing such a background always has a big advantage. Miss Chatterton, Stone and Hackett also have fine screen personalities."

• • •

WHEN the talking picture succeeded the silent film, many established players on the silent screen were, naturally, nervous about their first talking tests, and there was much to do about whether their voices were suitable for recording. Much of their apprehension was unnecessary, according to John Daumery, now an assistant director, who was formerly with the Vitaphone forces and who served as a sound expert on the early talking pictures.

"Any person who speaks in a natural tone, speaking from the chest up, and who enunciates clearly and does not mumble his or her words, has a good recording voice," Daumery declares. "Of course, some 'heavy' players who may have a high voice are going to be handicapped on the talking screen, for their voice does not fit the characterization they portray.

"But as a general rule, the person who talks naturally and distinctly does not need to fear a talking test."

Daumery is now acting as assistant director on "No, No, Nanette," at the First National Studio in Burbank. In this picture, which is adapted from the musical comedy of that name, two former stage stars have the leading roles. They are Alexander Gray and Bernice Claire, both of whom sang in the Chicago company of "The Desert Song" last season.

• • •

DAUMERY commented on the fact that both of these artists have excellent singing voices for recording.

"However, that is one thing which no sound expert can tell, even when he sits in the monitor room and hears them sing. Until the record is played back, no one can tell whether a singer's voice will record with good quality or not."

"Almost all stage-trained people have good voices for recording," Daumery said, "for they must enunciate carefully and speak naturally on the stage. In fact, some stage players like Edward Everett Horton speak so softly while making a talking picture that spectators cannot realize their voices will record satisfactorily. That is because they know how to throw their voices."

Daumery also pointed out that Raymond Griffith, who is unable to speak above a whisper at the time, has a fine recording voice for the sensitive microphone picks up all the tones and magnifies them. But the "mixer" in the monitor room, who adjusts the dials as the players speak to get the proper volume to their voices, has a busy time of it when a player is whispering and the other in the set talking in a natural voice. He has to catch every tone and adjust his dials to the proper position. Otherwise, when the picture is played, one player would be talking in the normal tones and the others shouting."

Harold Lloyd Hears Himself

HIGHLY pleased by the comedy results obtained with sound and dialogue in "Welcome Danger," Harold Lloyd undoubtedly has warbled his swan song in silent motion picture comedies.

"It doesn't seem possible," said Lloyd in a letter received the other day, "that sound and dialogue can make such a difference in motion pictures."

The comedian was comparing the merits of the same scenes in dialogue and in silent form. One scene in particular, which was a high spot in the silent version of "Welcome Danger," met with a good audience reaction when it was tested before a preview gathering. But in the "see and hear" version, Lloyd asserts, this sequence seemed to be lifted completely above the high water mark of the silent and given a zest that it could not possibly have obtained without the injection of natural sounds and dialogue. The result he obtained through refilming this scene was apparent in all the other sequences rephotographed in sound. Consequently, Lloyd explains, he refilmed the entire picture in dialogue, but the silent version of the comedy will be released in 40 or more foreign countries where there is no sound equipment and in the thousands of smaller theaters in the United States which have not yet installed sound projection apparatus.

"It seemed as though we were producing an entirely new story," Lloyd commented. "Yet we actually made few changes in the plot from the silent version. The great advantage accruing to us in the making of a silent version first is that, in sound and dialogue, we can retain all the action of the old time motion picture comedy, but give it increased appeal through the addition of voice and sound. The latter we are finding is a tremendous asset to comedy business. We look scenes in the silent version that look back at now which were very funny to us, but after having subjected the sound version of the same scenes there is as much difference as day and night."

Trotzky Tells of Bolshevik 1917 Coup d'Etat; So Calm Papers Did Not Mention It

By Phone From Smolny Institute He Directs Forces — Public Places Seized Without Bloodshed—Menshevik Terms Rejected.

LAST Sunday Leon Trotsky told of his return to Petrograd from New York in the spring of 1917. Already the March revolution which overthrew Czardom had occurred and the Provisional Government, headed by Alexander Kerensky, was in control.

Into the furious whirl of conflicting political currents that convulsed Russia, Trotsky plunged. He was arrested by the Kerensky Government, later released. He was a leader of the Bolshevist revolutionary cause, which was destined in November, 1917, to oust Kerensky and seize control of the Russian Government.

On Oct 24, Russian style, which was Nov. 6 by the western calendar, the hour had arrived for the Bolshevist revolution to strike in Petrograd. Trotzky now continues with his vivid narrative of that historic coup d'etat as he saw it from Smolny Institute, when he directed it.

(Copyright, 1929.)

By LEON TROTZKY.

CHAPTER XI.

THE twelfth hour of the revolution was drawing near. The Smolny Institute in Petrograd by this time had been transformed into a fortress. There were a dozen machine guns in the garret, left there by the old Executive Committee. Capt. Grekoff, military commandant of Smolny, was notoriously an enemy, but on the other hand, the chief of the machine gun detachment came to inform me that the gunners were on the side of the Bolsheviks.

The machine guns were in bad order, due to long neglect. The soldiers had grown slack, because of lack of enthusiasm for defending Kerensky.

I had a fresh and dependable machine gun detachment brought into Smolny. It was Oct. 24 (Nov. 6 by Western calendar), early in the gray morning. I went over the building, story by story, partly to have something to do and partly to see that all was in order, and to encourage those who needed encouragement.

Over the stone-flagged corridors, endless and gloomy in the dim morning light, soldiers were dragging their machine guns about with much clank and clatter. It was the new detachment which I had ordered to come.

Mensheviks Quit Smolny.

Frightened faces appeared and quickly disappeared in doorways—the faces of the few Mensheviks and Social-Revolutionaries who had stayed on at Smolny. The music of the guns fell upon their ears with ominous augury. One after another they hastened to quit Smolny. We were left absolute masters of the building, which was about, to raise its Bolshevik head over the capital and over the country.

On the third floor of Smolny, in a small corner room, the Revolutionary War Committee sat in permanent session. In that room was concentrated all information about the movements of troops—about the mood and attitude of soldiers and workmen, agitation in the barracks, the plans of marauders and organizers of programs, the intrigues of bourgeois politicians and foreign diplomats, the life of the Winter Palace, and the conferences held by the former Soviet parties.

Odd Minutes for Rest.

For a week I had scarcely stepped outside the Smolny, snatching odd minutes of rest on a leather sofa without even taking off my clothes. I was constantly being called by couriers, scouts, messengers, telegraphers; the telephone scarcely stopped ringing.

The decisive moment was at hand—it was clear that there would be no turning back.

In the night of the 24th, the members of the Revolutionary Committee went out into the various districts of the capital. I was left alone. Later Kamenev came in. He was against our rising. But on that decisive night he came and stayed with me in that little corner room—the captain's bridge from which the revolution was being directed.

Bell Rings Constantly.

There was a telephone booth in the room adjoining. The bell rang constantly, about important matters or about trifles. The ringing of the bell made the alert silence the more impressive.

It was easy to imagine Petrograd on that fateful night; badly lit and cut by sharp autumn winds from the sea. Bourgeois and former government officials tossed in their beds, fearfully wondering what might be happening in the gloomy and sinister streets of the capital. The working quarters were sunk in the heavy sleep of a fighting bivouac.

Committees and conferences of the governmental parties were exhausting their wits in the old imperial palaces, where the living ghosts of democracy rubbed shoulders with the still-lurking ghosts of the monarchy.

Soldiers Keep Vigil.

Out in the districts, detachments of soldiers and sailors were keeping their vigil. Young proletarians paced to and fro, with rifles or machine-gun belts slung over their shoulders. Street pickets warmed themselves at fires built in the middle of the streets.

A score of telephones was the main nervous system of the capital's spiritual life, on this autumn night when it was thrusting its head through one epoch into the next.

Into that third-floor room news flowed together from every district, every suburb, every access to the capital. Apparently everything had been foreseen, leaders were in their places, liaison was assured, nothing had been overlooked. Over and over again in my racing thoughts I checked every point. This night would decide the issue.

Anxious Night of Waiting.

There could be no doubt about the victory; it was guaranteed so far as any victory can be guaranteed in advance. Yet this final night was full of anxiety, waiting for the fateful hour to strike.

The government, on the previous night, had mobilized the military cadets and ordered the cruiser "Aurora" to steam out of the Neva river. The "Aurora" was manned by Bolshevik sailors who came to the Revolutionary War Committee asking what to do. And so the "Aurora" tonight was standing where she had stood yesterday.

A telephone message from Pavlovsk informed me that the government was bringing up a detachment of artillery from that place, as well as a battalion of shock troops from Tsarskoye-Selo and a body of cadets from the army school at Peterhof.

Women's Battalion Assembled.

his military cadets and officers, together with the women's shock battalion, at the Winter Palace, where his Government was centered. I ordered the Commissars to prepare dependable defenses along the roads of approach to Petrograd and to send agitators to meet the troops which the Government was bringing up.

Over and over again I repeated in my telephone messages:

"If you cannot stop them with words, use arms. It is a matter of life or death."

Yet I only half believed what I was saying. The revolution was still too confident, too magnanimous, too optimistic and lighthearted. It talked much more of using force than it really intended to apply it. It still hoped that all might be settled by the force of words. So far it had been successful.

Enemies Stay in Hiding.

Opposition melted, evaporated, at the mere approach of the revolution's hot breath. On that day indeed, orders had been given that at the first sign of riots, or pogroms, the force of arms was to be employed without mercy. But our enemies, completely cowed, did not dream of venturing upon the streets. They kept in hiding. The streets were ours.

Our commissars were in charge and on the watch at all trains to Petrograd. The Peterhof cadets had not responded to the government's call, nor had the artillerists. Only a fraction of the cadet detachment from Oranienbaum had managed, under cover of night to get through our lines.

I kept track of their every movement by telephone. Finally they sent a delegation to Smolny to parley with us. The Provisional Government was making vain appeals for support on every hand, but the ground was crumbling under its feet.

All Troops Ready.

A new machine-gun detachment had arrived to reinforce the outposts of Smolny. Liaison was maintained among all parts of the garrison. All the companies on duty were wide awake, the Commissars all at their posts.

Delegates from every military unit were in attendance at Smolny, under orders of the Revolutionary War Committee, in case of any break in the chain of liaison.

Throughout the districts of the city armed detachments paraded the streets, ringing the bell at every public establishment—or simply walking in without ringing—and taking possession of one building after another. Almost everywhere they were greeted and welcomed as long-awaited friends. All the important points of the capital passed into our hands practically without resistance, struggle or bloodshed.

He Loses Consciousness.

With the relaxation of nervous tension, a tired numbness came over me. "Give me a cigarette," I said to Kamenev. (I still smoked somewhat at that time, but not excessively). Hardly had I taken a couple of puffs, reflecting with relief that it was all over, than I lost consciousness. I inherit from my mother a tendency to faint when in severe pain or suffering. That weakness was what induced an American physician to endow me with epilepsy.

When I came to I was looking up into Kamenev's frightened face.

"Shall I get you some medicine?" he asked.

Wants Food, Not Medicine.

"You had much better get me some food," I answered, trying to remember when I had had my last meal. Certainly it was not yesterday.

Next morning I seized eagerly upon the bourgeois and liberal papers. Not a word about the coup d'etat that had begun the previous night!

The papers had been howling so long and so loud about the impending military revolt, about the inevitable looting and rioting and rivers of blood, that they simply had not recognized the revolution when it really did happen.

The papers took our negotiations with the staff at their face value, and regarded our diplomatic utterances as evidence of irresolution.

Meanwhile, without violence and without disorder, almost without firing a shot or shedding a drop of blood, one Government establishment after another—railway stations, post and telegraph offices, the news agency, the State Bank—were being occupied by detachments of soldiers, sailors and Red Guards, acting upon orders from Smolny Istitute.

The population rubbed its frightened eyes. Was it possible, really possible, that the Bolsheviks had seized the power? A delegation from the Municipal Council waited upon me and asked me a series of truly inimitable questions: Did we propose action, and of what kind, and when? The Council must know of it "at least 24 hours in advance." What measure had the Soviet taken to secure order and safety?

Idea Frightens Council.

In reply I gave them a little lecture on revolution and suggested that the Municipal Council should appoint one of its members to participate in the work of the Revolutionary War Committee. That suggestion frightened them more than the actual coup d'etat.

I concluded, as usual, with a reference to armed resistance:

"If the Government has recourse to iron, the answer will be steel."

The delegation left as wise as it came. Only last night the Government had decided to place the members of the Revolutionary War Committee under arrest and was busy compiling a list of our addresses. And now a delegation of the Municipal Council waited upon the "arrested" committee—to learn its own fate!

Ghost of Government.

The Government still sat in the Winter Palace, but it was a mere ghost of a Government. Politically it no longer existed. In the course of the day of Oct. 25 the Winter Palace was gradually invested on all sides by our troops. At 1 o'clock in the afternoon of that day I reported to the Petrograd Soviet on the general situation.

When I reported the overturn of power that had taken place during the night there was a tense silence for several seconds. This was followed by some applause, not at all stormy, but rather tentative. The full significance of such a statement unfolds slowly.

During our preparations for the struggle the worker class was fired with indescribable enthusiasm; but when the threshhold of power had actually been crossed, the feeling of elation gave way to anxious thought and reflection. "Can we withstand and overcome it?" many wondered inwardly. That was the reason for the moment of anxious silence.

Every Man's Answer.

"We shall carry it through," was every man's answer. The new danger lurked in the offing, but here and now was victory, and that realization made the blood tingle. It found expression in a tremendous ovation when Lenin appeared—for the first time, after an absence of nearly four months.

Late that evening Lenin and I were resting in an empty room next to the Congress Hall, waiting for the session of the Congress of Soviets. The room was furnished only with a few chairs. Somebody spread a blanket on the floor for us and someone else—I believe it was Lenin's sister—brought two cushions.

We lay there, minds and bodies relaxing like an over-strained spring. It was well-earned rest, but we were unable to sleep. We talked in subdued tones.

Lenin's Voice Hearty.

Lenin's voice, now, had those rare notes of heartiness. He questioned me about the mixed pickets of Red guards, soldiers and sailors, that had been posted everywhere about.

"What a picture it is! The soldier and the workman, each with his rifle, side by side before a street fire!" he murmured, with deep feeling. "At last we have brought the soldier and the workman together."

But we could not rest long. The session was beginning in the adjoining hall. Oulyanova, Lenin's sister, came running to fetch me.

"Dan is speaking; they are calling for you," she cried in an excited voice. Dan was reproaching the "conspirators" and predicting the inevitable failure of the uprising. He demanded that we should form a coalition with the Social Revolutionists and the Mensheviks. The parties which yesterday, when they were in power, had persecuted us and put us in prison, were today, after we had overthrown them, asking us to come to terms.

I answered Dan, who, in the circumstances, personified Yesterday, saying:

"What has just occurred is a coup d'etat and not a conspiracy. A rising of the masses of the people requires no justification. We forged and annealed the revolutionary energy of the workers and soldiers. We openely forged the will of the masses to rise. Our uprising has conquered. And now we are told: Give up the victory, come to terms. With whom? You are pitiful, disunited individuals; you are political bankrupts; your game is up; go to the place where you belond—to the dustbin of history."

That was the last word in the great debate that had begun on April 3, 1917, on the day and at the hour of Lenin's first arrival in Petrograd.

"Fireman, save my child at cut prices!"

LUDICROUS, isn't it, to think of a man with his house ablaze, wasting precious minutes looking for a cut-rate fire department?

Yet, consider the impressive similarity between the services of firemen and independent community druggists.

Fire strikes infrequently; so does illness. Yet every city and town prides itself on paying for adequate fire protection, on keeping men and equipment ready for the emergency. What do these communities pay for similar health protection? What salary do they give the druggist who is ready and waiting from morning until far into the night to fill the emergency prescription.

Just as firemen are not busy all day fighting fires, so the druggist is not constantly engaged in filling prescriptions. That is why he must sell other things in addition to medicines. Unless he does, he cannot stay in business and be ready to care for your prescriptions.

Every independent community druggist, who is forced to go out of business, reduces the health protection which you and your family need. Fortunately, increasing recognition of this vital fact is building increasing business for the independent community druggist.

Never is "penny wise" shopping more "pound foolish" than when it buys machine-like attention in place of the sincere, friendly individual interest of the man who owns his store, who is a registered pharmacist, who is deep-rooted in the interests of your community.

You can recognize his store by the sign McKesson Service in his window. Buy there, and you will pay no premium for health insurance.

New 'Choral' Orchestra on KSD Tonight

Unique Musical Effects Planned by Blending Voices and Instrumental Music—Operatic Soprano in Atwater Kent Concert.

A program of unpublished native melodies arranged by Sven Hallberg will be broadcast in "Echoes of the Orient" concert at 4 p. m. today over KSD, as follows:

...rs in Damascus.....Von Hallberg
...the Bazaar
...of Araby
Guitar
...hen the Muezzin Calls
...cient Arabian Dance

Countess Albani, mezzo soprano, to be soloist in a recital at 4:15 this afternoon over KSD.

A Maestro's concert will be given by Elizabeth Lennox, contralto; Robert Simmons, tenor, and an orchestra directed by Cesare Sodero at 4:30 this afternoon over KSD.

Jeane Joyson, stage star, a contralto, will sing "I'm a Radio Widow," as featured soloist with Ted Bowes' Capital "Family" in a broadcast over KSD from 5:30 to 6:30 o'clock. She sings many clever comedy numbers and lyrical ballads, and is known for her close resemblance to Irene Bordoni, the popular French-American artist. Her work, also, is reminiscent of Belle Baker and Sophie Tucker.

The Chase & Sanborn Choral orchestra will make its radio debut at 6:30 this evening over KSD and nearly 40 other NBC stations. The popular piano duo, Phil Ohman and Victor Arden, will assist. These pianists are recording artists. Two of the numbers they are to play, "Rag Doll" and "I've Got to Have You," have become nationally popular.

Frank Black, creator of unusual musical tone colorings and discoverer of new harmonies, has charge of the feature. Every selection is to be sung from individual manuscript parts which Black has written to bring out new beauties of the old favorite and popular present-day songs which make up the Chase & Sanborn programs.

The voices of the singers to be woven into the tone fabric in a way that enables them to blend as new instruments with the orchestra. The inclusion of human voices is said to give the harmonies an added depth and fullness. The voices have been chosen, not only for their ability to blend with the orchestral instruments, but also to rise at times to solo and duet parts.

In selecting the singers, Black examined hundreds of aspirants before he found the small group whose voices possess the right qualities of blend and color to make them ideal for his purpose.

An instance of the effects to be heard in the new program is the arrangement of "Marching Songs of 1917," in which a fife and drum corps is realistically produced by male men's voices for the drums and the women's as fifes.

Another example is a miniature musical comedy in which the orchestral instruments take several parts, leaving others to the singers. The program follows:

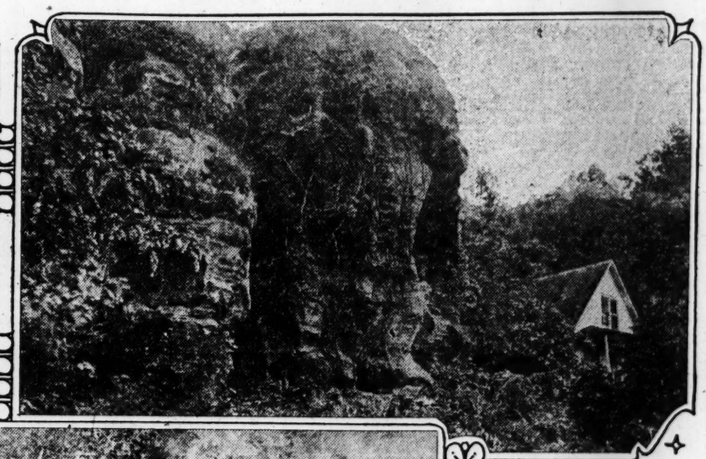
Highway Improvements in Southern Illinois Open Up Delightful Scenic Tours



By F. A. BEHYMER.

NEW journeys into Egypt, a part of Southern Illinois that, because of difficulty of access, has been a terra incognita to most motorists, will become easy and inviting through projected highway building.

They are journeys that may be made in fair weather now by adventuring tourists who do not mind dirt roads and the dust that is kicked up by other adventuring tourists. They lead southward from where Chester sits on its high hill into a region rich in interest and scenic attractiveness, new fields of exploration that, under present conditions, are challenging, but which, when the roadmakers have had their day, will be beckoning.

It is Illinois Highway No. 150, mostly, that will reveal what has been concealed, for it will pierce a region of hills and rocky escarpments and lowlands of great fertility and prolific productiveness, with feasible side trips to locations of unusual interest.

Route 150, as under construction and projected, in its approach to Chester is a north and south belt line, not touching St. Louis but intersecting the main east and west arteries. In connects with Route 4 at Hamel, a few miles northwest of Edwardsville, and crosses Route 11 at St. Jacob, Route 12 at Lebanon, Route 15 at Mascoutah, Route 13 at Marissa, traversing it to Sparta, and thence to Chester. The concrete is laid between Marine and St. Jacob, and between Lebanon and Marissa, although the section from Lebanon to Mascoutah has not been thrown open to traffic. Concrete has been laid about four miles out of Sparta and the remainder of the route to Chester has been graded.

Simultaneously work has been in progress on the southern end of the route. Concrete has been laid a few miles out of Cairo and heavy grading is about completed across the lowland as far as Olive Branch. From there to Thebes the new road will follow the ridge to a point overlooking Thebes, Between Chester and Thebes the route has not been announced. It is assumed that the next step will be to push construction from Thebes to the neighborhood of McClure, to connect with Route 146, under construction from the Cape Girardeau bridge and to be extended by way of Ware to Jonesboro.

The immediate problems for the engineers is to locate the road between Thebes and McClure and it is difficult. There is a rock surfaced State road between these two points, but the utilization of this right of way involves an abrupt descent from the ridge and a serious hazard is presented by a reverse curve under two railroad trestles which it is feared would be a death trap. However this difficulty is solved, it is expected that the extension to the neighborhood of McClure will be pushed as rapidly as possible so as to give connection with the Cape Girardeau bridge. Completion of 146 to Ware will carry 150 that far Then there will remain construction between that point and Chester over a route yet to be fixed, but the sections to be traversed are obvious. These are accessible at this season of the year over unimproved roads that are fairly good, and a tour through the region reveals the attractions that will be offered when the paved road is finished.

From St. Louis the most direct way to Chester is by Route No. 3, paved all the way, through Columbia, Waterloo, Red Bud and Evansville, 68 miles. After crossing the Municipal Bridge, Route 3 is reached by turning left one block at the east end of the bridge. The first place of historic interest to be reached is Cahokia, just a little way beyond the limits of East St. Louis, the first permanent white settlement in the Middle West, which was a place of importance before the founding of St Louis. Only a block from the trail stands the little seventeenth century Holy Family Church where the pioneers worshiped and in its yard are the graves of priests who served the community in the early days. It was built of logs, placed perpendicularly, morticed and pegged. It is regrettable, from the standpoint of picturesqueness, that the outer walls have been weather-boarded, but the perpendicular log construction is visible on the inside It has been superseded as a place of worship by a more modern structure but is still used for parochial purposes.

Still standing, also, is the Jarro mansion, where General Lafayette was lodged when he visited St. Louis, because there was not at that time a St. Louis residence deemed sufficiently imposing for the purpose. It is now used for a parochial school.

The Rev. Joseph H. Mueller, who has been in charge of the parish since last October, receives the Missale bearing date of 1668, visitors and courteously shows them candlesticks of hammered brass, a monstrance of solid brass and other relics of the past.

In curious contrast to the spirit of the past that broods over the place is the constant humming of airplanes from the nearby Parks Airport, soaring high or swooping low over the old buildings.

Just before reaching Dupo a sign points the way to Falling Springs, a mile and a half from the trail, where the water tumbles over the rocks and is sluiced to a tank for the locomotives that serve the quarries, picturesque spot, barring

Will Build Highway to Mount Vernon On Potomac

Paved Road Connecting Capitol and Washington's Birth Place Will Be Completed in Time for Two Hundredth Anniversary Celebration; Congress Appropriates $4,500,000 for Project Which Is to Be 15.4 Miles Long.

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Plans for the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, commemorating George Washington and connecting the National Capitol with the ancestral home of the first resident, are rapidly materializing. Within the next few months the route will slowly begin to take the form of a broad, well paved roadway that will add another asset to the present esthetic resources of the city's environs.

The Bureau of Public Roads, under whose supervision the highway is being built, has called for bids for hydraulic fills which will initiate actual construction work. The job of building this thoroughfare along the Potomac River will be under way by autumn and thereafter it will be expedited so that the road will be finished by 1932 in time for the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Washington.

Fiscal plans for the highway cover a three-year period. The total amount appropriated by Congress is $4,500,000, of which $2,500,000 was made available for 1928 and 1929. For each of the years 1930 and 1931 $1,000,000 will be available. During the first two years heavy hydraulic fills are to be placed, work on foundations done, and grading and paving of roadway and parking places completed. The last year will bring to completion the paving work and planting along the roadway.

The highway is to be 15.4 miles long. Following the river route it passes through Alexandria, Va., around which centers countless historic memories of the days of Washington. Its grades will be easy, at no point exceeding 6 per cent, and for a considerable portion the grade is less than 1 per cent.

Except in Alexandria, the right of way of the memorial road will be 200 feet wide, with a 40-foot pavement and two 10-foot shoulders. Where the conformation of the ground is more suitable, two 20-foot pavements will be constructed on different levels. Seven masonry bridges, whose design will be monumental and harmonize with the Arlington Memorial Bridge now nearing completion, will be included.

When completed, the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway will provide the capital one of the most beautiful drives in the world. Over the route of which it will be a part a motorist may drive from the Maryland State line through Rock Creek and Potomac parks and then along the Potomac River to the home and burial place of George Washington.

Highway Body Acts to Remove Unsightly Signs

Plans to Beautify Road System and Plant Shrubbery.

By the Associated Press.

JEFFERSON CITY.—The Missouri Highway Commission has put under way an extensive program to beautify the State highway system.

The compaign calls for removal of unsightly objects and signs along the right-of-way of highways, planting of trees and shrubs along roads and highways, particularly near cities and towns, and the painting of all mail boxes, racks and standards with guard rail white paint.

Chief Engineer T. H. Cutler is asking all postmasters, rural route mail carriers, and farmers to cooperate in securing the erection of standard mail boxes at farms, which the department will paint black and white for uniformity and to prevent them detracting the attention of motor car drivers from the road ahead.

The department also is working in conjunction with Chambers of Commerce to secure the planting of trees and shrubs along highways, especially for some distance along the highway approaching and leaving the town. In a number of years it is hoped that the State will not only have one of the best highway systems in the world, but also one of the most picturesque and beautiful.

Maintenance men and other highway officials also have started a campaign to have unsightly shacks, buildings, signs and other objects removed when they are close to highways.

Many Companies Set Production Record in August

Even Those With No New Models Had Good Showing.

By FRED KINGSBURY,
A Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Mich., Sept. 7.—Figures available showing August production indicate that the automobile business did not fare so badly during the last month. In fact, several of the larger companies set new records for that period.

Dealer requirements for September, according to car makers, will be especially high for the month and a new record for this 30-day period is foreseen.

Those companies which brought out new models late in July or early in August, naturally had excellent records during the past month. In those cases it was necessary to supply dealers with as full a line of cars as possible and the factories always look for great in-

Mechanical Traffic Officers Do Everything But Speak

Robots "Reason" Out Problems and Know What Is Going On at All Times; Many in Use in East.

Science has stepped into the field of traffic regulation and her latest and most extraordinary offering is a new traffic robot or mechanical policeman who is now directing traffic in many of our large Eastern cities.

Our modern age has delivered over to us many thousands of mechanical "slaves" but only recently has it begun to approach the more valuable end of creating mechanical "brains." During the last two or three years some devices have come on to the market that have showed symptoms of having the creative germ but unfortunately most of them have performed only minor functions.

Recently a group of young Yale engineers brought forth a mechanical "brain" that actually accomplishes a useful function—that of directing traffic. It is not a hit and miss proposition, it is a "mechanical policeman" that directs traffic far more efficiently than a highly trained traffic officer and operates a standard signal light in exact accordance with the varying volume and flow of traffic in the streets. It enjoys, furthermore, a tremendous advantage in that it admits of no errors.

To fulfill the claims made by these inventors the device necessarily had to possess a "brain" that would make it superior to that of the human being. It seemed highly improbable that any mechanism could be devised which would be capable of "remembering," "thinking," "seeing" and "receiving instructions" and skepticism therefore prevailed.

Those who have seen the system in operation in a number of Eastern cities, however, maintain that it does eevrything but smile, give the motorist a cheerful "good morning," arrest speeders and issue "invitaions" to court functions. What this mechanical "brain" lacks in amenities, it makes up in smoothness of operation.

The "electro-matic" traffic control was conceived in New Haven, Conn., when a young Yale professor, Henry A. Haugh Jr., hurrying home late one night, was stopped at a pretimed traffic signal which was giving the right of way to an empty street. Chafing at the unnecessary delay, Prof. Haugh began to ruminatee upon the possibilities of regulating traffic by mechanical means to its own volume and flow. In other words, allowing traffic to run itself. In collaboration with three Yale associates, Eugene D. Stirlen, Charles D. Geer and Wallace G. Garland, the new mechanical "brain" with its mechanical "eyes" was developed.

The system which has been installed in a number of cities throughout the Eastern states is directing traffic far more efficiently than it ever has been directed before my other means—either human or mechanical. The entire downtown business area of the city of Wilmington, Del., is controlled by the robot and since the installation of this robot, traffic officer control has been dispensed with. So much interest has been generated by this recent development that traffic experts from all over the country have journeyed to the Delaware city to watch the me-

New Company Is Formed to Buy Tate Motor Co.

Milstrand Motor Becomes Dodge Distributer in This Area.

Effective as of Sept. 1, the newly organized Milstrand Motor Co. took over the business and building of the Tate Motor Co., Inc., 3001 Washington boulevard, and became the Dodge Brothers distributer in the St. Louis area.

Heading the new company is Milton B. Strauss, president and treasurer. He has been in the automobile business since 1906 and for 14 years was a distributer in St. Louis.

For the last three years, Strauss has been president and treasurer of the Milstra Motors, Inc., of Flint, Mich., Dodge agency. He will give his entire attention to the St. Louis company, although retaining his interest in the other. At one time he was a director of the St. Louis Auto Dealers' Association.

W. C. "Fuzzy" Anderson, vice president of the Vandeventer National Bank, is vice president of the company. In 1905 he opened the St. Louis branch of the Ford Motor Co., was a foreign representative of that company from 1918 to 1922 and in 1912 built the Ford factory here.

Joseph A. Schlecht, secretary, has been in the automobile business here for 19 years, organizing the Mound City Auto Co. Until recently Schlecht was district manager here of the De Soto Motor Corporation, a division of Chrysler. He is a past president and treasurer of the St. Louis Auto Dealers' Association.

Virtually the entire personnel of the Tate Motor Co. will be retained.

The Tate Motor Co., of which Frank R. Tate was president, was one of the oldest, most successful and best known automobile distributing companies in the State. Tate held many offices with the St. Louis Auto Dealers' Association, of which he was one of the oldest members.

Motorists Interested In Projected Highways In Southern Illinois

the tank, and a shady resting place.

Dupo was a railroad town until oil was struck. It still is a railroad town but the oil boom aspect overshadows the rails and roundhouses. Nearly every back yard boasts its derrick and the clatter of boring machinery is heard day and night. So Dupo is not as pretty a place as it used to be, but motorists may see, without traveling to distant fields, what an oil boom town is like.

Columbia, six miles further, is a pleasant and prosperous town in a rolling countryside, which once had its taste of oil when wells were brought in between that town and Waterloo.

At Waterloo, which is the county seat of Monroe County, one may turn aside to visit Camp Vandeventer for Boy Scouts, three or four miles south in the picturesque broken country along Fountain Creek.

Four miles south of Waterloo, the paved road may be left for a side journey of 18 miles to old Fort Chartres, near Prairie du Rocher, built in 1717 by the French settlers, now a state park and in process of restoration. The dirt road, through the pitted "sinks" section, is on high ground most of the way, descending by a steep hill to the lowland just before Prairie du Rocher is reached.

Passing through the town, the fort, three and a half miles toward the Mississippi, is reached by a paved road that has just been completed.

The powder house has been rebuilt and the foundations of the various fort buildings remain. The old fort was partially destroyed by the river current, necessitating its abandonment in 1772 and the removal of the center of French government to Fort Gage, near Chester.

It will not be long before Fort Chartres will be accessible by paved road all the way from No. 3. Work is in progress on the road from Ruma, part of which has been paved. When this is completed the side trip will be only about 10 miles.

Motorists who visit Fort Chartres now and are minded to follow where history leads may proceed along the river road to Fort Gage, 18 miles south, passing along under the hills and rocky bluffs through Modoc, crossing the Okaw by hand-pulled ferry at Roots and on through Riley Lake to Fort Gage, which is six miles north of Chester. The road as far as the ferry is good in good weather. South of the Okaw it is not so good but passable.

Fort Gage, the old homestead of Pierre Menard, first Lieutenant-Governor of the State, and Garrison Hill Cemetery, on the hilltop, to which the bones of the Kaskaskia pioneers were removed from Old Kaskaskia when the encroaching river threatened to carry them away, are under State ownership. The Menard mansion was built in 1802. It is the only one of the pioneer homes still standing and is in excellent preservation, practically unchanged. It is built of oak, with the interior finish of black walnut.

Back of the old mansion is a brick structure that is called the slave house, where servants were quartered.

From Fort Gage there is a hard surfaced road past the Southern Illinois penitentiary to Chester, but there is the option of returning to No. 3 either from Fort Chartres or Fort Gage.

At Chester interest centers in whether Route 150 will go south to Rockwood along the river or through the hills. Each has its proponents. It is not difficult to discover that the farmers along the present river road favor its improvement and that the hill farmers regard the hill route as the only desirable one. Chester people are divided in their allegiance. For a disinterested tourist each way has its advantages. In good weather the present road through the hills is easier to travel than the one along the river, despite the ups and downs of the hills. The river road is rougher but there are compensations in the scenic combinations of hills and river. The two roads converge at Rockwood, the hill road descending steeply and the river road leaving the river and following the hills back to where the town, once on the river, has been left high and dry by the shifting stream.

From Rockwood south the route is equally in doubt. There have been hearings but nothing has been decided. The argument for following the hills through Cora to Sandridge is that this road would be above the flood line and require little grading. The advantage of cutting across the bottom through Jacob to Gorham and Grand Tower is that it is the straightest and shortest route, a point which the engineers frankly favor.

No matter which way it goes it will skirt or pass through the great garden spot lying between Rockwood and Thebes, from the circling hills to the Mississippi, like the great American Bottom further north, from which it is separated by the hills that press close to the river between Chester and Rockwood.

No matter which way it goes the highway will cross Route 144 from Murphysboro to Gorham and will pass near "Big Hill," a curious rocky eminence, 15 miles around at its base, standing in the center of the lowland, a little way from Gorham. At Grand Tower is Tower Rock, an acre in area, rising out of the Mississippi, and other curious rock formations.

From Grand Tower it is expected that the road will pass through Wolf Lake to Ware, connecting there with 146.

Either now, in fair weather, or at all seasons when Nos. 150 and 146 have been completed to Ware, travelers may proceed through McClure, Gale, Thebes, Olive Branch and Cache to Cairo. The return may be made by Route 2 through the rich orchard country, to Carbondale, turning aside at Codben to the Alto Pass region, four or five miles of the finest vistas to be seen anywhere in the state, returning to the hard road a few miles further along. At the top of Makanda Hill, a sign points the way through Makanda to Giant City Park, two and a half miles, with its curious rock formations. From there the traveler may return through Makanda to No. 2, or if he prefers to avoid the steep hills he may follow eight miles of dirt road into Carbondale.

From Carbondale there is choice of routes between the recently completed No. 13, through Murphysboro and Pinckneyville or the older one through Duquoin to the junction with No. 15 at Ashley. The two routes converge at Belleville.

Under present conditions it is a trip that cannot be taken in less than two days, and with stops being made at the numerous points of interest they will be two crowded days.

Shows on Ammeter.

Stop lights are a fairly old story, but there always are new motorists to be informed concerning the easiest way of checking up on whether the light is working. It is not necessary to get out and walk around the car and look at the light while some one steps on the brake pedal. If the ammeter hand flickers when the brake is depressed it is a sign that the light is functioning. It is an easy check to make daily.

Quick Acceleration Of Auburns Due to Power Reserve

The quick acceleration of an automobile is due in a large degree to the amount of power reserve of the engine. Especially is this noticeable in the higher driving speeds.

As an illustration of this, one horse may be able to move a load at a slow pace, whereas the same load cna be moved much faster with the addition of a second horse.

In designing Auburn cars factory engineers have given them an unusual margin of reserve power. The 6-80 is equipped with a 72 horsepower motor; the 8-90 with a 100 horsepower straight eight motor and the 120 with a 125 horsepower straight eight motor.

Reo Master Has Constant Mesh Transmission

New Herringbone Type of Gear Introduced on 1930 Models.

A new transmission that will simplify the task of driving an automobile in heavy traffic has been invented and perfected by engineers of the Reo Motor Car Co., and will be included on the new 1930 Master Flying Cloud, Richard L. Scott, president, announced yesterday.

The transmission, he declared, is the result of several years of experimentation, and is one of the most important accomplishments the automobile industry has contributed in recent years toward the simplification of driving in heavily congested traffic.

"Street and highway engineers, public officials and civic organizations have struggled with the so-called traffic problem since automobiles became a necessity rather than a luxury. Anw anything resembling a solution still remains a remote possibility of the future," Scott declared.

"As a direct result of this congestion, the efficiency of motoring has been interfered with to the point where it is costing large sums of money, and the necessity for relief becomes of greater importance daily."

The new transmission developed by Reo has been designed to overcome one of the greatest obstacles caused by traffic congestion, namely, noisy, slow, second-gear driving and all its discomforts. With this new mechanism, second gear is almost as silent as high, is designed to operate the car easily at 40 miles an hour, and can be used continuously and with no added strain either on the motor or the remaining parts of the car.

According to Reo engineers, the new transmission is what is known as the three-speed type, with silent second gear and standard shift. It is simple and rugged and resembles somewhat the conventional transmission, with the main exception that the constant-mesh gears and the second gear train are of the herringbone type. The new silence of second gear is brought about chiefly by some new discoveries concerning the herringbone principle by Reo engineers. Not only do these principles bring about the new silence, but greater longevity, as well.

Heretofore, they explain, herringbone gears have not been adaptable to sliding in and out of mesh, a necessity of transmission gears. Therefore, a "dog clutch" has been adopted for engaging second gear. This clutch is splined to the mainshaft while second gear on the mainshaft is freely mounted and permits silent and highly satisfactory operation. It introduces a new principle into motoring under present day conditions and has as its keynote the simplification of driving, rather than the complication of it.

The new transmission permits the shifting of gears from high to second at a speed up to 40 miles an hour, without clashing, and from second to high at any speed of the motor. It virtually does away with the necessity of using low gear, except in starting the car on steep up grades.

Scott also announced that owners of present Reo Master Flying Clouds may have the new transmission installed at small cost, within the next month or two, when it is in sufficient production. Dealers also have been advised that present models on hand will be equipped with the transmission free, in order that all cars marketed after Aug. 30 will be strictly up-to-date. This is in line with Reo's policy of encouraging owners to equip their cars with new improvements without sacrificing the other long-liffe features of their machines.

Travel Bureau Announces New Service to Hunters

A NEW set of maps of value to the fisherman and hunter has been prepared by theResort and Travel Bureau of the Post-Dispatch. It consists of a St. Louis and vicinity map, a Missouri Game and Fish Department chart and a map showing all rivers and creeks in the Missouri Ozarks. The set costs 25 cents at the bureau and 30 cents mailed.

In addition, a 50-page auto trails atlas of the United States and Eastern Canada sells for 50 cents at the Post-Dispatch and 60 cents mailed.

Small sized individual state road maps cost 10 and 12 cents. City guides sell at 25 and 30 cents and maps of Greater St. Louis cost 40 and 45 cents mailed.

Master Salesmen Of Packard Guests At Detroit Office

Star salesmen of the Packard Motor Car Co. from all parts of the world attended the fifth annual Packard master salesmen convention last week in Detroit. The 129 men who won the honor of being called master salesmen this year were guests of the company for three days.

For the first time since conventions were originated the sweer representatives of countries other than the United States—Canada. Andre Bernard, France; Joseph Fisher, Hawaii, and Maximo Buenos Aires, Argentina, were top salesmen in their respective countries and won their rank as master salesmen.

By action of the board of directors of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association, seven new members were added to that body at the meeting of the board Wednesday. Secretary Robert E. Lee proposed for membership at that time as active members the Auburn-Graves Motor Co., handling the Auburn and Cord cars; the Milstrand Motor Co., distributer of the Dodge car and successors to the Tate Motor Co. and the Steinmer-Fahrenkrog Auto Co., Reo dealers. Associate members elected were Franke Automobile Co., Halberg-Wagner Motor Co., Kiel Automobile Co. and Sadlo-Faber Motor Co.

Report was made to the board of directors by Secretary Lee that the employment bureau maintained by the association had found positions during the past 60 days for about 80 applicants, the positions ranging from mechanics to general managers.

President E. A. Hatfield of the association told the board of directors that active steps would shortly be taken to introduce in the St. Louis Board of Aldermen an ordinance requiring that all automobile establishments be closed on Sunday.

The Roberts & Hall Co., Century tire distributer, located at 2901 Lucas avenue since 1923, has sold its lease there and opened quarters at 2901 Olive street. The building—35x140 feet—is to be remodeled and equipped for tire vulcanizing and repairing. A feature will be 24-hour road service. Officers of the company include W. J. Holdoway, president; E. C. Pott, vice president; J. C. Newman, treasurer and office manager, and Joseph Roberts, sales manager. The company also distributes Sweinhart solid tires.

The F. S. Wiemeyer Co., 2625 Locust street, exclusive distributer of Triplex non-shatterable glass for Missouri and Illinois is installing complete equipment for cutting and putting in this glass. A specially constructed room permits temperatures to be controlled. In cutting the glass, it is placed on a hot wire shaped for the cut desired, then cracked and heated to 160 degrees. Heat is continued through the polishing process.

B. A. Rupprecht, regional manager of Plymouth Motors, with offices in Chicago, visited St. Louis last week. He discussed territory revision with W. G. Warner, district manager.

F. L. Munsell, central zone manager of the Fisk Tire Co., Inc., was here last week organizing a Fisk dealers' association preparatory to a more intensive merchandising campaign. Dealers will do their own advertising. While here, Munsell conferred with H. L. Flood, branch manager, with offices at 4200 Forest Park boulevard.

R. B. Mann, president of the Archer-Mann Motor Co., 4057 Lindell boulevard, Marmon-Roosevelt distributer, reports that the new eight-cylinder Roosevelt collapsible coupe with rumble seat, which sells for $1095 f. o. b. the factory, and is now on display here, has been drawing much favorable comment.

The Lindell Auto Painting Co., located for the past year at 812-18 Leonard avenue, has moved to 2426-28 Lindell boulevard, sharing quarters with the Vehicle Top & Body Co.

S. Tarzin, manager of the painting company, has been in the auto painting business for 30 years. His company will now be able to handle all types of automobile painting and lacquering, also body, top and fender work.

The Lee Studley Motor Co., formerly located at 3711 West Pine street, has removed to better equipped quarters on Easton avenue, where it has installed after Tuesday.

Lee Studley, president of the company, has a long connection in the automobile business. He has associated with Hoffmeister as Marmon division manager, manager of the sion of the business location the company has complete equipment ing all makes of equipment for the Lincoln lines.

The Missouri Association, composed of dealers, is holding its convention at Jefferson Hotel at 1 p. m. Tuesday.

Tom Snyder of Ind., secretary of the Motor Truck Owners' Association, will speak, on the subject of the Motor Truck Department and the attorney for the Motor Truck Association of Missouri.

This Association is primarily for safety and as well as educational for the general public in regard to the responsibilities of motor truck in the great economic fabric of national life.

The 14 Brick Tops, America's greatest girl baseball team, will be at the St. Louis Ball Park during the week. Being composed of four of the girls driving Auburn cars, Auburn cars have been placed at the disposal of the girls during their stay here in St. Louis by Graves, of the Graves Motor Co., 2309 Lindell, a model 120 Auburn sedan is on display in the lobby of the St. Louis coming week.

Master Salesmen Of Packard Guests At Detroit Office

Star salesmen of the Packard Motor Car Co. from all parts of the world attended the fifth annual Packard master salesmen's convention last week in Detroit. The 129 men who won the honor of being called master salesmen this year were guests of the company for three days.

For the first time since the conventions were originated there were representatives of countries other than the United States and Canada. Andre Bernard, Paris, France; Joseph Fisher, Honolulu, Hawaii, and Maximo Landivar, Buenos Aires, Argentina, were the top salesmen in their respective countries and won their rank as master salesmen.

Lee Studley, president, has had a long connection with the automobile business in St. Louis and has associated with him Chris Hoffmeister as manager of the Marmon division and Harry Winker, manager of the Lincoln division of the business. At the new location the company has installed complete equipment for overhauling all makes of cars with special equipment for the Marmon and Lincoln lines.

The Missouri Truckmen's Association, composed of truck operators, is holding a two-day convention at Jefferson City. A banquet will be held at the Central Hotel at 1 p. m. today.

Tom Snyder of Indianapolis, Ind., secretary of the Indiana Motor Truck Operators Association, will speak, as will J. A. Anderson of the Missouri Sate Highway Department and June Rose, attorney for the Bus Operators Association of Missouri.

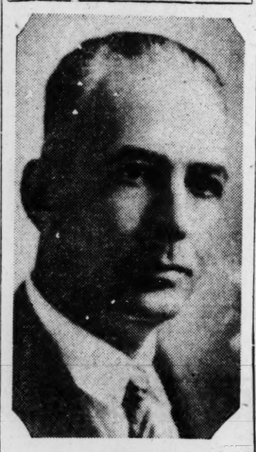
This Association is working primarily for safety and co-operation as well as education of the general public in regards to the possibilities of motor trucks as a great economic factor in our national life.

The 14 Brick Tops, called America's greatest girl band, will appear at the St. Louis Theater this coming week. Being auburn-haired, four of the girls drive Auburn automobiles and are strong for the Auburn car. Four other Auburn cars have been placed at the disposal of the girls during their stay here in St. Louis by C. E. "Buzz" Graves, of the Auburn-Graves Motor Co., 2309 Locust street. A model 120 Auburn eight-cylinder phaeton sedan is on display in the lobby of the St. Louis Theater this coming week.

Splatters the Body.

These liquid top dressings which are so essential to the preservation of the top are generally easy and quick to apply. There is one point, however, that might well be recognized in advance of starting the job; namely, that the liquid is light and is likely to spatter over the body of the car unless it is applied carefully. It is not difficult to remove but a little care with the brush will prevent a later expense of energy in cleaning.

B. R. "Jack" Ford Is Made Official Of Gross-Butler Co.



B. R. "JACK" FORD.

Appointment of B. R. "Jack" Ford, veteran St. Louis automobile man, as secretary-treasurer of the Gross-Butler Motor Co., 1817 Locust street, Graham-Paige distributer, is announced by Sol Gross, president.

Ford for the last 16 years was connected with the Tate Motor Co., Dodge distributer, in an executive capacity. Since 1924 he has been vice president and general manager. In his new position he will have supervision over the service and retail sales departments of the Gross-Butler company.

Oakland Salesmen Given Excursion

Members of the "52-car club" were feted here a week ago by district heads of the Oakland Motor Car Co., with a trip up the Mississippi. Left to right: J. A. Secord, St. Louis branch manager of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation; W. R. Tracy, vice president in charge of sales of the brand; Ross D. Williams, St. Louis zone manager; R. R. Hackett, zone manager of the General Exchange Insurance Co. of St. Louis; H. J. Fleck, Oakland sales promotion manager, and Harry Bolhofner of Jefferson City.

Franklin Breaks All Previous Sales Records in August

Despite the usual late summer slump in the automotive industry generally, the Franklin Automobile Co. of Syracuse, N. Y., during August broke all previous shipping and sales records for this month and continued the sensational pace which has marked the company's trade and financial expansion since the first of the year.

Franklin shipped 1150 cars during the month, as against 755 cars during August, 1928. The largest previous August was in 1917 when the company shipped 1133 cars. Even more significant than the shipment figures are the total number of cars sold at retail during the month. This year, there were approximately 1000 Franklin cars sold at retail as compared with 810 cars sold during the largest previous August. The company's total shipments for the first eight months of the year reached 11,201 cars, as compared with 10,566 cars in the largest previous year.

To Explore Wilds.

Three young women, Baroness Christa von Brandenstein, Miss Nada de Namur and Miss Margaret d'Angelo, recently set out from New York to explore Alaska, the Gobi Desert and the wilds of Australia. Loaded in the back of their car they had a tent, three army cots, a motion-picture machine, an ordinary camera, a typewriter, a camp stove, and a German shepherd dog.

Grease Hub Caps.

Mention the wheel bearings specifically when ordering a chaassis lubrication job. Some fail to remove the front hub caps and refill them unless the owner especially asks it. It need not be done every time the car is lubricated, however.

Alcohol Institute Denies Government Will Restrict Sale

Propaganda, said to have been circulated among garage men and other dealers in many sections of the country, particularly in the South, to the effect that the Government has placed added restrictions on the distribution and sale of denatured alcohol antifreeze, is absolutely unfounded, representatives of the Industrial Alcohol Institute, New York, declared when advised of the report.

Rumors that dealers will be unable to receive consignments of antifreeze unless there are Government agents on the ground to check the shipments and that the product cannot be sold in bulk, but only in specially marked packages, have no foundation, the institute denial said.

Kansas Packer Owns 3 Oaklands

There wouldn't be any used cars for sale if all automobile buyers were like William Butzer, president of the Butzer Packing Co. of Salina, Kan.

Like a majority of motorists, Butzer occasionally succumbs to the lure of a bright new car. But there the resemblance ends. He refuses to part with his old cars. His "stable" now includes three Oaklands, which he has been buying and driving since 1916.

Business Man Uses Zeppelin To Get Contracts

NEW YORK, Sept. 7.—What is believed to be the first combined journey by Zeppelin to traverse the Atlantic and by airplanes to then visit the leading cities of Europe on a purely commercial venture is already underway. And according to an official of the Scholl Manufacturing Co., whose president, Dr. William M. Scholl of Chicago left Sunday on the Graf Zeppelin for Friederichshafen, where he will be met by airplanes for a speedy tour of all Europe, the journey is actually cheaper than a similar tour by train and steamer would be.

Dr. Scholl will save a whole month in travel and will be back in Chicago in three weeks after having visited Copenhagen, Stockholm, Berlin, Frankfurt, Zurich, Basel, Milan, Madrid, Paris, and London, and other cities in time to affix his signature to 16 contracts of a similar nature to determine the future course of his European business and involving more than $1,000,000.

"This is not a pleasure jaunt," an official of the Scholl Manufacturing Company said today. "It is dictated by business necessity and cannot be compared to a semi-business or purely pleasure trip. It is imperative that Dr. Scholl be back back in Chicago in three weeks. All former tours of the Graf Zeppelin have been regarded as sightseeing, trail blazing events. That stage is now past."

Robin's Owner and Pierce-Arrow Convertible Coupe

Frank H. Robertson is almost as proud of his smart coupe as he is of the St. Louis Robin, which broke the world's endurance flight record. The photograph was taken prior to the flight.

Speeding Costs Dollar a Mile.

A Judge in a traffic court in the District of Columbia fines speeders a dollar a mile. Motorists convicted of going a 35-miles-an-hour clip, where the limit is 22 miles an hour, have to pay a $13 fine.

Road Signs From Buttons.

The Highway Department of Michigan recently purchased $25,000 worth of luminous red buttons to be used for signs to caution motorists at night. The buttons will be arranged on sign boards so as to spell "Stop," "Curve," or other warnings to drivers.

Willys-Overland Increases Output Of Knight Great Six

The Willys-Overland Co. announces that production schedules of the new Willys-Knight great six line recently introduced are being rapidly being stepped ahead in order to meet the influx of orders that immediately followed the presentation of the new cars. With thousands of unfilled orders on the books, it will be necessary to maintain peak output of the new Knight-engined sixes.

Willys-Overland dealers throughout the country report that never in the history of the company has any Willys-Overland product met such a wide acclaim as the new great six. These cars have been characterized as the greatest achievement in the history of the company, both from an artistic as well as a mechanical standpoint.

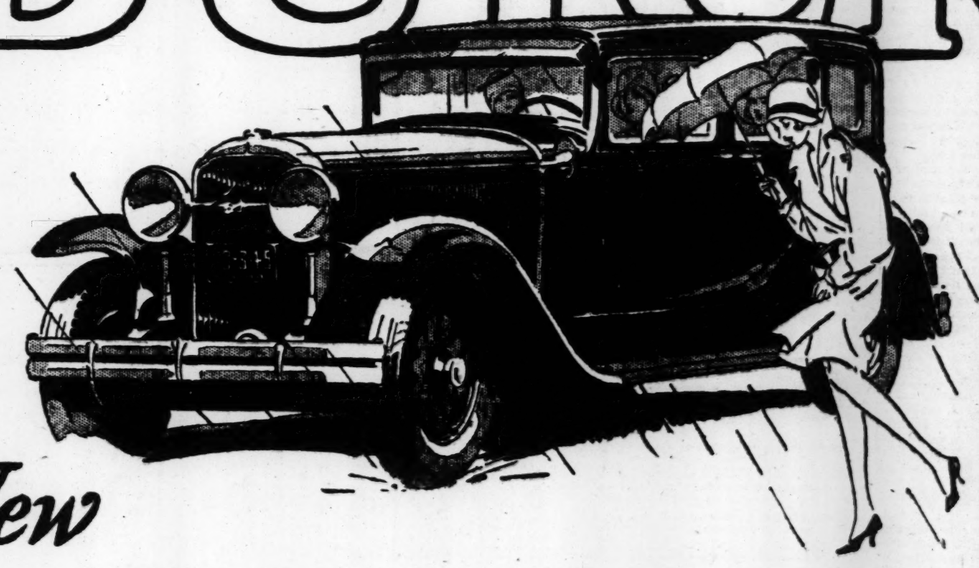
THE New BUICK



New Controlled Servo Enclosed brakes unrivalled for smooth, sure, silent operation in any weather . . .

To Buick, pioneer of four-wheel brakes, now falls the distinction of another major achievement in this same vital field: the development and introduction of Buick Controlled Servo Enclosed Brakes—the most effective four-wheel braking system ever devised for any automobile!

Buick's new brakes are of the highly efficient internal-expanding type. They are fully enclosed—fully protected against dust, dirt and water—and thus assure maximum braking effectiveness under all weather conditions.

They represent the highest development of the self-energizing principle, which makes the car's own motion provide part of the braking effort. They reveal unmatched responsiveness to the slightest pedal pressure. And they are so perfectly controlled that "grabbing" is entirely unknown! When you apply these brakes, you obtain the most positive, as well as the smoothest and most silent action you have ever experienced in any automobile!

Drive the new Buick! Test not only its matchless new brakes but its brilliant all-round performance, riding comfort and driving ease—all of which combine to establish the new Buick as the greatest value ever offered in the fine car field!

New Cadillac, La Salle Lines To Be Announced

Will Be Displayed Here by Oliver Cadillac Co., Distributer.

A complete new line of Cadillac, La Salle and Fleetwood cars, each the finest, most luxurious, roomiest and most powerful that the Cadillac Motor Car Co. has ever produced, is soon to be announced and on display at the Oliver Cadillac Co., 4100 Laclede avenue. Advance information from Detroit is that the cars will present notable advances in design, efficiency, motoring luxury and comfort, both in body and chassis.

Since Lawrence P. Fisher became president and general manager four year ago, Cadillac has played a leading role for the entire world of motordom in establishing the present trend in motor car design. Many of its innovations in beauty and body lines and in chassis improvements have permeated later developments throughout the industry.

Established 27 years ago, the company has been consistently the leader in the fine car field. Since 1914, when it introduced its first V-type eight-cylinder car, it has built and sold more automobiles than all other manufacturers producing cars at its price or above.

"During that time Cadillac has developed and pioneered three of the most important achievements recorded in the motor car industry since the first car was built, in addition to scores of other notable accomplishments," said Ray Wice, sales manager of the Oliver Cadillac Co., local distributers, yesterday. "It was the first to build a completely standardized car—that is, a car in which all parts are manufactured as exact duplicates of all other parts of the same kind. This was in 1908.

"Four years later it introduced a complete electrical system of starting, lighting and ignition. Without the self starter experts agree that the motor car could never have won the universal acceptance it enjoys today. Cadillac's third far-reaching achievement was in developing an inherently balanced engine, with crank case ventilation and compensated crankshaft.

"During the last year many marked refinements have been made in both the Cadillac and La Salle cars. These include their exclusive safety-mechanical four-wheel brakes, the synchro-mesh silent shift transmission—a revolutionary accomplishment of first importance—and the use of security plate nonshatterable glass in the windshield, doors and all windows.

"It is worthy of note that the exacting system of testing habitually required by Cadillac prior to the adoption of important innovations has marked the organization as conservative. In view of the company's most successful record of the last year, presentation of the three new lines of cars indicates that substantial progress has been made in the further refinement of beauty and riding comfort and in important details which will yield greater efficiency and safety of operation."

The new Cadillac, La Salle and Fleetwood cars soon to be revealed here have been thoroughly tested both at the General Motors Proving Ground and in the extensive laboratories of Cadillac and General Motors, it is stated. The result of these tests, according to Cadillac officials, has been so gratifying that the company is confident its newest cars will be greeted by the public with the greatest enthusiasm ever accorded any Cadillac product.

Executive Changes Are Announced By Chevrolet Co.

Several executive changes in Chevrolet Motor Co., which became effective Sept. 1, are announced by H. J. Klingler, vice president and general sales manager.

M. D. Douglas, formerly assistant general sales manager, has been appointed general parts and service manager, a position heretofore held by J. P. Little, who goes to General Motors.

R. K. White, who formerly was general sales promotion manager and recently Atlanta zone sales manager, has been appointed advertising manager, succeeding J. E. Grimm Jr., who, after occupying the position for five years has been summoned to General Motors.

J. C. Chick, who has been regional sales manager at Flint, Mich., has been brought into the central offices to assume Douglas' place as assistant general sales manager.

C. L. Alexander, Chicago zone sales manager for several years, is to go to Flint, succeeding Chick as regional sales manager.

R. L. Myers, until recently zone sales manager at New York, is to succeed Alexander as zone sales manager at Chicago.

Recent progress in navigation will benefit the balloonist tremendously, Ward T. Van Orman, noted Goodyear racer, believes.

Calculations which formerly required 20 minutes have been reduced to two or three minutes for the 1929 international balloon race, Sept. 28 at St. Louis, Van Orman declared.

Van Orman, winner of international and national competitions, will be one of three to represent the United States in the world race this year. His aid will be Allen MacCracken, who assisted him in the last race at Pittsburg, in which the Goodyear VII finished second.

You can shift gears at any time, at any speed—without grinding, without "feeling your gear in"!

You can shift from second to high at any speed—or from high back to second, at 40 miles an hour—easier than you can with any other car at 10 miles an hour!

You can go more than 40 miles an hour in second if you care to—as smoothly, as quietly, as silently as with the ordinary high!

This new Silent-Second transmission—the product of four years' research and development by the Reo engineers—the exclusive property of Reo—is available on no other automobile—and will not be unless and until Reo permits its use.

GET behind the wheel of the Reo Master Flying Cloud—and we promise you a thrill you've never had in any other car you ever piloted—yes, a dozen thrills—and one of them before you've gone a hundred feet!

You know the noise you always hear from the second gear of the ordinary car.

But listen to this second-gear—why you can scarcely hear it! The old second-gear grind you've been accustomed to isn't there! You hear no grinding, no growling—none of the old second-gear noise. This Silent-Second gear takes you along as smoothly, as quietly, as silently as the ordinary high!

And what a pick-up!

Steer this car into traffic. Nose right up behind a truck that's dawdling along at 5 miles an hour. Want to go around him? Flick that gear lever into second. Tap that gas pedal—and you'll flash ahead of him in one meteoric swish! Reo's new Silent-Second transmission gives you lightning-like acceleration where you need it! You can do things with this car in traffic that you can't do with any other car under the sun!

Slip up to a red light and stop. Then slide that gear-lever into second. At the first flash of green give her the gas—and you'll be up and away like a streak of light, leaving cars that were abreast of you a hundred feet behind! You'll be hitting 40 before the others can reach 15!

And at that speed—40 miles an hour—you can flip that gear-lever right from second to high without slowing down a tap—and without grinding, without clashing your gears! It just slips into high with one quiet "click" at any speed!

Let her skim along at 35 or 40—and make this amazing test. Throw out your clutch and just work that gear lever from high to second, back and forth, back and forth like a pump handle! You can do it with one finger. And all you'll hear is a "click," nothing more!

Try it on a real hill!

Start up the steepest hill you can find, with traffic coming down at you—and a milk wagon ahead of you. Just nose up behind him and go into second. You'll have to crawl till the coast is clear. But at the first break you get—step on that gas! That hill may be awfully steep—but you'll shoot around that milk wagon awfully fast! You can swoop over the crest of that hill at 40 or better if you want to—in second!

And when you start down a hill like that—a hill that drops off like a plummet—Reo's new second gear will be a revelation to you! Ordinarily you'd slow down before taking a drop like that—you'd want to take it in second. But with the ordinary car it's a lot of trouble to get into second. You have to slow down to 10 or 15 miles an hour to do it. So often you won't bother, you'll chance it in high—and perhaps ruin your brakes.

But start down that hill as fast as you like in the Reo! When you're ready, just flick that gear-lever into second—and you'll go down that hill at a crawl, or as fast as you care to! You can choose your own speed.

Reo's new Silent-Second Transmission is the most revolutionary engineering achievement that has happened in motordom for years. But it is only one of the things that make the Reo Master Flying Cloud a revolutionary car. See it—at your dealer's showroom. Drive it—and learn what a car this is!

REO MOTOR CAR COMPANY, LANSING, MICHIGAN

If you now own a Reo Master Flying Cloud . . .

Your dealer can install the new transmission in your present Reo at a very nominal cost. Orders for the new transmission will be filled as rapidly as production makes them available—and in the order received. This one change will make your present Reo as up-to-date as the newest Reo on the showroom floor. Your dealer will give you full details.

4 College Boys Drive Gardner Across Country

Old 1924 Touring Car Has Remarkably Low Fuel Consumption.

A four-cylinder 1924 Gardner touring car rolled into St. Louis last week on its way back to Pittsburg, Pa., after a Pacific Coast trip of 9019 miles. Around the car, a "Radio Special" tourer, were four college boys who left Pittsburg June 21. The old car was purchased for $125, under a four-party partnership.

"Judging from appearances, the old car had been driven at least 150,000 miles when we bought it," said young J. H. McAteer, Carnegie Tech '31, ring leader of the party, "but there's no telling its true mileage, as the speedometer showed only a few thousand miles when we got it. Its performance in the mountains, on rough roads and smooth pavements, over the plains, and through the desert was amazing.

"The motor in the old car is really very powerful and it had to be to get us back here after that long trip to the Pacific Coast. It just goes to show that an automobile engine can be built to last and to withstand gruelling punishment such as we fellows gave it, despite its age. And I'm here to tell you that old Gardner still has a whale of a lot of miles left in it. We anticipate nothing but a good performance on our return trip to Pittsburg, as the old car performed beautifully right into St. Louis. By the time we reach Pittsburg this old bus will have traveled approximately 10,000 miles. The oil consumption was remarkable and compares very well with that of the newer cars. In the valleys and on level stretches we got an average of 20 miles to the gallon of gas, while in the mountains it ran 17 to 18 miles to the gallon."

In the party were McAteer, H. N. Meixner Jr., Carnegie Tech '31; S. N. Hutchison Jr., Lafayette College '32, all of Pittsburg. A fourth member of the party, F. R. Kleibacker, Bowdoin College, Lewiston, Me., was called back to Pittsburg before the trip to St. Louis, so left for that city by train.

Venerable Gardner Touring Car Goes Collegiate

Mechanical Robots Direct Traffic With Uncanny Precision

chanical policeman in actual operation and all have acclaimed it as the most important development ever made in traffic handling. The control is composed of two major units—the "eyes" and "brain." The "eyes" are sensitive units placed in the pavement of all the streets approaching the intersection. They "see" the arrival and movement of all vehicles that pass over them and transmit this information to the "brain."

The "brain" is a control mechanism which is the true marvel of the entire system, exhibiting sheer intelligence and a memory far beyond the human capacity. It is capable of "thinking," "seeing," and "receiving instructions." The "brain" is able to tell at all times what demands are being made upon it and from what direction and it schedules traffic through the intersection according to its volume and flow, yet it never neglects the individual car approaching the intersection.

The mechanical bluecoat does not operate according to any set rule nor does it adhere to any particular schedule. Thoroughfare traffic is "remembered" and sent along at the earliest moment consistent with safety.

Drivers who pass frequently are amazed when they discover that the lights blink differently under what appear to them to be similar conditions, yet using more than human intelligence.

The secret lies in "vehicle-sensitive" units in the pavement of the streets adjacent to the intersection. Automobiles passing over these sensitive units in the pavement govern the changing of signals.

These units are the "eyes" of the mechanical policeman. They "see" the presence and movement of traffic and transmit this information to a control mechanism. The control mechanism or "brain" receives this information, "remembers" the arrival and presence of the vehicles, and with real intelligence operates the traffic signal to meet the exact situation existing at that moment.

The "brains" and "eyes," being inconspicuous features of the mechanism, are usually overlooked and the motorist sees only the result—the orders flashed by the lights.

Looking at the result and failing to take into consideration the thinking processes, he finds his human intelligence outwitted by mechanical brains.

Having become accustomed to light signals that are pre-timed, like an electric sign, he is amazed to discover a source of control that "sees" his presence and gives him a better "break" than a traffic officer would. He approaches the intersection from a cross street, for instance, and the lights signal to go ahead. The way is clear and he does. The next time he approaches from the same street he expects to get the same treatment. The possibilities are, however, that he won't. The control has taken into consideration the fact that another vehicle is approaching along the main thoroughfare and since it believes in the courtesy rule of "first come first served" it keeps him waiting until this car has passed the intersection.

Then comes another surprise. The control apparently "knows" when the thoroughfare driver has passed, and immediately signals the cross street traffic to proceed. About this time it begins to dawn on the latter that somewhere, somehow a super-intelligence is at work on the intersection, and he may go home and refresh his mind on the fundamental principles of engineering to find a clue to the mystery.

The explanation to the foregoing situation is very simple. The control "knew" when the thoroughfare driver approached the intersection because it "saw" it through one of its sensitive units. It "reasoned" that the thoroughfare driver, when the light favored him, would cross in a certain number of seconds, and allowed him that time. The time allotted for crossing varies with the speed of the vehicle.

If the driver had not taken advantage of the opportunity offered he would have lost the chance. The control would have reversed the orders to the lights and allowed the cross-street vehicle to pass.

When the motorist gets this far in his understanding of the mechanism he often attempts to create situations that will stump the control. It is plain to see how it functions under simple conditions involving only two cars. But what occurs, he asks, under complex situations involving a number of vehicles.

If the mechanical policeman does its work as thoroughly as a human policeman, he reasons, it should favor thoroughfare traffic, but to do this it must use a certain amount of judgment. How, he inquires, can an assortment of wires and impulses use judgment?

Here the robot's calculations are based on the normal behavior of traffic. It does favor thoroughfare traffic, but, like the human policeman, it gives cross-street traffic a fair break. There are always occasional breaks in a steady line of cars, and the control gives cross-street cars the benefit of them. Cars approaching an intersection when there is no opposing traffic are given the green light instantly.

But suppose there is no break for a long time, asks the motorist. Suppose there is a steady flow of traffic on the thoroughfare. No car is required to wait for more than a set maxium period of time against opposing traffic; this period is very flexible and is adjustable at the discretion of the traffic authorities.

The "electromatic" control is so flexible that if a gap comes in a stream of traffic, before the maximum period of time has been reached, and there are cars waiting on the opposing street, the control will take advantage of the break instantly and give a green light to the waiting cars, automatically returning to the busy street upon cessation of traffic on the cross streets.

Actually, the traffic lights give the signal, as these are the only means by which the mechanism can express itself. But there are "thinking" and "reasoning" behind the signals, and judgment of a purely mechanical nature which admits of no faults. If there are no cross street cars and the intersection is a busy one, there are bound to be pedestrians waiting. The control has not forgotten the pedestrians and allots a certain number of seconds for them to get across the thoroughfare.

Pedestrians move with the traffic as they do with a policeman or any other type of signal system. They have the same opportunity as the cars going in their direction. They can follow the traffic or watch the lights, as they prefer.

Many Oldsmobile Owners Purchase Viking Eights

Satisfied owners have formed one of the dominant factors in the acceptance of the Viking, the 90-degree, V-type, eight-cylinder companion car to the Oldsmobile six introduced to the motoring public this spring. This fact has been shown by a survey conducted among Viking purchasers.

More than one in every three purchasers were influenced either by other Viking owners or their own experience as the owner of an Oldsmobile, the survey revealed.

Although the Viking has been on the market but a comparatively short time—about five months—one of every five Viking purchasers stated that they had been influenced in their preference for Viking by the enthusiastic reports of other Viking owners.

"Imp" Uses Champions

The Imp, the swift, white and gold hydroplane which won this year's gold cup classic at Red Bank, N. J., was powered with Champion spark plugs. "Every plug fired perfectly," reported its owner and pilot, Richard F. Hoyt, in a telegram to the Champion Spark Plug Co. immediately after the race.

Hammond Motor Co. Made Pierce-Arrow Dealer

Company Has Three Sales Offices in Granite City and East St. Louis.

Appointment of the K. Hammond Motor Co., which operates two sales and service establishments in Granite City and one in East St. Louis, has been named a Pierce-Arrow dealer, it is announced by W. G. Astridge, sales manager o fthe Western Automobile Co., Pierce-Arrow distributer in this territory.

Since 1924, when it started with two cars in a single showroom, the K. Hammond company has handled Studebaker cars. The company was attracted to Pierce-Arrow because of the remarkable success this car has met, with its new straight eight motor.

Today the company has establishments at 919 State street, East St. Louis, and 2017 Grand avenue and Twentieth street and Grand avenue, Granite City.

Associated with Kennie Hammond, president, is C. C. Reuterman. The new Pierce-Arrow dealer will have a series 133, five-passenger sedan on display at their showrooms at 2017 Grand avenue, Granite City, starting this week.

Buick Bearings Prove Successful On Marquettes

One of the most interesting automotive engineering developments in recent years is incorporated in the Marquette, manufactured and sold by the Buick Motor Co. This is the steel-backed interchangeable main bearings, which have proven so successful in Buick motors.

As proven by Buick's exceptional freedom from bearing service troubles during the last year steel-backed bearings have many advantages over those of bronze. Principal among these advantages are their greater stiffness and the fact that a better bond is obtainable.

Buick engineers declare the modulus of elasticity of low carbon steel is approximately twice that of bronze, and thus the thickness of the shell can be reduced materially while still maintaining greater back stiffness, thereby reducing the tendency of the babbitt to pound out.

Convinced that steel-backed bearing would be much more satisfactory, engineers at the Buick factory found themselves confronted with a really serious problem in making an attempt to produce them. Even a steel with the best machinability is not comparable with bronze on a cost production basis, when similar methods are used, the higher machining cost with the steel far more than offsetting the lower materia' costs.

It became evident then that before costs at this source could be lowered, a new production method would have to be developed. The possible reduction in shell thickness with steel over that of bronze finally opened the way by making it possible to press the shells instead of casting them. A electric steel of low-carbon content, which could be bent into cylindrical form of course was needed, and Buick engineers finally found it, making possible their production on a quantity basis.

Compare its beauty with costly cars

SMART, GRACEFUL LINES MAKE THIS LOW-PRICED CAR A STYLE LEADER

ONLY among cars of much higher price can you find any adequate comparison with the modish and beautiful design of the new Superior Whippet. Sweeping lines, harmonious colors, richness of finish and refinement of detail make Whippet the style authority in its class.

Mechanically, too, the new Superior Whippet offers many features found on cars costing two and three times as much. Whippet is the only low-priced car with all these important advantages: Full force-feed lubrication, silent timing chain; higher compression engine for more speed, power and pick-up; invar-strut pistons; extra long wheelbase; oversize balloon tires; "Finger-Tip Control"; and, in the Six, a seven-bearing crankshaft.

Extra big four-wheel brakes and a greater number of frame cross members make the new Superior Whippet safer and sturdier.

At St. Louis Air Fi

WORK on the new Curtiss-Steinberg Airport, south of East St. Louis, is progressing rapidly with 150 acres now available as a landing field and the first hangar under construction.

When completed the airport will comprise 510 acres, with runways, surfaced roads, complete lighting equipment, meteorological station, administration building, passenger depot and various hangars and school buildings. To train the landing field 50 miles of tile is being laid. Curtiss Flying Service will use the airport for school and commercial taxi purposes jointly with T. A. T., which will operate passenger planes from there instead of the Lambert-St. Louis Field. Maj. Ray Wassall, former commander of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, will be in charge of flying instruction at the school.

German Balloons Here Tuesday.

The Stadt Essen and the Barmen, German balloons, due here Tuesday, will be the first of the contesting bags entered in the international balloon race Sept. 28 to arrive. The balloons will be housed in storage pending the arrival of Erich Liemkugel and Hugo Kaulen, the pilots.

Exhibition by Guard Pilots.

Pilots of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service, National Guard, will give an exhibition of military and stunt flying at Lambert-St. Louis Field this afternoon.

In addition to formation flying led by Capt. Russell Young, commander of the unit, there will be mimic air fighting by Lieuts. Brazzell, Love, Williams and others of the group. Gov. Caulfield has been invited to attend and Brigadier-General W. A. Raupp, commanding Missouri National Guard troops, is expected to be present.

Air Mail Sets Record.

The largest volume of air mail so far this year was carried in and out of St. Louis during August, the total being 13,764 pounds.

Frank Robertson Building.

Frank H. Robertson, former president of the Robertson Aircraft Corporation, is building an addition to his service station at Lambert-St. Louis Field and has announced that he expects to purchase a trimotored Ford transport this week to use in sight-seeing service. Robertson is also planning the construction of a two-story office structure between the present National Guard hangars, which he will take over when the new hangars for the unit are completed.

Von Hoffmann Officer.

O. R. Haueter, formerly assistant sales manager for the Alexander Aircraft Co., Colorado Springs, Colo., has been elected vice president of the Von Hoffman Aircraft Co., succeeding the late George Lea Lambert. Haueter, a war-time pilot, will have charge of the general supervision of the company.

Universal Sightseeing Record.

Approximately 2100 passengers were carried on sightseeing flights over the city in planes of the Universal Aviation Corporation during August. It is estimated that it was the first airplane ride for about 75 per cent of the passengers.

Business was also good on the regularly scheduled passenger lines of the Universal system out of St. Louis, 482 passengers using the service during August.

Jackson and Gurney Hunt Plane.

Dale Jackson, following a week on the stage, started out Friday in a Robin, bound for Arizona, to assist in the search for the missing T. A. T. plane. Bud Gurney, chief pilot for the Universal Corporation, also took part in the search.

Magazine Dealer Flies.

Harvey P. Everest, a wholesale magazine dealer of Oklahoma, has purchased a Ryan brougham to use in getting around his territory.

The Motors on Robins.

Robin planes and Challenger engines are associated in the public mind since the world's record endurance flight. However, Robins may now be obtained with Wright Whirlwind engines, as a result of the Curtiss-Wright merger. Several Whirlwind powered Robins were turned out by the Curtiss-Robertson Co. last week, and a Robin so powered will take part in the Ford reliability tour next month, along with a Challenger Robin and a Curtiss Thrush equipped with a Whirlwind engine.

Casey Lambert Back.

Casey Lambert returned last week in his new Ryan brougham from a vacation trip in Minnesota.

Casey Lambert Back.

Casey Lambert returned last week in hi new Ryan brougham from a vacation trip in Minnesota.

S. A. F. E. Five Months Old.

Southwest Air Fast Express, operating between Dallas, Tex., St. Louis, Kansas City and intermediate points, completed five months of operation Labor day, having carried approximately 4000 passengers during the period. Among the persons using the service was a woman 81 years old and a 6-year-old boy.

New York-Mexico Service.

Train-plane service between New York City and Mexico City was started today by the Missouri-Kansas-Texas lines and three aerial transportation concerns, including the Universal Aviation Corporation.

The scheduled time for the trip northbound is 49 hours and 5 minutes, as against 101 hours and 50 minutes by train. From New York to Mexico the trip will require 67 hours, 15 minutes, compared with 98½ hours by rail. Passengers leave New York on the Southwestern Limited, change to a Universal plane at Cleveland, O., for a flight to Tulsa, Ok., where they again board a train for a night trip to Dallas, Tex. The remainder of the journey is by air over the Texas Air Transport line to Brownsville, and Compania Mexicana de Aviacion to Mexico City.

Girton Third in Race.

Milt Girton, veteran Lambert Field pilot, finished third in a race for tri-motored planes at the Cleveland races. Girton flew the Gold Shell, tri-motored Fokker of the Shell Oil Co.

Gliders at Spanish Lake.

The gliding enthusiasts have moved from Lambert-St. Louis Field to Spanish Lake, Trampe and Bellefontaine roads. Gliding demonstrations will be given at the lake this afternoon by Alois Koch and Otto Richeter, German flyers. Harry Kuchins, furniture manufacturer, has organized the Spanish Lake Gliding Club.

Universal's Record.

More than 1000 passengers were carried in Universal Aviation Corporation planes over the Cleveland, O., Garden City, Kan., route, operated in conjunction with the New York Central and Santa Fe Railroads, during July and August.

Universal planes completed all but one of the 350 trips scheduled for the period, flying a total of 126,124 miles over the route. A number of the passengers used the service to intermediate points only, a popular trip being from Chicago to Cleveland. In a majority of instances pilots exceeded the scheduled speed.

Insurance For Students.

New Engineer With Ryan.

E. E. Roberts, stress analysis engineer formerly with the Stinson School of Aviation, has been employed by the Ryan Aircraft Co.

L. E. Fisher Uses Plane.

Road to Be Repaired.

The rutted roadway along the north side of Lambert-St. Louis Field is to be repaired by the concerns on the side of the airport.

Bernard Von Hoffman Back.

Bernard Von Hoffmann, vice-president of the Von Hoffmann Aircraft Co., returned last week from an aerial business trip to Texas and Georgia.

Perkins in California.

Harry H. Perkins, purchasing manager for the Universal Aviation Corporation, is in California on business.

National Guard Promotions.

First Sergt. William Whitacre and Sergt. Stanley Gerding were elected Second Lieutenants in the Thirty-fifth Division Air Service last week. Lieut. Gerding has been a member of the air unit since its organization.

Second Lieut. Eric Koeppel passed his junior airplane pilot's test during the week and is now qualified to operate certain planes of the unit.

Sergt. Harry McMahon of the air unit has been detailed to a six months' course of instruction at the army mechanics' school, Chanute Field, Rantoul, Ill.

New Universal Students.

Recent students of the Universal Flying School include B. T. Conwell Jr., president of Eternit, Inc., asbestos shingle manufacturers, and Ardsus Nigohossian, who operates a shoe repair shop. Conwell plans to purchase a plane for business trips, while Nigohossian hopes to qualify some day as a transport pilot.

28 Students at Parks.

During the week-end including Labor day, 28 students were enrolled at Parks Air College. Seven of the enrollments were for the transport course. Five Parks graduates qualified as airplane mechanics last week, following examination by Department of Commerce Inspector George Wiggs.

Sells Six Ships in Month.

Joe Reed, airplane sales manager for the Universal Corporation, sold six ships in August and started the current month with the sale of a used Ryan brougham. Reed for many years sold Dodge cars, and finds airplane selling easy.

Interurban Sells Plane Tickets.

The East St. Louis & Suburban Railway is an official agent for the Universal Aviation Corporation in the Illinois territory it covers. Tickets for trips on regularly scheduled planes of the Universal system may be bought through local ticket offices of the interurban line.

Pastor and 14 Others Fly.

The Rev. Owen Livengood, pastor of Dover Place Christian Church, and 14 members of his congregation made a sightseeing flight over the city Wednesday in a tri-motored Safeway transport.

Largest Training Fleet.

With 36 airplanes of six different types in daily service, Parks Air College is thought to have the largest single fleet of training planes in the United States.

Visitors at Airports.

Visitors at St. Louis airports last week included Assistant Secretary of War Patrick Hurley, who stopped at Parks Airport in a Curtiss Falcon piloted by Lieut. F. M. Kimball. Others included: L. H. Rhiner, in a Stinson, Cleveland to Kansas City; T. Morgan, Travel-Air, Cleveland to Los Angeles; B. Flannery, American Eagle, Cleveland to Kansas City; T. C. McCase, Robin, Champaign, Ill.; G. P. Peed Jr., Ford, Dayton, O.; A. E. Merriam, Travel-Air, Cleveland to Wichita; B. A. Wright, Robin, Chicago; E. N. Prerill, Fokker, Cleveland; M. A. Dawson, Skylark; C. R. V. Kerber, president, S. L. Willits, vice president and Rex Beisel, chief engineer, Spartan Aircraft Co., Cleveland to Tulsa, Ok.; Earl Rowland, racing pilot, in a J-6 Cessna, Cleveland to Wichita; George E. Halsey, ferrying Ruth Elder's Ken-Royce biplane to Salina, Kan., from the Cleveland show; R. W. Grigsby and G. W. McEnnis in Spartan biplanes, bound for Tulsa; R. W. Brown in a Hisso-Eaglerock from Templeton, Mass.; O. W. Young in a J-6 Pitcairn, from Chicago; M. H. Kotzebue in a Challenger-Robin from Tulsa; M. Trump in a Buhl Airsedan bound for Tulsa, and Lieut. Robert K. Giovanonoli of the Air Corps in an Aristocrat monoplane from Kansas City.

Federal Booklet Covers All U. S. Motor Highways

The American Association of Highway Officials has just issued from its Washington headquarters the first printed compendium of the United States Highway System routes. It has the approval of the United States Department of Agriculture. A nominal price of 15 cents has been placed on the booklet of 46 pages, to defray cost of publication. It may be obtained from the association's offices, 1222-24 National Press Building.

Each route is followed throughout, so that at a glance one is given the total mileage from start to finish, as well as the distance between the important cities and towns through which it passes.

Route No. 50, one finds, for instance, begins at Annapolis, Md., and passes through the District of Columbia, Virginia, West Virginia, again through Maryland, then through West Virginia, Ohio, Indiana, Missouri, Kansas, where it divides into 50 north and 50 south, then through Colorado, Utah and Nevada to Sacramento, Cal.

Mileages between towns are given under each state. Under Missouri, in connection with Route 50, one finds that it is 41 miles from St. Louis to Gray's Summiti, and other mileages are given until Kansas City is reached. This obtains for each state through which a route passes. The booklet also is indexed according to states, showing the routes passing through any state and the page on which their descriptions may be found.

Each highway in the system may be identified by the uniform shield bearing the name of the State and the route number. Odd-numbered routes run north and south and even numbers east and west. At a glance, one knows whether the road is north and south or east and west. Connecting routes which act as feeders are uniformly designated in numbers of three digits. Route 240, for example, is a connection with Route 40, a transcontinental thoroughfare.

If it is just a wee bit cooler these days, it may not be a bad idea to have the carburetor mixture enriched proportionately.

Two New Barling Planes to Be Built

Barling NB-3 monoplanes equipped with either a Genet 80-horsepower engine or a Velie motor of 65-horsepower will be available shortly in addition to the stock model equipped with the Le Blond "Sixty," it is announced by officials of the Nicholas-Beazley Airplane Co., Inc., of Marshall, Mo., manufacturers.

Specifications and performance figures have not been announced but it is understood the Genet-powered Barling will have increased performance. The Genet engine weighs 212 pounds and has been successfully flown for the past five years in England.

WINNING NEW FRIENDS EVERY DAY

Triumphs won, sales records broken, world-wide acclaim as the most successful achievement in the field of low-price sixes have not found the De Soto Six content to rest upon its laurels. ⇑Conceived and built by Chrysler Motors, this car of character is continuing to prove its superior appeal to those who insist on distinction in their motoring. ⇑Alert and brilliant performance, smooth power, easy control and the utter comfort of this stylish six have captured, almost romantically, the fancy of the motoring public. ⇑Owners, indeed, talk of the De Soto Six in terms of generous affection as if it were a living comrade rather than a motor car. It is this individuality that has set De Soto Six apart. It is this which will make you eager for this car's possession as soon as you get your hands upon the wheel.

Studebaker "9" Wins Pike's Peak Stock Car Race

Glen Shultz Pilots President to Summit in Record Time for Course.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., Sept. 7.—The eleventh National Pikes Peak Hill climbing classic on Labor day was won by a fully equipped stock Studebaker President eight roadster, which by its feat captured the historic Penrose trophy. All existing stock car records for the course were smashed.

The winning car, piloted by Glen Shultz, famous race driver, completed the 12.4-mile grind to the summit of America's most famous mountain, 14,109 feet high, in 21 minutes 43 and 2-5 seconds, at an average speed of 34.3 miles per hour, bettering the previous stock car record by two seconds. This time was considered exceptional in view of the condition of the course which was against the best speed. The fastest time in the non stock car event this year was 41 seconds greater than last year.

Two other Studebaker stock cars, a second President eight roadster, driven by Ab Jenkins and a Commander eight roadster, driven by Ralph Hepburn, participated in the event. Their time for the climb was 22 minutes 58 seconds and 24 minutes 10 and 4-5 seconds respectively.

The Penrose trophy goes under conditions of a deed of gift to the entrant in the race making the best time in the stock class. It is a large, beautifully ornamentel silver bowl, over 150 years old, obtained in Europe by Penrose, a well-known capitalist of Colorado Springs. According to reports it was used as a magnum for champagne on many historic occasions in England.

The race started at Crystal Creek bridge, 9150 feet above sea level and five miles from the foot of the mountain, before a large gallery of spectators. The course of the run is known as the Pike's Peak Auto Highway, considered one of the most wonderful motor roads in the world. The route is a double track road, 20 to 50 feet wide all the way, a twisting, turning ribbon of white, mounting skyward, and tricky enough to test the skill of the most experienced driver.

There are no less than 154 turns. The climb is considered a sheer test of stamina, speed and power.

The three competing Studebakers were selected at random from factory production by officials of the American Automobile Association, checked and their stock status established prior to their being driven to Colorado Springs under the observation of A. A. A. officials who turned the cars over to Colorado representatives of the A. A. A. upon their arrival. Before leaving the factory, seals were placed on important motor parts. This followed the same procedure which prevailed in the world record run of the four Presidents at Atlantic City Speedway a year ago in which each sped 30,000 miles in less than 28,128 minutes.

Each Studebaker car was a strictly stock model. They carried high compression heads (6½ to 1) and mountain gear ratios (4.08 to 1 on President and 4.7 to 1 on Commander) all of which is optional and available to any Studebaker purchaser anywhere.

Shultz, pilot of the winning Studebaker, is a driver of national repute. The Pike's Peak climb is no novelty to him. He has won seven first prizes in the Pike's Peak climb. This is the first time he has won the race driving a strictly stock car.

Production Records Continue to Be Set In Detroit District

creases in sales on their new product records were not made by these ust record were not made by these companies alone. Those who did make announcements of new models had excellent showings during the month.

Following are a few production figures for the past month: Graham-Paige, 6576, a gain of 35 per cent over the previous month; Ford, 205,634; Chevrolet, 109,968; Packard, 5368; Buick, 28,971, and Hupp, 5255.

These, of course, are not complete and are subject to revision by the accounting departments at the factories. However, these few indicate the trend of the automobile manufacturing business and clearly show that there has been no lessening of the output by the various plants during the last month.

The Bohn Aluminum and Brass Co. in a couple of months will begin the manufacture of a new connecting rod, with only one-third the weight of cast iron rods now being used in automobile engines.

One contract for these new connecting rods already has been made with one of the leading manufacturers, it is reported. This factory is one of the volume producers.

Engineers say that the lightness of these connecting rods will make for greater performance in automobile engines, the same as resulted when the Bohnalite pistons were placed on the market.

Rumors have been current during the past week that at least one Detroit automobile manufacturer was preparing to announce a front drive motor car. Investigation shows this to be untrue. While it is possible that some of the manufacturers are experimenting with these types of cars, no announcements will be made in the near future.

There are two types of these cars on the market, the Cord and the Ruxton, and these were brought out only after many years of experiments had been concluded.

Motor car manufacturers in Detroit are more concerned over refining the conventional type of automobile now on the market than they are in bringing out something that is fundamentally new in the field.

Of course, it is possible that front drive cars may come in number within the next two or three years, but, at the present time this is practically impossible.

While a considerable number of automobile manufacturers will not make announcements of new models during the fall months, they are preparing to bring out new models in time for the national automobile shows in New York and Chicago in January.

It is reported a great deal of development work has been accomplished both in body and mechanical features and that a number of surprises may be expected, especially as to the mechanical work.

The parts associations reported during the last week that the automobile parts business so far this year had exceeded all expectations of manufacturers and that an excellent fall business was anticipated.

These associations are preparing to hold their shows during the fall months and this year many airplane parts will be added to the automotive exhibits.

Many makers of automobile parts have discovered that they have a large field in the airplane business.

Franklin Adds New Convertible for Use On 130 Chassis

The wide public acceptance of the Franklin convertible on the Model 135 chassis has resulted in another convertible being introduced by the Franklin Automobile Co. on Model 130 chassis, thus providing this popular type of car in two distinct price ranges.

Franklin dealers throughout the country report that with the devotees of the great outdoors increasing more rapidly than ever before in all strata of society, the Franklin convertible models, powered by the efficient air-cooled engine, meet the demand in an ideal way.

It is pointed out that there is little mystery about the popularity of these modeds since they give, not only free and unobstructed access to the sunshine, but can, in a moment, be transformed into a closed car with all the snug warmth and weather protection of the closed body. The rumble seat has extraordinarily generous dimensions both as to width and legroom.

Particularly among the younger set, the Franklin convertible with the top collapsed is becoming more and more the vogue, even in the fall and winter months.

Circling Continent.

Mrs. W. R. Doremus of Mountain Lakes, N. J., is on a 15,000-mile motor trip to encircle the North American continent. Starting alone from New York City last June, she traveled north and west as far as good roads could be found, and then expects to go south along the Pacific to Mexico and east to the Atlantic Coast.

Check Water Pump.

When the water in the cooling system begins to disappear at a rate that is obviously unduly fast, the first point to be suspected is the water pump packing gland. Usually the first to permit leakage is the simplest to remedy. Just a turn or two of the nut and the packing again is tight. Repacking from time to time and periodic inspection is a practice that should be encouraged.

American Auto Color Schemes Not Restricted

"American automobile buyers are fortunate in that their choice of body colors is not restricted by legend or monarchial taboo," declares L. G. Peed, sales manager of the De Soto Motor Corporation, who quotes in comparison the plight of buyers in many foreign countries, China and Spain for example. "In China, red as a body color is prohibited because of religious significance," Peed says, "and in Spain, blue is prohibited because it is the color of the royal family. In America beauty and harmony of color alone governs our choices."

Quoting from the "Philosophy of Color" by Clifford, Peed declared that "the harmony of color is a visible expression of one's mental joy. In music it is an established fact that certain notes used in combination produce harmonious sounds. The moment that more than one note is struck, there is a danger of discord, and when 10 notes resound to the touch of the player, they must be the right notes, or the sounds jar upon the sensibilities. In the use of color the same law of exactness applies, and it is this fact that caused us to undertake an exhaustive research into the theory and practice of color harmony before deciding upon the combinations for the new De Soto sixes."

Millions in Gas Tax.

Motorists in the United States will pay more than $500,000,000 in gasoline taxes for the year beginning Aug. 1. Forty-eight States and the District of Columbia are now collecting taxes from this source at a rate of $1,557,000 daily. No state has a gas tax of less than two cents.

Sale of De Sotos Gain During Week

A marked increase in automotive activity throughout the country was reported last week by De Soto dealers since this car entered its second year of existence.

The De Soto achievement—having broken all records in the history of the industry for a first year car by producing and selling 81,065 of these models—was made an occasion for celebration by dealer organizations all over the United States. As a result, enthusiasm for the car following the announcement of the new record was reflected in the large number of sales reported during the first half of the month.

Red Hats for Protection.

Because of the growing dangers of the road in France, children have adopted berets of brilliant vermillion. Motorists welcome the red caps because they can see the wearers at a distance.

Highway Numbers Near Sikeston, Mo., Ordered Changed

SIKESTON, Mo., Sept. 7.—C. D. Matthews, chairman of the State Highway Commission, today made public the decision of the Commission to change the numbering of several highways. Explaining the action, he said:

"We have given a new number to all stub roads that had a letter and number, in order to simplify the marking system. Spur connections from primary roads to towns are not numbered, but will be called, for instance, route No. 71, Dearborn spur; route 17, Plato spur, etc."

In this vicinity is numbered as 53 the road from Poplar Bluff to Campbell and Holcomb, connecting with Missouri No. 25. The connection from Dutchtown, through Morley, Benton and Charleston to Wolf Island, has been designated No. 55 and a short spur from route 55 south of Charleston is now route 105.

Horses used to run in terror from this horseless carriage. William F. Wolfe, the driver, recently went more than 250 miles to attend an Ohio state fair. The car, made in 1900, has six speeds forward and six reverse, goes 15 miles on a gallon of gasoline and has a top speed of 10 miles an hour.

Age of Automobile Depends on Mileage, Sol Gross Declares

How old is an automobile?

The answer is not so simple as one would imagine on first hearing the question, which Sol Gross has been propounding to visitors at the salesroom of the Gross-Butler Motor Co., Graham-Paige representatives in this city.

"For example," Gross says, "take two cars that were turned out of the same factory March 1, 1929, and sold to retail purchasers March 15. Nine months later, on Dec. 15, are these two cars of the same age?

"Not necessarily. Car A has traveled 7500 miles and car B has done 10,000 miles. If you were buying either one as a used car, you would choose the one that had covered the least distance. The point is, the real age of an automobile is not its time-age but its mile-age. Therein lies one of the greatest advantages of the Graham-Paige four-speed transmission, for when one of these four-speed models has traveled 10,000 miles, its engine has made only as many revolutions as the engine of a three-speed car has made at 7500 miles. In other words, mile for mile, the four-speed car ages 25 per cent slower than a three-speed car."

Drums May Be Worn.

Squeaking brakes should suggest inspection of the drums. If they are out of round or worn unevenly they will make a noise.

Engineers Test Anti-Knock Fuel

In an effort to determine the exact anti-knock relations of various blends of motor fuel on both automobile and airplane engines, special tests have been started at the Detroit Engineering Laboratory of the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation and at Wright Field, Dayton, O. The army engineers and the Ethyl Gasoline Corporation, owned jointly by General Motors and the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, will work in conjunction and will check each other on a number of blends of fuel.

Robert T. Longway Named Assistant To Buick President

Appointment of Robert T. Longway as assistant general manager of the Buick Motor Co. is announced by E. T. Strong, president and general manager.

The new assistant general manager has been associated with the automobile industry for 22 years, beginning with the Weston Mott Co. in 1907. When the latter concern was absorbed by Buick, nine years ago, Longway became an official of that company. Since that time he has been assistant treasurer, comptroller and vice president.

Federal-aid Road To Connect Mount Vernon and Capitol

to Mount Vernon had its inception in 1886. Two years later the Mount Vernon Avenue Association was incorporated by the Virginia Legislature and following an act of Congress in 1889, Brigadier-General Peter C. Hains of the Army Engineer Corps reported on a survey of three principal routes.

Congress on Dec. 2, 1924, created the United States Commission for the Celebration of the Two Hundredth Anniversary of the Birth of George Washington, and on May 23, 1928, the act was passed authorizing the commission, in cooperation with the Secretary of Agriculture, to survey, select, construct and maintain a Mount Vernon Memorial Highway. One of the routes surveyed by Gen. Hains in 1889 approximates in its location the route selected by the Commission.

The question of the safest method of making a left-hand turn still continues to hold an important place in discussions of Washington motorists and in the local press. Recently the city of Philadelphia decided to prohibit all left turns in the congested area of that municipality and this loomed as a significant gesture in the eyes of Washington observers, since the system which the Director of Safety declared had made the abolition of turns necessary was an approximation of the model municipal code turn, which has been advocated for adoption here. Both are made by drawing to the center of the intersection. The Philadelphia turn, however, provides for passing to the left of the center, whereas the model code prescribes passing to the right of the center.

Following a referendum of the Washington Post in which more than 5000 votes were cast, the majority for the outside, rotary turn now in vogue here, the assistant director of traffic, M. O. Eldridge, sent out a questionnaire to nearly 300 cities throughout the United States asking how they made left turns.

Replies from more than 150 cities showed that only 54 use the model ordinance turn. Twenty-three used the inside turn and in 64 cities two methods are used. The conclusion drawn by Eldridge is that the trend is away from the model ordinance method, and he points to the adoption of the so-called Philadelphia turn by the States of Pennsylvania and New Jersey.

The point made in favor of this method is that if two cars draw up to turn left they do not cross each other's path. This, it is declared, eliminates a hazard of the model ordinance turn.

Employment conditions in cities where large automobile plants are situated vary according to different localities, according to the latest reports published by the Department of Commerce.

In the Detroit industrial district, which includes Highland Park, the report states that "while the usual summer curtailment of operations and employment occurred in several of the major industrial establishments, the volume of employment remained at a high level throughout the district. The skilled labor supply and demand were well balanced. What surplus labor was apparent consisted principally of unskilled help. Practically all plants in Detroit and the surrounding cities were in operation."

At Flint, Mich., it is stated that there was a slight surplus of workers usually employed in the automotive plants. There was a surplus also at Kenosha, Wis., which included automobile factory workers. A similar condition was reported for South Bend, Ind.

In the Buffalo, N. Y., district there was a slight seasonal let-up in activity and because of gradual curtailment of operations in the automobile industry there arose a decrease in the demand for this class of workers. Factories manufacturing automobile accessories reported a continued shortage of skilled mechanics.

Satisfactory conditions are reported for Cleveland, O., where, it is stated, the curtailment in the automobile industry was not as great as that usually apparent at this season. At Toledo, O., however, the forces of automotive plants were reduced, two large ones being worked on a part time basis, affecting about 5000 employes.

The following facts were obtained from a comparison of the Oakland All-American Six with 20 other medium-priced automobiles. All told, 878 individual comparisons were made. Of these Oakland proved to be distinctly superior in 451 or 51.37 per cent. The 20 cars combined were at best equal to Oakland on 382 or 43.50 per cent. And 13 of the 20 were higher priced than Oakland!

PISTON DISPLACEMENT
Oakland's 226 cubic inch piston displacement is greater than 12 of the 20 cars in its price field. Of the 8 remaining cars, 7 are much higher priced than Oakland.

G-M-R CYLINDER HEAD
Only Oakland and one other car in the field use the G-M-R cylinder head. Sixteen have no type of non-detonating cylinder head whatsoever, although 11 of the 16 are more expensive to buy than Oakland.

RUBBER ENGINE MOUNTING
Only Oakland in the entire field employs rubber "biscuit" insulators. While others claim rubber mountings, none offers such resilience and permanent freedom from vibration as Oakland.

HARMONIC BALANCER
Only Oakland and one other car in the field have the Harmonic Balancer. Of 13 cars using some other device, 11 are higher-priced than Oakland. Oakland's crankshaft is fully counterweighted. The crankshafts in nine higher-priced cars are not counterweighted at all.

FUEL PUMP While eight other cars in Oakland's field use the fuel pump, six of the eight are higher-priced. And six other higher-priced cars continue to use the vacuum system.

CRANKCASE VENTILATION
While most cars in the field have crankcase ventilation, only Oakland and one other, according to available information, have any method for cleaning the air. Six have not, although three of the six are higher-priced than Oakland.

CROSS-FLOW RADIATOR
Only Oakland in the entire field has the Cross-Flow Radiator or anything similar to it. All other cars use the down-flow radiator, this despite the fact that 13 of the 20 are higher-priced than Oakland.

BRAKES Only Oakland and one other car in its field use the fine type of brakes which Oakland employs. And no car in the field equals Oakland's 290 square inches of brake band area. Oakland's separate emergency brake operates on the transmission. Seven cars in the field have no separate emergency brakes, although three of them exceed Oakland in price.

Drive... America's finest medium-priced automobile and learn what a difference there is Nowhere is the impressive superiority of today's Oakland All-American Six more clearly revealed than in the remarkable performance which this greatest of all Oaklands delivers. The All-American Six is positively unrivaled in performance at anything like its price. And the reasons are to be found in the advanced engineering features which it provides. For certainly, no other car in its field embodies so many features contributing to leadership in every phase of performance—in smoothness, silence and balance, as well as in power, pick-up and speed.

Oakland's engine has the large piston displacement necessary in developing high power at moderate engine speed—the non-detonating type of cylinder head required for high compression performance with ordinary gasoline—the Harmonic Balancer to neutralize torsional vibration in the crankshaft—rubber "biscuit" mountings to insulate it from the frame and make it incomparably smooth and free from vibration.

Under the hood and throughout the chassis are many additional advancements, all of which increase the performance supremacy of the All-American Six.

In the panel at the left you will see how Oakland outdoes its field in performance features. Drive this car—and learn what a difference all these features make.

With a demonstration and additional evidence of its unrivaled value, we will prove to your complete satisfaction that today's Oakland is America's finest medium-priced automobile.

Oakland All-American Six, $1145 to $1375, f. o. b. Pontiac, Michigan, plus delivery charges. Spring covers and Lovejoy Hydraulic Shock Absorbers included in list prices. Bumpers and rear fender guards extra. General Motors Time Payment Plan available at minimum rate.

AMERICA'S FINEST MEDIUM-PRICED AUTOMOBILE

Activities of Boy Scouts

C. H. MILLS IS NEW ACTIVITIES DIRECTOR

Boston Man Succeeds Herbert T. Swanson, Who Returns to New York.

Herbert T. Swanson, for the last year and a half activities director for the St. Louis Council of Boy Scouts, has resigned and has been succeeded by Charles Howard Mills of Boston, according to an announcement by Earle W. Beckman, local scout executive.

Swanson has returned to New York City, where he held a position with the Boy Scout organization before coming to St. Louis. He probably will resume his connections there.

Mills, who assumed his new office Wednesday, has been in Boy Scout work for 19 years having been scoutmaster of the first uniformed troop organized in Chicago. He entered scouting professionally eight years ago as director of publicity of the National Council, Boy Scouts of America.

Previous to his scout work, Mills was engaged in other work with boys. He was for a number of years director of the Boys' and Men's Department of Hull House, Chicago, and has held positions as Superintendent of Recreation in Grand Rapids, Mich., and Kansas City. He is recognized as an authority on municipal recreation centers.

In his capacity as activities director of the local scout council, Mills will be in direct charge of all civic service, hikes, rallies and contests. He will be in charge of the annual Scout Circus, the annual Merit Badge Exhibitions, and the Camparall; will promote "get-togethers" of the 1500 volunteer leaders of the city, and will assist in troop pageants, fathers' and sons' banquets and district meetings.

Mills will also have general supervision over all camps conducted by the council, although each of these will be under their own leaders.

Swanson's reason for resigning was that he "couldn't live away from New York."

ACTIVITIES DIRECTOR

CHARLES H. MILLS.

FORMER executive secretary of the Harry E. Burroughs Newsboys' Foundation of Boston, who has been appointed activities director for the St. Louis Council, Boy Scouts of America. Mills has been engaged in Boy Scout work for 19 years.

Troop Notes

North District.

Plans for a hike to the Lions' Den, the officials weekend camp of the local Boy Scout Council, are being made by the scouts of Troop 3, of the Grace Holy Cross Church. The hike will be taken some weekend this month. The Flying Eagle patrol is leading in an inter-patrol contest being conducted in the troop. Scoutmaster Simons and Assistant Scoutmaster Hunt have been giving a series of lectures on merit badge subjects at the troop meetings.

Assistant Scoutmaster Junghaus of Troop 42, of the Zion Lutheran Church, who has been absent from troop meetings for some time because of sickness, has recovered and is now able to take part in troop activities again. Twenty scouts and troop committeemen of this troop, accompanied by Scoutmaster Muldner, held a three-day camp at the Lions' Den Aug. 16, 17 and 18. Patrol hikes and test-passing featured the camp.

A perfect record in passing outdoor requirements for the first-class rank was achieved by the scouts of Troop 68, meeting at the St. Elizabeth's Church on a week's camp at LaBarque Hills ending last Sunday. Every camper in the group successfully passed every outdoor test.

Part of the time at camp was devoted to collecting natural history specimens for the troop museum, and snakes, lizards, tortoises and rocks were brought back to the city. A few fish were also obtained and preserved for the museum. The prize catch was a woodchuck. The hunt for specimens was led by Scoutmaster Sampson. The meeting of the troop last week was spent mostly in map-making.

Headquarters Notes.

More than 50 scouts from Troops 42, 77, 157 and 198 performed a civic good turn by assisting at the opening of the new Humane Society building at Macklind avenue yesterday. The scouts acted as ushers, took care of animal cages, demonstrated the use of the animal ambulance, and acted as building guides. Scout buglers also opened the program. The scouts were led by Scoutmaster L. John Lewis of Troop 198, who had with him most of the members of his winning Camparall patrol, victors in the 1929 Camparall and winners of a bus trip to Washington. First aid to animals is part of the Boy Scout training, with a merit badge being awarded for proficiency in that subject.

Boy Scout members of the "Spirit of St. Louis" troop, St. Louis delegates to the International Boy Scout Jamboree in England this summer, will be guests of the Thirty-fifth Division Air Unit, National Guard, at the flying exhibition given by that unit at Lambert Field this afternoon. Executives of the local Boy Scout Council, and their wives, have also been invited to form part of the group.

St. Louis scouts have performed several services for the flying field this year, acting as ushers, field police, and aids on occasions when large crowds visited the field.

Nearly 50 Boy Scouts from St. Louis Council troops took part in the swimming meet held under the auspices of the St. Louis Police Relief Association at the Coliseum yesterday. Most of the scouts were boys who had participated in water-front activities at Camp Irondale during the summer. The group was in the charge of Arthur Werder, swimming director of the Irondale camps.

West District.

After having held their meetings all summer in Forest Park, the scouts of Troop 30 have returned to their regular meeting place at the Y. M. H. A. The return to the old headquarters will be marked by a reorganization of the troop, to be accomplished within the next two weeks. The reorganization will also include the formal inauguration of Melvin Hertzman as senior patrol leader, an office won by him during a six weeks contest carried on during July and August. One of the first activities of the reformed troop will be a hike, plans for which are being made now.

Troop 30 was one of the most active troops in the council during the summer. Test passing meetings were held practically every afternoon during vacation and a large number of tests were successfully passed. Fifteen scouts from the troop attended different camps this summer.

Scout Carl Kixman was elected Senior Patrol Leader of Troop 87, meeting at the United Hebrew Temple, at the annual election of officers held at the troop last Wednesday evening. Scout Maurice Cohen was made troop scribe and Scout Leon Stein, Preston Green, Manuel Goldman and Harry Rosenbloom were elected patrol leaders. Patrols were formed under the new leaders, and an inter-patrol contest in first aid immediately held. Thirty-four scouts took part in the voting. Refreshments were served at the close of the meeting.

Seven new scouts, Edward Greene, Elmer Greene, R. Prince, J. Roiter, J. O'Neill, F. Kunze and C. Hardwig, were initiated into Troop 113 of the Church of the Messiah, at the meeting last week. After trials of several initiation programs, the troop has adopted one as a standard to be used hereafter. Plans for a hike to Lambert Field were made at the meeting, the hike to take place some time this month. The first of four contests in discipline, attendance and wearing of the uniform was also started, under the leadership of Junior Assistant Bernard Husinger. Each contest will carry a prize for the winning patrol, another for the patrol leader and a third for the assistant patrol leader. Each contest will last for one month. Scout H. Hochstein is now scribe of this troop.

JAMBOREE SCOUTS STOP OFF

Local Council Entertains 17 on Way to Kansas City.

Seventeen Boy Scout members of the "Heart of America" troop, International Boy Scout Jamboree delegates from Kansas City, were guests of the St. Louis Boy Scout Council Thursday afternoon and evening. The scouts, accompanied by their scoutmaster, Spencer A. Gard of Kansas City, were returning home from England, where they participated in the recent jamboree at Birkenhead.

The troop was met at Union Station by Activities Director Charles H. Mills and Arthur Denkman of the headquarters staff, who acted as official hosts. A tour of the city, including Forest Park and the Zoo, was made in a Roving Camp bus, and a stop was made at Jefferson Memorial to view the Lindbergh trophies.

Last Sunday the council was host to six Indian scouts, members of the Muskogee (Okl.) jamboree troop.

$300,000 Yacht for Edsel Ford.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

QUINCY, Mass., Sept. 7.—A cruiser-yacht, reputed to cost $300,000, is under construction for Edsel Ford at a Neponet shipyard, it was learned today. The yacht, which will accommodate 28 persons, will be finished in teak, French cedar and butternut.

DR. M. ASHBY JONES FOR SOVIET RECOGNITION

Second Baptist Pastor Says Russians Feel Every Nation Is Against Them.

"The old psychology of Germany prior to 1914 is being reproduced in Russia in an even more acute form," according to the Rev. Dr. M. Ashby Jones, pastor of Second Baptist Church, who returned to St. Louis yesterday after having spent three weeks in Russia.

"At present the attitude of most great nations is to treat Russia as an allen and an outlaw to the family of nations," he said. "This has created in the consciousness of the Russian people the feeling that every nation's hand is against them. There is a growing enmity and fear of all other countries. The Russians have that sense of being 'ringed around by their enemies' and are unquestionably prepared to defend themselves.

"Nothing would so quickly change this attitude as the recognition of the Government by the United States and Great Britain."

Russia is a "going concern," Dr. Jones said, and the Soviet idea is firmly established. He expressed the belief that any change that might come would be brought about by evolution, rather than revolution.

"For this reason," he said, "I am convinced that the United States should recognize the present Russian Government. Recognition does not necessarily mean approval. It means recognition of a political fact and the determination to deal with it in the wisest and friendliest manner."

Dr. Jones was one of a group of writers and educators who made a two-months' tour of Europe.

"THE GOAL OF YEARS HAS BEEN ATTAINED"

THE·NEW·1930·HUPMOBILE·SIX stirs the whole motor world with its extraordinary VALUE

A 100% Hupmobile in the thousand dollar class! That's the biggest motor car news in years! . . . For this new 1930 Hupmobile is not a step-brother or a companion car to a larger Hupmobile Six. It is the Hupmobile Six itself . . . Worthy successor to the famous Century Six, but a faster, handsomer and better car . . . In every detail of its construction this new 1930 Hupmobile is 100% a Hupmobile. Its engine is the Hupmobile motor which made the 1928-29 Century Six the greatest success in Hupmobile history. But more powerful . . . 70 horsepower instead of 57. Roomier . . . more seat and leg room. Quieter and smoother . . . for its famous crankshaft has been counterweighted and its engine is supported by rubber-cushioned mountings . . . Long renowned as "The Car of the American Family" Hupmobile now, with more power and less price, adds new lustre to its proudest title.

HIGHLIGHTS OF THE NEW 1930 HUPMOBILE SIX

70 miles per hour . . . 70 horsepower. Acceleration from 5 to 25 miles per hour in 7 seconds; 5 to 30 m.p.h. in 20 seconds . . . The famous Hupmobile Century Six engine improved with counterweighted crankshaft and rubber-cushioned engine mountings; minimum vibration at any speed. Improved 4-wheel Hupmobile steeldraulic brakes . . . Foot operated dimmer control . . . Non-glare sloping windshield, full ventilating type . . . A big car, 50¾ inches across rear seat, 49 inches across front seat . . . Generous head room . . . Smartened by cleverly tailored sheet metal . . . New French type fenders . . . New 6-inch chromium hub caps . . . New front fender parking lights. Custom equipment—6 wire or disc wheels, two spare tires mounted in fender wells . . . available at slight extra cost.

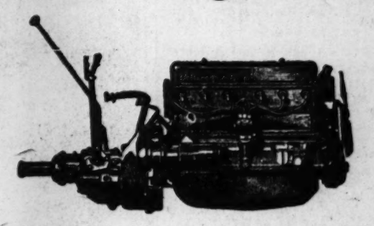
CHEVROLET

Facts that prove the Value of The New CHEVROLET SIX

The new Chevrolet Six is shattering every previous record of Chevrolet success—not only because it provides the greatest value in Chevrolet history, but because it gives you more for the dollar than any other car in the world at or near its price! Facts tell the story! Modern features afford the proof! Read the adjoining column and you will know why over a MILLION careful buyers have chosen the Chevrolet Six in less than eight months. Then come in and get a ride in this sensational six-cylinder automobile—which actually sells in the price range of the four!

Remarkable Six-Cylinder Engine-

Chevrolet's six-cylinder engine represents four years of research and development. Embodying an advanced valve-in-head design, incorporating such features as non-detonating high-compression cylinder head, hot-spot manifold and acceleration pump, it provides smooth, flexible performance with thrilling speed, flashing acceleration and ample power for the longest, hardest pulls.



Sensationally Smooth Performance-

When you drive the new Chevrolet Six, the performance quality that impresses you most vividly is its sensational smoothness. At every speed point on the speedometer, there is remarkable freedom from annoying vibration and drumming. You enjoy a velvet-like flow of silent power characteristic of the truly fine automobile.

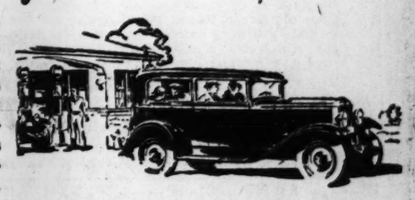
Beautiful Fisher Bodies-

With their low, graceful, sweeping lines and smart silhouette, their ample room for passengers and their sparkling color combinations and rich upholsteries—the new Fisher bodies on the Chevrolet Six represent one of the greatest achievements of the world-famous Fisher body designers and craftsmen. And, of course, Chevrolet bodies embody Fisher's famous hardwood and steel construction that provides the utmost safety, durability and long life.

BODY BY FISHER

Outstanding Economy-

The new Chevrolet Six delivers better than twenty miles to the gallon of gasoline! In addition, its oil economy is equal to, if not actually greater than, that of its famous four-cylinder predecessor! Other factors of Chevrolet's overall economy are fundamentally sound design, which assures long, trouble-free life—and a nationwide chain of over 10,000 service stations operating under a flat-rate system of charges and supplying genuine Chevrolet parts at extremely low cost.



Remarkable Dependability-

In order to appreciate the value of the new Chevrolet, it is necessary to remember what a really fine Six it is. Its design represents more than four years' development and testing. Materials are carefully selected from the finest sources of supply. Skilled workmen perform every manufacturing operation. And inspection is rigorous and continuous, from raw material to finished product. The result is quality so high that you may confidently look forward to thousands upon thousands of dependable, care-free miles.

Amazing Low Prices-

An achievement no less remarkable than the design and perfection of the Chevrolet Six is the fact that this sensational six-cylinder car is sold at prices so amazingly low. Furthermore, Chevrolet delivered prices include the lowest financing and handling charges available. Bear this in mind when comparing what you get in the Chevrolet Six and you will see that it represents the greatest dollar-for-dollar value in the world!

New Program Of Dance Music Through KMOX

Gene Ormandy's Orchestra to Open Burns Series at 8 P. M. Tomorrow.

A Burns Panatela fall series of programs over KMOX and other Columbia chain stations will begin at 8 o'clock tomorrow night.

With an imaginary country club setting, a different orchestra of national popularity will offer each week an elaborate program of dance music.

Another feature is to be brief talks by celebrities in the field of sport, chiefly amateur athletics. Men prominent in college football will comment on the more important football games of the season, giving inside information and close up comment upon the play and outcome of the games.

The first speaker will be William H. "Big Bill" Edwards, who, as captain of the championship Princeton eleven in 1899, set a record for fast, consistent playing which stands to this day. Edwards is expected to talk on football as a sport, both amateur and professional. He has kept up his interest in the game even though more than a quarter of a century has passed since his active participation.

The orchestra chosen for tomorrow night's Burns program is Gene Ormandy's band of 20 musicians selected and trained for dance rhythm. It has been practicing all summer with emphasis on unique fox trot tempos under the direction of Ormandy, recently orchestra leader at the Capitol Theater, New York.

Balloonist Turns to Planes.

Robert Grubb, a Canadian balloonist and parachute jumper, has enrolled for a flying course in the Robertson School.

REPORTED PLANNING TO BE MARRIED

May Singhi Breen and Peter de Rose, who have been engaged for months and are reported about to marry.

MOST stories about May Singhi Breen begin with the anecdote about her attempt to trade a gift ukulele for a bathrobe. Then, according to the historians, when she was unable to make the trade she decided to learn to play the thing. Which she did and, as inevitably as comes the dawn in a mushy movie, came success. She's written more ukulele arrangements than any one else in the world; she's taught more persons to play the ukulele than any one else in the world; and she's done much to elevate the once cursed uke until it now is recognized as a legitimate musical instrument.

Peter De Rose, her song writing partner, and her fiance, is known in the music world himself because of his authorship of "Muddy Water," "Down Among the Sugar Cane" and a number of other popular compositions. He appears with Miss Breen on every program. He does tricky things with a guitar, is little less than a wizard on the piano and has a voice that makes his fiancee the envy of a whole flock of feminine listeners.

Biographically speaking, Miss Breen was not born in Cuba, Hawaii or India, all rumors to the contrary. She started life in New York and has always made her home here. She is the daughter of the late Carrie Jane Singhi, a noted composer and pianist. May was educated in private schools in New York and traveled extensively in Europe while still in her 'teens. She learned to play the piano when she was four years old and studied the instrument seriously. She made the piano her profession.

Her first encounter with the ukulele was in 1922. After she had mastered the instrument she originated the scoring music for ukulele by means of a diagram. This diagram enables persons with no knowledge of music to strum out almost any popular tune. For further details refer to almost any sheet of popular music, for Miss Breen thoroughly convinced music publishers that her system was worth while.

She started her radio career more than six years ago and made her debut on WEAF, sharing honors with a jazz pianist. Later she organized a girls' orchestra and then she met Peter De Rose. That was the beginning of the best known romance and one of the best known partnerships in the radio world. For over five years the pair have been heard in radio programs—sometimes in company with other artists, but more often alone, for they are capable of presenting an entertaining program with no outside assistance.

Breen and De Rose, to give them their abbreviated radio billing, have been heard in their own special program, and in such programs as the General Motors Family Party, the Cavalcade, the Variety Hour and other nationally known presentations.

The radio listeners seemed to suspect that the partnership of Miss Breen and Peter was more than a cold business proposition. Many listeners wrote in guesses that the pair were married. Others were sure that they were engaged. Then, one night right after a broadcast, Miss Breen and Peter announced their engagement over the air. To date they have received sixteen floor lamps for the future home. The wedding is expected to take place one of these days soon and Peter is expected to write a theme song about the event.

It is interesting to watch the pair at work in a studio. Peter is slender and dark, has a small mustache and romantic eyes. He uses the eyes on Miss Breen when he croons love songs which may explain why his songs sound sincere. The Ukelele Lady cuddles her favorite instrument in her arms and croons to it as if it were a baby. Both work close to the microphone and manage to give an intimate touch to their performances that a lot of other radio artists would like to achieve. They seem to enjoy their work and every year they celebrate their anniversary on the air and many of the biggest stars of radio join in the program in honor of these veterans.

Miss Breen says her big ambition is to have the ukelele introduced in symphony orchestras and she sees unlimited musical possibilities in a ukelele choir. She is sincere in her admiration and respect for the little stringed instrument and was one of the leaders in the campaign which resulted in the standardization of the ukelele and the banishment from reputable music stores of the cheap, tuneless, instruments that had given the "uke" such a bad name throughout the country.

Brougham for Gold Seekers.

A Ryan brougham fitted with pontoons was tested on the Missouri River at St. Charles yesterday by "Red" Harrigan, test pilot. The plane was ordered by the Canadian Aerial Exploration Co., Ontario, Can., and will be used by a gold-seeking expedition.

Notables Will Help Open New WMAQ Studios

Albert Spalding, Violinist, on Program for Tuesday Night.

With Albert Spalding, famous violinist, and other stars on the program, the new studios of WMAQ in the new Daily News building in Chicago, will be opened for broadcasting use next Tuesday night. Spalding is to play between 8 and 9 o'clock, St. Louis time. The studios are the most complete and elaborate thus far built for a single station.

The inaugural program will open at 5 o'clock. Between 5 and 8 o'clock, WMAQ's staff musicians will entertain. They will include George Simons, tenor; the Whitney trio; the Daily News concert and dance orchestras under Joseph Gallicchio; the orchestras' soloists and smaller groups; the Aerials male quartet in Negro spirituals; Hazel Huntley, contralto, and Flora Waalkes, soprano; Harold Van Horne, pianist; Amos 'n' Andy; Auld Sandy, the "Three Doctors," Pratt, Sherman and Rudolph, and Dan and Sylvia.

Following will come Albert Spalding and other celebrities. Then the broadcast will go on the Columbia network.

Stars from shows in Chicago will feature the late evening program, between 9:30 and 11:30 o'clock.

A two-story studio on the twenty-fifth floor of the building is finished in a modernistic motif of blue, black and silver. It will easily accommodate an orchestra, choral society, opera or concert company of 100.

Three other studios ranging down in size to the one used for one, two or perhaps three people. The studios are ranged in a "U" shape around the control room, so that operators in control of the program and artists and announcers in the studios may always see each other in action. The windows between the rooms are heavily glassed, so announcer and operators are developing a signal system for communication.

All the rooms are treated to eliminate noise. The floors are rubber tile and the walls are of sound deadening substance similar to cork.

Above, on the top floor of the building, are three rehearsal rooms and a visitors' reception room with a large glass panel looking into the big studio from its second floor level. Any of the rehearsal rooms may be used for broadcasting and the wiring is so arranged that six different programs may be staged at any time should the Daily News wish to broadcast its own program over WMAQ and feed five other features to outside stations.

Dr. Klein Begins Business Talks On CBS Tonight

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, will begin a series of talks, entitled "This Week in the World's Business," this evening over KMOX and other Columbia stations. For his first talk Dr. Klein has selected "The Way of the Eagle: Our Air Craft Abroad."

Dr. Klein won his Ph. D. at Harvard with a thesis on Spanish economic history. He studied at the University of Berlin and at the Sorbonne in Paris, and traveled extensively in Europe and Latin America, making special investigations on historical and economic subjects.

From 1915 to 1917 he was instructor at Harvard in Latin American history and economics and later, from 1920 to 1921, he was assistant professor in these subjects. In 1917 Secretary Redfield made Dr. Klein chief of the Latin American Division of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and in 1919 he was sent to Buenos Aires as Commercial Attache, remaining in the Argentine capital until the summer of the following year. He rejoined the faculty of Harvard in 1920 and in March of the next year, when Herbert Hoover was made Secretary of Commerce, he was summoned to be Director of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, where he served until he became Assistant Secretary of Commerce April 21, 1929.

An utterly new thing in radio

We've Caught at Last the Fleeting Thing in Music That Millions Respond To When a Master Plays or Sings

Balcony Scene from Romeo and Juliet

Now comes a vast improvement in radio reproduction.

Your favorite type of music, by this new discovery, brings a thrill more deeply moving. It increases your enjoyment. It brings far reaching cultural effects. Due to a higher development in musical reproduction, more true, more faithful to the original.

We found a way to gain this fidelity of tone by a new method of controlling oscillation that cuts out every whisper of outside noise, hum or interference. So sure is this method it eliminates sounds the human ear cannot distinguish.

This mechanism is very delicate. It requires us to supersensitize every point of contact by plating it with gold. This way only is it possible to reproduce the true performance of the artist.

By eliminating interference we are able to amplify even the overtones. You hear the soul of the music. You hear not only the sound. You actually feel the personality, the emotions of the artist who plays or sings.

That means a radio unlike any you have ever known. All music then brings a cultural influence never possible with imperfect reproduction. You'll want these effects immediately instead of any radio you may own. Especially when you remember our well earned title "The Set with the Punch"—the punch that means distant stations come booming in with all the volume and clarity of a local—the punch that mean entire absence of A. C. hum and interference. So see this new advancement at once. Go to the nearest Stewart-Warner dealer. Hear its punch and power.

"An Evening in Paris" Program Returns to Air

Songs Popular in France to Be Heard in Feature Over KSD.

Some of the best of the songs popular in France, one of them introducing a new dance, will be introduced to American listeners when "An Evening in Paris" returns to the air for a new series over KSD and allied NBC stations next Friday evening.

"Nuit d' Argentine," suggesting that the Argentines have "gone plantation" in rhythm, will introduce the new Parisian four-beat tango "Allo! Allo! Cherie!" has a lingering melody, and "Ce N'est Qu'un Mannequin" (It is Nothing But a Doll) is the most advanced French version of the "blues."

Franz Lehar, composer of "The Merry Widow," has written a slow fox-trot for his newest operetta, "Paganini," now a sensation in Europe. It is "Rien, Plus Rien n'Existe," and it will be included in the program.

The first of this new series will take listeners to the Cafe Pigall, in Montmartre, where the type of entertainment known as cabaret is said to have originated. It opens at midnight and closes only when the last patron has had his fill of gayety. Two orchestras pound away without interruption, and songs of Montmartre and of the theaters flavor the lively dance music.

Manon, Peaches, Bill and Jacques, who last year toured the gay places of Paris under the sponsorship of Bourjois, perfumers of Paris, will return to the microphone in the new NBC series, which will be broadcast at 7 o'clock St. Louis time.

Concert Over KWK

The following program will be played by John Meiszner's Orchestra over KWK between 9:45 and 10:20 this morning:

Overture to Fidelio ..... Beethoven
Excerpts from Rose Marie ..... Friml
Selections from Lucrezia Borgia .. Donizetti
Viennois Caprice ..... Popp
Flute solo by John Meissner.

Frank R. Ingalls, baritone, is to be soloist, and Allen Taylor will announce.

St. Louis Radio Show Will Have Elaborate Exhibits

Everything New in Receiver Furniture and Chassis Promised—Broadcast Stars of National Chains Will Make Personal Appearances.

It is expected that every new feature in radio receiver chassis and cabinets that has been developed this year will be on display at the Fifth Annual Southwest Radio Show which will be held in the Coliseum, in St. Louis, the week of Sept. 16-21, inclusive.

The showing of cabinets will be elaborate. Furniture has become increasingly important during the past year.

Among special exhibits will be a display of photoradio. The entire process of sending and receiving photographs by radio will be shown. A similar exhibit last year proved to be one of the most popular attractions.

Broadcast stars featured in programs by the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia System have been engaged for the show. Most of these will make their first St. Louis appearance.

Broadcasting Stars Coming.

Alois Havrilla, noted announcer of the National Broadcasting Co., will be a guest artist and announcer. He appeared at the show last year and won immediate popularity.

Redfern Hollinshead, tenor soloist on many Majestic Sunday evening programs, will make his first appearance at a St. Louis radio show as a guest artist.

Henry Burbig, a widely known comedian featured in the Ceco Couriers program over the CBS, also will make his first appearance in St. Louis.

Another nationally known entertainer who will be featured is Irene Beasley, a recording blues singer of unusual ability. She will sing at the show every afternoon and evening.

Local radio stations will broadcast the entertainment features of the show from a studio in the Coliseum. The Show Committee has arranged to have each station broadcast from the show building on specified days. Elaborate programs featuring St. Louis artists and entertainers have been arranged to present the entertainers in person to the show visitors and over the air at the same time.

The St. Louis audition final in the Atwater Kent Foundation contest will be held in the show studio Sept. 16 and 17.

Radio dealers and jobbers in St. Louis and adjacent territory who are co-operating in arranging for the exposition say that there is greater interest in the show than ever before and that attendance records will probably be broken.

The exposition is to be held under the auspices of the St. Louis Radio Trades Association. The officers of the association are:

George H. Niekamp, president; Walter H. Dyer, vice-president; Math. Kaemmerer, vice president; Samuel B. Singer, secretary, and W. A. Ward, treasurer; Otto E. Heilmann, N. E. Hill, L. E. Jaques, H. B. Levy, A. C. Brandt and Julian E. Sampson.

Five More Stations In Mobiloil Hookup

Five stations in the Southwest have been added to the NBC chain broadcasting the Mobiloil programs on Wednesday nights. They are KVOO, Tulsa; WKY, Oklahoma City; WFAA, Dallas-Fort Worth; KPRC, Houston; WOAI, San Antonio.

The number of stations broadcasting the Mobiloil concerts now totals 25.

KFAB Becomes 69th NBC Station

KFAB, Lincoln, Neb., has been added to the National Broadcasting Co.'s network. This brings the total of NBC associate stations to 69.

KFAB operates on a wave length of 389.4 meters (770 kilocycles). Its power is 5000 watts. It divides time with WBBM, Chicago

Bar Association Committee Hits At Radio Law

Report Urges Repeal of Davis Amendment and Other Provisions.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—The inadequacy of the radio law is being stressed with such vigor that it is a foregone conclusion that before another year elapses they will be largely rewritten.

It is improbable that the Couzens bill, now pending before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee and proposing the creation of a Federal commission on communications, will be enacted within that time. But it is thought likely that Congress will adopt some temporary expedient to rectify the defects of the Radio Act of 1927 until general permanent legislation can be enacted.

Reflects Caldwell's Views.

The most recent broadside at the Radio Act of 1927 is fired by the Standing Committee on Radio Law of the American Bar Association. The report of this committee, which carries much weight, will be presented to the annual convention of the Association in Memphis next month for adoption.

Repeal of four of the controverted sections of the Radio Act, modification of a dozen others, and inclusion of provisions that have been overlooked is recommended by the committee after more than a year of study and investigation.

It opposes the Couzens bill for the time being, on the ground that radio regulation should be permitted to "stand on its own hind legs," instead of being thrown into a hodge-podge with the control of cables, telegraph and power companies, and perhaps be subordinated to them.

Louis G. Caldwell, former General Counsel of the Federal Radio Commission and perhaps the leading authority on radio law, is chairman of the committee. The report reflects, in large measure, the views of Caldwell, which often have been expressed through the commission and in testimony before the committees of Congress having to do with radio legislation.

The report is a handbook of radio regulation.

Would Repeal Davis Amendment.

The committee recommends the repeal of the Davis equalization amendment which requires equal distribution of radio facilities among the five radio zones into which the nation is divided. It also urges elimination of the "zone system" whereby radio commissioners are appointed to represent five zones.

The report says that the Davis Amendment "runs counter to well-established engineering principles" and "in addition to the hardship which it brought about, is distinctly wasteful and unsound." The zone provision, it states, acts as a restriction on appointments to the commission.

Advocating repeal of the anti-monopoly" provisions of the law, the committee states these are "a constant threat to the foreign communications system of the United States." It points out that one of these provisions specifies that any person or firm adjudged by a court guilty of monopoly or attempting to monopolize the control of the manufacture or sale of radio sets shall be refused licenses for radio channels.

The report asserts that this provision was aimed directly at the Radio Corporation of America, but that Congress did not realize the danger of this provision to the communication system of the nation.

The R. C. A., the report points out, is embroiled in litigation involving the very factors cited n the radio law. Hence there has been no "final" ruling of guilt of monopoly against the R. C. A. But when that decision does come, it will mean that almost the entire wireless foreign communication system of the United States will be rendered inoperative overnight."

Broadcasting Endangered.

The same provision of the law would require the commission to revoke all of the licenses held by the R. C. A. and its subsidiaries, according to report. This would mean the obliteration of American radio service to some 30 foreign countries, the wiping out of practically the entire ship-to-shore service of the R. C. A., operated by its subsidiary, the Radiomarine Corporation of America, and—most important to the radio listeners of the country—the complete extinction of the National Broadcasting Co., in which the R. C. A. has a 50 per cent interest.

Repeal of Section 17 of the Radio act, which forbids merging wire and wireless companies, also is advocated by the committee. This section "rests upon a misconception as to the nature of radio reception and its relation to wire communication," and the two means of communication should be permitted to combine under proper conditions as such combination will be to the advantage of the public, the committee holds.

The report urges mitigation of the drastic provisions of the law relating to the issuance of licenses to corporations having alien stockholders. It advocates restriction of the powers of the U. S Court of Appeals, which, under the law, sits as a sort of "super-radio commission." It declares that the court should be so confined in its deliberations as to prevent it from substituting its judgment for that of the commission on matters involving principles of radio engineering.

Another report, covering virtually the same ground, was issued a few days before the Bar Association report was made public, by B. M. Webster Jr., general counsel of the Federal Radio Commission. This report was in the nature of a letter to Chairman Couzens of the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce. Practically all of the changes and amendments suggested were identical with those urged in the Bar Association committee.

Members of the association's committee on radio law, besides Caldwell, are William J. Donovan, former Assistant Attorney General of Washington; Fred C. Fernald of Boston, Cassius E. Gates of Seattle, and Edward A. Zimmerman of Chicago.

WLW on Air Till 4 A. M. Saturdays

Continuing its Friday programs for 23 hours, the Crosley radio station, WLW, will broadcast until 4 o'clock St. Louis time every Saturday morning.

After midnight Friday, the WLW program will continue with variety features changing every half hour.

"So few stations broadcast at that hour that the radio listener will not be able to dial for his choice in programs. We'll furnish that choice by changing the type of entertainment often enough to please everyone," Ford Billings, director of Crosley broadcasting, has promised.

Hook-up of 51 Broadcasters for New Radio Hour

Paramount Publix Program to Range From New York to Hollywood.

One of the most extensive commercial hookups attempted will be used for the first Paramount Publix Radio Hour on Saturday night, Sept. 21.

The net work will include 51 stations in the United States and a station at Montreal, Canada.

Beginning at Times Square, New York, the program will take listeners across the country to Hollywood, stopping at intermediate points to pick up bits of entertainment from Publix theaters in the Middle West. Arrangements have been made to broadcast the street and crowd noises of Broadway picked at Forty-third and Broadway.

A special overture will be played by the combined Paramount symphony and jazz orchestras. Then screen stars at the Paramount Long Island studio will be presented, followed by musical entertainment from the Paramount Theater, New York.

The scene will shift to Indianapolis, where members of the "Honeymoon Cruise" stage show will add their bit to the program. Returning to the New York studio of the CBS, the Paramount orchestra will play, then the program will be picked up from the Paramount Theater in Omaha, Neb. Then the audience will be taken to Hollywood where more Paramount picture stars and featured players will entertain. The program will be concluded in the New York studios of Columbia with Paul Ash, Paramount's master of ceremonies, leading an augmented orchestra.

Louis Witten, will have charge of the Paramount-Publix Hour.

City Administration Talks Over WGY

Problems in municipal administration, discussed by experts in terms understandable by the average citizen and taxpayer, will be presented in a series of talks to be broadcast every Monday night for 14 weeks, beginning tomorrow at 5 o'clock, by WGY, Schenectady.

District Singing Contests Set For Radio Show

Ten Girls and as Many Youths Will Compete to Represent City.

In the St. Louis district elimination of the Atwater Kent national radio contest held at the Congress Hotel, 10 girls and 10 young men were selected from more than 60 contestants to compete on the nights of Sept. 16 and 17 in the Coliseum during the Radio Show for the honor of representing St. Louis in the State eliminations.

The 10 girls selected in this elimination contest are Misses Jeanette Bowe, Margaretmary Durnin, Marjorie Gutgsell, Attilie Kerchloff, Lillian Krueger, Helen McFarland, Ruth Roll, Ethel Leaver, Bridie Murphy Koester and Wenona A. Rives.

The men selected are Emerson Brown, LeRoy Busch, Milton Carr, J. E. Coolidge, Charles W. Landon, John D. Knes, Harold Leistritz, Robert L. Pribble, Jan Sadlo and F. Marion Weier.

C. J. Matthews of New York, Charles S. Sanger of Syracuse, N. Y., and James W. McKee of Chicago, were the judges of the contest. The 10 young men will sing in the Coliseum Monday evening, Sept. 16, and the girls the following evening. Both contests will be broadcast over KMOX.

The Kansas City district audition will be held tomorrow, it is announced by Mrs. Frederic Nussbaum, Missouri State chairman. Mrs. Florence M. Woodard is chairman of the Kansas City district.

Symphony Series Begins Over WLW Sunday, Sept. 15.

Great Cincinnati Orchestra to Go on Air in Weekly Concerts.

Still another of the finer symphony orchestras of the country has been engaged for a series of sponsored broadcasts beginning next Sunday when the Cincinnati Symphony Orchestra will go on the air over WLW in the Selby Hour. The concert will begin at 8:30 St. Louis time and continue for a full 60 minutes.

The orchestra will be led by Vladimir Bakaleinikoff, assistant conductor and radio director of the organization, who formerly directed the Moscow Art Theater Orchestra and the Mordkin Russian Ballet.

The programs, which are to be sponsored by the Selby Shoe Co. of Portsmouth, O., will include style forecasts by "Miss Suzanne."

Labor Station Moves Again in Broadcast Fight

Another phase of the fight by the Chicago Federation of Labor for greater power and full time on the air for its station, WCFL, has developed through an application to move the transmitter to York Township, Du Page County, Illinois, near Chicago, to install new equipment and to increase power from 1500 to 50,000 watts.

As will be recalled, the Federal Radio Commission has steadfastly declined to give WFFL full time or part time on any of the cleared waves assigned to this zone. The persistency with which the WCFL management seeks a more favorable assignment indicates a bitter struggle sooner or later with the Chicago "Big Five"—WGN, WENR, WLS, WBBM and WMAQ, all of which have won a strong standing with the commission.

Announcement is made at Atlanta, Ga., that work is about to begin on a new 10,000-watt transmitter for WSB to replace the 1000-watt station now in use.

Here and There on the Air

The woman who made a concert tour in a wheel chair rather than disappoint thousands who had heard her records and wanted to see her, has been assigned a regular weekly program by the National Broadcasting Co.

She is Elsie Baker, one of the best known recording and oratorio contraltos in the United States. The program is called "Golden Gems" and will be given Wednesday evening at 5:30 o'clock over KHD, beginning Sept. 11.

Several years ago Miss Baker was engaged for a summer Chautauqua tour. About the time her schedule was to begin she was badly hurt in a fall, and her doctor ordered her not to walk.

Miss Baker obeyed her doctor's orders to the letter, but kept her engagements. At each concert an attendant wheeled her on the platform and she sang from the chair.

Gale H. Curtright, until recently chief announcer and studio director of KMBC, Kansas City, has joined the staff of KMOX as announcer.

From 1925 to 1927 he was general manager and chief announcer of KFRU, the station owned by Stephens College at Columbia, Mo., and at that time was the youngest radio station manager in the United States. During "off hours" he attended classes at the University of Missouri. While at college he majored in news and advertising work as well as dramatics, playing various roles in a number of university stage productions.

Last year he was radio editor of the Columbia Missourian. He is a member of the Alpha Delta Sigma fraternity.

WLAP, Louisville, Ky., is seeking permission to install new equipment and increase power from 30 to 5000 watts on 1220kc.

* * *

Howard Melaney, lyric tenor, known as the "Singing Fireman," will sing over WLW every Wednesday night, beginning Sept. 4.

His regular weekly itinerary of broadcasting will take him from Cincinnati to Cleveland, Buffalo, Milwaukee, Minneapolis and Chicago, before he returns to WLW again for his Wednesday concerts.

* * *

Tamaki Nambu, a Japanese soprano of the Philadelphia Opera, will sing four favorite folk songs of her country when she appears as soloist on the Japanese program which the "Around the World With Libby" concert ensemble will broadcast next Thursday night over KWK.

Mme. Nambu will sing "Pining For My Sweetheart," "Lullaby," "Rice Harvest Song" and "Festival Dance Song." The accompaniments of these melodies will be provided by three Japanese musicians, who play the Samisen, a small guitar; the Kotj, a zither-like instrument, and Japanese bells. This combination of instruments is as popular among the Japanese as are the flute, violin and cello among Occidental peoples.

* * *

Al and Fay, "The Harmony Boys", staff entertainers over KMOX, will leave St. Louis Sept. 10 for Wichita, Kan., to appear at a radio show to be conducted by KFH Sept. 11 to 14, after which they will return to St. Louis for the St. Louis radio show, the week of Sept. 16.

* * *

Darl Bethmann, one of the NBC singing actet, war christened Charles Darlington von Bethmann. Before entering radio in 1922, he sold newspapers, taught school, worked in a steel mill, was an assistant chemist, read gas meters, drove a truck, worked in a paint mill and was an assistant chemist with a chemical company. Yet all the while he kept up with his musical studies.

* * *

Taylor Buckley was a boy soprano in the same choir with Richards Crooks. Buckley was in vaudeville for five years as a trumpet player with the Joe Thomas Saxotette, which toured with Duncan Sisters. Two years ago he decided to devote all his time to singing.

* * *

Irma de Baum recently made her Italian debut in grand opera. The comments of critics were said to be extremely favorable to the American singer.

* * *

Kenneth Fickett, National Broadcasting Co. announcer, is one of the few announcers who has never been a professional singer. Most announcers were vocalists in the early days of radio and gradually gave up singing to do announcing. Graham McNamee and Milton J. Cross, the N. B. C. stars, are both singers. Fickett, however, was fresh from college and looking for a job when he got his first chance at announcing.

* * *

Frank Moulan approaches a microphone, wraps his arms around its pedestal, throws back his head and does his stuff.

* * *

Arcadia Birkenholz, NBC violinist, has taken on additional duties as conductor. He directs the Moment Musicale period.

* * *

Giuseppe di Benedetto, NBC operatic tenor, has a law degree. So has Maria Kurenko, Russian coloratura soprano.

* * *

Bob Tesseman, frequently heard in NBC dramatic and comedy productions, was on the legitimate stage long before he joined the ranks of radio artists. He recalls the time when the footlights were lighted by gas. At present he is heard with Phil Cook in Buck and Wing.

* * *

Rita Burgess Gould, singer and comedian heard in many NBC programs, was a headliner on Broadway's musical comedy stages for a number of years. In 1915, she succeeded Nora Bayes as in the Ziegfeld Follies. She starred in "Aphrodite" in 1920 and had the leading role in "Gay Paree" in 1927. She was a nurse overseas in the World War.

* * *

Without exaggeration Mildred Hunt, NBC crooner, who is widely known as the "radio sweetheart," is a very pretty girl.

* * *

Percy Hemus, known to listeners for his work in the Dutch Masters Minstrels, is trying his hand at writing radio plays. He was author of "The Jones' Celebrate the Fourth," heard over the NBC System recently.

* * *

* * *

Lotta Gainsborg wants plenty of solitude when she is broadcasting piano solos. Spectators bother her, she says.

* * *

Jane Houston, former leading woman with John Drew, is a widow on the radio each Friday night. She is the character who has added zest to the weekly escapades of Gus and Louie. The musical background is supplied by Arthur Pryor's band, which takes the role of a small town organization, with Gus and Louie as two of its musicians. Miss Houston, who has appeared on the stage both in this country and in London, considers the radio more of a diversion than a career at present. Her home is Houston, Tex. On the radio she is the "Widow Biddle." Arthur B. Allen is Gus and Louis Mason is Louie.

C. A. Earl Radio
From Obscurity to Nation-wide acclaim in Six months ~ The Triumph of REALISM
The Radio with the Human Voice
Six months ago you had never heard of the C. A. Earl Radio. Today you hear its praises sung by thousands of enthusiastic owners.
Never before in radio history is recorded so spectacular a rise in popular favor. It is the tribute America pays to a triumph of Realism in tone and volume.
Through the medium of the C. A. Earl, a human voice is a veritable human voice with all its warmth and humanity and heart appeal perfectly preserved.
The notes of an organ heard over the C. A. Earl are the notes of an organ as you would hear them if seated in a cathedral—neither dwarfed nor exaggerated.
Judged by the highest possible standard—that of absolute Realism—the C. A. Earl stands alone. The proof of that statement awaits you in a demonstration at the nearest C. A. Earl dealer's.

Radio Fails to Be Popular in Turkey

By the Associated Press.

ANGORA, Turkey.—To own a radio set in Turkey one must obtain a Government permit, and pay the equivalent of $5. The Turkish Radio Society, which holds a Government monopoly, complains that there is a growing number of contraband sets tuning in on its programs. The authorities have ordered the police to track down these cases.

Radio has taken so poorly in Turkey that the society holding the monopoly, which includes sale of apparatus and exclusive broadcasting rights, would have gone bankrupt this year had not the Government come to its rescue with a subsidy.

The Turkish Radio Society, which holds a Government monopoly, complains that there is a growing number of contraband sets tuning in on its programs. The authorities have ordered the police to track down these cases.

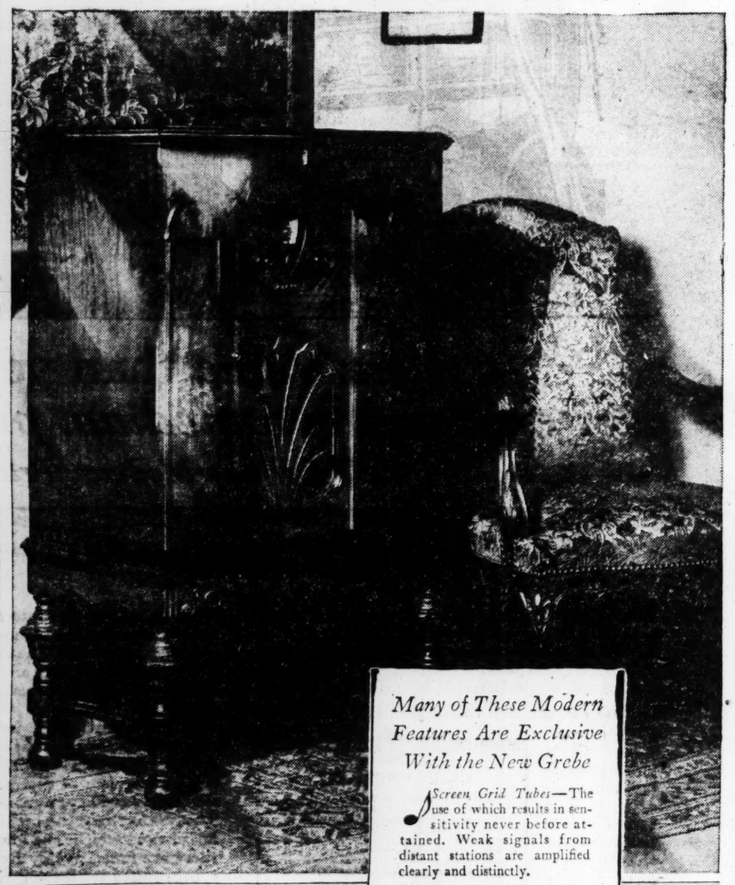
Radio has taken so poorly in Turkey that the society holding the monopoly, which includes sale of apparatus and exclusive broadcasting rights, would have gone bankrupt this year had not the Government come to its rescue with a subsidy.

NEWER than screen grid!

Announcing the most modern principle of Screen Grid Radio . . .

Developed by Grebe

MODEL 270 . . . WITH VERTICAL PANELS . . . AND SLIDING DOORS
PRICE, WITHOUT TUBES, $270 . . . OTHER MODELS FROM $219.50 TO $450



To those radio buyers who really place a premium on life-like tone in reproduction . . . who really are looking for quality in reception—whether it be from distant or local stations—the distinct merits of this truly delightful instrument will have instant appeal.

The New Grebe is just out . . . and with it comes the secret of its tonal excellence — the "Equalized Band Pass Filter" used with screen grid tubes. To most people this will mean simply a technical term. But what this exclusive Grebe development does in utilizing all the advantages of the new screen grid tubes . . . controlling their power without subduing it—eliminating all outside noise and interference . . . means very much to every discriminating buyer who is seeking the best and latest in radio.

This New Grebe fully responds to the keenest need in radio today—silent power. For its silent power results in pure tones . . . entirely freed from all distortion of station overlapping or power hum.

Screen Grid Justifies the Public's Quick Acceptance

The many advantages of this new tube insure ever increasing popularity—and point to its long continued use. To quote but one of many prominent radio engineers, "The present indications are that it will occupy an important place in receivers produced during the next few years." Yet screen grid tubes, by themselves, are not enough. Alone, they do not constitute a new order of results. But in the combination of Screen Grid with the Grebe "Equalized Band Pass Filter" a new perfection has been reached.

As a prominent consulting radio engineer puts it: "I regard the appearance of the band selector frequency amplifier as the most important trend of the current season." Here then in a word is the New Grebe . . . another Grebe triumph . . . another instance of Grebe pioneering.

Twenty Years of Craftsmanship and Experience Are Built Into Every Grebe Receiver

For twenty years the words Grebe and Radio have been synonymous. Even before the days of broadcasting Grebe was fabricating fine precision radio instruments—many of which, during the World War, were to be found in the radio rooms of our fleets . . . and those of our allies. Craftsmanship has always been a Grebe creed. With Grebe, radio is not a side line. A pioneer in the industry, Grebe is still pioneering. Always a step or two in advance, this latest step is Grebe's most important contribution to the full enjoyment of radio.

Every Grebe a Finished Musical Instrument

While each Grebe model is especially designed for its acoustic values, each is a beautiful piece of furniture fitting harmoniously into the room where dignity is the keynote. Having always borne a reputation for craftsmanship . . . for quality rather than quantity . . . relatively few Grebes are made each year. So we suggest that you make your selection early. See and hear this New Grebe for yourself. A forty-eight hour demonstration in your home will be gladly given by your dealer. Hear for the first time . . . Tri-toned radio.*

Many of These Modern Features Are Exclusive With the New Grebe

Screen Grid Tubes—The use of which results in sensitivity never before attained. Weak signals from distant stations are amplified clearly and distinctly.

New Control for New Power—But in the New Grebe this added power is controlled. Overlapping of stations is eliminated . . . strays are kept out. You get the full tone value made possible by that exclusive Grebe feature—the Equalized Band Pass Filter.

Single Audio Stage Means No Hum—Grebe reception is so strong . . . so pure in tonal characteristics . . . that only a single audio stage is needed. Hum and microphonic disturbances are eliminated.

Large Diameter Speaker . . . an Original Grebe Idea—Full tone range is effectively accomplished by special large diameter electrodynamic speaker . . . so successfully introduced by Grebe.

For Superb Reproduction of Phonograph Records—You can play your favorite phonograph records by a mere turn of the tuning dial. This automatically connects the electric phonograph pick-up with its specially wound transformer.

Cabinets Designed for Lasting Beauty and Acoustic Perfection—The New Grebe is obtainable in a wide choice of selected walnut and mahogany lowboy and highboy models. Furniture of characteristic beauty and dignity . . . and expertly designed for its acoustic properties. In a word, Grebe craftsmanship.

 What is Tri-toned Radio? . . . .*

Every musical sound has three distinct characteristics: 1. Pitch, by which we distinguish the note as being high or low; 2. Intensity or loudness; and, 3. Tone, or character by which we distinguish the sound of one musical instrument from that of another. In Grebe Radio you have reproduction that gives you perfect blending of all three characteristics without unnatural over-emphasis of any part of the scale . . . Tri-toned radio.

True Story Hour Broadcast Twice On Friday Nights

For Benefit of Far-Western Listeners, 21 Stations Added to Hook-Up.

The difference in time between the Atlantic and Pacific seaboards brings about a unique situation affecting the True Story Hour, a regular Friday night feature of the Columbia Chain.

For the past year the True Story Hour has been heard on the Atlantic Seaboard at 9 o'clock and in the Middle West at 7 o'clock. When it was decided recently to add the Pacific Coast stations of the Columbia system to the network, it was realized that the difference in time would take the broadcast to coast listeners at 5 o'clock in the afternoon. So it was decided to repeat the True Story Hour every Friday night for the especial benefit of coast listeners.

Therefore, the True Story Hour is now produced in the WABC studios of the Columbia Chain twice every Friday night, the first time at 9 o'clock, for Eastern listeners, and 7 o'clock for the Midwest, and again at 1 o'clock in the morning of the day following (Eastern daylight saving time), which is 9 o'clock on the Pacific Coast the night before.

The stations in the Far West for whose benefit the extra broadcast is being sent are: KLZ, Denver; KHJ, Los Angeles; KOIN, Portland; KDYL, Salt Lake City; KFRC, San Francisco; KVI, Seattle-Tacoma; KPY, Spokane.

The Southern network of the Columbia Chain has been added to the True Story hookup. The stations added are: WWNC, WTAR WDBJ, WBRC, WDOD, WREC, WLAC, WDSU, KRLD, KLRA, KFJF, KTSA, WIBW and WFH.

Look for a loose connection in the antenna and ground circuit or around the batteries if reception is weak, followed by sudden blasts of noise.

Radio Trade Notes

A radio show rally will be held by the St. Louis Radio Trades Association at 6:30 Tuesday evening at Hotel Kingsway. Robert E. Lee will be the speaker. He is president of the Auto Show Managers' Association and secretary-manager of the St. Louis Automobile Dealers' Association. He will discuss "The Relation of the Public Radio Show to Consumer Selling."

The Staffelbach & Duffy Co. has been appointed distributer of Triad radio tubes, which carry insurance certificates guaranteeing that they will give a minimum of six months perfect service. Triad tubes are made by a group of nationally known tube manufacturers and engineers, all long associated with the industry. Triad testing processes are said to be exceptionally stringent. A new exclusive process for coating the filaments of AC tubes has been developed in the Triad plant.

Complete public address systems using the new Kylectron speakers will be installed at the New York radio show, Sept. 23-28, and at the Chicago show in October, according to a statement by Jess Hawley, vice president of the United Reproducers' Corporation. Kylectron speakers were used in the public address system in the three hotels in which the Chicago radio trade show was held last June.

An 11-inch Jensen dynamic speaker is built into the cabinets of the A C Dayton "Navigator" receivers, which also use the Technidyne system of pre-selector tuning whereby the signals from the gerial are filtered and selected before being amplified by the tubes. A feature of such tuning ahead of the tubes is that a number of unwanted signals, hetrodyne whistles and other noises are tuned out before the amplification process begins. This, of course, has a direct influence of quality and quiet of reproduction from the set's speaker.

Knobs and dial strips on A C Dayton receivers may be had in five color combinations, the standard being sage green. Knobs are of the standard snap on type and the dial strip may be changed by the removal of four screws. So the complete change may be made in a couple of minutes. It is said that women listeners fancy this color selection.

So powerful is the output from the power detector, that it is necessary to use only one audio stage and that push pull with two 45 type tubes.

The selector-tuner, the amplifier and the power units are separate. There is only one connection between tuner and amplifier, and it is equally easy to take out the amplifier or the power device. This, of course, facilitates servicing and makes it possible to remove any one of the three units and substitute a new one in a minute or two, thereby obviating interruption of reception.

Forty Majestic receivers were presented to the crew of the Graf Zeppelin on Aug. 29 by W. G. Grunow, vice president of the Grigsby-Grunow Co. of Chicago. The presentation was made at the Government hangar at Lakehurst, N. J. The sets were the same as the Majestic in the home of Dr. Eckener, the dirigible's commander.

A meeting of Sparton dealers and service men in the St. Louis territory is to be held at the Jefferson Hotel tomorrow. The service men are to meet at 9:30 a. m., when a factory representative will address them. Luncheon will come at 1 o'clock and officials from the Sparton factory will speak during the afternoon. The Henshaw-Dudley Distributing Co., the Sparton distributer, will be host for the meetings.

The Benwood-Linze Co., the St. Louis distributer of Majestic radio, has been advised by the Grigsby-Grunow Co. of Chicago that rumors that all present models of Majestic sets will be discontinued and that within 60 days new models will be announced to the trade, are false.

B. J. Grigsby, president of the Grigsby-Grunow Co., said that the policy of the company was definitely committed to no change in models during the current year, 1929.

Grigsby also said that the factory was not planning to manufacture a screen grid set, now or in the future. He said that extensive tests with screen grid tubes and sets had been made and that Grigsby-Grunow officials were convinced that the present Majestic models were more satisfactory than anything they could build in screen grid radio.

A series of prize contests for college students and teachers in colleges and in city, small town and rural schools have been offered by the Grigsby-Grunow Co. The awards range from Majestic sets to trips to Europe, Alaska and various parts of this country.

Part of the crowd at the recent aviation races at Cleveland, O., heard radio programs from WLW, Cincinnati. A Crosley screen grid set in a cabin monoplane of Powel Crosley Jr., president of the Crosley Radio Corporation, picked up the programs. A Crosley dynacone speaker was used to transmit the programs to the crowd. The engine of the plane was used for a ground.

A new magnetic pickup outfit has been designed by the Stromberg-Carlson Co. for its new line of screen grid receivers and other sets using power detection and requiring that the pickup circuit work directly into the grid of the amplifying tube.

It differs from previos models in that the pickup unit or head is of the low impedance flexible armature type. As no scratch filter is incorporated in the outfit, the volume control is mounted in the base of the pickup arm to provide compactness. Due t othe fact that the voltage generated by the low impedance pickup unit is very low, a stepup transformer is provided to raise the voltages to a value suitable for operating the audio amplifier. This transformer is placed close to the receiver chassis to avoid capacity effects in the long cord connecting it to the phonograph.

Flexible armature operation is provided in the No. 3-A pickup by having the armature shorter and lighter in weight, and by using a more flexible cushion. This great flexibility reduces wear on phonograph records, increasing the life of the record in some cases by as much as 30 times.

Radio Board Will Ask 5000 Farmers About Reception

The Federal Radio Commission is preparing to send questionnaires to a selected group of 5000 farmers about distance reception, cleared channels and high power.

The questionnaire will be virtually the same as that sent to 16,000 radio amateurs last March. Every one of the farmers has a first-class receiving set.

From the farmer survey the commission hopes to find out whether the cleared channel is serving its purpose of reaching the rural and remote listener.

As far as can be learned, the amateur survey showed that conditions are improved as a result of the reallocation, in each of the five zones.

The amateurs say they don't like direct advertising.

More Value than you ever expected in a medium priced car
The 90° V-Eight at Medium Price

Paralleling the tremendous enthusiasm for the luxurious 90-degree, V-eight performance of the new Viking—and contributing equally to its quick success—are deep-seated respect for its splendid quality and warm-hearted admiration for its style.

It is no exaggeration to say that the new Viking gives more value than you ever expected in a medium priced car. For it is the result of the best efforts of the creative staffs of Oldsmobile, General Motors, and Fisher Body—all three acknowledged masters of motor car design. No expense was spared, no detail overlooked, in their insistence upon thoroughgoing goodness.

OLDSMOBILE SIX
—the Fine Car of Low Price—continues to win ever greater success throughout the nation. Companion car to the new Viking Eight, and, equally outstanding in engineering and value at its price, it offers a wide choice of body styles and equipment combinations, ranging from $875 up, f. o. b. factory, Lansing, Mich.

The secret of Viking style, for example, lies in its trim, tailored smartness. It is low, fleet, dashing—with sweeping full-crown fenders, graceful hood, and handsome body contours. At the same time it has an air of patrician quality—of distinction and dignity—because of its beautiful proportions and extreme simplicity. The new Viking is as well conceived and as smartly styled as any car at any price.

And the promise of its fine appearance is carried out to the fullest extent in its spacious interiors. Generous size permits ample head room and leg room. The wide, deep-cushioned seats are as comfortable as easy chairs. Upholstery materials are soft to the touch, neutral in color, and fine in quality. Every detail of interior decoration adds to the rich effect.

Comfort is the predominating note the moment you step into a Viking. And this restfulness remains throughout the entire range of Viking performance. The 81-horsepower, 90-degree, V-type, eight-cylinder engine is smooth and silent at every speed. True, it is capable of thrilling speed, remarkable acceleration, and tremendous power. But these luxurious performance qualities—so characteristic of the most costly cars—are delivered without noticeable effort. The new Viking engine is a masterpiece of design, combining exceptional simplicity, rigidity, accessibility, and compactness. The Viking hugs the highway at all speeds, due to its balanced weight and low center of gravity. And there are four Lovejoy hydraulic shock absorbers, synchronized with the springs, to smooth out road irregularities.

Come in and see the Viking. Let us show you its many distinctive features—typified by the glare-proof, non-shatterable, slanted windshield; new precipitating-trap system of oil cleaning; and thermostatically-controlled radiator shutters. Drive the Viking and experience the luxury of its 90-degree, V-eight performance. Then you will realize that nowhere else can you find such a combination of style, comfort, and performance at a medium price. Then you will say, "It's more car than I expected for the money."

ENROLLMENT IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS INCREASES 1180

Total 89,468 at Opening of Term, Slightly Larger Than That of Preceding Year,

Enrollment on opening day, last Tuesday, in all divisions of the public schools was larger than that of last year. The total, for white and Negro schools, was 89,468, as compared with 88,288 for last year, an increase of 1180. This is indicative of greater interest in education rather than of an increse in population, the Instruction Department of the Board o. Education thinks.

The divisional enrollments were as follows: High schools, 11,440 as against 10,794 last year; intermediate schools, 3960 as against 3807; Negro high schools, 924 as against 753; Negro intermediate schools, 2241 as against 2135; Hadley Vocational School, 760 as against 565.

A vocational school for Negro pupils will be established at Carr Lane School as part of the program planned by T. E. Spencer, assistant superintendent in charge of vocational education, who also plans to extend vocational courses to school buildings other than that of the Hadley School, which is in the old Central High School annex, 3432 School street.

"The Hadley School will be developed on the secondary school level," he said, "admitting eighth grade graduates at the age of 14 years. There will also be classes for adults as well as for juniors. The former will be for students more than 26 years of age and will be regarded as extension classes.

"Pre-vocational classes will be established in the Franklin School for boys and girls who have not finished the eighth grade and who must seek employment."

Evening and Saturday classes are conducted at the Hadley School in printing, electrical work, painting, lathing, plastering, carpentry and other organized trades. A new department of fine arts will be established, which will include instruction in painting and the plastic arts. A department of retail selling will also make its appearance. A course in secretarial work is to be provided in vacant rooms of the Hamilton Elementary School Building and an industrial sewing department in the Franklin School.

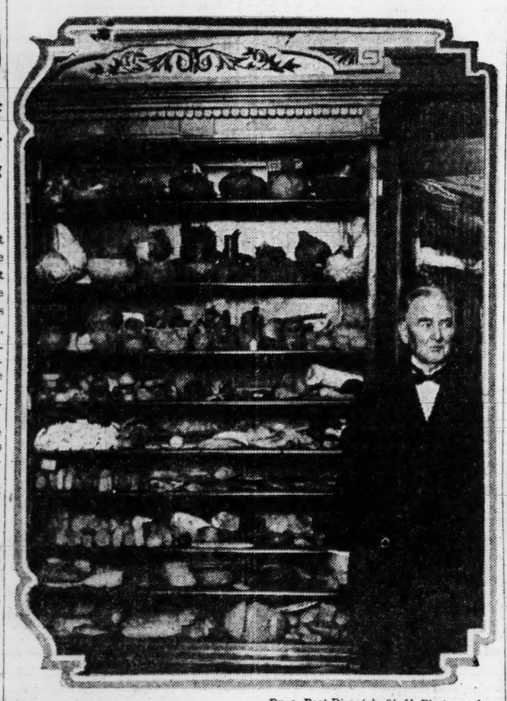
A course in secretarial work is to be provided in vacant rooms of the Hamilton Elementary School Building and an industrial sewing department in the Franklin School.

Edwardsville Collector Has 3000 Indian Relics



—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

JOHN R. SUTTER of Edwardsville and part of his collection of Indian relics he has been picking up in Madison county fields for half a century.

John R. Sutter, After 50 Years of Labor, Proposes to Turn Them Over to Historical Society for Small Price.

Fifty years ago a barefoot boy trudging his way across a newly plowed field in the river bluff country west of Edwardsville stooped to pick up something. Bone white the tiny object stood out prominently against the freshly turned loam. It was an Indian arrowhead.

He looked at his find for a moment or two, then put it in his pocket and went on to the fishing hole where he spent the afternoon much more interested in the operations of a pole and wormed hook in a shady stream than in Indian arrowheads.

That is, more interested that afternoon. A few days later instead of going fishing he went hunting—hunting for more arrowheads. He found them almost everywhere—large ones, small ones, pointed ones, blunt ones. Shortly he had a box of them at home. From then until now, the little boy, John R. Sutter, who since has grown up to be a real estate and insurance dealer in Edwardsville, has never ceased to tramp the fields of Madison County in serch of treasures from the days when the Indian roved the prairie.

About 3000 Pieces in Collection.

After half a century of collecting, Mr. Sutter, who is 73 years old, thinks it is time he was retiring. From one arrowhead his collection has grown to somewhere around 5000 pieces. He doesn't know how many for he never has counted them. It fills a tall case of shelves and a large drawer cabinet in his residence, 215 South Kansas street, Edwardsville, and includes boxed-up objects too large to display, as well as a number of pieces which decorate his office across the street from the Madison County Courthouse. His home, a well-preserved one-story frame, incidentally, is the place of his birth.

As Mr. Sutter said to a Post-Dispatch reporter, he has been "picking up things for a long time" and getting a great deal of pleasure out of it. Now he wants to make arrangements for the future care of his collection. Professional traders have never interested him. He says he has never swapped pieces with any of them, although they have pestered him for years and years. Time and again he has been offered from $25 to $100 for single objects.

After a good bit of figuring about what to do with his treasure store he has made up his mind. He thinks it ought to be the property of the Madison County Historical Society. Then it could be put in the new relic house which the State of Illinois is building at Cahokia Mound Park on the Collinsville road, where everybody could see it. People from all over the country touring U. S. Highway No. 40 could stop there and then go on with a fuller appreciation of the mounds scattered along the road.

"Mighty Generous Donation."

School children could come with their teachers and listen to the custodian as he showed them about from case to case and told them how life was lived in their Mississippi valley before the white man came. Because that is the kind of future home he wants for his collection, Mr. Sutter has announced that the Madison County Historical Society can have it for a "very nominal sum." Just how much he doesn't want to say until he has talked it over with the officers, but his price will be such, he explained, as to mean a "mighty generous donation" on his part.

An idea of the completeness with which Sutter's collection covers the life of "his" period can be had from a list of a few of the hundreds of items. There is of course the original arrowhead picked up that first afternoon and scores and scores of other arrowheads of all shapes cut in stone, volcanic glass and bone. There are spears, drills and chisels, war clubs, knives and axes. Some are stone, others copper and still others hematite. Among the best pieces are the pottery bowls with their curious handles, several with duck heads and one with a beautifully-modeled beaver head, the animal holding a stick of wood in its mouth as if swimming.

Combination Pipe-Tomahawks.

Buried vases and copper and pottery urns he found in graves. Two of the prize grave discoveries are twin sinistral shells found on the chest of a skeleton. Shells with left-hand whorls are considered sacred by Buddhists, but what they meant to early inhabitants of the river valley Sutter can only guess. Wampum he has by the yard. Once he found a cache of it, the thong which strung the dime-sized pieces of shell long before rotted away. There must be 90 feet of it.

Picking up a smooth sling stone, Sutter, with a twinkle, remarked, "Here's what David used on Goliath." The corn mill would be something to see but it is so big and heavy that it is boxed up. Among the items which he particularly likes are the crinoids, the sharks' teeth from limestone deposits and stone pieces which he said a scientist from the Smithsonian Institution described as having the characteristics of work of the Phallic worshippers.

The pipes, too, are favorites. Especially the one with a Mongolian face on the bowl-front and a rattlesnake coiled around the opening. Iron pipes, he said, were brought in by the French to trade with the Indians. Chief among this kind are the combination pipe-tomahawks which no doubt caught the fancy of the redmen.

Other Items of Interest.

While most of the collection is made up of Indian relics, other things of interest have quite naturally come into Sutter's hands during the 50 years. Among them are old pistols, army belt buckles from the Civil War, a candle snuffer, sandals from the "bad lands," corn from a cliff-dwelling in the Southwest and a hickory key, carved by an inmate of the old Madison County Jail who daily observed the iron original in the turnkey's hand, finally perfecting the wooden copy and released a jailful of prisoners. "Something different" are the bracelets made from groundhogs' teeth.

Mr. Sutter has always been a collector, but he hasn't always been a real estate and insurance man. For 36 years he was in county seat newspaperdom serving with the three papers, the Intelligencer, the Republican and the Democrat in every capacity from "devil to editor." Despite the busy life of a country journalist, he managed to find time for his regular tramps along the bluffs and streams, through fields and around the mounds. If he didn't have the time he made it.

"There isn't much left to pick up," the reporter suggested. Mr. Sutter's answer was to pick off his cupboard shelf a weird little white stone shaped like a griffin's face. "I found that last year," he said. "Friend of mine on a farm a couple of miles west decided to quit driving around a stump and dug it out. Right there I picked up this fellow. Funny little chap, isn't he?"

REFUSES TO ACCEPT TITLE AND IS STILL MRS. WEBB

Social Difficulty Raised by Wife of Secretary for Dominions Is Ironed Out.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Sept. 7.—When Mrs. Sidney Webb refused to be known as Lady Passfield, social difficulties were anticipated in her position as wife of the Secretary for the Dominions in Ramsay MacDonald's new labor government. But the difficulties have been overcome. Mrs. Webb has had her way. An invitation to a government reception stated:

"The Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs and Mrs. Sidney Webb will receive the guests."

Mrs. Webb has vouchsafed no formal explanation as to why she acquiesced when her husband assumed a title of nobility in the interests of the Labor Party, at the same time rejecting it as a social distinction for herself, but she said to a friend:

"I am 70 now, and I desire no other name than Mrs. Sidney Webb."

BRITISH UNION MEN REFUSE TO CONDEMN THE TALKIES

By the Associated Press.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Sept. 7.—The British Trades Union Congress, meeting here, has decided to let the talkies live.

Francis Dambman of the British Musicians' Union proposed a resolution condemning talking films on the ground they had resulted in considerable unemployment. Also they were "a degradation of art," he said.

J. B. Hilton, a delegate from Lancashire, seemed to voice the consensus of the delegates when he said: "We might as well try to stop the tide as the talkies." The congress defeated the resolution by an overwhelming majority.

Blue Light Shrimp at Manila.

MANILA, Sept. 7.—A new species of shrimp which emits a bluish phosphorescent light was discovered just outside Manila Bay recently by a Danish oceanographic expedition under Prof. Johannes Schmidt. The specimens were caught at a depth of 1500 fathoms.

BOHEMIAN GARNETS COME INTO FAVOR ONCE MORE

Trade Reports Indicate Ancient Industry Has Received a New Impetus.

By the Associated Press.

PRAGUE, Sept. 7.—Bohemian garnets have had a long run of favor and are again coming into their own, according to trade reports.

In Czecho-Slovakia the garnet industry is highly developed and very ancient, as the blood-red stone early came into favor in ecclesiastic jewelry. Later, throughout Austria, it enjoyed a long vogue as a mourning gem.

In the main, the supply is obtained from river beds and only the expert can detect the shoddy-looking pebble which contains the precious stone "born within a stone."

Under the former regime in Bohemia it is said that a Princess Lobkovic, largely responsible for the introduction of tennis into Central Europe, had her tennis court sanded with powdered garnets.

HUNTING INCREASES GAME, M'CANSE SAYS

Former Commissioner Declares Sportsmen Cause Greater Protection to Wild Life.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

STEELVILLE, Mo., Sept. 7.—Instead of exterminating wild life, the constantly increasing ranks of hunters, fishermen, tourists and recreation seekers will bring about stricter regulation and a consequent greater abundance of wild animals and game fish, Keith McCanse, former State Game and Fish Commissioner, told the annual conference of the Southwest Game and Fish Association which closed a two-day meeting here today.

If public interest in such pursuits increases in the next 25 years as much as it has in the past quarter century, the colleges will be offering degrees in agriculture and game breeding and scientists will have developed methods that will help the breeding of wild life enormously, McCanse predicted. He stated, however, that the pendulum may swing back in the other direction and interest in hunting and fishing wane, in which case regulation will fall off and wild life will suffer accordingly.

"In 1904 there was no Game and Fish Department, no licenses and very few game and fish laws," said McCanse. "A small amount was appropriated out of general funds to operate a fish hatchery in the parks of St. Louis. Carp, imported from Germany and acclaimed a great boon to the waters of America, was the principal fish cultivated and distributed. Deer were run by dogs, wild turkey shot off the roost, quail netted. It was all perfectly legal then. Anyone would have laughed at a proposal to feed quail in winter or to leave cover for game or campaign to reduce predators.

"What will 1954 be like? It is hard to tell, because we don't know what radio, aviation, chemistry and electricity will have wrought by then. People may be going too fast in airplanes to stop and fish. But if interest in game and fish continues on the increase, there will be millions of dollars spent where we spend thousands today. Fertilization of streams will be understood so that the micro-organism necessary for fish food will be multiplied many fold. We may acclimate trout to warm waters or we may learn the artificial propagation of bass and thus be able to plant billions of fry or fingerlings where we now plant millions. Game refuges will be plentiful. We will plant grain and berries for the quail and other birds to feed upon. Winter feeding of game will be universally done. Cover for game will be provided by the farmer and will not be burned out as is so often the case today."

Chicago—We Will to Try Again.

TETERBORO, N. J., Sept. 7.—The endurance airplane Chicago—We Will, which abandoned its attempt to set a new record after almost 300 hours in the air, landed here yesterday to be reconditioned for another trial. J. C. Hayden of Cleveland, pilot of the ship, said that as soon as the plane could be put in shape at the Wright plant he would take off for Chicago and seek to break the 420-hour mark set by the St. Louis Robin.

Philippine Research Institute.

By the Associated Press.

MANILA, Sept. 7.—The Philippine Research Institute has been incorporated here under the direction of Vice Governor-General Gilmore. The purpose is to search in chemistry, physics, biology and other natural sciences for facts which can be used in the alleviation of disease and in improving the industrial condition of the islands.

Italy to Retire Nickel Coins.

ROME, Sept. 7.—Italy will call in her 50-centesimi nickel pieces on June 30 of next year, but they may be redeemed up till Dec. 31, 1930, though during the six-month period they will no longer be legal tender. These half-lire coins have a value of slightly more than 2½ cents.

Telling the Modern Woman the Modes and Manners of Today....

So many things to remember; so many to avoid! — if the modern woman is to be the charming, competent person she so desires to be.

Her skin must glow with the beauty of perfect health. Clothes must bear the unmistakable stamp of Paris and New York. Her children must show the influence of intelligent, understanding care. She must be skilled in those little courtesies which make a charming hostess.

But it's easy to remember—if she follows the practical suggestions on beauty and babies, ensembles and etiquette in the Post-Dispatch Daily Magazine.

Styles Direct from the Shrine of Fashion

Such leading couteriers as Worth and Jean Patou describe and sketch their most charming creations to give you advance hints of their interpretations of the mode.

Perfect Behavior for Parents

Modern mothers know that proper understanding and training of children bring harmony and happiness in the home. "How to Guide a Little Child," by Agnes Lyne, gives you intelligent advice on child training.

Perfect Manners

Those annoying little problems of social behavior are solved by regular reading of Kathrine de Peyster's informal discussions.

To Preserve "That Indefinable Something"

The important little secrets for acquiring and enhancing beauty are revealed by Frances Olivier in "At the Beauty Shop."

How to Treat a Husband

You probably don't need the sage suggestions in Helen Rowland's "Meditations of a Married Woman," but you'll relish her wise and witty musings on men and matrimony.

Restful Reading for Leisure Moments

Almost every woman enjoys a story brimful of romance and adventure. The fine fiction appearing in the Daily Magazine answers her desire for a daily bit of good reading.

Notice how thoroughly these features cover the modern woman's wide range of interests ... how easy it is to keep up with the modes and manners of today in the Daily Magazine of the

POST-DISPATCH

STUDENTS' PRISON AT HEIDELBERG CLOSED

However, Duelling Though "Abolished" Still Goes On, but With Much Secrecy.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

HEIDELBERG, Sept. 7. — A prison term means disgrace in most places, but it used to be an honor among the students at Heidelberg in the old days. A hard-headed Republican government decided the students were having too much fun, however, and abolished the university prison.

Duelling, pranks on the police, and too much beer were the principle crimes for which students were committed. Having achieved the distinction of a prison sentence, the prisoner proceeded to make himself comfortable. He brought his own bed clothes, ordered his food and drinks from a neighboring restaurant, forgot about his studies, and received callers. During his stay, he painted his name beside the others on the wall, and often added a picture. Many of the prisoners affixed photographs behind glass plates with sealing wax.

Some of the names and pictures number men distinguished in German history. Among them are Count von Bernstoff, Ambassador at Washington when the United States entered the war, and Stahmer, present German Ambassador at London.

Gen. von Buelow and many other famous soldiers served their terms in the student's prison.

Regulation collegiate wit accompanies the pictures, such as "Professors and Officials of the University Not Admitted," and "Women and Dogs Allowed Only When Carried on a Leash."

But all that is past now. The Government has decided that offenses against the peace are no more excusable if committed by students than by anyone else, and if convicted, they must serve in the common jail. The last student to gain the popular acclaim among his fellows was O. Stepp, who served three days in 1914.

Then came the war, and afterward the new Government which abolished the students' prison.

Another place which has passed from active use because of the lack of official romance is the duelling hall at the Hirschgasse Gasthaus, a tavern where for more than 100 years the fighting fraternities held their combats. The hall, where the last duel was fought in 1926, is kept unaltered so that old graduates may relive their college days and point with pride to their names carved in the tables, while they stroke the scars on their cheeks and foreheads.

The students still duel, however, in spite of the authorities, but they must be more careful, usually going to neighboring towns for their bouts.

EXPERTS TO DISCUSS FARM TAX PROBLEM

U. S. and Canada to Be Represented in Conference at Saranac Lake, N. Y.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y., Sept. 7. —The twenty-second annual conference of the National Tax Association will begin here tomorrow with every state in the Union and every Canadian province represented among the 750 delegates.

Two Governors, 20 state tax commissioners, representatives of the leading American universities, prominent industrialists and bankers will be among those present.

One of the urgent questions pressing for solution in American economic life, that of taxing the farmer, will be a feature of the program.

Mark Graves of Albany, N. Y., president of the National Tax Association, and Tax Commissioner of the State of New York, will e-side.

Among the speakers on farm relief will be: Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, New York; former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois; Prof. S. M. Derrick, University of South Carolina; Whitney Coombs, United States Department of Agriculture; Stanley M. Powell, manager of the Ingleside Farm, Iona, Mich.; Blaine P. Moore, United States Chamber of Commerce, and John C. Watson of the Illinois Agriculture Association.

Other problems of taxation also will be discussed by Prof. Thomas S. Adams, Yale University; Prof. Robert M. Haig, Columbia University; State Tax Commissioner William H. Blodgett, Connecticut, and Dr. Luther Gulick, director of the National Institute of Public Administration.

The first session will be held Monday night at which Thomas M. Lynch, Commissioner of Taxation and Finance and president of the New York State Tax Commission, representing Gov. Roosevelt, will deliver the address of welcome.

REAR ADMIRAL DAYTON APPLIES FOR RETIREMENT

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Rear Admiral J. H. Dayton, who Thursday relinquished command of the American naval force in European waters, has applied for retirement after 40 years of service.

As commander of the European force, although this consisted only of the cruiser Raleigh, Dayton held the rank of Vice Admiral. With the discontinuance of that command, however, he reverted to the permanent rank of Rear Admiral with which he will retire.

Admiral Dayton had held the command in Europe only since Sept. 15, 1928. He is 60 years of age, and entered the naval academy in 1886 from South Bend, Ind.

At the time the Raleigh was ordered withdrawn from Europe, it was indicated that the European squadron would be abolished and with it the post of Vice Admiral.

NEW EASY WAY TO RID LAWNS OF CRABGRASS

Many beautiful lawns have been all but ruined this summer by crabgrass, commonly called watergrass. This persistent annual is one of the worst lawn pests in the United States. If allowed to go unchecked, it will overrun and ruin any lawn.

Now You Can Stop Worrying About Crabgrass.

After running tests on more than a thousand Middle West lawns, Harry M. Ziegler, a plant nutrition specialist, has perfected a simple, easy, and inexpensive method of eradicating this pest from lawns. Mr. Ziegler has written a booklet, "How to Grow a Beautiful Lawn, and Attractive Trees and Shrubs," that tells how to rid lawns of crabgrass.

Through the courtesy of Mission Laboratories, Inc., 2158 Walnut Kansas City, Mo., a limited number of these valuable and interesting booklets will be sent free to homeowners. You should write for one today.

GATHERING TESTIMONY ON SANCTITY OF POPE PIUS X

First Step in Long Process of Canonization of Late Pontiff Is Under Way.

By the Associated Press.

VENICE, Sept. 7.—Every week the ecclesiastical tribunal of the patriarchate of Venice is sitting to hear testimony on the sanctity of Pope Pius X who before his elevation to the triple crown was himself patriarch of Venice.

So voluminous have been the depositions, and so many the witnesses, that the work of compiling all the matter, adducing the saintly character of the former pontiff, can hardly be finished before December.

At that period the testimony, all duly transcribed as stipulated in the canon law, will be forwarded to Vatican City, constituting the first step in the long process of having Pius X proclaimed a saint. If the Vatican authorities approve, the "cause," as it is called, will go before the Sacred Congregation of Rites. If this body approves, the late pontiff will be proclaimed "Venerable," and later "beautified," with imposing ceremonies in St. Peter's.

Still later will come the canonization proper, attended by even more imposing rites, whereafter "St. Pius ..." will be recommended to the veneration of the entire Roman Catholic body.

BULGARIA UNABLE TO ABSORB ALL ITS COLLEGE GRADUATES

12 of 20 Universities May Be Converted Into Schools of Agriculture and Mechanics.

By the Associated Press.

SOFIA, Sept. 7.—A glut of "intellectuals" in Bulgaria is giving serious concern to the Government.

Although Bulgaria is proud of the fact that only 5 per cent of her total population is illiterate, the Government is puzzled with the large number of promising youths graduated each year from the country's colleges. The Civil Service cannot absorb the thousands of graduates. The Minister of Education is therefore working on a law which will convert 12 of the Kingdom's 20 colleges into schools of agriculture and mechanics.

More drastic cuts are under consideration in the case of women's colleges. There are four law schools for girl students and their number will be reduced to one, as Bulgaria offers little work to woman lawyers.

Bermuda Farm Labor Shortage.

By the Associated Press.

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Sept. 7. —Portuguese farm laborers are leaving for home at the rate of several hundred each week and a labor shortage is feared. Bermudan natives prefer to act as caddies for American golfers or to drive the one-horse shays that constitute the islands' principal mode of transportation.

4000 Paris Women Missing Yearly.

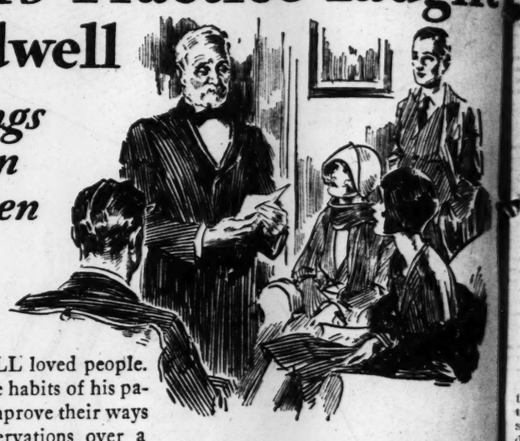
PARIS, Sept. 7.—Four thousand women disappear in Paris each year. The majority of them are never found. A large proportion are girls from 15 to 18 years old.

47 Years' Practice Taught Dr. Caldwell

Many things about Men and Women



DR. CALDWELL loved people. He studied the habits of his patients and tried to improve their ways of living. His observations over a long period of time convinced him many people were ruining their health by a careless choice of laxatives. Then he determined to write a prescription which would get at the cause of constipation and correct it.

How successful his efforts were is best shown by the fact that the prescription he wrote back in 1885 has become the world's most popular laxative!

He prescribed a certain mixture of laxative herbs and other pure ingredients now known as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, in numerous cases where bad breath, coated tongue, gas, headaches, biliousness, and lack of appetite, or energy showed the bowels of men, women or children were sluggish. It proved successful in the most obstinate cases. So men liked it. Old folks liked it because it never gripes. And the children liked its pleasant taste.

By 1888, the demand for this laxative was so great that Dr. Caldwell permitted it to be bottled and sold by drug stores. Today you can get Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin from any drug store in the world. Get a bottle and see what a delightfully efficient family laxative it will prove to be.

HIGHER VALUES PREDICTED WITH BUILDING DECLINE

Construction Has Been Halted Because Money Was Not Available Under Present Conditions.

STOCK MARKET DEALS BLAMED

100 Per Cent Occupancy of Apartments in Year Foreseen Should Restrictions Continue.

By Berry Moore.

Values of improved real estate throughout the city and the county are destined to witness a substantial appreciation due to the decrease in construction, according to real estate men. As told exclusively in last Tuesday's Post-Dispatch, the decline in building during the first eight months of 1929 approximated $10,000,000.

This decline is attributed primarily to the stringency in the money market, incident to extensive speculation in the stock market, plus the recent construction campaign principally in apartments and flats.

Construction of scores of projects, chiefly apartments and flats, and including office buildings, has been halted simply because money was not available for enterprises of that character under present conditions. Sources of capital have placed restrictions on loans for new apartment projects, which virtually, to a large extent, exclude large buildings of that type. Buildings of this character now in course of construction are being erected in the main by private capital, or were financed before the purse strings were drawn.

Leasing From Plans Required.

Plans have been perfected for several lofty structures for downtown St. Louis, but the capital for them will not be forthcoming until an appreciable amount of space in the proposed structures has been leased from the plans.

Coincident with the contraction in building, absorption of vacancies, especially in apartments and flats, has been in noticeable proportion. This applies especially to apartment and flats in which the construction has been the most active. Should the present restrictions obtain for another year, the prediction is ventured by the more sanguine that the year 1930 would see buildings of this type in both the city and county 100 per cent rented.

Discounting a sharp increase in the prices of improved property, especially apartments and flats, as a result of the decline in building, the demand for buildings of this type has received a decided impetus. Optimism in real estate circles has been heightened to no small degree, Chauncey P. Heath of the Chauncey P. Heath Real Estate Co. declares.

Investment of Market Profits.

Sidney Wolf of the Wolf-Pollock Real Estate Co. holds the opinion that a large share of the profits garnered in the stock market will find their way ultimately into real estate channels. Like all other real estate men, he believes that many possessors of idle money, including some of those who picked the right shares in recent bull movements, regard real estate as being, after all, a more stable form of investment than common stocks with their daily fluctuations.

The money stringency applies principally to loans for new buildings. Provided the margin of security is ample, there is no dearth of capital for loans on both unimproved and improved property, whether in the city or in the country, as is shown from advertisements in the "money to loan" columns of the Post-Dispatch, the prevailing rate of interest being 6 per cent. Money also is to be had on second deeds of trust, discounted, of course, at high rates of interest not regarded among the fraternity as exorbitant, considering the risk.

Plans Going Forward.

Plans are going forward for several notable projects, which, however, are in strong hands, with large resources behind them. Most pretentious of these is that of an addition to the Melbourne Hotel, at the northwest corner of Lindell and Grand boulevards, to rise 18 stories on Lindell boulevard. The new building is to be erected by Fred J. Cornwell Jr. and Alex M. Cornwell of the F. J. Cornwell Real Estate Construction Co.

Construction is being speeded on the 20-story office building of the Continental Life Insurance Co. on the north side of Olive street, just west of Grand boulevard and adjoining the Beers hotel. Including the ground it is estimated that this project will entail an investment of $2,000,000 or more. It abuts the new $6,000,000 Fox Theater, whose facade is on Grand boulevard with a commanding view of Washington avenue east.

ALBERT WENZLICK OPENS NEW SUBDIVISION OF BUNGALOWS

The Albert Wenzlick Real Estate Co. announces the opening today of a new community known as "Spotless Town." The first unit of 23 bungalows is now open for inspection. Of matt brick, they have been designed with all conveniences, yet kept at a price within reach of the average wage earner. Several of these bungalows have been furnished completely.

It is possible to buy one of these homes on a monthly rental plan, ready to live in, with nothing additional to buy other than groceries.

Refreshments and special souvenirs will be given to all callers inspecting the bungalows today. "Spotless Town" can be reached by driving out to 7600 Florissant road and then turning to the right for a mile on Bermuda avenue or by taking the Ferguson bus from Wellston to Bermuda avenue and walking to 1000 Bermuda.

DR. R. EMMET KANE BUYS FORMER J. P. BLAKE HOME

The Walter F. Sheehan Real Estate Co. reports the sale of the country home of J. P. Blake on Berry road and Bismarck avenue, St. Louis County, to Joseph B. Willmering, who in turn took a profit and sold the property to Dr. R. Emmet Kane, who will occupy the premises as a residence.

This is a modern 10-room residence which was formerly the home of the late Louis Alt, former Postmaster of St. Louis. The grounds comprise three acres thickly wooded with oak and maple, and the house sits back from the Berry road on a high terrace with thick shrubbery.

TENANTS FOUND FOR N. O. NELSON BUILDING

Martin & Breitt Fail to Disclose Identity of Prospective Lessees.

Several tenants, it is understood, are available for the modern 8-story building occupying the quarter block at the southeast corner of Tenth and Chestnut streets, until recently the headquarters of the N. O. Nelson Mfg. Co. The building has been placed with the Martin & Breitt downtown leasing specialists, who declined to disclose the identity of the prospective lessees.

The building is one of the largest and best equipped in the heart of the city immediately available. There are 135,000 square feet of floor space in the building. It contains all the former equipment of the N. O. Nelson establishm nt, including both passenger and freight elevators. It was constructed when the N. O. Nelson Co. decided to remove from its original downtown building at the southeast corner of Eighth and St. Charles streets, now occupied by the north half of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank & Trust Co. building, extendin from Locust to St. Charles on the east side of Eighth street.

The N. O. Nelson Co. has removed its general offices with sales and show rooms to a new building on Duncan avenue, with railroad facilities, made necessary by the growth of its business. The new building was formally opened yesterday. The concern still owns the building at Eighth and Chestnut streets. It has branches throughout the country and is nationally known for its plumbing supplies.

TEN-ACRE TRACT FOR HOME

The B. H. Stollman Real Estate Co. sold to J. B. Gander a 10-acre tract on the north side of Ladue road, west of Price road, overlooking the St. Louis Country Club grounds. The owner plans to build a residence and a swimming pool there.

$250,000 GREEK CHURCH PLANNED

Will Be on Forest Park Boulevard, Near Kingshighway.

Ground is to be broken shortly for the new Greek orthodox church, St. Nicholas, Forest Park boulevard 125 feet east of Kingshighway.

The church will be of byzantine architecture, faced with Indiana limestone. The interior will be decorated with polychrome terra cotta, while the dome will be of golden terra cotta.

The main church will have 750 seats and standing space for 750. It will also contain an auditorium, school and parish house. The site is 125 by 285 feet.

The cost will be $350,000.

Plans have been prepared by E. K. Eugenides, architect and engineer.

APARTMENTS AT 727 LIMIT IN UNIVERSITY CITY SOLD

Announcement has been made of the purchase of the Middle States Bond & Investment Co of 727-29-31 Limit avenue in University City from George W. Disher. The building consists of 18 apartments of four and five full-sized rooms. The consideration was said to be $135,000.

The sale was negotiated through F. E. McCambridge president of the Middle States Bond & Investment Co.

Criterion Realty Co. Dinner.

The Criterion Realty Co. with offices in the International Life Building will give a dinner dance at 7:30 p. m. Tuesday evening at the Westborough Country Club. The sales of two sub-divisions, Hill Top View and Northdale, have been so large during the first six months of 1929 that the company has arranged to entertain its sales force of more than 100.

DEALS REPORTED FOR QUARTERS VACATED BY BANK

One Report Says Two Depositories Will Consolidate and Take Bank of Commerce Space.

Reports involving the Bank of Commerce Buildings at Broadway, Olive and Pine streets, have been flying thick and fast.

The one exciting keenest interest was to the effect that two of the largest banks were considering a consolidation, with plans for occupying the Broadway-Olive-Pine street structure.

No confirmation of any of these reports was to be had, but that did not put the quietus or a story that a deal for the two structures was pending, to be closed within the next day or so.

The Mississippi Valley Merchants-Laclede State Trust Co., a consolidation of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co., Merchants-Laclede National Bank and the State National Bank has been regarded as the logical purchaser of the buildings, which, as the former quarters of the National Bank of Commerce, now merged with the Mercantile Trust Co. on Locust, Eighth and St. Charles streets, would be desirable quarters for that institution, with the upper floors available for expansion on short notice.

John G. Lonsdale, president of the Mercantile-Commerce Bank and Trust Co., said that there had been divers negotiations for the building, but that nothing tangible had come of them as yet, Robert L. Hedges, a director of the Mercantile Comerce Bank and Trust Co., who has been commissioned to dispose of the building was on his vacation in Virginia.

The former Bank of Commerce buildings, one occupying the southeast corner of Broadway and Olive, and the other the northeast corner of Broadway and Pine, with the former Post-Dispatch quarters forming a part of them, are among the most sumptuously appointed structures of their type in the city. The bank equipment and safe deposit vaults of the former National Bank of Commerce, which are on an ultra modern scale, are still intact. Corridors and stairways are in vari-colored marbles, which give an atmosphere that can be described as palatial. Office space in these buildings has always been at a premium.

The Federal Reserve Bank had its quarters in the Broadway and Pine street side before its new building at Broadway and Locust was erected.

The central structure of the block, the building formerly occupied by the Post-Dispatch, may give way, it is reported, to a new building of the most modern tower design, which would connect and harmonize the present Bank of Commerce and Federal Commerce Trust buildings. Such a building would present a certain problem, but also a fine opportunity, to the architect, and would improve that section of Broadway to a degree not represented by mere figures of altitude or floor space.

BOND CLOTHING CO.'S NEW STORE OPENS ON WASHINGTON

The new store of the Bond Clothing Co. at Eighth street and Washington avenue, opened Thursday.

The opening marked the tenth anniversary of the inception of Bond's business in St. Louis. The company, which began in Cleveland 16 years ago, has now 27 retail stores in various cities. Maurice L. Silberman is manager of the Washington avenue store, which has 15,000 square feet floor space. Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brine, world's champion endurance flyers, aided in the opening day's reception.

HAASE SELLS TRACT TO GENERAL MATERIAL CO.

The General Material Co. has purchased, through the Haase Realty Co., eight and one-half acres on the north line of Fyler avenue just east of the City Sanitarium.

The company is a manufacturer of ready mixed concrete. It furnishes ready mixed cement for street and building purposes and proposes to use the tract for a new plant.

While not disclosed, it is understood the consideration was in excess of $70,000. This land is bordered on the north by the Missouri Pacific Railroad and Connecticut street.

MULLIN-WALTERS FIRM ANNOUNCES NEW LEASES

Margulis Brothers Millinery Co., has leased for a term of years, one-half of a storeroom, in the building at 1510 Washington avenue. The Middle-West Garment Co., has leased the other half of the storeroom. Both stores are to be used as show, sample and stock room. Possession will be taken after alterations have been completed. A modern front will be installed, a balcony built and other alterations made. All parties in this transaction were represented by Mullin-Walters Realty Co.

Russell W. Meredith has leased for a term of years the building at 1900 North Ninth street to be used as office, stockroom and salesroom for the handling of paper of all kinds.

The Mound City Upholstering Co., has leased the seventh floor in the building at 1113 Washington avenue together with two sections of the seventh floor in the building at 1123 Washington avenue. This lease was made for the account of the Levis-Zukoski Mercantile Co., which is converting the building it formerly occupied into a loft building.

Fred H. Rolf and F. W. Temme have leased a storeroom in the newly erected building at the southwest corner of Big Bend and Ethel avenue, this store is known as 1105 Big Bend boulevard. This store will be used as an electric and radio shop. This property has recently been assigned to Mullin-Walters Realty Co. as rental agents.

POKORNY BUILDING COMPLETED AT WASHINGTON AND EUCLID

The Pokorny Building at the northwest corner of Washington and Euclid avenues has been completed. This building will be known as the Pokorny Galleries and will be occupied by Pokorny & Co., furniture dealers. The concern was formerly located on the seventh floor of the Fashion Square Building, Thirteenth street and Washington avenue. The opening will be Sept. 16.

The building was constructed and financed by McKelvey-Carter & Co., at a cost of $200,000. The building is fireproof.

BOTTLING FIRM BUYS OLD LAUNDRY BUILDING

La Salle Co. Has Occupied These Quarters, 3964-70 Olive Street Since May.

La Salle Bottling Co., bottlers of the soft drink, Nehi, has purchased a building at 3964-70 Olive street. Both parties in the transaction were represented by Arthur Fuldner, vice president of Isaac T. Cook Co. No mention was made of the price.

The building has 83 feet frontage on Olive street on the east line of Culver Way, and 155 feet depth to an alley. This building was formerly occupied by J. Arthur Anderson Laundry. It has been occupied since May 1 by the La Salle Bottling Co.

The La Salle Bottling Co. was formed by John H. Becker, formerly president of Nafziger Baking Co.; Victor H. Leffler, formerly vice president and supervising manager of Nafziger Baking Co., and Oliver J. Anderson, president of Oliver J. Anderson Co., stock and bond brokers. The officers of the company are these men with E. J. Delaney as secretary.

NEW HOME IN MOORLANDS OF FRENCH FARMHOUSE TYPE

A residence being constructed on York Drive, Moorlands, is of French farmhouse type, with whitewashed brick walls, slate roof and casement windows throughout.

The living rooms are to be of rough finish with timbered ceilings and plaster and timber walls and concrete floors. The garage is connected with the house by means of a door leading out of the kitchen.

The second floor has four master bedrooms, a maid's room and two baths. Maid's quarters are also provided on the third floor.

The residence will be furnished with antiques some of which are heirlooms and some of which Mrs. Desloge has collected. These are of the early American type which harmonize with the French provincial interiors.

The architect for the residence is H. May Steinmach.

There's an old saying to the effect that a man cannot serve two masters. We've been able to disprove that statement.

In a majority of our transactions, we represent both parties in the negotiations.

When both sides—landlord and tenant, buyer and seller—entrust their interests to Isaac T. Cook Co., and reach an agreement profitable and satisfactory to both, we feel that we have justified our place in St. Louis.

ELECTRICITY IS CHEAP IN ST. LOUIS

In the average St. Louis home, when you have used enough electricity to cheerfully light your rooms, then—automatically—all that you use in addition you pay for at the WHOLESALE rate—2½ cents a kilowatt hour. A kilowatt hour will run your washing machine 5 hours, your vacuum cleaner 6 hours, your electric fan 20 hours.

What a Comfort a Sun Room Is!

—John A. Bryan, Architect.

A Charming Sunroom Made From Old-Style Porch

Of Recent Years the Open Porch Seems to Be on the Wane, Its Place Being Taken By the Sunroom or Sun Parlor.

What modernization means when applied to the exterior of a house is aptly illustrated by a Hawthorne boulevard residence which has recently been made up to date by the addition of an attractive sun porch.

The appended pictures show more clearly than any description the radical improvement which takes place when a skilled architect or an experienced contractor assumes the problem of modernizing and improving a building.

One of the pictures shows the old side porch of this handsome home which occupies an enviable location on fashionable Hawthorne boulevard in South St. Louis. The house was built more than 25 years ago. The porch had never been of very much use to the occupants because it was too narrow to afford shade during the day or to afford shelter from a summer rain. Moreover, the only access to this porch was through the east side window of the living room which had to be raised every time any of the family desired to enjoy the porch. Recently the old porch was removed and the sun porch depicted in the photo built in place of the old-fashioned piazzi.

The modernization plan called for the east window in the living room to be cut down to accommodate a French door. The outside brick wall of the house, which became the west wall of the sun porch, was covered with wall covering colored a canary yellow. Over this background was placed the lattice work which shows up so charmingly in the third picture which is an interior view of the sun porch.

The lattice was painted a lettuce green and glazed down to soft tones. The floor was laid in dull green tile to harmonize with the wall decorations. The casement windows were curtained with mohair of a deep rich shade of tan hung on transverse cords.

By enclosing the porch and filling its walls with many windows, the usefulness of the space becomes increased to a marked degree.

During the hot summer months the windows may be opened and screened, serving as effectively as an open porch.

Later when the temperature drops, the windows are closed and the sunporch becomes a comfortable, enclosed room. By installing a radiator or warm air duct the sun room is available during the coldest days. It virtually becomes another room of the house.

BRICK COLOR EFFECTS

Include Gray, Buff, Red, Purple, Bronze, Cream and Gun Metal.

The American manufacturer of face brick has far outstripped the rest of the world in the wide range of color tones and textures he offers. The whole sweep of color, in smooth or rough textures, runs from the pure, severe tones of pearl grays or creams, through buff, golden, and bronze tints to a descending scale of reds, browns, purples, maroons, and even gun metal blacks.

Thus, instead of living in a house of a dull, insubstantial, unattractive appearance, you can have, in face brick, a substantial, enduring house that presents to the eye a veritable symphony in color.

INSPECT THE HEATING PLANT

Heating Plants Should Be Put in Shape Before Winter Comes.

A simple test which any homeowner can make will show whether the heating system is functioning as it should; that is, if the circulation of vapor, steam or water is uniform and positive to all parts of the radiator heating system.

The test is this: Start a fire under the boiler and then see if all the radiators heat up uniformly and promptly. There should not be more than from three to five minutes difference between the time the radiator furtherest from the heating plant warms up and the time that the radiator nearest the boiler warms up.

HOME MODERNIZATION A GOOD INVESTMENT

Remodeling a Residence Pays Big Dividends in Cash and Comfort.

Practically every woman would refuse emphatically to dress in the garments that were stylish 10 years ago.

And the average man would look with scorn at the thought of owning an automobile that was built back in 1918.

Yet both complacently live in a house that has the architectural designs of Spanish-American War days and think nothing of it. Both put up with the inconveniences that go with such a dwelling and are satisfied with the old home.

Only recently has the home-owner begun to realize that it is no longer necessary to live in odd appearing houses simply because that was the way they were originally built. During the past year or so it has been brought to the attention of the property owner that houses clothed in out-of-date lines show as poor taste as dressing in clothes with the lines of yesteryear. Both may have utility—but how unnecessary the old lines are!

Radical changes in the appearance of the exterior of the residence are possible. The old houses are not cast in an inflexible mold that forbids alteration, but to the contrary, are plastic in the hands of the experienced builder and can emerge from his efforts dressed in the lines of today.

The home owner who lives in an out-of-date house often hesitates to improve his dwelling because he has a mistaken idea of the costs of modernizing. These costs are usually moderate. A surprising range of improvements can be made for a few thousand dollars.

A MODERN HOME HAS ELECTRICAL OUTLETS

Each Room of a House Has Electrical Accessories Peculiar to It.

Electrical outlets are much in demand in the modern home. The increased use of electricity and the many varied types of accessories make an abundance of outlets necessary.

The older houses contained few if any outlets, a cord running from the center cluster being necessary if the housewife needed additional service.

The newest houses contain two or three outlets in the mopboard, each room being so equipped.

Often the center cluster of lights in the living room is not used because of the vogue for floor lamps. The appearance of the center cluster adds or detracts from the decorative effect of the room and the cluster should be kept up to date. Changes in design are frequent and the cluster must be renewed occasionally if the room be modern.

Each room of the house has electrical accessories peculiar to it. Outlets are always necessary if full service is to be secured.

Floor lamps are found in many rooms of the house. In the bedroom will be used electric warming pads, heaters and bed lamps. The dining room needs outlets for electric cooking fixtures, such as toasters, waffle-irons, grills and percolators, since many housewives prepare some dishes at the table.

In the kitchen outlets waist-high are convenient and may be used when electricity is used for cooking. Many housewives iron in the kitchen and outlets must be available for this service.

11 S. Euclid; first floor; 5 rooms, bath $55 00

Home Type Apartments

Rental $70 to $95

Here is the most desirable location in St. Louis. Fastest transportation lines in city—bus and car—churches, schools, parks, etc., convenient.

Beautiful, spacious grounds with lawns, shrubs and flowers.

Strictly fireproof—plenty of clean, fresh air; rear porch entrance to kitchens. Everything strictly modern; electric refrigeration, heat, light, gas, janitor service, included in rent.

If you have had enough of cramped, stuffy, poorly ventilated, hall type apartments with slow elevator service and want something really different, then

Ask the Man Who Owns a Bungalow in

Woodbine Court

Why He Bought It.

HE'LL TELL YOU THAT

Woodbine Court

IS THE TALK OF SOUTH ST. LOUIS

That here is the most beautiful, artistic, individual, yet reasonably priced small home development in St. Louis.

That you will not find anywhere else the equal of these English and Spanish 5 and 6 room homes, with so many new and attractive features at so modest price.

That the Court is exclusive, highly yet sensibly restricted, a place where homes will remain homes.

That his home is of the best design, highest type of construction, yet priced within his means.

That while his home is individual and different from that of his neighbor, the Court is worked out as a dignified and unified whole.

Come down today to meet these owners of WOODBINE COURT bungalows.

You will then appreciate why they bought, and you, too, will want to own a WOODBINE COURT home.

IN MEMORIAM

BARTSCH—In memory of Albert F. Bartsch, who passed away Sept. 9, 1923:

He had a little treasury once,
He was our pride and joy;
We loved him, oh, perhaps too well,
For soon he slept and died.
All is dark within our dwelling,
And sad are our hearts today,
For the one we loved so dearly
Has forever passed away.

MR. AND MRS. ALBERT BARTSCH and sister Catherine.

ERMANTRAUT—In loving memory of Josephine Ermantraut, who departed this life Sept. 3, 1927.

The world may change from year to year,
And friends from day to day,
But never will the one we loved
Be from memory pass away.

Sadly missed by

FATHER, MOTHER, SISTERS AND BROTHERS.

HELLMANN—In loving memory of our dear brother, Ed Hellmann, who departed this life, eight years ago, Sept. 10, 1921.

Dear Ed, can it be true, God has called
That call was short, the shock severe,
To part with one we loved so dear,
Sadly missed.

HELLMANN FAMILY.

FINKE—In loving memory of Christ Finke, who departed this life 12 years ago today, Sept. 8, 1929.

I am thinking of you today dear one,
And thinking of the past.
Picturing you in memory
Just as we saw you last.
You left us broken hearts
That loved you so sincere.
We never did or never will forget you
Missed by

MRS. MARY FINKE and daughter, MRS. A. MERKLE.

KELLER—In loving memory of husband and father, John Keller, who died one year ago, Sept. 8, 1928.

Passed away since that sad day
The one we loved was called away;
Gone to rest, God's will was His will,
But in our hearts he liveth still.

Missed by WIFE AND DAUGHTER.

MAUSDORF, MARGARET—In loving memory of our dear mother, Margaret Mausdorf died Sept. 9, 1926.

Sheen a mother breathes her last farewell
This sad words quite more than time can tell.
Without the smile of mother's face,
Without the counsel of a father who departed this life Feb. 20, 1925. May they rest in peace.

HER CHILDREN. (c)

KAUFER, LOUISE—In loving memory of my dear friend, my sister, Louise Kaufer, who passed away Sept. 8, 1926. Loved and lost and miss you.

Sadly missed by

MOTHER AND BROTHERS.

KOETTER—Herman H.: in loving memory of my husband and our dear father, who passed away Sept. 9, 1921.

I do not forget you nor do I intend;
Until I see you again, and will to the end.
Gone and forgotten soon you may be,
But dear to my memory you ever will be.

Sadly missed.

HIS WIFE AND CHILDREN.

MARCENO—In loving memory of my beloved husband, and our dear father, Salvatore Marceno, who passed away three years ago, Sept. 9, 1926.

Sadly missed by the WIFE, DAUGHTER AND SONS.

MOHRMAN, BARBARA—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who departed this life, Aug. 30, 1928.

Dear mother, you are gone from us,
Only in heaven you are no more;
Still in memory you live with us
As you always were before.

Sadly missed by

HUSBAND AND CHILDREN.

PFEIFFER, ELIZABETH—In loving memory of our dear mother, Elizabeth Pfeiffer, who died one year ago, Sept. 11, 1928.

One year has passed since that sad day
The one we loved was called away.
God took her home; it was His will;
But in our hearts she liveth still.

Sadly missed by

HER CHILDREN AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

REEVE—In loving memory of Modena Reeve, who departed this life one year ago, Sept. 8, 1928. May her soul rest in peace.

No one knows how much we miss you;
No one knows but bitter pain
We have suffered since we lost you;
Our loss is never been the same.

In our hearts a memory lingers,
Sweetly, tender, fond and true;
There is a day, dear Modena,
That we do not think of you.

Sadly missed by her HUSBAND MOTHER, BROTHERS AND ALL WHO LOVED HER.

ROTH-HEGEL—In loving memory of our dear mother, Elizabeth Roth-Hegel, who departed this life Sept. 6, 1928.

A wonderful mother, woman and aid,
One who was better, God never made.
A wonderful worker, so loyal and true,
One in a million, that mother was you.
Just in your judgment, always right,
Your love eternal, ever upright.
You raised seven children, but not in vain.
You loved them dearly, each one the same.
We know we could repay you,
For all the good you did.
And in loving memory, many tears do we shed.

Sadly missed by her children and all who knew her.

SANNER—In loving memory of my dear daughter, Clara B. Sanner (nee Viehman), who passed away on Sept. 7, 1927.

Two years have passed since that sad day
When you, dear one, was called away.
The blow was hard, like shock severe;
I never thought your death near.

Sadly missed by

MOTHER.

SCHACKLIN, AUGUST JR. — In loving memory of my dear son and broth r, who died three years ago, Sept. 8, 1926.

Your memory is as sweet today
As the day you passed away.

Missed by

MOTHER AND SON AND ALL WHO LOVED HIM.

SCHWARZ—In loving memory of Anna Schwarz, who passed away 5 years ago, Sept. 9, 1924.

Five years have passed since that sad day
One we loved was called away;
God took her home, it was His will.
But in our hearts she liveth still.

Sadly missed by ARMIN SCHWARZ AND FAMILY. (c)

SHOCKER, URBAN—

Sunshine passes, shadows fall,
Leaves remembrance outlasts all.
And the years be many or few
There are filled with remembrance dear of you.

WIFE AND SON.

STEINER—In loving memory of my dear husband, Otto Steiner, who departed this life, Sept. 8, 1928. Sadly missed by his wife, CHRISTINE STEINER.

WHIPPLE—William. In loving memory of our dear father, who passed away five long years ago, Sept. 8, 1924. Sadly missed by wife, children and grandchildren. (c)

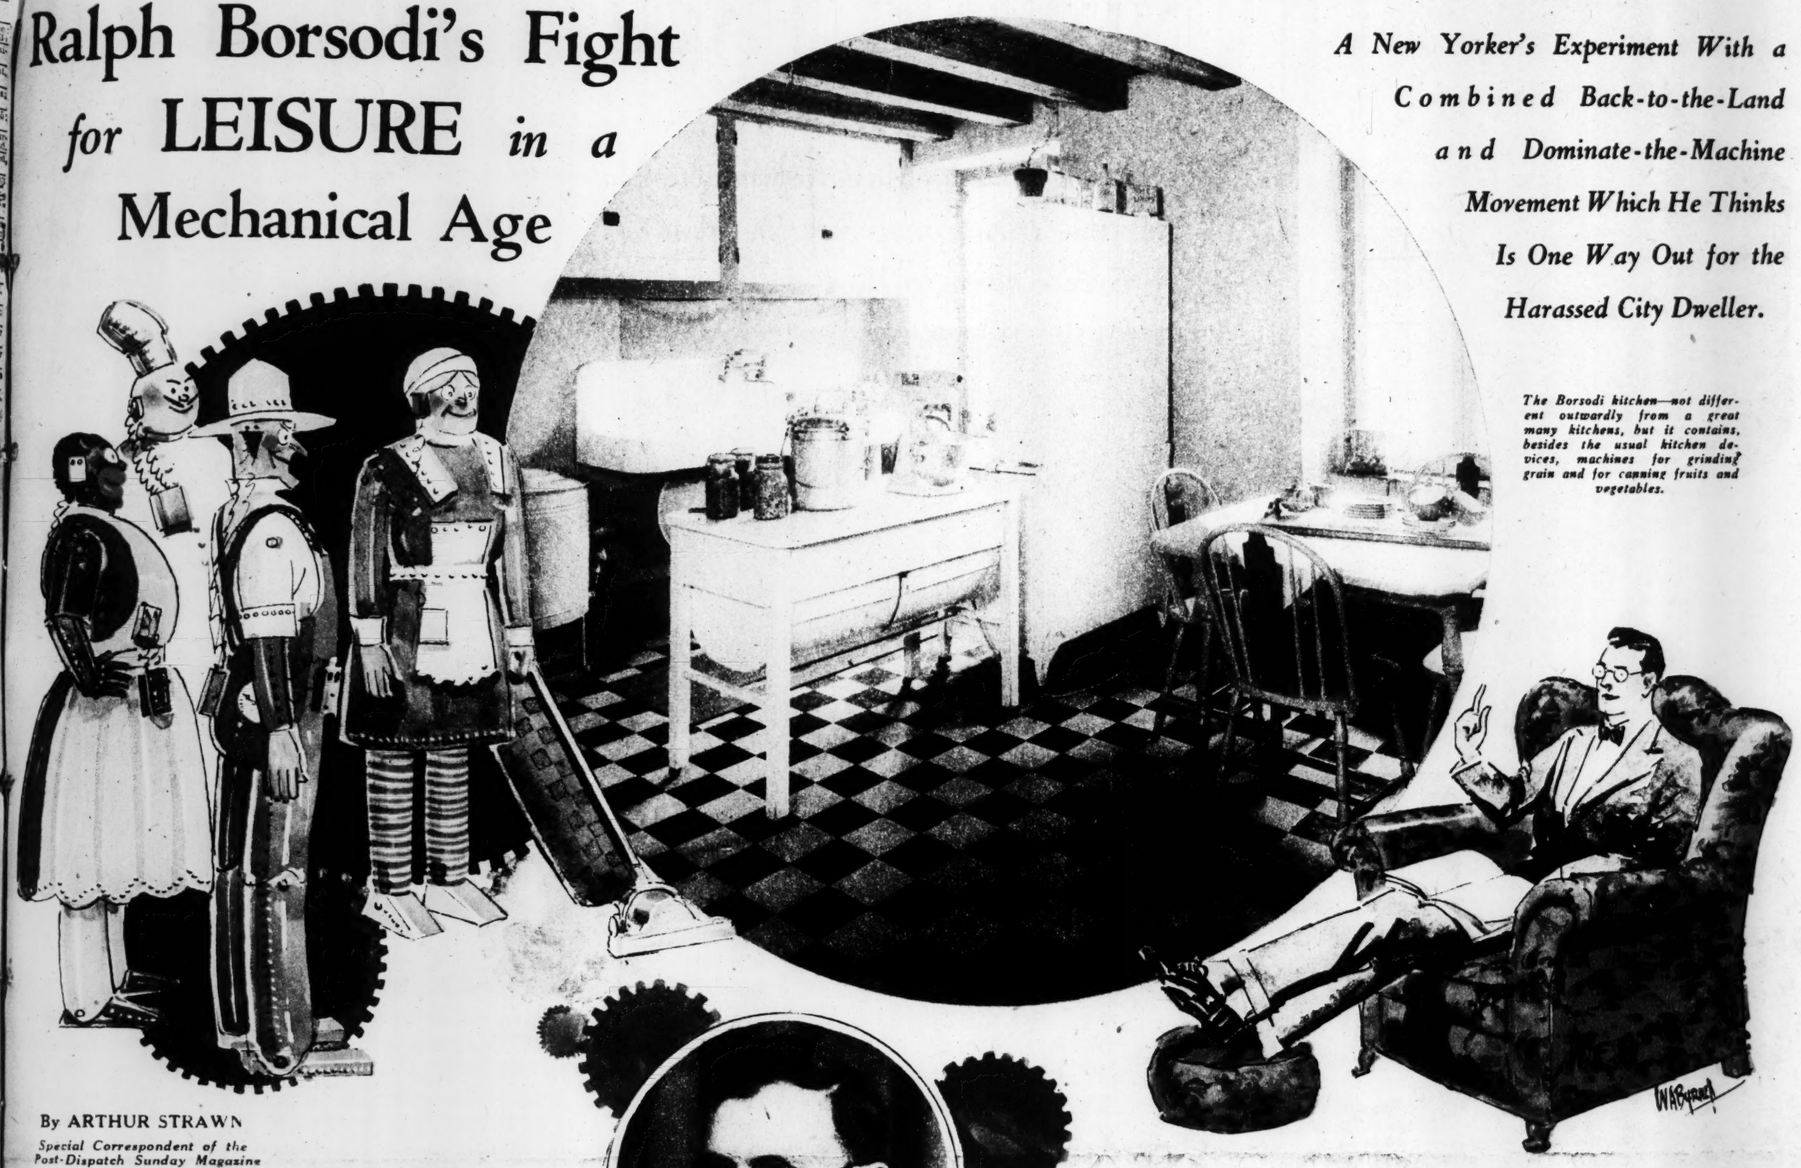
Ralph Borsodi's Fight for LEISURE in a Mechanical Age



A New Yorker's Experiment With a Combined Back-to-the-Land and Dominate-the-Machine Movement Which He Thinks Is One Way Out for the Harassed City Dweller.

The Borsodi kitchen—not different outwardly from a great many kitchens, but it contains, besides the usual kitchen devices, machines for grinding grain and for canning fruits and vegetables.

By ARTHUR STRAWN

Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine

Ralph Borsodi.

NEW YORK.

A FEW miles out of Suffern, New York, on the public highway, there is an 18-acre homestead called "The Dogwoods." The passing motorist would be sure to drive by without noticing it, for the private road that quietly branches off the highway there is marked by no ostentatious gate, and a thick maze of trees and underbrush conceals the spacious stone house to which the winding road eventually leads.

This is the home of Ralph Borsodi and his family, where a most interesting experiment in the technique of living is being conscientiously carried forward. Almost every city dweller when he summons up his nerve, takes a house in the country and becomes a commuter, looks about him with the realization that even though his place is small it offers a chance to get in some good knocks at the high cost of living. Sometimes he even goes so far as to start a vegetable garden, and his ambition usually ends right there.

But Mr. Borsodi, his wife and his two sons abandoned the city, with a conscious resolve to make themselves as nearly self-sustaining on their 18-acre place as it was possible to be. They have worked out a definite experiment, seeking to free themselves from dependence on the machine-made products of the present day.

This is not to say that Mr. Borsodi condemns the machine. In fact, it is by means of the machine that he has worked out what he believes is a satisfactory solution to the problem of how to live comfortably and decently on a small income and still have some leisure left over. What Mr. Borsodi has done is to bring machines into his home, and with them to revive domestic production. Thus, he contends, he has partially at least freed himself and his family from the dreary standardization implied in the factory system. Critics of the Borsodi plan say, of course, that this amounts to a return to the feudal mode of living. But the Borsodi household is an answer to most criticisms.

Nine years ago Ralph Borsodi, then a man of 32, was living in New York with his wife and two young boys. He worked on a salary in the business department of a publishing house, with no prospect of any considerable increase in income for the future. In other words, he was one of New York's million or more "white-collar" workers, but with the added distinction of having a good mind, scholarly tastes and a lifelong interest in economic and social questions.

When a young man he had been intensely interested in the "back-to-the-land" movement. This was a movement of which Bolton Hall, the disciple of Henry George and founder of the single-tax colony of "Freeacres," was the leading advocate. The "back-to-the-land" movement urged that men and women should leave the city and undertake intensive farming. In 1920, when rents in New York had become outrageously high, Borsodi felt that the time had come when he should put to the test his own ideas as to how people should live on the land in this civilization.

"IT ALWAYS seemed to me that urging people to return to the farm," says Borsodi, "was urging them to take up a notoriously harsh and unremunerative form of life. Yet at the same time it was evident to me that there were serious faults to be found with urban life, dictated as it is by the needs of the factory system around which it is built. I was struck by the obvious insecurity of city life, in which a man produces nothing he consumes but must buy everything with the salary he earns; and yet the conditions under which he earns that salary are not determined by himself, but by the factory. Then it occurred to me that the fault with the 'back-to-the-farm' movement was due primarily to the unintelligent manner in which men had been using the land.

"If men instead of turning the farm itself into a factory would avail themselves of modern labor-saving machinery wherever it could possibly be used, and raise only what they themselves needed, a return to the soil would be freed of the drudgery which has usually been associated with it. And if families would, with the aid of modern machines and electricity, stop being consumers of the inferior products of factories and create at home everything they needed, they would not only be able to live much more economically, but they would be able to live better. Most important of all would be that there would no longer be the need to spend all one's time earning a living. The home would become a self-supporting unit, and the time formerly spent in earning money with which to buy essentials could then be used for that leisure which is necessary to living the good life."

In New York, 1920 was a particularly auspicious time for Borsodi to make a practical test of his theories. Rents in New York were very high, and the house in which the Borsodis had been living was sold and they had to make way for the owner. Then it was that Borsodi decided to buy a place in the suburbs, within commuting distance of his job in town, but with acreage enough to provide a garden, possessing some fruit trees and within reach of the electrical power necessary to operate domestic machines.

THEY purchased a place near Suffern, an hour and a half by train from New York, remodeled the old house they found there and moved in.

And then began the systematic campaign to produce at home, with the aid of labor-saving machinery, everything they possibly could. Their garden supplied them with vegetables, enough for their daily use, and enough, when canned, to last them through the winter. Their fruit trees also supplied them with apples, cherries and plums, preserves and jellies, and quantities of cider. Their poultry yard supplied them with chickens and ducks and capons for the table, and fresh eggs. They purchased a cow, but this gave them more milk than they could consume, so they sold the cow and bought a small herd of blooded Swiss goats. The squeamish may turn up their noses at this, but the gesture will be found to result from ignorance. For these goats are cleaner than cows and free from tuberculosis. Their milk is richer than cow's milk and more closely approaches the highly-nourishing chemical content of human milk. The difference in taste is negligible. Bees supplied fine honey for the table, and maple trees gave syrup and sugar.

Now to carry on the cultivation of the above, and at the same time to commute daily to work in New York City, has many of the aspects of a herculean labor. And so it would have been, had not Borsodi made a deliberate effort to make use of labor-saving tools and machines wherever it could be done. He has such for seeding, weeding and cultivating the garden. He gets his wood from his own wood lot and cuts it up with a rotary saw. The cooking is done on an electric range and the preserving is done with the aid of a steam-pressure cooker, which lessens the labor and saves a third of the time consumed in old methods of canning. He grinds in an electric household mill his own flour for making his own breadstuffs, obtaining thereby higher nutritive value in wheat and other grains, since the germinal elements have not been destroyed to make the flour keep. There is an electrical washing machine and an electrical mangle, or ironer, to remove practically all the drudgery of laundry work.

The kitchen is also equipped with an electric mixer to simplify problems of cooking and baking. In short, there are altogether in the neighborhood of 30 machines available to work for the Borsodis.

This may sound very forbidding at first, and one might get the impression that Borsodi, in attempting to escape from the factory, has merely converted his home into one. This is far from the case. His home is a large, comfortable house, no different in its general aspects from any spacious home. There is no din or whirr of machinery. In fact, there is no machinery visible unless one deliberately prys about to find it.

A DOMESTIC grinding machine, mixer and steam-pressure cooker take up a negligible amount of space in a roomy kitchen. An electric washing machine and mangle do not crowd a laundry. A small tractor and other mechanical gardening devices seem very much at home in the vicinity of a vegetable patch. And one would hardly glance twice at an electric incubator in a henhouse. These machines are never all in operation at the same time. Each is used only when needed, and then put aside indefinitely. The machines are here made to serve the needs of those who operate them, as distinct from factory machines which, in keeping with the needs of our economic system, must be kept going at maximum capacity all the time. In weaving cloth and in other operations the Borsodis have, for obvious reasons, found it better to purchase the factory-made product. But the two cardinal principles of what might be termed the "Borsodi system" are as follows:

"Never buy anything for household use without first making sure that it cannot be produced in better quality or more cheaply at home.

"Never hesitate to buy a piece of machinery for household use if there is a good chance that it will earn its way."

The benefits which Borsodi has derived from his system of domestic production for home consumption are not difficult to find. It has enabled his family to live in healthful and beautiful surroundings and it has enabled them to live on a higher scale than his salary would have made possible in the city, where they would have had to purchase everything consumed. It gave them food of a higher quality and at a lower cost than the food produced by the factories. But it has done one other thing, and this, to Bor-

Ernst Benkard Brings Together a Collection of Death Mask Reproductions in the First Book of Its Kind Ever Known to Be Published.

By a Member of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

AN INDUSTRIOUS German scholar, Ernst Benkard, devoting himself to a study of death masks, has got together one of the most extraordinary books published in recent times. It is a collection which he calls "Undying Faces," photographs of death masks.

So far as is known, this is the first book of its kind ever to appear and, for that matter, Herr Benkard is the first scholar to devote himself to tracing the origins and history of the death mask.

The late Lawrence Hutton, an American, collected masks and at the time of his death had perhaps the finest collection in the world. They passed from his estate to Princeton University.

Benkard traces the custom of taking a death mask from the time when these replicas were useful to court sculptors. At the death of a king or emperor the sculptor or the painter attached to the court was at once summoned to take a mask of the face. This was not done through any sense of reverence, Benkard points out, but as a practical necessity. For this mask, or a reproduction made from it, was customarily used in fashioning an effigy which was placed on the coffin during the long and elaborate state funeral services. It was not until late in the eighteenth century that the death mask came to have a value of its own as the last symbol of a loved or revered human being.

George Kolbe, in a brief foreword, explains how death masks are taken. He also explains why there is such a striking variation in the expressions on the 112 death masks included in the book. Even on those reproduced on this page a most striking variation is seen. The type of expression is in large part dependent, Kolbe points out, on how soon after death the mask is taken

"We say that death is a deliverance," he writes. "And it is true that the last breath is followed almost immediately by an unearthly smile. Freed from all suffering, achievement! To die seems thus a fulfillment, a consummation, the most exalted moment in life. So long as the blood is yet warm and the muscles yet in action, the face is transfigured as if in a final glow of youth. Then the body grows cold, the features stiffen and change. Decay and decomposition announce the destruction of all that is of the body. The dead resemble withering plants.

"As a rule, the summons to take a death mask is issued too late, and consequently the image obtained is one of life distorted, whereas a few hours earlier it would have been possible to perpetuate the moment of glorious consummation."

ALTHOUGH Benkard does not specifically say so, it seems almost certain that the death mask of the great composer, Richard Wagner, was taken very soon after his death at Venice in 1883. In the volume both a full front and a profile view of the mask are shown. The expression is as though he heard music of incredible beauty that had eluded him all his life. Everything else seems to have fallen away and he seems to be listening with his whole soul.

The death mask of Beethoven is in contrast to this. He suffered four months of agonizing pain before he died and then immediately after death a post-mortem was performed on the organs of hearing. The mask was not taken until the next day. This may explain why the mouth and jaw have such a firm, tight quality.

The mask taken of Napoleon's face a few hours after he died is one of the most extraordinary. "As we gaze at the mask," Benkard observes, "we involuntarily call Heine's words to mind: 'Napoleon was not of the stuff that kings are made of—he was of the marble from which gods are hewn.'" It might almost be the face of someone quite untouched by life, of a marvelous, unearthly calm. Napoleon had endured more than five years of torture and suffering at Longwood on St. Helena and up to within a few months before his death from cancer of the liver the physician in charge insisted on believing that he was feigning illness. Yet all traces of suffering seem wiped away.

SIMILARLY, on such a stern face as that of Oliver Cromwell there appears a softening benignity. And though Marat was stabbed to death by Charlotte Corday because of the part he played in the French Revolution, there is on his face, too, the same appearance of release. The mask was taken at the request of the painter, Jacques Louis David.

"Taking the mask is not, or should not be, making a mold from a rigid body—it almost resembles modeling from life. Only if the dead are already cold do they offer an immovable, unchangeable image for our operations. It is true, indeed, that under such circumstances many mediocre heads look impressive, they benefit by the distortion. But what are such masks to us?

"To sum up what I have said: whether it is an old man or a child upon the bier, whether death has come easily or painfully, I must hasten; on every face is the smile of a soul released. And the departed must be rightly handled. Only simple, mechanical touches are still needed, in which my molder is more skillful than I am. The parts where hair is growing are painted over with a thin solution of modeling clay or with oil, so that the plaster may not adhere when it is poured over. The skin itself contains enough fat and needs no preparation. The outline of the mask, the parts on the neck, behind the ears, and so on, are surrounded with the thinnest of damp paper. Unfortunately there is hardly ever time to mold the whole head, back and front; relatives and friends and undertakers are waiting, and the work must be done speedily, as always in our precious life.

"A large bowl of plaster of the consistency of soup is ladled over the face, to the thickness of a few millimeters; then a thread is put down over the middle of the forehead, the bridge of the nose, the mouth and chin.

"A second bowl of more solid plaster is spread over the first layer like pulp (this is to provide a firm, outer shell) and before it sets the thread is drawn away, dividing the whole into two halves. As soon as the outer layer has set hard, the halved mold is broken apart and carefully detached from the head; this is the most difficult step, for the mold enclosing the body was airtight. The halves thus detached are immediately fitted together again and clamped, the negative is cleaned and refilled with plaster.

"Roughness on the covering outer shell is carefully chipped away with mallet and chisel, and there we have the positive, the finished mask. I do not touch it again, for it must be good."

THE masks included in Benkard's book range from that of Bernardino de Siena, who was born in 1380 and died in 1444, to that of Friedrich Ebert, first president of the German Republic, who died in 1926. Of necessity Benkard has limited the book. He does not touch on the masks of antiquity.

"And because the death mask stands and admonishes us at the gateway between what we call life and what we call death, it will always bear a supernatural character," the author writes in the close of his introduction, "as something which cannot be gauged by our experience of sunrise, night and another day. It is the last symbol of a man, his undying face."

ASHEVILLE, North Carolina.

THE blistering, ominous beat of bullets again plays its ghostly tattoo through the cavernous passes of the mountain valleys, proud men tread the by-paths, rifles swung across their shoulders, bitter words are said, more bitter thoughts are nourished, and death lurks in the offing, hungrily waiting for its prey. Feud, dark and sinister, has come again to curse these Appalachians, home of the purest Anglo-Saxon stock in America.

And with the recurrence of feud has come death and pain, free men have been turned into refugees, into hunted men accused of murder, men whose capture has brought them into, the hands of the law and lodged them behind jail bars, whence they will be taken only to go into court and fight for their lives.

It was 50 years ago that Perrin Joyce, stalwart, God-fearing mountaineer, lived with his family in Joyce Cove. One night his neighbors saw lurid, leaping flames light up the clouds that hung low above the cabin of the Joyces. The next morning, poking among the cabin's ruins, the mountaineers found five charred bodies, the skull of each split by an unknown slayer's ax. Of the murderer, who would have closed his trail forever with the depredations of the flames, nothing was discovered. Only the dead were there to tell their mute tale. Perrin Joyce still held in his right hand the heavy, hand-hammered, iron shovel with which he had fought to protect his home. He had been struck down fighting.

AN INTERLUDE, brief, and then came murder again. A Colonel of the old school, living in his fine Colonial mansion not far from Asheville, was called to his front door just as dusk settled down one evening. Two strangers were his callers. One of them said a few brief words. Then came a merciless hail of bullets, the Colonel dropped to the floor and the murderers mounted and sped away.

The trail of violent deaths stretched like a scarlet thread through the mountain country. Men were shot from ambush and fell to the hard-packed trail, their tongues forever silenced. The assailants always escaped.

Time passed, other generations grew up, but the deep-seated bitterness turned the men into hard-eyed, silent creatures, who stalk the trails with an Indian's knowledge of stream and forest; who, with the call of today's civilization ringing in their ears, cling to the customs and sing the songs of two centuries ago.

Shelton Laurel, in the heart of the mountain country, is the home of women who, pink-cheeked and charming in girlhood, grow old and wrinkled before they are 30. The girls are straight and lithe, as agile as fawns, and they dance with their young men in one of the larger cabins while the community musician fiddles furiously on "Turkey in the Straw," "Joe Henry" and "Sourwood Mountains," at the same time calling the "figgers."

The men are not given to talk. Some of the everlasting silence of the hills gets into and becomes a part of them.

They fear God, but think it's part of righteousness to work secretly and walk deceitfully while going about a business forbidden by their country's laws. Coppersmiths who learned their trade from their forbears hammer the sheet copper into the finest stills and their corn liquor is the purest and best to be found anywhere in the country.

The younger generation are forsaking to some extent the ways of their fathers, but they cling tenaciously to the old hates and prejudices and the laws of the clan are as rigidly drawn as they ever were.

The loose woman is a rarity. Yet most of the quick gunplay that has stained the puncheon floors of the cabins with blood has been caused by women. As one man put it:

SEVERAL months ago Wallace Ray, known as the iron man of the Laurel country, had a disagreement with a young physician, a "foreigner," who had come to the community in his practice. This was about a girl. Wallace Ray already had four notches on his gun. The two men met on a narrow mountain road. Each had a gun. They started firing as they walked toward each other. The young physician was plucky but nervous. He aimed and fired, saw the big man stagger. Again he pulled the trigger and Ray sagged to his knees.

The doctor was firing rapidly, but Ray, with the cold nerve which had made his name a byword in the coves of Shelton Laurel, held his fire. He got to his feet, swayed and then advanced with determined steps. He raised his gun, but did not fire. Steadily facing his opponent, he was hit again and again, but did not falter. Halting a few paces from the young doctor, he lifted his weapon and killed his adversary, watched his face plow into the soft dirt of the mountain road and then collapsed.

Ray was carried out of the mountains on a stretcher because the doctors said he would be dead before the trip could be made by road, and taken to a hospital in Greeneville, Tennessee. He lingered there between life and death and then slowly recovered.

Brought back to the county seat at Marshall, he was tried before the biggest crowd that ever packed into the little Court House and sentenced to a long term in the penitentiary. It was his third visit to the institution. He is still there.

And then, a short time ago, not more than a few hundred yards from the spot where Wallace Ray and the physician fought it out, a gun battle that claimed two lives was fought when the Landers-Stanton feud, long slumbering, blazed into sudden, devastating violence. The story of this outbreak goes back many years, but the last chapter started only about six years ago—and, as is usual when blood is shed, over a woman.

Bev Stanton, stalwart head of the Stanton clan, married in his youth a beautiful mountain girl who bore him two sons. Later, when the swift-marching years had taken his bride, he married another. To this young woman there came a daughter, Marie, who grew up as the years passed from an awkward, leggy girl into a beautiful young woman, slim, graceful and full of fiery independence.

Bev Stanton and his wife quarreled. With all the fire of their rebellious natures they clashed and separated. That was the beginning of the trouble between the present generations of the Landers-Stanton families.

Sampson Landers, elder of two brothers, fell in love with the slim, soft-spoken Marie Stanton. They met often, alone, that none might know of their affection. Marie loved him, and so they were married.

For a time it seemed that this marriage would heal the old trouble between the two families that had been handed down almost as a tradition. Marriage is a sacred thing in the mountains. It is as solemn and inescapable as death and taxes. Bev Stanton was not satisfied away from the woman who was the mother of his daughter. He followed her and they clashed anew. He was nervous and irritable from long years of brooding.

The leash that held in check the temper that had made him a terror in his younger days snapped and he struck his wife, Etta Stanton, the mother of Sampson Lander's wife, a heavy blow in the face. She fell, badly hurt. Bev Stanton was placed under arrest and brought to trial. He was convicted and sentenced to serve a term of eighteen months in a Tennessee penitentiary.

HIS two sons, Arthur and Hubert, felt that Sampson Landers, husband of their half-sister, Marie, had been active in prosecuting Bev Stanton. They resented that bitterly and since the trial, a few weeks ago, made threats that they would "get" Sampson Landers.

It is part of the mountain code never to indulge in even the appearance of fear. Let one of them receive an injury or an insult and his ready impulse is to start shooting; let one of them learn that another is "looking for" him and he is sure to go boldly on his way, never for an instant giving scoffers a chance to say that he is avoiding trouble.

It was reported that Arthur Stanton was "carrying a rifle" for Sampson Landers. Sampson and his brother, Arnold, after that appeared together constantly, heavily armed. One Sunday they were out driving, Arnold in a light truck loaded with girls and youths of the neighborhood, Sampson in a small car with his wife, Marie.

On the narrow mountain road they passed a car containing Arthur Stanton, Albert King and Stanton's 12-year-old daughter, Agnes. In a car behind was Hubert Stanton. King, a brother-in-law of the Stantons and an uncle of the girl, was regarded as a dangerous man. He had three killings on his record and a reputation for never avoiding trouble.

Sampson Landers.

A FEW minutes later the car driven by King had been turned around and headed back in the direction of the Landers cars. It overtook them, ran ahead of the truck and stopped. From that point on things happened so fast that witnesses do not agree as to just what did occur.

It appears that Arthur Stanton, telling his daughter to get out of the way, leaped from the car, drawing a revolver. At the same time Hubert Stanton advanced on the car containing Sampson Landers and his wife and started firing. He emptied his gun and then proceeded to reload it. In the meanwhile, Arthur Stanton and Arnold Landers were exchanging shots.

Agnes slipped out of the car and ran toward her father. The 13 occupants of the truck leaped out and went down a small embankment into the creek.

"Get back! Get back!" Stanton told his daughter.

"No, no, daddy, I'm a Stanton!" the girl cried, and ran between the two men, striving to shield her father's body with her own slender form.

Arthur Stanton sagged at his knees, slumped forward in the dirt, dead, but the girl did not know. The shower of lead had caught her as she ran between the men. A bullet tore through her hands, another entered her head, then emerged. She was sorely wounded.

King, still seated in the car, slumped down, his breast riddled by three bullets. Although unarmed, his reputation had been enough to cause the Landers boys to make sure that he would not enter the fight.

Hubert Stanton, after twice emptying his gun without hitting his opponents at all, was met with a heavy fire from Arnold Landers' gun and tumbled over the bank to "play dead." He escaped unhurt.

The Landers boys left the scene and took to the mountains. Fate was against them. Sheriff Ramsey of Madison County was on the spot within 20 minutes after the fight ended.

He followed the boys to their hiding place, stationed deputies around the cabin in which they had taken refuge and called upon them to surrender, after walking calmly alone to within 20 feet of the door. They came out and were taken to the jail at Marshall, where they are held for the murder of Arthur Stanton and Albert King.

Looking through the bars of the cell on the top tier of the dingy jail, the Landers brothers told their story of the shooting:

"IT WAS all on account of me," Sampson Landers drawled. "Arthur Stanton was sore because he thought I prosecuted Bev Stanton for knockin' his wife down. When they saw my truck pass with Arnold drivin', they mistook him for me and turned around and follered. Arthur Stanton had spent the Sunday before lookin' for me with a rifle."

"I had 13 people besides myself on the truck," Arnold Landers cut in. "It was just one of God's miracles that there wasn't more killed. They went out of that truck like a bunch of sheep. Them girls struck that cold water in the creek up to their middle." He smiled. "They won't make much witnesses; they didn't see anything."

"Hubert Stanton came back to the car where me an' my wife was an' started shootin'," said Sampson. "They had made up their minds to get me, I reckon."

Hubert Stanton, who was held for a while as a material witness, has been released. He declares that he did not have a gun at any time, and that he was entirely unarmed. Other witnesses declare that he started the shooting.

The final chapter in the latest outbreak of the old Landers-Stanton trouble will shortly be written in the little courthouse by the side of the roaring French Broad River, in Marshall, when the Landers brothers go on trial for murder.

Marie, half-sister to one of the slain men, is sticking by her husband in this trouble. She witnessed all the shooting.

And Young Michael Cudahy Woke Up in Jail

When the Heir to the Packing Millions Reached His Majority and Promptly Married, His Family Hoped He Had Settled Down —But Events Proved Otherwise.

LOS ANGELES.

YOUNG MICHAEL CUDAHY, scion of the famous old meat-packing family, awoke the other day upon a cot in the Hollywood (Cal.) jail. In his mind was a somewhat hazy recollection that something had happened. He recalled broad Franklin avenue with a few motor cars moving at a late hour in the night. He remembered his own machine speeding noiselessly along. There was the dangerous intersection at Argyle avenue with the yellow "Caution!" light flashing intermittently. And then—

An object, which appeared to have two blazing eyes, rolled swiftly around the corner. From below those eyes came a sinister growl. There was a tremendous crash and young Michael's machine hove to with parts of another automobile draped about its tonneau and fenders.

All this he vaguely remembered. He surmised there had been a wreck or a house had fallen on him or something. But why was he in jail?

It seemed to Michael that Fate or circumstance always was getting him in a mess of some kind. Just because the Cudahy millions, or a portion of them, were destined to be his heritage was no reason why he should be picked upon by hitherto inoffensive motor cars nor why he should be locked up by traffic cops when machines inadvertently collided. At least, that was the way he figured.

Michael had arrived in California's city of pictures with his mother, father and sisters several years previously. His father, Jack Cudahy, had been an athlete, a polo player and clubman in exclusive Kansas City circles. But he slashed Jerre Lillis, a banker, in a night affair wherein Mrs. Cudahy's name was involved and then decided it was best to move. He became a captain of infantry during the World War, then returned to civil life, seemed bored with existence and committed suicide. And Michael was left with his heritage in trust and the task of perpetuating the Cudahy name. Tall, handsome, keen-eyed, he had yet to spread his wings.

Above everything else, Mrs. Cudahy wanted Michael to marry some good woman and settle down into the grooves which had made his grandfather the sturdy, hard-fisted, level-headed old packer whose name was a power in the financial world. She was not averse to Michael sowing a certain amount of wild oats, and, in fact, rather expected it. It would do little harm, she meditated, because many successful men had planted a few fields of this obstreperous grain without having to harvest what might be called an excessive tonnage. His father had sowed a few sacks himself, during his lifetime, and Michael ought to be allowed a bushel or two for experimental purposes.

MRS. CUDAHY wanted her boy, too, to admire beauty in young women. Which is but natural. Every mother likes to see her son accepted by and sought after by attractive girls. But she made the mistake of taking him to Hollywood after his father's death in order to let him exercise his admiration, have his fling and get over with it. Hollywood fairly seethes with beauties. And, running true to form, Michael before long was engulfed. Blondes, lissome brunettes and saucy red-heads lavished their sweetest smiles upon him and Michael promptly began wearing out his automobile tires, while mother looked on supinely.

"He's only a child—just 19," she confided.

Then along came Marie Astaire, a brunette with great, wondrous eyes and a sort of lisp, who caught Michael's attention.

In just no time the two were engrossed in each other. On New Year's eve, 1927, Michael sallied forth to a party. It was to be a gala celebration.

Michael did not get home next morning. Nor the next. But in the early hours of January 4 Michael's car set out from Los Angeles for Santa Ana, a neighboring county seat. By his side sat Marie.

At Santa Ana, County Clerk Backs, routed out of bed at 4 a. m., gruffly told them that if they wanted a marriage license they would have to come around at 8 o'clock when the office opened. He didn't propose to get out at any such ungodly hour.

"All right," said Michael, a little thickly, "we won't patr'nize you!"

"I wouldn't either," replied Bobby O'Brien, who had been taken along to act as best man. Miss Astaire did not have any bridesmaid handy when they started, so was unattended.

The car was turned about and the erstwhile wedding party headed for Los Angeles, just as the sun was rising. There were plenty of marriage licenses available there. Santa Ana's would be spurned.

"Let's see," remarked Mrs. Margaret Furlong, license clerk in the Los Angeles Courthouse, "your sister appeared here last week to get a license, too. Are you two twins?"

"Well, your sister gave her age as 22, and now you say you are 22. What's the answer?"

Mrs. Furlong turned to the telephone and called up Michael's mother—called her and told her point-blank that Michael was there with a motion-picture actress asking for a legal permit to wed. And Mother Cudahy hit the ceiling. Before she could get downtown the wedding party, alarmed by the unexpected procedure, was out and the car speeding toward Santa Barbara. Mamma Cudahy got the Sheriff's office on the telephone.

"Stop them!" she exclaimed. "My boy is not of age. Michael mustn't marry that young woman. Telephone every marriage license bureau in Southern California."

Michael Cudahy and his actress bride, Muriel Adele Evansen.

NOT a minute too soon. Right at that moment Michael and Marie were driving into Ventura and presently were giving their names, addresses and ages to a clerk. Then the telephone rang and the message from the Los Angeles sheriff exploded right under their pens.

"Come on, Marie," said Michael. "Santa Barbara's next."

Once more the high-powered motor purred away and in a couple of hours stood before another courthouse door.

"Here we are!" exclaimed Michael.

"Uh-huh!" retorted a rough voice. "So I see."

It was Sheriff Ross speaking.

"I've been waiting for you," he said. "Orders from Los Angeles to detain you for a while. Come along!"

Michael heard the doors of the jail clang behind him. He knew the jig was up, and Marie Astaire knew that her romance was sunk. She and Bobby O'Brien took a plain train back to Los Angeles and Michael followed a little later between the protecting arms of deputy sheriffs.

Young Cudahy seemed sorry for it all when the deputies delivered him into the hands of his mamma and he was escorted into the library for a long, long talk. He seemed disciplined when he emerged.

The young man apparently had been impressed with the error of his ways and seemed determined to make amends for his waywardness. He remained at home, behaved himself punctiliously and was the devoted son for a long, long time. Then, one day, he met red-headed Clara Bow, actress, "queen of all the flappers," and all his good resolves went into the discard. The low-hung roadster was hauled out and greased, the tank filled with gas and Michael was off and away with his new-found little red-head at his side. Mamma Cudahy looked on apprehensively, but voiced no protest. Nor need she have protested, because Miss Bow failed to get terribly excited over the wealthy scion and this flare soon died.

Mamma Cudahy probably breathed easier for the time but it wasn't long before Michael drove up to the house with another beauty—a girl with large blue-gray eyes, wavy brown hair and a figure which was the talk of Hollywood.

"This is Joan Crawford," Michael said, modestly. "She used to live in Kansas City, too."

Mamma Cudahy greeted her fairly cordially, but it seemed she looked a trifle askance at this affinity her son seemed to have for movie actresses. It seemed that no one but an actress aroused his interest. Mamma Cudahy did not know that, in reality, Joan Crawford was to exert one of the best influences upon young Michael's life that ever would be exerted. The brunette actress went with young Michael for long rides by the side of the sea and, according to the evidence of all concerned, talked to him for hours about how silly it was to let drink rule you. She defended Michael among the actresses when their little groups gathered.

"Mike is all right," she said, stoutly. "He is an adorable boy. He simply has not found himself yet."

In her dressing room at the studio there appeared a full-length portrait of Michael with the inscription—"Just remember, dear, I love you with all my heart."

Along about that time studio officials began hearing of Miss Crawford's interest in the lad, and fearing some sort of undesirable publicity might result, called her in and warned her that such an event would mean her immediate discharge. Mamma Cudahy, too, became fearful of what might happen and began turning thumbs down. The result was the parting of Michael and Joan. But in her memoirs, published not long afterward, the cool, level-headed actress said:

"Mike was the first boy to seriously attract my interest. . . . He was the answer to that mother-love yearning I had within me. . . . I wouldn't let him drink when he was with me. . . . I wanted him to be perfect, to be the one man I always had envisioned in my dreams. . . . When we took long drives and sat in the moonlight just talking and talking I was always trying to instill in him faith in life. I made him sit and listen.

"YOU have read about Mike's mother and her objections to our going together. Why is it that mothers have to object to girls with whom they are not acquainted? Why do they take it for granted that some actress is trying to snatch their sons away from them? Why doesn't the mother study the girl of whom she is frightened? Perhaps she would find that the girl is doing for the son what the mother had attempted to do since his childhood and yet could not accomplish."

Joan was married to Douglas Fairbanks Jr., several months ago, but she and her husband have remained loyal to Michael and both believe, as Joan said, "he simply has not found himself."

Young Cudahy wandered about a bit listlessly, it seems, after Joan Crawford let him go out of her life. He did seem to do less running around and did seem to be paying less attention to the actresses. But a short time ago he became 21 years of age and

Mother Cudahy knew that no longer could she prevent his marriage to whomsoever he chose.

If Mother Cudahy had apprehension it probably was justified, because last July 6 Michael in his motor car with Muriel Adele Evansen, known to the screen as Muriel Evans, at his side, stepped on the starter and the car wound its way out from Los Angeles to draw up at the door of Justice of the Peace Leonard Difani, youthful Riverside magistrate. When they had plighted their troth, they departed.

"We will leave soon for a protracted honeymoon in Hawaii," Michael said to newspaper reporters.

Somehow, though, it did not seem likely that the honeymoon would be spent soon in those romantic islands.

MICHAEL had a little matter to attend to in Los Angeles which might detain him for a time. When he and his bride returned from the wedding trip to Riverside they were happy for the greater part of one week in their enjoyment of love's young dream. And then came that night six days after his wedding when he was driving his automobile along Franklin avenue in Hollywood. Witnesses said that he was driving a zig-zag route and was on the wrong side of the street when he reached the Argyle intersection.

At any rate, there was a crash, the automobile of Charles B. Lang, a resident of Eagle Rock, became a wreck and young Cudahy was taken to jail. There his mother and his attorney, Edward Davin, came, pleading for his release. Young Mike was trying to explain how it all happened.

"Shut up, you fool!" shouted Attorney Davin as he heard the explanation. "Shut up or you'll go to jail for life!"

Michael blinked at him and lay down to sleep. Soon he was held to trial in the Superior Court of Los Angeles County, charged with driving while intoxicated. This, under California law, is a felony and carries a possible sentence of three years in State's prison or a fine of $5000.

Now Michael may go to the Hawaiian Islands if he chooses. In Judge Marshall McComb's court he was convicted of driving while intoxicated. The jury recommended that he be fined $5000. Michael paid. It was the largest fine ever imposed for such an offense in California.

But that was not all. Judge McComb revoked his driving license for a period of one year. So the low-hung roadster must go into retirement. And Michael will be dependent upon taxicabs or upon lifts from friends.

The HONEYMOON TRAGEDY at DEVILS LAKE

Why the Candles on the Altar of Our Lady of Sorrows Were Twice Lighted for James Parrillo and His Bride.

By JULIUS KLYMAN
Of the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine Staff

BARABOO, Wisconsin.

THE candles burned bright on the altar of Our Lady of Sorrows Church in Chicago early in August. They signalized the wedding ceremony of young James Parrillo and Philomena Mocerino. It was a gala occasion, as Italian weddings are. Father Hyacinth said the marriage ritual, and when the ceremony was over the guests took Philomena by the hand and kissed her cheeks and told her how fortunate she was to have this industrious boy for a husband, this able young man who was working his way ahead so well as a preparator in the Field Museum.

Just 19 days later the candles again burned bright on the altar of Our Lady of Sorrows. Father Hyacinth was there too, and so were James Parrillo and his bride—there in the same bridal fittings they had worn a few days before. Side by side they were again. But this time they lay within the somber boards of death.

Nineteen days. And within that time life had left them and a preposterous cry of murder had gone out after them as if in angry pursuit.

James Parrillo was 22 years old. Interested in geology and mammalian history, he had found work in the department of paleontology at the Field Museum of Natural History. It was his duty, in part, to reconstruct vertebrae of exhibits for the museum. The head of his department considered him a promising man, one who was making good progress in his work.

Parrillo lived with his parents in a small house on Berenice avenue. That is where he met Philomena Mocerino. He met her about six months ago, when a friend of hers and of the Parrillos chanced to take her to their home.

It didn't take Jim's family long to realize that Jim was smitten. It didn't take them long to realize that Philomena felt the same way about it. It wasn't long after that first meeting that Philomena began to spend most of her time around the Parrillos' house. It became home for her. For her mother was dead and she did not live with her father.

The young people found no opposition in Jim's parents. True, Philomena, who was just a year younger than Jim, had eloped with another youngster several years before. But that wedding had been annulled, and while Jim's mother said she wished it hadn't happened, she liked the girl and she was going to overlook it.

And then Jim asked Philomena to marry him. The girl cried, and said she would. She told him too that now she would have a home once more. So on August 3 they were married and shortly after the wedding took the train. They were going to honeymoon near Devils Lake, not far from Baraboo.

Four snapshots which Mr. and Mrs. Parrillo made of each other and of Devils Lake. The films were found in the camera that was discovered among their effects.

Mr. and Mrs. James Parrillo.

THE first day they found a cottage at the lake. They could only have it for a day; it was promised to someone else. But the owner of the resort also was proprietor of a small hotel in Baraboo, and Jim and his wife decided they would spend the rest of their time there. They moved in, and paid their week's board in advance.

They were a quiet pair. They didn't have much to say to the other guests. They were almost shy. They spent their time together, exploring the surrounding territory, talking, spooning perhaps, writing letters. On the Thursday after their arrival they decided they'd catch the bus for the Kilbourn Dells, on the Wisconsin River, not far away, one of the show places of the region. But they missed the bus.

Well, they'd go tomorrow. They'd find something else to do today. Someone at the hotel, hearing of their disappointment, offered to drive them to Devils Lake, and they accepted his offer.

Devils Lake is deep. In some places it is 50 feet deep. It is fed from underground springs and its water in places is icy cold. On three sides it is surrounded by high cliffs, steep boulders clinging to their sides.

On the east side the cliff drops almost straight down into the lake, there is no beach at all, and the water at the lake's edge falls to a depth of 35 feet. The lake's beach is on the north side, and here are the water slides and piers and the pavilion. The water is not the color of most lakes you will see; it is darker, probably finding its tone from the rocky cliffs that nearly surround it. But Wisconsiners think highly of it, and it is confined within the limits of a State park.

When Jim and his wife got to the lake on this Thursday they spent some time at the pavilion. Among other things, Philomena wrote some letters. Then they got a row boat, and rowed around the edges of the lake. Perhaps a bit dangerous for people who couldn't swim. But it was a good-sized, wide-bottomed boat, no reason to think of danger. They had a camera and they took pictures. First Philomena took a picture of Jim leaning against the rock. Then he took one of her perched on a boulder. Then there was a photograph of the lake, and another of Jim on the shore, a photo of Jim at the oars, and, last, one of Philomena as oarsman.

After that no one knows what happened. Except that they didn't return to their hotel that evening and the next day the boat was found just off the north shore, some water in it, the oars in place, Jim's coat and shirt in it, the camera and Philomena's purse.

The authorities started the search. Sheriff Mueller of Sauk County, acting in accord with the District Attorney, went about the business of dragging the lake. Experts at the work were called, the motor boats belonging to the State park got busy. Nothing was discovered. Then an airplane was pressed into service and the aviator flew over the water. But he saw nothing of the missing couple.

It was not until eight days later that Philomena's body was found floating near the beach. Sheriff Mueller was notified, he hurried to the scene, waded into the water and brought her body to the shore. Dr. Tryon, in his position as Coroner, was notified.

The physician looked at the girl's body.

And along about this time the trouble started.

For the word went out that it might be murder. That Philomena Parrillo had a mark on her head. That the mark might have been caused by a blow, that the blow might have been responsible for a fractured skull, that that caused her death. That it was dubious there was water in her lungs. That she was to have a child in a few months.

Dr. Tryon told me he was not responsible for these reports. He contends that the newspapers over-emphasized his remarks and misinterpreted him generally, that he didn't say it for publication, that he stressed "it looked like it," but that he never gave the newspapers any reason for going ahead with the tale.

Anyhow, suspicion of murder was in the air, and Sheriff Mueller had contemplated a search for the missing bridegroom.

News stories were printed about another "American Tragedy," a la Theodore Dreiser.

What was there to heighten the suspicion of murder? Nothing. The girl's wrist watch had stopped at 1:50 o'clock. Certainly that meant nothing. In her purse, found in the boat, was a letter addressed to a friend, telling of her happiness, and asking this friend to meet them on their return to Chicago on Saturday.

Dr. Tryon did not perform an autopsy. Philomena's body was sent to the capital, Madison, for the State department of pathology to examine.

And so Friday passed.

Saturday morning found Baraboo a meeting place for metropolitan reporters. A bride of two weeks dead, a missing husband, etc., etc. James Parrillo hiding in the hills, perhaps, or riding a fast freight Canada-bound.

And then came the blow-up. For Dr. Frank Weeks, of the pathological department at Madison, reported that Philomena Parrillo did not have a fractured skull; that her lungs were filled with water (indicating she drowned); that she was not going to have a child. (When I talked to Dr. Weeks he told me, in his opinion, a spot on her head was the result of the position in which the girl's head had lain on the bottom of the lake.)

BUT that wasn't all. For on the same Saturday Jim Parrillo's body was found floating on the waters off the east bluff. His mother, who had come to Baraboo with relatives, was on the shore, at the time. And she wept and said she'd rather have her son dead than a murderer.

Two days later the Coroner's jury, after deliberating for an hour and a quarter, returned the following verdict:

"We find that Mr. and Mrs. James Parrillo came to their deaths by drowning; that in the accident, Mrs. Parrillo's head was bruised and she was presumably semiconscious when she went into the water. It appears she fell, either striking the boat or a rock."

How did it all happen? One widely-accepted theory is that as the last picture on the film roll shows Mrs. Parrillo at the oars, she fell out of the boat as she and her husband changed places, and that he jumped in after her, regardless of the fact that he couldn't swim. His wrist watch stopped at 1:45 o'clock, five minutes earlier than hers, which, obviously, points to their death at about the same time, one watch merely having withstood the waters of the lake a little longer than the other.

It is the Coroner's personal belief that the Parrillos were on the shore at the time of the accident. The Coroner thinks that the girl, wearing high-heeled shoes, lost her balance on the rocks, fell, striking her head, and then dropped into the water. And that her husband jumped in after her, attempting her rescue.

That Philomena fell from the shore, rather than from the boat, is a theory now given a good deal of credence. It would appear that had one of them fallen from the boat, and one jumped out after the other, or had they both fallen from the boat, the boat would have been in greater disarray than it was when it was discovered.

Whatever the circumstances, it was the cold water of Devils Lake that brought James Parrillo and his bride to their deaths.

Ralph Borsodi's Fight for Leisure

sodi, is the most important of all:

It has made his home largely a self-sufficient unit. It has therefore not made it necessary for him to spend all his time earning money, and the result is that he works only four days a week in town, and is free three days to follow his own inclinations, which in his particular case happen to be studying and writing. For Borsodi thinks of the savings which his system makes possible not primarily in terms of money, but in those of time. He has tabulated the number of hours of work which are necessary for himself, or any other man in his position, in order to earn each of the items in a standard budget—housing, food, clothing, etc. The savings which he effects he registers in terms of time which can be taken away from toil at one's job and put into recreation, the pursuit of hobbies, or that genuinely creative work in the arts or in scientific research which so many professional men say they would like to do. He makes the statement, and supports it with detailed facts, that the average man who lives in a New York City apartment, by following the principles he lays down, could maintain his family at an equivalent status by working only eight or nine months of the year. There would be many, of course, who would not want to use the time saved in this way, and who would prefer to work eleven or eleven and a half months, as now, and put their surplus money in the bank.

But in this last group Borsodi is not particularly interested, for the mere money-saving aspect of his system is not his chief concern. Borsodi is not solely occupied with finding a way of living life less expensively, but with finding a way whereby it may be lived more beautifully. To his way of thinking, mankind is divided into three great classes: the herd-minded masses; the quantity-minded, or acquisitive, ones, who are interested only in power and wealth; and, third, the quality-minded, who are the scholars, artists and thinkers, the people who are more interested in ideas than in things.

It is this third class, says Borsodi, for whom economic independence is most desirable, for they are the persons who contribute to the beauty and the intellectual wealth of life. Under the present system too many such men have to devote almost all their time to uncongenial work in order to gain the mere essentials of life, or else they have to cheapen their artistic and intellectual products in order to find a market for them. But he believes that the economies of his system will release them from purely remunerative labor and give them a leisure in which to make their spiritual contributions.

Certainly it has done that for Borsodi. The free time which he has been able to obtain during the past year by domesticating the machine has been employed by him in writing a book called "This Ugly Civilization: A Study of the Quest of Comfort," which is to be published next month by Simon & Schuster. The book is not only a criticism of our factory-dominated civilization, but it tells, with more detail than this article can, the system of living whereby the Borsodis have won their way to economic freedom, a system which, Borsodi believes, can lead the way to man's conquest of the machine, and the consequent enjoyment of a fuller and richer life.

The ELEPHANT REMEMBERS

By EDISON MARSHALL

THIS Is One of a Series of Prize Stories, by Celebrated American Authors, Which Is Being Published in the Post-Dispatch Sunday Magazine.

For an instant elephant and man stood front to front.

AN elephant is old on the day he is born, say the natives of Burma, and no white man is ever quite sure just what they mean. Perhaps they refer to his pink, old-gentleman's skin and his droll, fumbling, old-man ways and his squeaking treble voice. And maybe they mean he is born with a wisdom such as usually belongs only to age. And it is true that if any animal in the world has had a chance to acquire knowledge it is the elephant, for his breed are the oldest residents of this old world.

Far in a remote section of British India, in a strange, wild province called Burma, Mustagh was born. And although he was born in captivity, the property of a mahout, in his first hour he heard the far-off call of the wild elephants in the jungle.

Of all the places in the great world, only a few remain wherein a captive elephant hears the call of his wild brethren at birth. Mustagh's birthplace lies around the corner of the Bay of Bengal, not far from the watershed of the Irawadi, almost north of Java. It is strange and wild and dark beyond the power of words to tell. There are great dark forests, unknown, slow-moving rivers, and jungles silent and dark and impenetrable.

Little Muztagh weighed a flat two hundred pounds at birth. But this was not the queerest thing about him. Elephant babies, although usually weighing not more than one hundred and eighty, often touch two hundred. The queerest thing was a peculiarity that probably was completely overlooked by his mother. It was not definitely discovered until the mahout came out of his hut with a lighted fagot for a first inspection.

He had been wakened by the sound of the mother's pain. "Hai!" he had exclaimed to his wife. "Who has ever heard a cow bawl so loud in labor? The little one that tomorrow you will see beneath her belly must weigh more than you!"

This was rather a compliment to his plump wife. She was not offended at all. Burman women love to be well-rounded. But the mahout was not weighing the effect of his words. He was busy lighting his firebrand, and his features seemed sharp and intent when the beams came out. Rather he was already weighing the profits of little Muztagh. He was an elephant-catcher by trade, in the employ of the great white Dugan Sahib, and the cow that was at this moment bringing a son into the world was his own property. If the baby should be of the Kumiria—

THE mahout knew elephants from head to tail, and he was very well acquainted with the three grades that compose that breed. The least valuable of all are the Mierga—a light, small-headed, thin-skinned, weak-trunked and unintelligent variety that are often found in the best elephant herds. They are often born of the most noble parents, and they are as big a problem to elephant men as razor-backs to hog-breeders. Then there is a second variety, the Dwasala, that compose the great bulk of the herd—a good, substantial, strong, intelligent grade of elephant. But the Kumiria is the best of all; and when one is born in a captive herd it is a time for rejoicing. He is the perfect elephant—heavy, symmetrical, trustworthy and fearless—fitted for the pageantry of kings.

He hurried out to the lines, for now he knew that the baby was born. The mother's cries had ceased. The jungle, dark and savage beyond ever the power of man to tame, lay just beyond. He could feel its heavy air, its smells; its silence was an essence. And as he stood, lifting the fagot high, he heard the wild elephants trumpeting from the hills.

He turned his head in amazement. A Burman, and particularly one who chases the wild elephants in their jungles, is intensely superstitious, and for an instant it seemed to him that the wild trumpeting must have some secret meaning, it was so loud and triumphant and prolonged.

"Are you saluting this little one?" he cried. "He is not a wild tusker like you. He is not a wild pig of the jungle. He is born in bonds, such as you will wear, too, after the next drive!"

They trumpeted again, as if in scorn of his words. Their great strength was given them to rule the jungle, not to haul logs and pull chains! The man turned back to the lines and lifted higher his light.

Yes—the little elephant in the light-glow was of the Kumiria. Never had there been a more perfect calf. The light of greed sprang again in his eyes. And as he held the fagot nearer so that the beams played in the elephant's eyes and on his coat, the mahout sat down and was still, lest the gods observe his good luck, and, being jealous, turn it into evil.

The coat was not pinkly dark, as is usual in baby elephants. It was distinctly light-colored—only a few degrees darker than white.

The man understood at once. In the elephants, as well as in all other breeds, an albino is sometimes born. Such creatures are bought at fabulous prices by the Malay and Siamese princes, to whom a white elephant is the greatest treasure that a king can possess.

Muztagh was a long way from being an albino, yet a tendency in that direction had bleached his hide. And the man knew that on the morrow Dugan Sahib would pay him a lifetime's earnings for the little wobbly calf, whose welcome had been the wild cries of the tuskers in the jungle.

LITTLE Muztagh (which means White Mountain in an ancient tongue) did not enjoy his babyhood. He was born with the memory of jungle kingdoms. Life in the elephant lines almost killed him with dullness.

Mostly his mother was kept chained in the lines, and every day Langur Dass, the low-caste hili-man in Dugan's employ, grubbed grass for her in the valleys. All night long, except the regular four hours of sleep, he would hear her grumble and rumble and mutter discontent that her little son shared with her.

"Oh, little restless one," Langur Dass would say, "thou and that old cow thy mother and I have one heart between us. We know the burning—we understand, we three!"

It was true that Langur Dass understood more of the ways of the forest people than any other hillman in the encampment. But his caste was low, and he was drunken and careless and lazy beyond words, and the hunters had mostly only scorn for him. They called him Langur after a grey-bearded breed of monkeys along the slopes of the Himalayas, rather suspecting he was cursed with evil spirits, for why should any sane man have such mad ideas as to the rights of elephants? He never wanted to join in the drives—which was a strange thing indeed for a man raised in the hills. Perhaps he was afraid—but yet they could remember a certain day in the bamboo thickets, when a great, wild buffalo had charged their camp and Langur Dass acted as if fear were something he had never heard of and knew nothing whatever about.

ONE day they asked him about it. "Tell us, Langur Dass," they asked, mocking the ragged, dejected-looking creature, "if thy name speaks truth, thou art brother to many monkey-folk, and who knows the jungle better than thou or they? None but the monkey-folk and thou canst talk with my lord the elephant. Hai! We have seen thee do it, Langur Dass. How is it that when we go hunting, thou art afraid to come?"

Langur looked at them out of his dull eyes, and evaded their question just as long as he could. "Have you forgotten the tales you heard on your mothers' breasts?" he asked at last. "Elephants are of the jungle. You are of the cooking-pots and thatch! How should such folk as ye are understand?"

This was flat heresy from their viewpoint. There is an old legend among the elephant-catchers to the effect that at one time men were subject to the elephants.

But Muztagh, being only a beast, did not know anything about the caste and prejudices of the men he saw, but he did know that one of them, the low-caste Langur Dass, ragged and dirty and despised, wakened a responsive chord in his lonely heart.

They would have long talks together, that is, Langur would talk and Muztagh would mumble. "Little calf, little fat one," the man would say, "can great rocks stop a tree from growing? Shall iron shackles stop a prince from being king? Muztagh — jewel among jewels! Thy heart speaks through those sleepless eyes of thine! Have patience—what thou knowest, who shall take away from thee?"

And Muztagh answered in his own way, without sound or emphasis, but giving his love to Langur Dass, a love as large as the big elephant heart from which it had sprung. No other man could even win his friendship. The smell of the jungle was on Langur Dass. The mahouts and hunters smelt more or less of civilization and were convinced for their part that the disposition of the little light-colored elephant was beyond redemption.

When Muztagh was nine, his mother was sold to an elephant-breeder from a distant province. Little Muztagh saw her march away between two tuskers—down the long elephant trail into the valley and the shadow.

"WATCH the little one closely tonight," Dugan Sahib said to his mahout. So when they had led him back and forth along the lines, they saw that the ends of his ropes were pegged down tightly. They were horsehair ropes, far beyond the strength of any normal nine-year-old elephant to break. Then they went to the huts and to their women and left him to shift restlessly from foot to foot, and think.

Probably he would have been satisfied with thinking, for Muztagh did not know his strength, and thought he was securely tied. The incident that upset the mahout's plans was simply that the wild elephants trumpeted again from the hills.

Muztagh heard the sound, long-drawn and strange from the silence of the jungle. He grew motionless. The great ears pricked forward, the whipping tail stood still. It was a call never to be denied. The blood was leaping in his great veins.

He suddenly rocked forward with all his strength. The rope spun tight, hummed, and snapped very softly indeed. Then he padded in silence out among the huts, and nobody who had not seen him do it would believe how silently an elephant can move when he sees fit.

There was no thick jungle here—just soft grass huts, approaching dark fringe that was the jungle. None of the mahouts was awake to see him. No voice called him back. The grass gave way to bamboo thickets, the smell of the huts to the wild, bewitching perfumes of the jungle.

Muztagh's reception was cordial from the very first. The great bulls of the herd stood still and lifted their ears when they heard him grunting up the hill. But he slipped among them and was forgotten at once. They had no dealings with the princes of Malay and Siam, and his light-colored coat meant nothing whatever to them.

It was a compact, medium-sized herd—vast males, mothers, old-maid elephants, long-legged and ungainly, young males just learning their strength and proud of it beyond words, and many calves. They ranged all the way in size from the great leader, who stood ten feet and weighed nearly nine thousand pounds, to little two-hundred-and-fifty-pound babies that had been born that season. And before long the entire herd began its cautious advance into the deeper hills.

THE first night in the jungle—and Muztagh found it wonderful beyond all dreams. The mist on his skin was the same cool joy he had expected. There were sounds, too, that set his great muscles aquiver. He heard the sound that the bamboos make—the little click-click of the stems in the wind—the soft rustle and stir of many leafy tendrils entwining and touching together, and the whisper of the wind over the jungle grass. And he knew, because it was his heritage, what every single one of these sounds meant.

The herd threaded through the dark jungle, and now they descended into a cool river. A herd of deer—either the dark sambur or black buck—sprang from the misty shore-line and leaped away into the bamboos. Farther down, he could hear the grunt of buffalo.

But the smells were the book that he read best; he understood them even better than the sounds of green things growing. Flowers that he could not see hung like bells from the arching branches. Every fern and every seeding grass had its own scent that told sweet tales. The very mud that his four feet sank into emitted scent that told the history of jungle-life from the world's beginnings. When dawn burst over the eastern hills, he was weary in every muscle of his young body, but much too happy to admit it.

This day was just the first of three thousand joys. The jungle, old as the world itself, is ever new. Not even the wisest elephant who, after all, is king of the jungle, knows what will turn up at the next bend in the elephant trail. It may be a native woodcutter, whose long hair is stirred with fright. It may easily be one of the great breed of bears, large as the American grizzly, that some naturalists believe are to be found in the Siamese and Burman jungles. It may be a herd of wild buffalo, always looking for a fight, or simply some absurd armadillo-like thing, to make him shake his vast sides with mirth.

And Muztagh's great strength grew upon him until it became too vast a thing to measure or control.

Whether or not he kept with the herd was by now a matter of supreme indifference to him. He no longer needed its protection. He was twenty years old, and he stood nearly eleven feet to the top of his shoulders.

BUT India is too thickly populated by human beings for a wild elephant to escape observation entirely. Many natives had caught sight of him, and at last the tales reached a little circle of trackers and hunters in camp on a distant range of hills. They did not work for Dugan Sahib, for Dugan Sahib was dead long since. They were a determined little group, and one night they sat and talked softly over the fire.

"You will go, Khusru," said the leader, "for there are none here half so skillful with horsehair rope as you. If you do not come back within twelve months, we shall know you have failed."

Of course all of them knew what he meant. If a man failed in the effort to capture a wild elephant by the hair-rope method, he very rarely lived to tell of it.

"In that case," Ahmad Din went on, "there will be a great drive after the monsoon of next year. Picked men will be chosen. No detail will be overlooked. It will cost more, but it will be sure. And our purses will be fat from the selling-price of this king of elephants with a white coat!"

There is no need to follow Khusru on his long pursuit through the elephant trails. He was an able hunter and, after the manner of the elephant-trackers, the scared little man followed Muztagh through jungle and river, over hill and into dale, for countless days, and at last, as Muztagh slept, he crept up within a half-dozen feet of him. He intended to loop a horsehair rope about his great feet—one of the oldest and most hazardous methods of elephant-catching. But Muztagh wakened just in time.

And then a curious thing happened. The native could never entirely believe it, and it was one of his best stories to the day he died. Any other wild tusker would have charged in furious wrath, and there would have been quick and certain death beneath his great knees. Muztagh started out as if he had intended a charge. He went just two paces. Then his little eyes caught sight of the brown figure fleeing through the bamboos. And at once the elephant drew to a sliding halt.

HE did not know why. He was perfectly aware that this man was an enemy, jealous of his most-loved property. He knew perfectly well it was the man's intention to put him back into his bonds. He did not feel fear, either—because the elephant's anger is too tremendous an emotion to leave room for any other impulse such as fear.

He remembered his days in the elephant lines. These brown creatures had been his masters then. They had cut his grass for him in the jungle, and brought him bundles of sugar-cane. The native people say that the elephant memory is the greatest single marvel in the jungle, and it was the memory that saved Khusru then. It wasn't deliberate gratitude for the grass-cutting of long ago. It wasn't any particular emotion that he could reach out his trunk and touch. It was simply an impulse—another one of the thousand mysteries that envelope, like a cloud, the mental processes of these largest of forest creatures.

These were the days when he lived apart from the herd. He did it from choice. He liked the silence, the solitary mud-baths, the constant watchfulness against danger.

He loved the rains that flashed through the jungles, the swift-climbing dawns in the east, the strange, tense, breathless nights. And at midnight he loved to trumpet to the herd on some faraway hill, and hear, fainter than the death-cry of a beetle, its answer come back to him. At twenty-five he had reached full maturity, and no more magnificent specimen of the elephant could be found in all of British India.

All at once he remembered the herd and the fights of his calfhood. All at once he knew that his craft and strength and power were beyond that of any elephant in all the jungle. Who was the great, arrogant herd-leader to stand against him? What yellow tusks were to meet his and come away unbroken?

His little eyes grew ever more red as he stood rocking back and forth, his trunk lifted to catch the sounds and smells of the distant jungle. Why should he abide alone, when he could be the ruler of the herd and the jungle king? Then he grunted softly and started away down the river. Far away, beyond the mountains, the rivers and the villages of the hillfolk, the herd of his youth roamed in joyous freedom. He would find them and assert his mastery.

THE night fire of a little band of elephant-catchers burned fitfully at the edge of the jungle. They were silent men, for they had lived long on the elephant trails. They smoked their cheroots, and waited for Ahmad Din to speak.

"You have all heard?" he asked at last.

All but one of them nodded. Of course this did not count the most despised one of them all—old Langur Dass—who sat at the very edge of the shadow. His long hair was grey, and his youth had gone where the sun goes at evening. They scarcely addressed a word to him, or he to them. True, he knew the elephants, but was he not possessed of evil spirits?

"Khusru has failed to catch White-Skin, but he has lived to tell many lies about it. He comes tonight."

"Do you mean the white ele-

Muztagh wakened just in time.

And then a curious thing happened. The native could never entirely believe it, and it was one of his best stories to the day he died. Any other wild tusker would have charged in furious wrath, and there would have been a quick and certain death beneath his great knees. Muztagh started out as if he had intended to charge. He went just two paces. Then his little eyes caught sight of the brown figure fleeing through the bamboos. And at once the elephant drew to a sliding halt.

HE did not know why. He was perfectly aware that this man was an enemy, jealous of his most-loved liberty. He knew perfectly it was the man's intention to put him back into his bonds. He did not feel fear, either—because an elephant's anger is too tremendous an emotion to leave room for any other impulse such as fear.

He remembered his days in the elephant lines. These brown creatures had been his masters then. They had cut his grass for him in the jungle, and brought him bundles of sugar-cane. The hill people say that the elephant memory is the greatest single marvel in the jungle, and it was that memory that saved Khusru then. It wasn't deliberate gratitude for the grass-cutting of long ago. It wasn't any particular emotion that he could reach out his trunk and touch. It was simply an impulse—another one of the thousand mysteries that envelope, like a cloud, the mental processes of these largest of forest creatures.

These were the days when he lived apart from the herd. He did it from choice. He liked the silence, the solitary mud-baths, the constant watchfulness against danger.

He loved the rains that flashed through the jungles, the swift-climbing dawns in the east, the strange, tense, breathless nights. And at midnight he loved to trumpet to the herd on some faraway hill, and hear, fainter than the death-cry of a beetle, its answer come back to him. At twenty-five he had reached full maturity, and no more magnificent specimen of the elephant could be found in all of British India.

All at once he remembered the herd and the fights of his calfhood. All at once he knew that his craft and strength and power were beyond that of any elephant in all the jungle. Who was the great, arrogant herd-leader to stand against him? What yellow tusks were to meet his and come away unbroken?

His little eyes grew ever more red as he stood rocking back and forth, his trunk lifted to catch the sounds and smells of the distant jungle. Why should he abide alone, when he could be the ruler of the herd and the jungle king? Then he grunted softly and started away down the river. Far away, beyond the mountains, the rivers and the villages of the hillfolk, the herd of his youth roamed in joyous freedom. He would find them and assert his mastery.

THE night fire of a little band of elephant-catchers burned fitfully at the edge of the jungle. They were silent men, for they had lived long on the elephant trails. They smoked their cheroots, and waited for Ahmad Din to speak.

"You have all heard?" he asked at last.

All but one of them nodded. Of course this did not count the most despised one of them all—old Langur Dass—who sat at the very edge of the shadow. His long hair was grey, and his youth had gone where the sun goes at evening. They scarcely addressed a word to him, or he to them. True, he knew the elephants, but was he not possessed of evil spirits?

"Khusru has failed to catch White-Skin, but he has lived to tell many lies about it. He comes tonight."

"Do you mean the white ele-bant of which the Manipur people tell so many lies?" he asked. "Do you...skilled catchers that you believe that such an elephant is still wild in the jungle?"

Ahmad Din scowled. "The Manipur people tell of him, but for once they tell the truth," was the reply. "He is the greatest elephant, the richest prize, in all of Burma. Too many people have seen him to doubt it. I add my word to theirs, thou son of immorality!"

LANGUR DASS' face lit suddenly. "Then it could be none but Muztagh, escaped from Dugan Sahib fifteen years ago. That calf was also white. He was also overgrown for his years."

One of the trackers suddenly gasped. "Then that is why he spared Khusru!" he cried. "He remembered men."

The others nodded gravely. "They never forget," said Langur Dass. Then Ahmad Din spoke:

"Tomorrow we will break camp. There can be no mistake this time. There must be no points overlooked. The chase will cost much, but it will return a hundredfold. Khusru says that at last the white one has started back toward his herd, so that all can be taken in the same keddah. And the white sahib that holds the license is not to know that White-Coat is in the herd at all.

"We will hire beaters and drivers, the best that can be found. Tomorrow we will take the elephants and go."

"I have gone hungry many days," Langur Dass said. "If the drive is on, perhaps you will give me a place among the beaters."

The circle turned and stared at him. It was one of the stories of Langur Dass that he never partook in the elephant hunts. Evidently poor living had broken his resolutions.

"You shall have your wish, if you know how to keep a closed mouth," Ahmad Din replied. "There are other hunting parties in the hills."

At last Langur Dass was left alone with his thoughts. Soon he got up and stole out into the velvet darkness.

"Have I followed the tales of your greatness all these years for this!" he muttered. "It is right for pigs with the hearts of pigs to break their backs in labor. But you, my Muztagh! Jewel among elephants! King of the jungle! Thou art of the true breed! Moreover I am minded that thy heart and mine are one!

"Am I to desert my brother in his hour of need? Am I to see these brown pigs put chains around him, in the moment of his power? A king, falling to the place of a slave? Muztagh, we will see what can be done! Muztagh, my king, my pearl, my pink baby, for whom I dug grass in the long ago! Thy Langur Dass is old, and his whole strength is not that of thy trunk, and men look at him as a worm in the grass. But ha! perhaps thou wilt find him an ally not to be despised!"

THE night had just fallen, moist and heavy over the jungle, when Muztagh caught up with his herd.

The old bull that led the herd, seventy years of age and at the pride of his wisdom and strength, scarred, yellow-tusked and noble past any elephant patriarch in the jungle, curled up his trunk when he saw him come. He knew very well what would happen. And he uttered the challenge himself.

The herd stood like heroic figures in stone for a long moment—until Muztagh had replied to the challenge.

Very slowly and grandly, with infinite dignity, Muztagh stamped into the circle. His tusks gleamed. His eyes glowed red. And those appraising old bulls in the ring knew that such an elephant had not been born since the time of their grandfathers.

The grand old leader stamped in the circle, seeming unconscious of the eyes upon him, battle-scarred and old. Even if this fight were his last, he meant to preserve his dignity.

The two bulls were quite evenly matched. The patriarch knew more of fighting, had learned more wiles, but he had neither the strength nor the agility of Muztagh.

All at once, Muztagh went to his knees. But as might a tiger, he sprang aside in time to avoid a terrible tusk blow to his shoulder.

As the night drew to morning, the bulls began to see that the tide of the battle had turned. Youth was conquering — too mighty and agile to resist. The rushes of the patriarch were ever weaker. He still could inflict punishment, and the hides of both of them were terrible to see, but he was no longer able to take advantage of his openings. Then Muztagh did a thing that reassured the old bulls as to his craft and wisdom. Just as a pugilist will invite a blow to draw his opponent within range, Muztagh pretended to leave his great shoulder exposed. The old bull failed to see the plot. He bore down, and Muztagh was ready with flashing tusk.

What happened thereafter occurred too quickly for the eyes of the elephants to follow. They saw the great bull go down and Muztagh stand lunging above him. And the battle was over.

THE keddah was built at last. It was a strong stockade, opening with great wings spreading out one hundred yards, and equipped with the great gate that lowered like a portcullis at the funnel end of the wings. The herd had been surrounded by the drivers and beaters, and slowly they had been driven, for long days, toward the keddah mouth. The men had guns loaded with blank cartridges, and firebrands ready to light. At a given signal they would close down quickly about the herd, and stampede it into the yawning mouth of the stockade.

No expense had been spared. The profit was assured in advance, not only from the matchless Muztagh, but from the herd as well. The king of the jungle, free now as the winds or the waters, was about to go back to his chains. These had been such days! He had led the herd through the hills, and had known the rapture of living as never before.

His word was law in the herd. And slowly he began to overcome the doubt that the great bulls had of him—doubt of his youth and experience. If he had had three months more of leadership, their trust would have been absolute. But in the meantime, the slow herding toward the keddah had begun.

"We will need brave men to stand at the end of the wings of the keddah," said Ahmad Din. He spoke no less than truth. The man who stands at the end of the wings, or wide-stretching gates, of the keddah is of course in the greatest danger of being charged and killed. The herd, mad with fright, is only slightly less afraid of the spreading wings of the stockade than of the yelling, whooping beaters behind. Often they will try to break through the circle rather than enter the wings.

"For two rupees additional I will hold one of the wings," replied old Langur Dass. Ahmad Din glanced at him—at his hard, bright eyes and determined face. "You are a madman, Langur Dass," he said wonderingly. "But thou shalt lie behind the right-wing men to pass them torches. I have spoken."

Within the hour the signal of "Mail, mail!" (Go on, go on!) was given, and the final laps of the drive began.

The hills grew full of sound. The beaters sprang up with firebrand and rifle, and closed swiftly about the herd. The animals moved slowly at first. The time was not quite ripe to throw them into a panic. Many times the herd would leave their trail and start to dip into a valley or a creek-bed, but always there was a new crowd of beaters to block their path. But presently the beaters closed in on them. Then the animals began a wild descent toward the mouth of the keddah.

Firebrands waved, rifles cracked, the wild shout of beaters increased in volume. The men closed in, driving the beasts before them.

BUT there was one man that did not raise his voice. Through all the turmoil and pandemonium he crouched at the end of the stockade wing, tense and silent and alone. It was just old Langur Dass, named for a monkey and despised of men.

He was waiting for the instant that the herd would come thundering down the hill, in order to pass lighted firebrands to the bold men who held that corner. He was not certain that he could do the thing he had set out to do. Perhaps the herd would sweep past him, through the gates. If he did win, he would have to face alone the screaming, infuriated hillmen, whose knives were always ready to draw. But knives did not matter now. Langur Dass had only his own faith and his own creed, and no fear could make him betray them.

"Will I win, jungle gods?" a little gray man at the keddah wing was whispering to the forests. "Will I save you, great one that I knew in babyhood? Will you go down into chains before the night is done? Ai! I hear the thunder of your feet! The moment is almost here. And now—your last chance, Muztagh!"

"Close down, close down!" Ahmad Din was shouting to his beaters. "The thing is done in another moment. Hasten, pigs of the hills! Raise your voice! Now! Aiha!"

The herd was at the very wings of the stockade. They had halted an instant, milling, and the beaters increased their shouts. Only one of all the herd seemed to know the danger—Muztagh himself, and he had dropped from the front rank to the very rear. He stood with uplifted trunk, facing the approaching rows of beaters. And there seemed to be no break in the whole line. He turned, too, toward the mouth of the keddah.

But even as he turned, a brown figure darted toward him from the end of the wing. A voice known long ago was calling to him—a voice that penetrated high and clear above the babble of the beaters. "Muztagh!" it was crying. "Muztagh!"

BUT it was not the words that turned Muztagh. An elephant cannot understand words, except a few elemental sounds such as a horse or dog can learn. Rather it was the smell of the man, remembered from long ago, and the sound of his voice, never quite forgotten. For an elephant never forgets.

"More firebrands!" yelled the men who held that corner of the wing. "Firebrands! Where is Langur Dass?" But instead of firebrands that would have frightened beasts and aided men, Langur Dass stepped from behind a tree and beat at the heads of the right-wing guards with a bamboo cane that whistled and whacked and scattered them into panic—yelling all the while —"Muztagh! O my Muztagh! Here is an opening! Muztagh, come!"

And Muztagh did come—trumpeting—crashing like an avalanche, with Langur Dass hard after him, afraid, now that he had done the trick. And hot on the trail of Langur Dass ran Ahmad Din, with his knife drawn, not meaning to let that prize be lost to him at less than the cost of the trickster's life.

But it was not written that the knife should ever enter the flesh of Langur Dass.

The elephant never forgets, and Muztagh was monarch of his breed. He turned back two paces, and struck with his trunk. Ahmad Din was knocked aside as the wind whips a straw.

For an instant elephant and man stood front to front. To the left of them the gates of the stockade dropped shut behind the herd. The elephant stood with trunk slightly lifted, for the moment motionless. The long-haired man who had saved him stood lifting upstretched arms.

It was such a scene as one might remember in an old legend, wherein beasts and men were brothers.

For Langur Dass was speaking to my lord the elephant:

"TAKE me with thee, Muztagh! Monarch of the hills!! Thou and I are not of the world of men, but of the jungle and the rain, the silence, and the cold touch of rivers. We are brothers, Muztagh. O beloved, wilt thou leave me here to die!"

The elephant slowly turned his head and looked scornfully at the group of beaters bearing down on Langur Dass, murder shining no less from their knives than from their lighted eyes.

The elephant seemed to know what he was asking. He had lifted him to his great shoulders many times, in the last days of his captivity. And besides, his old love for Langur Dass had never been forgotten. It all returned, full and strong as ever. For an elephant never can forget.

It was not one of the man-herd that stood pleading before him. It was one of his own jungle people, just as, deep in his heart, he had always known. So, with one motion light as air, he swung him gently to his shoulder.

The jungle, vast and mysterious and still, closed its gates behind them.

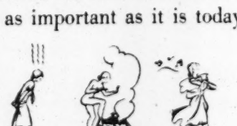
Never has cleanliness been so important!!

Crowded hours . . . and crowded cars, streets, stores, offices, theaters, dining and dancing places. Everywhere, close-up, appraising eyes.

Also: light-colored stockings; short skirts; dress materials that are half-transparent; bare elbows, necks and sometimes knees; and heads bobbed so severely that hair must be kept healthy, shining and clean.

It certainly is true . . . personal cleanliness of the 100% and constant kind never has been as important as it is today.



Step in before you step out

What is it about the thorough bath that makes different people of us in a few short minutes?

It's a combination of effects, no doubt: Dull skin made vivid by the fresh-coursing blood just beneath; cleansed pores; new vitality; and confidence . . . a happy, priceless, self-assurance.

When we're anxious to look our best (which is really almost always), how short-sighted it is to have "no time for a bath." Nothing else so easy pays half the returns that this all-year habit does of always "stepping in before you step out."

Wanted: a good complexion

Worried a little about your complexion? Thousands of women are. It's really rather amazing how many.

But it's also amazing, how simple the remedy often is: just freeing the pores, every day without fail, of the dust and soot they collect, and the left-over powders and creams. It takes warm water and soap to do this.

Nice hands, nice clothes, nice hair

Hands, to be beautiful, should be kept as pink-and-white as they look after the bath.

And, what gives our clothes, whether old or new, the good looks and good feel that fresh cleanliness does?

As for the hair, authorities advise a thorough shampoo every two weeks . . . and oftener when the hair is naturally oily or a dressing is used, when you perspire freely, when your head is exposed to more dust and dirt than is usual.

The shortest route to charm

Would you be charming? Then be carefully clean every day.

Would you have the kind of beauty called "elusive"? Then keep unusually clean . . . cleaner than your friends do.

Would you add greatly to your happiness, good times and popularity?...this year, next year, and the rest of your life? Then every day think a wee bit more about personal cleanliness, than you've sometimes thought was necessary.

SCOTLAND, HOME PORT of the HANG-OVER

The History of a Family Tree.

Sam Hellman.

"WHAT," inquires the missus, "is there to see in Edinburgh? It looks to me a great deal like Dayton."

"Perhaps," says I. "But there is one important difference."

"What's that?" asks Minnie Mellish, who had nothing in her hand but a fork the day it rained brains.

"Dayton," I points out shrewdly, "is in Ohio, on the Maumee, while Edinburgh's in Scotland, on the itinerary."

"How about taking a flash at Edinburgh Castle?" suggests Joe Davis, who'd also been dragged into the European trip against his will and is just as unhappy about it as I am.

"What's there to see there?" frowns Minnie's meal ticket, Ira. "A lot of punk plumbing and the spot where Sandy McGinsberg took Angus McTavish with a dirk in the ribs?"

"I hear," says Joe, "the castle's got everything—a full set of square-cut portcullises, hand-knitted battlements, a donjon keep"——

"Donjon keep?" puzzles Minnie.

"Sure," I tells her. "The place where you keep the donjons. Donjon is Scotch for demijohn. In other words, a donjon keep is the same thing as a wine cellar, excepting in months that have no 'r' in 'em. In June, July and August the donjon keep is used as a trysting place by the local Don Juans. Thus the name donjon. There used to be an old saying in this country—'meet me in the donjon with a demijohn.'"

"The castle," goes on Davis, "is quite an historic place. I understand they show you where Layon Macduff was bumped off by Hamlet's father, the cornice that fell on the east battlement on the occasion of Florida's going Republican to elect a Californian, the cabinet where the Dred Scott decision was agreed upon, making two-spade take-outs in auction bridge illegal during Lent, the Stone of Scone, where the royal scones were baked, the"——

"THAT'LL be enough," cuts in the frau angrily. "Are we in for another session of your comical capers? Both of you," she adds, dragging me into the observation, "fail to be wits by half . . . Let's go to the castle."

"All right," says I, "but would you folks mind riding a bit out of your way? I want to visit the old ancestral home. Did you know that my grandfather on the distaste side was born in Edinburgh? His name was Bruce"——

"Bruce?" interrupts Joe. "I once had an uncle named Bruce. I wonder if they were related."

"Perhaps," says I. "Was your uncle's last name Ferguson?"

"No," returns Davis. "It was something beginning with an 'F.' Abernathy or Hufnagel. Come to think of it, his first name wasn't Bruce, either. It was Elisha—now it comes to me—Elisha Giffle. That's it."

"That's all right," says I. "It's easy to confuse Elisha Giffle and Bruce Ferguson. What part of Scotland did your uncle live in?"

"Scotland!" exclaims Joe. "He never lived in Scotland. Elisha was the first white child born in Uruguay, just as you come in from Paraguay. He was the author of the expression, 'You go Uruguay and I'll go Paraguay,' which was later adopted by the Marx Brothers and given a very good home."

"Under the circumstances," says I regretfully, "I guess your uncle and my grandfather were not related. It's too bad, too. I'd sort of like to be related to you"——

"You are," snaps the wife. "You're both blood cousins to the cuckoo."

"Come on," urges Minnie impatiently. "Let's start for the castle. I want to see those donjons."

"Just a minute," says I. "Before I take you to the old homestead I want to tell you something about my grandfather. It'll make the place more interesting and all that rot. What?"

"Shoot," invites Davis. "You know me and suspense."

"Well," says I, "Bruce Ferguson was one of 11 children, if you count three that were left on the doorstep one cold Michaelmas night and two others a neighbor used to leave at the house while she picked wild scones and sold 'em to the local lairds."

"What do any of us care about your grandfather?" yelps Mellish. "I'll bet you twenty you never had one."

"I'll take half your bet," says I. "But to get on with the story. It was along about the time of the Crimean War when young Ferguson, who was quite a youngster at the time and very fond of haggis and manierte herring—do you like manierte herring, Minnie?"

One day a ball was sliced into the rough, and Ferguson was unable to find it.

"I never ate one," confesses La Mellish, "but I'm quite sure I wouldn't like it, if I did. Would I, Ira?"

"I don't know," barks her husband. "I'll write to the Rahway Tulip Growers' Society and get their opinion."

"Where was I?" I asks, my train of thought having been sidetracked by the red herring dragged across the trail.

"Up in Letitia's room," returns Davis, "crocheting left-handed monkey wrenches for the fish trade."

"Oh, yes," I says. "Now I remember. Ferguson became a caddy for Mackintosh of Mackintosh and Zanston, Ill., and served as such for several years. One day a ball was sliced into the rough, and Ferguson was unable to find it. Months were spent in the search. Mackintosh finally died of a broken heart as a result, and my grandfather was compelled to flee the country for Australia, which at that time was located in the South Pacific, quite some distance from the far end of the Lexington avenue subway."

"Is this necessary?" scowls the wife.

"VITAL," I assures her. "You can't understand me unless you understand my background, and I think we've reached the point in our married life where you should know the whole truth about me and my forbears."

"Listen," howls Mellish. "We came over to Europe to see the sights—not to hear a lot of hoopla about your ancestors. We might as well take the next scow for home, if"——

If there's anything Joe and I desire more than to bust up the trip at this point, I can't think for the moment what it is. The wound now being good and open, I continue to pour salt in it.

"In Australia," I proceeds, "grandpop went in for sheep raising on a large scale, crossing 'em with rabbits for the purpose of speeding up production. Twenty years later he returned to Edinburgh a very wealthy man. It was estimated that he had a pound sterling for every brunette in Africa. No sooner had he settled down to a quiet life than he was suddenly arrested"——

"What for?" cuts in Davis. "Impairing the morals of the sheep?"

"No," says I. "He was accused of having stolen that missing golf ball from Mackintosh of Mackintosh, who, I may have forgotten to tell you, had some very prominent connections in Ulster. Ferguson was tried and sentenced to be hanged. The house in which he lived was seized by the city, demolished, and today the site is occupied by the municipal dog pound."

"Is that what you want us to see?" demands Minnie.

"I'd love to see it," says the missus. "It'll show me how my in-laws have gone up in the world."

(Savants who have perused the above piece in proof declare by a unanimous vote of eight to eight that Bobbie Burns and Sir Walter Scott never succeeded in portraying so perfectly the indomitable spirit of the Scots as it is here presented. The only criticism made is that too much space is given to the bridge over the Firth of Forth and the feud between the Campbells and the Heintzes. Our party now proceeds to Scandinavia, where much attention will be given to the Henry Fjords of Norway and Sweden. It's worth waiting for—like cremation.)

Troubled With Sleepless Nights? – Accept, Then, This Unique Test

USE COUPON BELOW

Now an Utterly DRUGLESS Way to Instant Sleep . . Boundless Energy the Next Day

IF you are troubled with restless nights, we urge you to accept the test offered here. Doing so has made a great difference in the lives of thousands of nervous people.

On doctors' advice, millions are employing this new way. For it is as free of drugs as the bread you eat or the milk you drink. And does far more than simply induce sleep! It rebuilds your wasted tissues while you sleep!

What It Is

It is called Ovaltine; a scientific food-concentrate developed in Switzerland by a scientist of world-fame. You take it in a cup of warm milk at bedtime; a super-delicious drink.

First, it induces sleep; sound, natural sleep. The kind that rebuilds and rejuvenates.

Then, while you sleep, Ovaltine resupplies your system with the energy lost the previous active day. For it contains practically every building element necessary to life and energy, in a form which the human system can easily absorb while you sleep.

You can take it night after night and not only not form a habit, as with drugs, but build up your health as well.

Do you wonder then, that people are flocking to its use? New to America, Ovaltine is being recommended by over 20,000 doctors. Used for 30 years in Europe, its use has spread over 54 different nations. It marks one of the most important scientific findings of its time.

Accept Test

Doctors urge it not only for sleeplessness, but for all nervous and run-down conditions. They recommend it, too, for nervous, underweight children. Thousands of busy people take it during the day to relieve fatigue. A few weeks' use will make an amazing difference in the way you feel. Believe or not what people claim for Ovaltine. Try it. Obtain at any drug or grocery store, or use coupon for special 3-day test.

YOU HOLD BEAUTY IN YOUR HANDS

Now your skin need not grow old before its time!

This new DuBarry Hand Principle brings the Beauty Salon to your own home

An exquisite skin . . . smooth, glowing, unmarked by line or blemish! Every woman yearns for it, and it's her natural right to have it.

So . . . to help you help your skin and keep its youthful charms, the new Du Barry Preparations were created by Richard Hudnut . . . created after years of experimenting with ingredients new to beauty preparations . . . for use in your own home . . . for application by your own two hands.

Think of it! No more tiresome, expensive trips to beauty salons. Instead a smart array of little jars and bottles on your dressing table. Then, as day by day your two hands pat on the creams, stroke on the lotions and oils . . . watch how your skin becomes smoother . . . see the healthy glow it assumes . . . how the little lines gradually fade . . . how sagging muscles are strengthened and lifted. For instance . . .

To Erase Lines About The Eyes

After a thorough cleansing with Du Barry Cleansing Cream and the Skin Tonic and Freshener Lotion:

"Use the cushion tips of the two fingers on both hands . . . Dip them in Muscle Oil and with a gently circling motion, smooth the mixture around the eyes. Begin with fingers placed on each side of the bridge of the nose, travel upward, circle the eyebrows, around the temples and down across the cheeks to the nose again."

Then wipe off any excess oil with Skin Tonic and Freshener. The finger movements are illustrated above: the description of the treatment is from the Du Barry handbook, given you when you purchase your Beauty Aids or sent you if you fill out the coupon below. Here are the most important preparations . . .

Du Barry Special Cleansing Cream . $1.50, 2.50, 4.50
May be used any time. Liquefies instantly . . . frees skin of dust and impurities.

Du Barry Skin Tonic and Freshener . $1.00, 1.75
A mild astringent lotion which contains a special ingredient for dissolving all traces of cleansing cream.

Du Barry Foundation Cream $1.00
Finishing and protective powder base. Subdues shininess of skin.

Du Barry Tissue Cream $1.50, 2.50
Basic cream for normal or oily skins. Has special softening qualities.

Du Barry Special Skin Food $1.50, 2.50
Basic cream for treating dry skins.

Du Barry Pore Cream $1.00
Soft, refining cream that contracts the pores over night.

Du Barry Special Astringent $1.50, 2.50
For subduing oiliness of the skin. Also refines the texture.

Du Barry Muscle Oil $1.50
Basic oil, slightly astringent. Stimulates the tissues.

Du Barry Eye Lotion $1.00
A refreshing, soothing preparation for the eyes.

Also a complete line of Du Barry cosmetics, including the smart sun-tan powders and powder lotions.

Your Bath Protects for only 12 minutes

BODY odors are not a matter of cleanliness.

A famous chemist has found the secret of complete protection against body odors. It is absurdly simple. A pure, white, toilette powder which you simply dust over the skin wherever perspiration gathers. Rub it freely into the armpits, on the feet and body. It is called SPIC.

Odor Ends Instantly

SPIC does not stop perspiration. You must perspire and do, summer and winter. But SPIC absorbs moisture and changes the acids which cause the offending odor to just harmless, sweet moisture. Results are instant and each application gives complete protection for 14 hours or more.

Now You Can be Safe

There is nothing else which can give this protection. SPIC is patented. Its neutralizing principle is basic—exclusive. So you must forget soaps and lotions if you seek to guard against this annoyance.

There is a simple test now available that will unfailingly tell by the evidence of your own eyes, whether your perspiration is acid. Acid perspiration means odor. This test will be sent Free if you will send the coupon below. Perhaps you need protection. Perhaps not. Now you can replace guess work with knowledge.

This Test is FREE

SPIC is safe. It does not irritate. It soothes. And protects fabrics from ruin. Get it at any drug store for 50c. Or clip this special coupon now.

Scientific Laboratory Tests Prove

Old Dutch is a Natural cleaner. Everywhere you use it things are made bright, clean and hygienic. It is the safest, surest way to safeguard your home with Healthful Cleanliness.

Scientific examination proves that surfaces cleaned with Old Dutch are wholesome, hygienically clean. Old Dutch erases all visible dirt and by a process similar to "adsorption" removes dangerous invisible impurities which are often a menace to health.

Old Dutch brings

Healthful Cleanliness

Old Dutch homes are healthful homes. Laboratory tests show conclusively that wherever Old Dutch has been used things are thoroughly clean and sanitary because Old Dutch removes the invisible impurities with the visible dirt.

Old Dutch is a remarkable cleanser that protects your home with Healthful Cleanliness. Millions of housewives use it daily in their homes, and appreciate not only its efficiency but also the quick, easy way it works.

Safest for all cleaning. In this drawing of a highly magnified Old Dutch particle, you see how it works. A clean sweep without marring the surface. Old Dutch removes the dirt, not the surface.

This drawing of a highly magnified gritty particle shows how grit scratches the surface. Scratches quickly fill with dirt and often are catch-alls for health-endangering impurities. Old Dutch contains no grit.

For Healthful Cleanliness, use Old Dutch. It's the safe, sure way.

DOWN FROM THE SUN SPEEDS A MYSTERIOUS POWER TO MAKE SICK BODIES—VIGOROUS, WELL

NOW—in a familiar food · · · the health value of hours in the summer sun

FOR centuries persons with sick bodies have bathed themselves in sunlight to be cured.

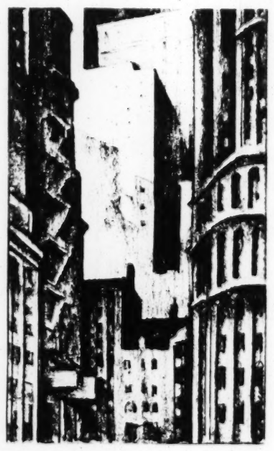
But millions today must spend the sunny hours in cave-like offices or factories, in sunless schools, shops, homes—victims of a sunless age. They are literally "sunlight starved".

An astonishing discovery promises to end all this! A brilliant scientist has made it possible to capture the health energy of the sun in a simple, inexpensive food.

Fleischmann's fresh Yeast is this food. It is the easy, natural way to banish constipation—to renew appetite and digestion—to clear up long-standing skin complaints.

But now the health value of this famous food has been enormously increased! The new Fleischmann's Yeast, "irradiated" by a unique patented process, brings you the mysterious "sunshine" vitamin "D". It is the richest food source by far of this vitamin. Our laboratories estimate that three cakes are equal to the ultra-violet effect of a whole day in the summer sun!

Most people, especially those of growing age (under 25), need the "sunshine" vitamin now in Fleischmann's Yeast. Without it, your system cannot absorb enough lime and phosphorus—elements essential to bones, teeth and muscles. With it, bones and teeth grow straight and strong. Your body is harder, tougher.



Hiding from the sun in office, factory, school, home, a "sun-starved" race is growing up—soft-boned, weak-muscled, teeth a prey to decay . . . Read how you can eat your sunshine now in a famous food.

The expectant or nursing mother needs it to help combat the drain on her body's lime and phosphorus supply. It fortifies the unborn or nursing child against rickets (soft bones and teeth).

And now, eat Fleischmann's Yeast for the energizing, bone-hardening "sunshine" vitamin. Eat three cakes every day, before or between meals, plain or in water, cold or as hot as you can easily drink. At grocers, restaurants and soda fountains, in the familiar foil packages with the yellow label. It is as effective as ever for baking.

* * *

A new radio hour! Fleischmann's Yeast-for-Health Hour is packed with musical surprises. Dance orchestras, crooners, the latest Broadway hits. Tune in Thursday evenings with the National Broadcasting Co. and associated stations—47 stations coast to coast network.

LEFT
DR. LORENZO CHERUBINI, famous Italian physician writes, "Untold health benefits are made available by the 'sunshine' vitamin D—now in irradiated fresh yeast. It builds strong bones, sound teeth, tones muscles."

Nature Put Pads on Your Heels

But she didn't figure on Sidewalks

Nature put this pad on your heels—but it's not enough on modern pavements

NATURE put pads on your heels to cushion your spine and nerves against the jars of walking.

That cushion would be enough, if man still wandered through the jungle — or loped over the open plains. Perhaps it would still be enough if every one lived in the country.

But on city pavements, nature's pads can't do the job. No human being can stand the pounding, without feeling ill effects. If a race horse ran on a track as hard as a pavement—one race would make him lame—and a few days would ruin him.

The modern way
"back to nature"

WHEN man wants cushion, he turns to rubber. He puts rubber tires on his car. Automobile engineers put rubber pads between the engine and the frame — to prevent the vibration which ruins machinery.

You need rubber cushions on the heels of your shoes—they are the modern way "back to nature."

Replace hard heels with Goodyear Wingfoots. These heels are made of new rubber, tough and lively. They absorb the shocks of some 2000 steps per mile. They protect your whole nervous system from the constant jolts of walking — for it is less than six feet from your heels to your brain, straight up your spinal column. Hard heels may affect your health as well as your comfort.

More people walk on Goodyear Wingfoot Heels than on any other kind. There's one of the best reasons for putting them on your shoes.

You can get Goodyear Wingfoot Heels on many of the finest new shoes as "original equipment." And of course you can get them at leading shoe repair shops.

Go today and in a few minutes, for little cost, have your shoes equipped with these fine resilient heels. Look for the Goodyear Wingfoot sign on the shoe repair shop's window, and ask for Goodyear Wingfoot Heels by name.

Look to the sole for the place to cut shoe bills

Goodyear Wingfoot Soles are the soles to save money—on the shoes you wear for dress up—or the shoes you wear for work. They stand up under the hardest kinds of service—on the feet of salesmen—on the feet of men who work around construction —on the racing, scuffing feet of active boys and girls.

Waterproof—economical—good looking

Get them on new shoes. Have them put on your present shoes when you go to the repair shop. They are guaranteed by Goodyear not to stretch, spread, "balloon" or break — and to give remarkably long wear.

WALL STREET STOCK PRICE MOVEMENTS ARE ERRATIC

General Selling Wave Carries Many Issues Down to 15 Points—Brisk Rally With Some New Gains

MARKET IRREGULAR IN CLOSING TRADE

Several Recent Favorites Such as Radio, United Steel, Can and Westinghouse Show Setbacks

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Sept. 9 — Prices were churned about in remarkable fashion again in today's stock market, a general selling movement which carried many issues down 10 to 15 points in the early trading followed by a brisk rally which cut down many of the early losses and sent a sprinkling of issues to new high ground. Final changes were decidedly irregular. Several recent favorites such as Radio, Westinghouse Electric, American Can and U. S. Steel common suffered substantial recessions.

Call money renewed at 6 per cent as against an opening rate of 9 and a closing rate of 9 today. While the expected large and heavy oversubscription to the new Treasury issue was hailed as a favorable omen, the market apparently is still disturbed over the prospect of a mid-month money pinch and the danger of further withdrawal of foreign funds from New York that might cause further credit complications. There was talk of a bitter fight over the Couzens bill and renewed agitation in legislation to curb broker loans at hearings when Congress opens. The market had a tendency to discount large-scale speculative operations.

Few of Late Upturns Held

Late trading was featured by activity and strength of the so-called "Morgan" issues. Standard Brands, the new combine formed by the Dillon interests, was marked up 4 points to a new high. Union Carbide jumped 3 points to a new top at 137. Manville was whirled up to 215. Packard Motor (Stock) crossed 161 to gain of 10 points. The rallied in sympathy.

While several of the key leaders were under pressure selling pressure, American & Foreign Power and Electric ran up 9 points high at 201, but lost its gain, and Louisville Gas closed 6 points higher. Commonwealth Power 3 points, People's Gas 8 points, American & Foreign Power 6, Columbia Gas, American Telephone, International Telephone and Union and Radio closed 4 points lower.

Sloss-Sheffield ran up 10¾ and Vanadium 10¾ and Auburn Auto broke 10 points. American Type Founders, Detroit Edison, U. S. Steel common and Westinghouse Electric each 5 points or more. Total sales 5,000,000 shares.

Cotton Up On Trade

Cotton prices rallied more than $3 a bale on reports of the Government report, the gains were cut to $2 a bale in a heavy realizing just before the close. Rubber held steady, but copper eased slightly on reports of favorable weather.

Foreign exchanges were stationary. Japanese yen lost 3 points, but the decline in European rates was small. Sterling cables were unchanged, lower at $4.84 11-16.

Decline in Steels

Steel stocks were among the weakest features, with U. S. Steel common slipping more than 5 points to a new low movement. At the low point mid-afternoon sales were about 20 points below the record peak, while Bethlehem yielded sharply under heavy pressure. The decline was the result of selling and the raising of unofficial estimates of the decline expected in the Steel Corp. report for August tomorrow. The stock is looking for a larger decline, 150,000 tons for August, which would be the smallest executive monthly reduction by the company.

Closing stock and other tables are to be found on pages 32 and 33.
